Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Saturday, Feb. 8

Aries (March 21-April 19) You need co-operation for what you hope to accomplish. It's not likely you will get it if you behave too independently.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) It would be a big mistake to try now to force your ideas on one who isn't willing to go along with them.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) You won't be as fortunate today in business matters as you were yesterday. Don't make impulsive moves.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) An important one-to-one relationship needs tactful handling. A wrong move by either party will cause a flare-up.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Take more-than-usual safety precautions while working. Don't attempt something alone that requires a competent assistant.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You will really get miffed when socializing, and all disappear when it's time to divide the check.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The harmony you are looking for in order to function at your best is not likely to be found around home today.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You are not in a very forgiving mood today. Woe betide those who block your path. Later, you'll be remorseful.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) This is a very shaky time for you financially. Hide your cheque book for the next few days.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You are apt to be too self-seeking today to suit associates. If you must be pushy, push for everyone's benefit.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Obligations you've skirted will be catching up with you. Face them. Get them off your back, once and for all.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) A problem you've had with one you had been friendly with is likely to surface again. Avoid this person, if possible.

Co-signers' Safeguards

OTTAWA (CP) — Co-signing a loan affects your credit rating and your ability to get credit until the loan is repaid, says the Consumers' Association of Canada.

But there are steps you can take to protect yourself, including getting a written statement from the lender saying he will make every effort to collect from the borrower before coming to you.

"Note if there is an acceleration clause; that is, you would be responsible for payment in a lump sum if the borrower defaults," the CAC says in a news release.

"Determine your responsibility if the terms are changed without your consent after signing."

You should also insist that you, as well as the borrower, receive a statement giving the exact cost of borrowing and all the other details.

Ask the borrower to arrange for life and disability insurance to take care of the loan if something happens to him. Find out if you can co-sign for only part of the loan and, if there are other co-signers, ask that they be made jointly responsible.

"If you do end up paying the loan, get a receipt and be sure the lender legally assigns the loan agreement to you."

By Oswald and James Jacoby

South wasted no time at all in finding a way to lose his contract. He won the first trick with the ace of diamonds, cashed three high trumps in order to pull the opponents' teeth and led a spade toward dummy.

West played low and dummy's queen held the trick. Now South led a club to his king. West plopped the ace on it and led a second diamond. After this bit of unpleasantness South had no way to avoid the loss of a spade and a diamond and two clubs.

The spade and two clubs had to be lost on any line of play. The diamond was lost because South drew trumps a trifle too soon.

It was all right for South to play out one high trump, but then he should have led that spade. West would still duck, but then South would be able to get back to his hand by leading dummy's last trump. He would then pull the defenders' last trump and lead a second spade. This would establish dummy's king of spades while dummy still held the king of diamonds.

Stroke Invariably Damages Brain

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My sister had a slight heart attack followed by a slight stroke which affected her left hand and right side of her mouth.

She seems to be getting better although she can't control her laughing regardless of how serious the subject of conversation.

She doesn't like to talk to anyone for this reason. She thinks maybe her brain was damaged, although they ran a brain scan on her and the doctors say no.

Could you help me to understand this problem?—P.C.

The brain is invariably damaged to some extent by a stroke.

The brain scan was taken, not so much to determine injury, but to detect any tumor that might be present. Apparently the scan showed a negative result.

Such a scan would not show brain damage in an isolated area having to do with speech, for example.

A variety of aberrations can occur in a stroke, particularly with regard to communication. The patient might grope for words, unable to utter them.

In your sister's case, the fact that improvement has been noted is a good sign for the future. It would be wise to have her checked by a speech therapist to see if further improvement in speech is possible.

Meanwhile, your conversation with your sister should stress short sentences. And quite obviously, you should not chide her for her laughing.

A stroke entails many months of painstaking effort in the rehabilitation stage. You don't say how old your sister is. This would be a factor in her further improvement. But, as I say, the improvement in her hand and facial muscles is a good sign.

Whether she can get beyond the laughing would depend on the therapist's examination.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been considering having a vasectomy, or maybe letting my wife have her tubes tied, but we have been told this can cause a man to have a greater desire for sex and maybe run after other women, and also the woman, too.

We have a happy marriage and would not want to do anything to disrupt this. My wife talked to a doctor about it and he told her she would have to be very understanding. What did he mean by this?—T.D.C.

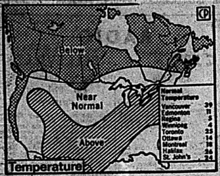
I have no idea what he meant.

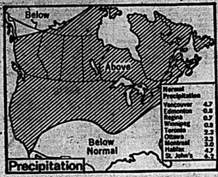
But the notion that a vasectomy or a tubal ligation either increases or diminishes sexual appetite is entirely false.

If your marriage is a happy one now, nothing should change. In fact, it is not uncommon for husband and wife to actually take greater enjoyment in sex after such operations, being relieved from concerns over undesired pregnancies.

But it can work both ways, and that is what you are probably speaking about. Partners of an unstable marriage might well find that their newfound sterility allows them opportunity for extracurricular sex minus the fear of conception. That is another story.

At any rate, sterilization of this kind should be done with the understanding that it is usually irreversible, pretty permanent. A follow-up male sperm count after a vasectomy should tell how successful the operation was.





Rains to Be Heavy

Weather over much of Canada is expected to be cool and wet over the next 30 days, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau's long range forecast. Temperatures are expected to be below normal with precipitation above normal over the next 30 days. This is not a specific forecast and changes may occur. (CP Newsmap)

'Don't Argue' Store Is Last of Its Name

VANCOUVER (CP) — Wally Wilson's Don't Argue Cigar Stand is sandwiched into the 500 block of West Georgia in downtown Vancouver, surrounded by towering office buildings and banks.

But Wally doesn't seem worried about being crowded.

He is squeezed in even in his own small store; shelves lined with tobacco and potato chips, cookies, chocolate bars and soup, hot drinks and milk, lozenges, aspirin and chewing gum leave him a working space of about two feet by six.

"As you can see, it's kind of crowded," says Wally apologetically as he glances around the cigar stand that has stood in the same location for 39 years.

There was once a chain of Don't Argue Cigar Stands, explains Wally, with the stand he has managed for the previous 10 years the last cigar nook bearing the name.

"Lots of old-timers still remember the slogan the stands had—Don't argue, our tobacco's fresh."

The morning is the busiest time of day for Wally who arrives at the stand long before many office workers have straggled out of bed. He sets out stock, brews coffee and opens by 7:30 a.m., hoping to attract some of the early-morning trade before the coffee shops open.

During the day, it's a steady flow of customers on coffee or lunch breaks, some greeting Wally, others quickly making their purchases and moving on.

Wally's stand has been broken into three times in the last nine years, despite the fact the till is always emptied at night.

"It's the cigarettes they want," he says. "They can easily be disposed of with their price so high nowadays."

Even with the early-morning hours six days a week (Wally opens Saturday even though most offices, his prime market, are closed); He doesn't intend to retire when he comes of retirement age in about four years.

He enjoys his job, he says, and would feel he had nothing to do if he retired. So there he will stay, providing people with their early-morning cup of coffee—and with that you just Don't Argue.

Burglars Discover Edmonton Is Easy

EDMONTON (CP) — John Smith says Edmonton is a "piece of cake" when it comes to the art of breaking and entering.

The statistics bear him out.

Edmonton leads Western Canada in per-capita break-ins. Through the first 10 months of 1974, this city of 441,000 residents recorded 7,346 burglaries.

Vancouver, with more than double the population, had only 334 more.

Smith—that's not his real name—estimates he raked in $20,000 during the last three years in breakins. He is serving a jail sentence for a recent conviction.

"Edmonton's about the best place in Canada for a break-and-enter man," said Smith.

"Alarm systems for safes are just coming into use and there are not enough police patrols. It's a new city.

"All your crooks are coming here from Toronto and Vancouver.

"It's a piece of cake, it really is."

Smith said most places are easy to hit because precautions are not taken to keep burglars out. But even when security measures are taken, Smith said there's always a way into a building.

"Even a door, if they got four bolt locks on and you got a crowbar, that door ain't gonna be there very long.

"Watch cops. When they check a place, most go to the back.

"When we hit a place, we usually find the most obvious spot, right out in the open. They never look there."

Members of the police break-and-enter unit say bail-reform laws, legal aid and soft jails make it easier for people like John Smith to commit crimes.

"What we need is some kind of provision in the Criminal Code so that a person convicted of an offence when out on bail would have to serve a consecutive jail term," said Detective Bob Boyd.

"Some kind of deterrent is needed.

"Our biggest enemy is the man on bail. He gets out on bail and it's like a licence to commit more offences.

"He knows he can be charged for it, but he's got nothing to lose. He figures he'll get a concurrent sentence."

Justice Minister Otto Lang has indicated he will seek tighter bail procedures to ensure that dangerous criminals or likely repeaters are kept locked up while awaiting trial.

In a statement approved by the minister but not yet circulated, Mr. Lang said he will propose amendments to 1972 bail reform legislation placing greater emphasis on the need to deny bail to persons who are likely to commit a crime if allowed to go free.

S. Sgt. Wally Starchuk said soft jails also encourage the break-and-enter man.

"The only person afraid to go to jail is one who hasn't been in one.

"For a man who is sentenced to go back to jail, it's a minor detail. He doesn't care. The conditions are so good, there's almost no punishment."

Starchuk added that legal aid is also having an effect.

"Prior to legal aid, a lot of people would plead guilty right off. Now, with free lawyers, they feel they might as well go the whole route."

Receives Grant

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — A library for the blind and handicapped has received a $10,000 grant from the ministry of colleges and universities, Stewart Hayter, director of the program which tape records tests, has announced. The ministry has offered another $5,000 if the university can raise an equal amount privately.

Anglo-Indians Feel Lost in Other Lands

BOMBAY (CP) — David Wood, an Anglo-Indian, recently returned to Bombay from Perth, Australia, for a nostalgic look at his old country.

Wood, a retired engine driver, emigrated to Australia some years ago. He is descended from a Scottish family one of whose members married an Indian Moslem girl in 1835.

"Anglo-Indians who have gone away to Australia, Canada and Britain are doing well", Wood said. "But we still have not struck deep roots. Many Australians, for instance, regard us as aliens."

Wood said a cousin of his who has settled down in Canada is planning to visit India in 1976. "Anglo-Indians who have gone to Canada are doing well financially. But from what my cousin and others say, they still feel lost, neither here nor there."

There are less than 30,000 Anglo-Indians left in India. Towards the end of British rule they numbered nearly 250,000, though exact figures are not available.

Ironically, these offspring of British-Indian parentage enjoy a somewhat higher social status in India today than during British rule.

As James Poole, an Anglo-Indian living in Poona City, put it: "When the Englishmen were the bosses here, they really looked down upon Anglo-Indians as half-castes. Today, most Indians regard us as Sahibs (European gentlemen)."

Inquiries, however, show that many Anglo-Indians would like to emigrate to Britain, Australia, Canada and the United States—in that order.

The community seems to be afraid that in 20 or 30 years their mother-tongue—English—may lose its importance in India.

Frank Anthony, president of the All-India Anglo-Indian Association and a member of Parliament, has repeatedly said that schools and colleges run by minorities, especially Anglo-Indians and Christians, "are under constant attack through legislation or executive orders in different states."

Anthony, 68, is particularly apprehensive about the position of English as a teaching medium.

At the same time, he has appealed to Anglo-Indians "to identify themselves completely with the aspirations of our motherland, India."

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi has assured Anglo-Indians that their rights as an important minority will be fully protected.

Belleville Students in Lahr Missing out on Home Snow

By CASH MAHAFFY
Staff Reporter

Barb Cotton, one of eight Belleville-area high school students attending school in Lahr, Germany, on a student exchange program, misses winter.

"We only had two hours of snow all winter," she said, "and it's all over now. It's spring over there now."

Otherwise, she reports all is well with the Canadian students in the German city and "everyone is enjoying the experience".

The Canadian students arrived in Lahr last August and will return in late June. Barb was back in Belleville this week on a brief visit and will return to Lahr as soon as a flight is available.

Another major difference she has noticed in the West German city on the edge of the Black Forest is the change in school hours and teaching methods. "We go to school from 7:45 a.m. to noon Monday through Saturday and there is much more lecturing by the teachers and less student participation. Also, we go to bed at about nine o'clock at night."

Barb, who hopes to major in languages at university, feels she has become fluent in German.

Another thing Barb has noticed in Lahr is that German families tend to do things together more than Canadian families. "They seem to be much closer and do things as a unit more than we do."

Summing up her experience to date, she said: "We're having a wonderful time and our hosts are treating us very well. Recently the city took us on a 10-day skiing holiday in the Black Forest."

Barb's parents, Clifford and Doris Cotton, Village Drive, are exchange parents this year for Klaus Fossler, who is attending Centennial Secondary School in Belleville.

Alberta Taxes Cut 28 Per Cent

EDMONTON (CP) — An election-year budget introduced Friday night makes Albertans the lowest-taxed residents of Canada but the Opposition is not impressed.

Provincial Treasurer Gordon Miniely, who at one point had to raise his voice to be heard over the voices of teachers demonstrating outside the legislature, announced a 28-per-cent cut in Alberta's personal income tax as the main feature of the 1975-76 budget.

In addition, selective income-tax reductions would provide $8 million in benefits to low-income residents and remove 100,000 of them from the tax rolls.

Alberta remains the only province without a general provincial sales tax.

The personal income tax reduction would give Alberta taxpayers an average cut of $140 each this year in a move costing the province $123 million.

But Bob Clark, Social Credit house leader, called the budget a "regurgitation" of the Progressive Conservative administration's four years in office.

He was pleased with such measures as the tax reductions but found the budget "desperately short of new programs in the people-services area."

Both Mr. Clark and NDP Leader Grant Notley, the only representative of his party in the legislature, said they had hoped Alberta would use some of its vast oil revenue for a dental insurance program.

Noisier comments on the budget came from about 200 teachers who demonstrated on the steps of the legislature, calling for higher school grants.

They also clustered in the foyer of the legislative building, singing while Mr. Miniely was reading a part of the budget that gives schools a 15-per-cent increase in the per-pupil grant and total spending on education of $713.7 million, compared with $587.1 million in the 1974-75 forecast.

The budget calls for record expenditures of $2.439 billion, a 17-per-cent increase from the current fiscal year ending March 31. Revenues are estimated to total $2.490 billion, a 15-per-cent increase, for a surplus of $51 million.

These figures do not include an estimated $600 million of the anticipated $1.6 billion the government expects to receive from crude oil and natural gas during 1975-76.

Doggone Taxes!

Rebels Strike Station

ADDIS ABABA (AP) — A United States communications station in the provincial capital of Asmara was hit by gunfire early today after Eritrea's secessionist rebels launched a mortar and rocket assault on an Ethiopian military headquarters, informed sources said.

All of the 100 U.S. personnel were reported safe.

American officials were reported considering closing the station and evacuating its personnel. Their families were evacuated along with other foreigners Tuesday.

Sources said a 15-minute gun battle between rebels and government forces followed the attack. Asmara is ringed by about 20,000 government troops, who in turn are said to be surrounded by insurgents.

Today's fighting indicated some of the 6,000 rebel forces were still in the city. Damage and casualties were not immediately known.

There has been no major fighting in Asmara itself since Monday night. Diplomatic sources estimate the death toll from the nine-day civil war at more than 1,000.

The new assault followed a government statement Friday night that it would never allow the northern province to secede. A statement from Ethiopia's military rulers called the rebels "bandits" and said secession was "unthinkable."

It said Eritreans were opposed to the "oppressive rule of the former regime" of Emperor Haile Selassie, deposed by the military last September. The statement added that the government is committed to finding a peaceful solution.

Ottawa Now Closer Friend

OTTAWA (CP) — Relations between Ottawa and Alberta may be entering a friendlier phase after months of bitterness, Energy Minister Donald Macdonald suggests.

In an interview Friday with The Canadian Press, Mr. Macdonald attributed improved relations to a cordial atmosphere in negotiations during the last two weeks on the future of the Syncrude oil sands project.

The federal, Alberta and Ontario governments worked out a joint rescue operation for the financially-troubled Alberta project. All three governments wound up as shareholders, along with three oil companies already involved in the consortium.

Discussing scheduled federal-provincial negotiations in April on oil and natural gas prices, Mr. Macdonald remarked that the Syncrude talks just completed were marked by cordiality for the first time in months.

"One of the interesting political consequences—political observations—on this past two weeks' discussions is that a federal - Alberta relationship which had been very much at arm's length and rather intermittent was conducted with far greater cordiality than for some time."

MP Objects to Holiday

OTTAWA (CP) — An Alberta Conservative thwarted attempts by the Commons Friday to give second reading to a bill which would establish Feb. 17 as an annual national holiday.

Stan Schumacher (Palliser) said he is not "in favor of another paid holiday during these times of inflation."

The Spruce Grove, Alta., lawyer said the Commons should be considering an extra day of work instead of another holiday.

Other MPs seemed agreed to give second reading and send the bill along to committee. The bill names Feb. 17 Heritage Day.

Cool to 55

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Energy Minister Dennis Timbrell was cool Friday to the federal government's proposal that the provinces cut the speed limit on highways to 55 miles an hour to save gasoline. Mr. Timbrell said he is far from convinced that such a reduction in Ontario will bring significant reduction in fuel consumption.

Reduce Fares

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian National rail passengers in areas of high-population density in Ontario and Quebec now may take advantage of fare reductions of as much as one-third. To qualify for the new fares, customers must buy round-trip tickets for trips which regularly cost at least $5 one-way. Also, they must complete the round-trip within four days and they must not use trains beginning runs between 4 p.m. and 6:30 p.m.

Big Guy Burned Boy for Money

OTTAWA (CP) — Police said Friday that an attempted murder charge awaits the man who deliberately set fire to a four-year-old boy Thursday night.

Michael Demers, in serious but stable condition in the Eastern Ontario Children's Hospital with burns to 40 per cent of his body, was found ablaze in a field near his home in south Ottawa.

"He says it was a big guy who asked him for money," said Louise Demers, the boy's mother. "He told him he didn't have any and the guy threw fire on him," she said, adding she smelled gasoline from the child's burned clothing.

The boy was rescued by 18-year-old Wayne Lambert who noticed "a little bonfire" and heard screams as he crossed the field on a shortcut home from school about 6:30 p.m.

Mr. Lambert rolled the boy in the snow, wrapped him in his jacket and carried him across the field to the housing project where the Lamberts live.

Mrs. Demers, who moved into the area last Friday, said it was hard to believe the fire was deliberately set.

Lawyers May Take Credit Cards

TORONTO (CP) — Some Canadian lawyers may soon permit clients to settle legal bills by using charge cards, an official of the British Columbia branch of the Canadian Bar Association (CBA) said Friday.

Donald M. Cunliffe of Nanaimo, B.C., said in a telephone interview that law offices in that province may soon be displaying signs advising clients that they can settle their accounts by using their credit cards.

Mr. Cunliffe said the use of credit cards would make the legal profession more available to the middle-income group, not normally protected through provincial legal-aid plans.

U.S. Jobless Totals Worst Since Depression

NEW YORK (AP) — President Ford handed the United States a $349-billion federal budget with a $52-billion deficit last week, while the government poured out more statistics showing the worst recession since the Second World War.

The budget, the deficit, and the previously announced $16 billion tax cut is intended to take on the country's economic problems on three crucial fronts:

The budget, high as it is, holds the line on new spending and is intended to be anti-inflationary, while earmarking new money to develop sagging energy sources.

At the same time, the deficit and the related $16-billion tax cut are designed to give a fiscal lift to the slumping economy.

Whether the Ford strategy will work is the subject of a hot debate, but there is little debate on how far the U.S. has come down the recessionary road.

Figures released last week show the unemployment rate reached 8.2 per cent in January from 7.2 per cent in December, the worst jobless rate since the Great Depression ended in 1941.

Orders from factories plunged 8.7 per cent in January, the fourth monthly decline in a row, and consumer credit figures took a record drop for the second straight month.

Even the president's council of economic advisers, usually in the forefront of optimists, backed away last week from earlier hopes for a mid-year economic rebound.

Meanwhile, the stock market provided the brightest economic news—"living a life of its own" as one analyst said. The Dow Jones industrial average gained 8.22 points to 711.91, and volume for the week was the second heaviest in history.

While Wall Street was enjoying the sudden upturn, news that the New York Stock Exchange decided not to fight a government order ending minimum commission fees by May 1 dampened some spirits.

Brokers and the NYSE have long expressed fears that if brokers were forced to compete with each other in setting commission fees, smaller houses might be driven out of business, and other houses might no longer see any advantage in remaining NYSE members.

Meanwhile, Arab financiers moved closer to an agreement to assist the financially-ailing Pan American World Airways. The plan, involving a massive purchase of Pan Am stock and Arab representation on its board of directors, is apparently favored by the U.S. government.

Beaudet Charged with Murder

MONTREAL (CP) — Fernand Beaudet was charged Friday with murder in connection with the deaths Jan. 21 of 13 persons at the Gargantua Bar Salon.

Beaudet, 30, was found criminally responsible for the deaths at a coroner's inquest Wednesday and was also sentenced by Coroner Cyrille Delage to 30 days in jail for refusing to testify.

Sessions Judge Claude Lamoureux set preliminary hearing Friday for Feb. 12 when Chief Judge Andre Fabien is expected to set a definite date to proceed. Beaudet was refused bail.

Two Unhurt In Crash

TRENTON — Two people escaped injury north of here Friday when their car went out of control on Highway 33 and crashed into several entrance culverts.

Brighton provincial police, said driver Gary Murphy, 21, of RR3, Carrying Place and a passenger, whose name police did not disclose, were not injured in the accident.

Police said the southbound Murphy vehicle left the roadway, struck several culverts and crossed a number of lawns.

Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $1,100.

Calculator Use Not Cheating

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Educators, now badgered about the basics, have a new battle shaping up. It concerns pocket calculators and their use in the classroom.

Almost everyone is against them. Parents, the public, even trustees, are convinced the gadgets will replace arithmetic, and result, eventually in a race of mathematical illiterates.

Mathematical illiterate though I am, it seems to me that a fairly extensive knowledge of the basic is necessary to use the mini computers. A true math illiterate would hardly know what calculations the machines are capable off, let alone which buttons to push.

Pocket calculators are simply labor-saving devices, in the same category as washing machines and vacuum cleaners. They will take a lot of the drudgery out of mathematics.

"There are so many beautiful things that are logically challenging in math that we have kept away from students in the past," says John Del Grande, math co-ordinator in North York.

He contends that pocket calculators will give teachers time to open new avenues of learning to students from Grades 5 to 13. At the university level, the calculators now are a way of life and every student in math and science has one.

Speaking of educational innovations, a remarkable one has come to our attention from a prestige collegiate in a city some distancet from here.

In the dog days to last June, when school was windng up for the year, girls at the school began wearing halter tops. The principal thought this attire unseemly, but his board's dress regulations prevented his outright banning of the halters. He went on the school public address system to ask the girls to refrain from wearing halter tops to school. All to no avail.

So to score a point, the principal stripped down to his BVDs, and paraded through the corridors with the message that a female student in a halter is as inappropriately dressed as a principal in his underwear.

The next day, every girl in the school who did not own a halter managed to borrow one, and exposure was 100 per cent.

On checking out his story with senior school administrators here, I was assured that no high school principal here would appear in school stripped to his shorts. Should any principal find it necessary to ape his big city comfrere I was told, he would have the decency to appear in swimming trucks.

That, ladies and gentlemen, is class.

And that's one of the many reason we're ahead in Hastings county.

Heavy Snowfall Brings Rash of Accidents

ROSSMORE — The Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police Friday night investigated two accidents that occurred within 13 minutes of each other on the Rednersville Rd., about one-half mile west of Rossmore.

At 11:45 p.m. a car owned by Blaine F. O'Brien and driven by Harry Thompson, 16, of RR7, Belleville, was forced off the road by an overtaking car that continued without stopping. The vehicle entered the ditch but Thompson, and his passenger, Richard McFarland, 18, of RR7, Belleville, were unhurt. Damage to the car was estimated at $800.

The accident was investigated by Constable Bob Chapman of the Picton detachment OPP.

Minutes later, a second accident was reported at the same location when a service truck called to tow the O'Brien car from the ditch was struck by a vehicle.

Kim Donald Haggarty, 19, of RR1, Carrying Place, was eastbound on Rednersville Rd. when he was forced from his lane by an oncoming motorist who failed to dim his lights.

His car entered the soft shoulder but he regained control bringing it back to the pavement. As he did so he collided with the rear bumper of the service truck driven by Dale Lynn, 16, of RR1, Belleville.

Damage to the Haggarty car was estimated at $400 while damage to the service truck was set at $10. No injuries were reported. Investigation continues in both accidents.

A police spokesman said today that OPP Constable Tom Stanford returning from an 11:30 p.m. accident on Rednersville Rd. met five stalled vehicles in a 15-minute period on Highway 14 stopped because of heavy snow.

Syrup Producers Elect Officers

The movement of city dwellers into the countryside was reflected Friday in the election of a Toronto man as vice-president of the Quinte Local of the Ontario Maple Syrup Producers' Association. He is Charles Milan.

Re-elected president at the meeting held in Westminster United Church Hall, Wallbridge Rd., was Ross Steed of Indian River. Secretary-treasurer is Burton Hubble, RR5, Belleville, and provincial directors are Ross Steed and Cyril Shaw, Eldorado. Other directors are Clifford Foster, Picton; Thorald Dupre, Napanee and Bill Robinson, Eldorado.

The day-long meeting, attended by about 30, heard experts discuss subjects of interest to sugarbush operators such as sanitation, vacuum systems, grazing the woodlot, maximizing profits and methods of saving fuel and time in the sugaring-off operation.

Apple Blooms

HALIFAX (CP) — There are more than half a million apple trees on almost 9,000 acres of cultivated orchard land in the Annapolis Valley of Nova Scotia, or about 61.6 trees per acre, the provincial agriculture department says. The actual 1973 figures are 560,902 trees growing on 8,963 acres.

Small Plaza Suggested For Trenton Subdivision

TRENTON — Within two years, residents of the Burttdale Heights subdivision in northeast Trenton will be able to walk down to the corner store and buy a jug of milk or grab a bite to eat.

A small neighborbood shopping centre is planned for the southwest corner of Reid and Seneca Sts.

Now vacant, approximately 1.4 acres of land is being offered to town developers by the Ontario Housing Corporation (OHC) for the construction of a small shopping centre.

According to the provisions of the town's 1968 zoning bylaw, a retail store, service shop, restaurant or bank can be built on the corner. Apartments can be built above the stores.

The land will be made availablt on a 50-year lease from OHC. Precisely what stores will go into the centre will not be known until the OHC receives proposals from prospective developers.

The proposal call must be submitted prior to 2 p.m. March 10, at OHC head offices in Toronto.

Legal work and other contractual arrangements will likely take five months to complete and a construction start can be expected later this year.

Unity Mass

CHICHESTER, England (CP) — A Roman Catholic priest has been invited to celebrate mass in Chichester's 900-year-old Anglican cathedral—for the first time since the 16th-century Reformation. The mass, by local priest Rev. Dermot Fogarty, will be during a week of prayer for church unity.

FUNERAL QUESTION
WE ARE OFTEN

JOHN R. BUSH

R. DOUGLAS RUSHNELL

Q. A reader writes asking — What is involved in arranging for a cremation?

A. Cremation Services are arranged in the same manner as you would arrange a funeral service with burial, the only difference is in the disposition of the remains. According to regulations, the body is always cremated in the casket as received. Contrary to some opinions, cremations do not necessarily cost less. If you live some distance from a crematorium, the cost of transportation to the crematorium must be considered, as well as the fee charged by the crematorium for their services. If the ashes are to be interred in a family plot, there is an additional cemetery charge for interment. The overall costs regarding cremation services still depend on the wishes of the family.

Preheater Speeds Syrup Production

A $5,000 grant from the Agricultural Research Institute of Ontario has enabled Professor George Raithby of the University of Waterloo to develop a sap preheater which, by making use of steam, reduces fuel consumption by 15 per cent.

In the old style sugar shanties, sap was introduced at 35 degrees to an open pan evaporator. Its temperature had to be raised to over 175 degrees before evaporation would take place. As well as using a lot of fuel, ths method resulted in considerable steam flowing around the sugar shanty. Professor Raithby's sap preheater makes use of this waste steam. A cover is placed over the evaporator in which copper tubing has been installed. The 35-degree-sap is run through the copper tubing and heated by the steam to 190 degrees. Any excess steam is vented through the roof.

It takes about three gallons of oil to produce one gallon of maple syrup but Professor Raithby's preheater cuts this consumption to 2½ gallons — a 15 per cent saving. Based on current oil prices, the cost of the research and equipment necessary will be recovered after about 15,000 gallons of maple syrup have been produced — only 15 per cent of the annual Ontario crop.

Several Ontario producers have already installed the new preheater, as have a number of research stations and producers in Quebec and the United States. An interesting observation is that, with the annual world production of maple syrup at three million gallons, if everyone producing maple syrup used the preheater there would be a saving of 1,350,000 gallons of oil, or the equivalent amount of wood, each year in the production of maple syrup.

Those wishing to learn more about the preheater can contact the manufacturer — Shantz Brothers, Box 953, Waterloo, Ontario — or obtain a slide set from the Information Branch of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food, entitled The New Preheater. A research report is also available at the Ontario Food Council offices, whose maple extension specialist, Walter Humphreys, worked closely with Professor Raithby in the development of the preheater.

Gardening Column

Basic Terms Speed Learning

By Ross Hawthorne
Staff Reporter

Far be it from me to get technical, but if you are going to get involved in indoor light gardening, there are some technical terms you should become familiar with, terms that will apply to all your gardening activities — outdoors as well as in.

Now, I truly believe that gardening is a creative art form, but creativity alone is not enough. Like the artist, or sculptor, photographer, potter or weaver, you must also be a skilled technician if you are to put your creativity to work for you and translate it from the conceptual to the actual.

So here are some terms you should become familiar with in the development of your indoor light gardening techniques:

Phyto-Illumination — This is the art of gardening by artificial illumination. It is relatively new, but with ever mounting ecological problems, it could become an important part of your and your children's future. Not just in food production, but in maintaining a breathable atmosphere. Because remember, this earth's oxygen supply has only one source of renewal — green plants. And every new home, parking lot or highway diminishes that source. Pair that fact with the plankton of the sea, our prime source of oxygen supply, being polluted out of existence, and you can see why light gardening, in fact — all gardening — could play a very important role in this world's survival.

..Wave Lengths —Light is measured in wave lengths with white or natural light composed of red, orange, yellow, green, blue, violet and ultra-violet energy, all with various wave lengths.

Red energy, in addition to triggering growth, promotes maturity and flowering. But generally, too much red light causes plants to eventually become tall and leggy.

Blue light in excess, causes short growth with few blossoms or no flowering at all.

While most of the yellow and green energy is reflected by the green foliage of your plants, the traces of energy absorbed are vital to the production of normal, healthy growth.

.Photosynthesis—This is the growth process basic to most plants. Carbon dioxide in the air combines with water and minerals in the soil to form carbohydrates; all because of the action of light, upon chlorophyll, a substance found in all green plants.

..Photoperiod — An area of real conflict: the relative merits of the periods of light and dark provided to your plants. Until recently, it was claimed that it was the length of day that most affected plant growth. Now it is claimed, it is the length of the dark period that follows.

There is evidence to show that some plants prosper best with long days and short nights, others with short days and long nights, and still others with periods of equal day and night. And yet, there are commercial growers, successfully growing plants and bringing them to maturity much faster with the lights on 24 hours a day. So again I say, be an experimenter, find out the light requirements that are best for your plants under the growing conditions you are providing.

..Phytochrome — A newly discovered chemical pigment found in plants that still requires a great deal of exploration. It is thought that this pigment is best activated by red light energy in the triggering of growth changes from seed to fruit throughout the life of the plant. So much for the technical terminology used in indoor light gardening. Next week we'll review some of the indoor light gardening variations you can set up in your home.

Picton Bureau

Meters Only Confuse Issue

By MARG. HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — When Picton's new mayor Donald King campaigned for election recently he repeatedly stressed the need for a solution to the town's traffic and parking problems.

At the inaugural meeting of town council in January he appointed a special three member committee to investigate the parking question.

This week the trio clearly illustrated the camel indeed is a horse designed by a committee.

The special committee on traffic and parking vigorously began to shift parking meters with all the enthusiasm of a housewife re-arranging her living room.

Last fall the public works committee removed meters on Main Street near the top of the Town Hill and created a third traffic lane to ease congestion.

The new committee promptly decided to re-install four of these meters, each with a half-hour limit.

This action, according to committee members, is in response to complaints of merchants in the Town Hill area who said lack of parking is harmful to their business.

This reasoning on the survace seems sound but can the co mmittee guarantee that the motorists who park by the re-installed meters are patrons of the nearby stores?

It is still highly possibly that many customers wishing to half by one of these shops will be forced to park elsewhere.

he four re-installed meters probably will make only a slight difference in trade for the Town Hill merchants but may inconvenience dozens of motorists caught in the traffic congestion near the Town Hill.

Councillor Norman March noted he has spoken, with retired police chief George Pitt and new chief Charles Fletcher and both agree removal of the meters was among council's wisest moves in traffic control.

Now the good work is being undone to accommodate a handful of merchants apparently convinced their livelihood hinges on a half-dozen parking slots that may or may not be filled by their customers.

Harry Abram, a member of the special parking committee termed the move a compromise.

"Aren't you supposed to listen to the ratepayers?," he asked.

In its decision to re-install four meters in the recently unmetered, no-parking zone the special committee on traffic and parking has created a bottleneck all its own.

Meters uprooted from the asphalt less than six months ago will be firmly re-planted and, presumably, traffic lanes will be repainted.

If the special committee on traffic and parking never solves the town's traffic problems it certainly promises to keep members of the town work forces busy shifting meters and re-decorating the pavement with yellow lines.

Trenton Bureau

LTRCA Needs To Boost Image

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

Creation of a wildlife-education centre at King's Mill, northwest of Stirling, should be seriously considered by the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority as a necessary project and a logical extension of work it now does in land use planning and conservation.

The authority appears to be leaning in that direction, but a decision has yet to be made to firmly affix such a role to the King's Mill Conservation Area.

The key to the entire project is the use that is made of the century-old mill that straddles Squire Creek. It has been suggested the mill, now in a state of disrepair, should be converted into a resource centre for the use of children on school field trips.

It is both a laudable and worthwhile suggestion.

It would also act as visible proof of the authority's change in policy from that of acquiring land to developing it. And although the authority's job is not the education of public opinion as to its role in the community, it would, all the same, help to do so.

The Frankford-based authority has not strongly emphasized the dissemination of information about itself or its work.

Should this continue, the authority cannot hope to escape further criticism from both its members and ultimately its financially supportive public.

Such lack of information brought one member of a participating council to comment recently that he was not even aware of the location of the 12 conservation areas in the watershed.

Development of King's Mill would go a long way towards solving such a problem. If nothing more, it would be a first step, and one from which to take another.

Coupled with an on-site education centre for children, it could also act as a depository of information about the mill and the authority when area families drop in during scenic drives in the country.

However, it's primary purpose should remain that of a resource centre for school children.

As such it is ideally located. Although at the eastern end of the authority watershed, the conservation area sits roughly in the centre of the Quinte area population centres based around Trenton, Campbellford and Belleville.

Given such a centre, however distant in the future, the tenents of conservation and at least a small measure of appreciation of our natural environment could be instilled in today's children and tomorrow's decisionmakers.

Lack of Pool Location Delays Drive for Funds

PITON — Prince Edward's communty swimming pool committee has decided to postpone its "Pool Week' for a month following indications from the Prince Edward Agricultural Society that the proposed fairgrounds location would be ussuitable.

Originally, it was planned to declare pool week in February and highlight it with a concentrated fund drive.

At a meeting of the pool steering committee, Prince Edward service clubs and organizations in Picton Tuesday, it was agreed to delay swimming pool week.

Representatives of several groups indicated their organizations' whole-hearted support of the project but the question of location has temporarily slowed activity.

A spokesman for the Elks Lodge said this service group backs the pool completely and would like to organize a draw to raise funds but " the thing stopping us was the question of locations."

Chairman of fund raising for the pool committee, Ed Rae, sad if the money is raised the pool can be built and the location problem will be solved. He emphasized the need to continue with fund-raising.

The faster we raise the money, the more weight this campiagn has," he noted.

By delaying pool week organizers will gain more time to finalize a location and make additional arrangements.

Also, it was decided a canvass this month would conflict with the Heart Fund blitz.

Before choosing a Funeral Director — consider what he makes available.

Too often the choice of a Funeral Director is a last minute decision.

You should consider these important items...

Is his funeral home conveniently located?
- To your parish church?
- To other members of your family?
- To your friends?

Is he well referred?
- Does his funeral home and facilities measure up to your expectations?
- Can you discuss costs freely with him?
- Is he a member of his professional association?

Every member of the Ontario Funeral Service Association is guided by a CODE OF ETHICS which offers protection to those who need the assistance of a funeral director.

Land Use

The view that the Ontario government would make a major statement on land-use policies within a few months was expressed recently by Stephen James, director of a land-use study in Huron county in western Ontario.

There is growing urgency about this, and it may be asked how long can establishment of firm policy to strike a balance between urban and rural needs — meaning agriculture — be postponed.

It has been estimated that urban sprawl will take more than 200,000 acres out of agricultural production in Ontario by 1991. There is objection on these grounds to the proposed new Pickering airport for one thing.

Other examples are not hard to find. Transportation Minister Rhodes acknowledged in London the other day that there was a high priority need to finish Highway 402 to Sarnia but there was opposition because of expropriation of valuable farmland and from environmentalists.

This came out at one of the meetings of the touring Ontario cabinet which heard appeals from rural municipal officials and farmers' groups to "save our farms."

Andrew Kittmer of the National Farmers' Union local 341 said 26 acres of land are lost every hour to development.

An even higher figure — 43 acres an hour — was quoted in Owen Sound in recent days by the Bishop of Huron, the Right Rev. David Ragg, who also had, a lot to say about the waste of food when overseas millions are starving.

Meanwhile, the Huron county study recommends that urban sprawl should be directed toward poor-quality farmland and that farmers on urban fringes should be given guarantees their land will not be forced out of production until a specified time — say 30-year-limits — thus ensuring a farmer that his land would remain in agriculture for the rest of his life.

This is the kind of thing the Government must resolve without delay. There is little time to be lost.

British Revival

Years ago the symbol "Buy British" was synonymous with the quality and expertise behind the British industrial effort.

If there is a feeling today that the image is tarnished somewhat, given the economic problems Britain is facing, the old know-how and skill do remain.

Often it is a question of finding a market and making good on deliveries. And lately the British have come up with notable successes, such as the $31 million agreement to supply Iran with more than 2,500 trucks — this following a $7 million order for 300 double decker buses.

The same company has plans to build a plant in Egypt and there is also a $13 million deal to sell all-terrain vehicles to Iraq. Yet another contract in the offing may result in the marketing of the company's vehicles in Japan, with similar rights for Japanese cars in Britain.

Then there is the North Sea oil project which is continuing apace and promises to go far toward making Britain self-sufficient in this vital commodity.

Britain is not out of the economic doldrums yet, but with these signs of revival there are grounds for greater optimism.

Spotlight on Tennis

Thinking back to the Connors-Laver match in Las Vegas, when Connors' exciting new brand of tennis power-play got the better of the aging Australian champion, there were all those celebrities in the gallery — not to mention several tennis champions of the past on the job as linesmen.

Donald Budge, a big name from the late thirties and early forties was there, but there was not a mention of the man who has done as much as anyone in recent years to put tennis on the map.

A contemporary of Donald Budge, acknowledged "hustler" and middle-aged challenger of the top women players, we refer to Bobby Riggs. If he were there, he must have been lying low, and in any event the spotlight was on the young American from Belleville, Ill., and his Aussie opponent. In the end it was Connors' youth and power that won the day.

It Can Be A Fickle Commodity

Lure and Legend of Gold Down the Corridors of Time

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

There's something about gold that has captivated writers, from the Greek tragic poet Euripides ("the apple tree, the singing and the gold") to 1975's doomsayers.

Authors such as Charles Curley (The Coming Profit In Gold), Canada's Harry Browne (You Can Profit From A Monetary Crisis) and Harry Schultz (Panics and Crashes) are growing rich on the huge sale of books that—despite their many other differences—agree that the only thing to do with your money is to exchange it for gold bullion.

No one can deny that gold is a beautiful metal, an immotable constant in this age of change, a store of value that has been accepted as such throughout history.

Certainly any speculators who bought gold in 1968, and held it until 1975, have quintupled the value of their holdings.

But before rushing out to buy bullion, let's examine the other side of the gold coin.

For example: Comparing 1968 and 1975 prices is like comparing the purchase of any item at its low and the sale at its high. For 34 years leading up to 1968, the market price was fixed at $35 (U.S.) per ounce, and (to take the other extreme) anyone who bought it in 1935 had to wait a long time before gold began to match the upturn in other commodities.

Any speculator in gold then as now, has had to pay substantial commissions and dealer mark-ups, plus safe-keeping charges, while foregoing any interest on the investment—which could have been earning a good yield in more productive forms of investment.

But such a fate is nothing as compared to the sufferings that have befallen gold purchasers in the more distant past.

History shows that the treatment of gold hoarders has taken such forms as these:

—In the French Revolution, they were summarily guillotined or otherwise executed.

—In the Russian Revolution, they were shot by the firing squad of the local commune.

—In the 1921 inflationary crisis of the Weimar German Republic, they faced imprisonment or at least confiscation of their bullion.

—And in the United States in 1933, President Franklin D. Roosevelt introduced a penalty of two years' imprisonment and a $10,000 fine for anyone holding bullion worth more than $100.

These examples are drawn from Robert Lincoln Smitley's book, Popular Financial Delusions, published 42 years ago.

Smitley's views on gold were the opposite of those of today's big-selling financial authors. He wrote:

"The only time that a gold hoard is theoretically of value—it never is practically—is when there is a complete breakdown in the social order, financial structure or war.

"Such instances are illustrated by great revolutions, the hyper-inflation in Germany, Austria and Poland, or a reversal to the dark ages after the Roman Empire fell.

"During these periods, no man's life is safe if he is discovered as a gold hoarder. And, therefore, he cannot use his hoard.

"In cases where a redemption of paper money inflation follows . . . or a devaluation of currency . . . the gold would never be needed by the hoarder for there is always a continuation of a purchasing-power ratio between paper money and gold.

"Of course, following the well known economic law (Gresham's) that bad money will drive good money out of circulation, the gold will be hoarded and only the paper money used.

"But this ratio of value makes little difference in the social scheme, so long as a ratio exists.

"Whenever it happens that gold is found to be the only money which can be used, the personal risk is too great to use it.'

The coming months will show whether that view of gold is more realistic than the buy-buy-buy advice of the new wave of popular financial advisors.

While Smitley could point to historical records to support his case against accumulating gold, one could point with equal validity to other historical instances of speculative fever.

There was, for example, the incredible speculative bubble in tulip bulbs in the Netherlands in the seventeenth century, when the price of a single tulip bulb soared to today's equivalent of almost $10,000.

Could a similar madness arise today, in gold? Perhaps—the sports pages carried a story the other day about a young player on a cellar-dwelling National Hockey League team who is socking away all of his considerable earnings into gold bullion, in the firm conviction that "it's going to $1,000 an ounce."

Given the popular following that professional hockey players command, he might just give the boom the boost it needs to take off.

But in view of the decline in the price of gold and of the shares of gold producers during the six weeks since Americans were given permission to buy gold, it appears that anticipation has once again been more exciting than realization.

Pay of Senior Deputies in Ottawa Skyrockets to $75,000 Annually

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — One more time on the burning parliamentary salaries' issue, still so hot that Government House Leader Mitchell Sharp is not touching it again until goodness knows how long it will take to cool off a little.

One more time because of a sharp letter from Pictou, Nova Scotia, from where a very perceptive lady views the issue from a whole new angle.

She writes:

The enclosed headline — (snipped from The Chronicle Herald of Halifax, it read "Firestorm of pay raise protests") — caught my attention as it was intended to do.

It provokes me to ask where were your protests and the objections of the rest of the media, and even so much as a murmur from Members of Parliament when it was published in the press that some of the salaries of the senior federal deputy ministers had been increased to $60,000 and even $75,000 a year.

I know of no public servant who is worth that kind of money and I object strenuously to having more than $50 deducted from my husband's pay of not much more than $200 to help foot the enormous bill for these ridiculous salaries.

Prime Minister Trudeau and his cabinet (with the deputies' salaries topping $60,000 to $75,000, and the backing off from the initially proposed 50 percent to 33 percent for Members of Parliament) have their priorities mixed.

The Members of Parliament who are elected by the people earn and deserve a good salary, and I do not object to a 33 or even 50 percent increase for them.

But I would hate like Sam Hill to see Mr Trudeau getting $84,000, for he sure is not worth it and neither are most of his Cabinet Ministers who have not the remotest idea as to what is happening in Canada.

So, suppose the media starts yelling for a cut in the inflated salaries of Deputy Ministers to the more realistic level of not more than $40,000?

It might bring someone we know down off his high and mighty perch if he was cut to, say, $20,000. It sure would take the swelling out of his head that he hasn't shown around here in more than 20 years.

Why don't you people in the press, radio and television make more of a to-do about the immense cost of the Prime Minister's office. Call for a cut in his staff, and a slash of their salaries, with a trimming of travelling and other expenses.

We who pay the taxes for such extravagance can bear the mounting cost no longer.

Give the parliamentarians that 50 percent increase, I say, but force the appointed senior public servants to take sufficient a cut in their fat cheques to make up for the raise for the MPs.

After all, the Honorable Members are all we have between us and Pierre Trudeau and his salary-swollen and tax-ravenous bureaucrats.

If Premier William Davis of Ontario thinks Canada's wealthiest province should cut cabinet and other high provincial government salaries, and has the guts to try, why hasn't the meek media demanded the same of the federal administration, and insisted that Ottawa pare those outrageously high salaries of Trudeau, his friends, sycophants and mandarins?

What is stopping you people in the media from taking a good look at your priorities and getting things in proper perspective?

We are transplanted Torontonians, and since moving nearly 30 years ago have never thought, even for an instant, of ever leaving the Maritimes. (Nor would, I imagine, anyone leave anywhere else in Canada, the Prairies, the West Coast, or Ontario, except, of course, Toronto.)

We are disgusted with the type of reporting you did in questioning the proposed salary increase for our MPs.

(The column did not "question" the increase, merely reported the hostile reaction to it that New Brunswick Conservative MP Gordon Fairweather said he had received.)

You people in the media in Ottawa should start looking around; you might be surprised by what you find. Hope to read something interesting as a result of your looking.

Sincerely. (For the lady's peace of mind among friends and neighbors in Pictou, her name is being withheld.)

PS: Dear Sincerely: We're all busy looking.

Toller Cranston

An Artist on and off the Ice

Veronica A. Ragatz
in
The Christian Science Monitor

Toller Cranston, four-time Canadian National Figure Skating Champion (1971-1974) and the world's leading male free style skater, is an artist both on and off the ice.

Toller trains in Toronto with skating coach and "patron of the arts" Ellen Burka, mother of 1964-1966 Canadian Ladies' Champion Petra Burka. Between practice sessions, competitions, and skating tours she generally can be found in his studio, painting.

Ever since Toller can remember, art has been an important part of his life. "I've always had this incentive in me," he says. "It just came out by itself. Although my family is creative, we've each gone our separate ways. I'm self-motivated to skate and paint."

Toller's artistic perception brings added dimenson to his skating. When on the ice, he says, "I am very much aware of space and myself, and I want to explore every volume my body can fill. I want to move like water, make my body like liquids."

Toller feels indebted to former (1969-1973) U.S. Ladies Champion Janet Lynn for having "brought total freedom of body movement into skating." He envisions skating to be "like dreams — illusive, flowing, never restricted, boundless."

When asked if he enjoys ice dancing, Toller replied with an emphatic no. "I can't keep time," he explained, "at least not to a definite beat." He enjoys heavy music most, but will occasionally skate to light pieces such as "The Glowworm" (or "Dragon Fly") from "Homage to Pavlova."

The philosophical Cranston enjoys discussing his art, skating, and world travels.

He describes his painting as "very symbolic and decoratve." Each piece is rich in color, with an enamel-like finish, and takes about 700 hours to complete. His work is expensive yet Toller has earned a following both at home and abroad.

His success in painting has enabled hm to support himself since he was about 16 or 17 years old, which has been a great advantage in his skating. Toller's skating, too, has contributed to his painting, bringing added public attention and interest. Just recently, Toller returned from a one-man painting exhibition held in Munich, Germany, site of last year's World Figure Skating Championships.

Ontario's Investment in Syncrude Could Top $100 Million in Time

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — The attacks on government participation in the Syncrude project continue and at least some of them don't foster faith in either the research or statesmanship of a good many of our politicians.

For example one of the main points of criticism of the opposition parties in Ottawa has been that the government agreements for participation were not firm amounts ($300 million for the federal government, $200 million for Alberta and $100 million for Ontario) but were based on percentage participation and could possibly rise above these sums.

Just what could they expect in these days of escalating inflation?

With the Syncrude project estimated to take four years to complete nobody really can say today what the final cost would be.

At least here there was never any government secrecy, as some critics have implied.

From the first announcement of the agreement government spokesmen have been frank that the amount of the investment could conceivably amount to more than $100 million. Though they also explained that the inflation factor had been one of the considerations in working out the agreement and that they believed any variance would not be more than a few points at most.

But it is in the field of statesmanship that our opposition politicians have been particularly letting us down—statesmanship on this occasion being used in the sense of taking a long-term and balanced view.

Syncrude critics tend to take the viewpoint that this is a one-shot project, and ignore the fact that while at present Canada is in a favorable position on energy supply it is reliably forecast that within a few years unless new supplies are developed we will be in short position and subject to the vagaries of the eccentric world situation.

Because of this reliable and long-sighted view governments have the responsibility to make every practical effort to develop now new supply sources within the country.

The one thing that Canada must avoid, if possible, is becoming involved in the destructive mish-mash of world energy politics.

And it must take every responsible step to achieve this.

There is a possibility that new power sources, such as thermal energy, may be developed which will alleviate our dependence on oil.

But these are still infant possibilities for the futre. And in the meantime there is the obligation to try and develop the resources we know we have.

Incidentally, to those who criticize the $2-billion cost of Syncrude it might be pointed out that reliable estimates of the cost of meeting the country's energy needs in the next decade are $109 billion.

Belleville General Draws Praise

Letter
in
The Kingston Whig Standard

Sir: May I compliment Sylvia Wright for the succint accuracy with which she distilled an hour of a wide-ranging and complex interview with me on the impact of the budget of the Queen's Medical Faculty on the quality of education (Whig-Standard, January 29).

The only point which some amplification might clarify is the reference to the problems we anticipate in our extended campus teaching program in Belleville. It is true that distance will create logistic problems for both teachers and students. I do not believe, however, (and perhaps did not make this clear) that this will be reflected in a lower quality of education at the Belleville General Hospital. Indeed, the calibre of the medical staff at that hospital and the enthusiasm with which it has welcomed us convince me that, with adequate financing, the quality of eduation would be of the highest order.

Home Sought for Abandoned Pups

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Last Friday, three pups were found in the middle of a country road near Belleville along with two others that had been killed by passing cars. The pups were huddled against their dead litter-mates and in danger of being killed themselves. When the finder located the owner of the pups, the response, upon being told of the death of two of them, was relief that two were gone. The owner was glad to part with the others.

The puppies are males, collie mix, and with the application of good food, veterinary care and lots of petting have turned into the pretty, seven-week-old imps nature intended them to be. Their most pressing problem at present, though, is location of some loving, caring homes.

The writer has noticed that most people tend to take better care of something that they have put money into rather than a free gift. This especially holds true with a pet. A prospective dog owner must realize that he is making a considerable investment of money, time and especially patience in return for the deep and loyal love that an adult dog gives through its ten to fifteen year life span. Therefore, the three pups are for sale. The charge is $10. (or more if desired) to be paid to the buyers' favorite charity.

An attempt was made to air this on the local radio station through its Pet Clinic service but because of the fact that the pups are not "free" they declined to put it on their program.

This letter also constitutes a plea to all area pet owners to think about their responsibility to their animals and their community. Birth control is not just a problem for human populations. The suffering that unwanted animals, such as these pups, endure, should not ever occur.

Meantime, Simon, Paddy and Little Bear are looking for people to turn them into wanted animals and bear with them through the marvellous, exasperating, funny, cute, piddly, yowly, growly babyhood that should be the right of every puppy.

The longest established cigarette fund in Belleville, regularly supplying smokes for local boys overseas is the Canadian National Railways Veterans' cigarette fund. During the month of January they have shipped 53,100 "cigs" to servicemen and prisoners of war in Germany.

Eight hundred men including some seventy officers have been the contribution of the 1st Battalion Argyll Light Infantry (Tank) to the ranks of the Canadian Active Army it was revealed last night when officers of the regiment entertained their sergeants in the officers' mess.

During the past several days attendance at local schools has been reduced by attacks of whooping cough and lagrippe. Teachers report classrooms severely affected.

Dr. Bruce McLeod Going To Work in Costa Rica

TORONTO (CP) — After years of preaching about helping the hungry, Very Rev. Bruce McLeod plans to spend a year in Central America helping them.

Mr. McLeod, 45, youngest moderator in the United Church of Canada's 50-year history when he was appointed in 1972 for a two-year term, leaves his Toronto church at the end of June to spend a year in Costa Rica.

"I've talked an awful lot about the underdeveloped countries of the Third World and I thought the time has come to act," he said in an interview Tuesday. "I'm going here to do things I've never done before—to use a hammer and a saw, drive a bus, work in the fields, and take care of chickens and pigs."

The former moderator told his congregation Oct. 23 that he was taking a year off "to regroup and replenish my resources and to redefine priorities for my remaining time and energy."

Mr McLeod will work for no pay under direction of Costa Ricans to create a village for abandoned children to be named Pueblito Canada.

He says there are 10,000 abandoned children in the country.

"In five years the village will pass completely into Costa Rican hands and will pay for itself by agricultural produce such as coffee and bananas."

He says the project, to be built with funds raised mostly in Canada, "won't solve the tragedy of all the homeless kids."

"But it will be a model, a pilot project that could point a way out," he said.

Mr. McLeod, his wife and family will travel the 5,000 miles to Costa Rica in a van donated for the work there.

Prayer Supplies Second Wind In Race for God's Blessing

By

Dr. Gordon C. Smyth

Next year the Olympics are to come to Canada. It was in 776 B.C. that the Games began. A foot race was held at Olympia, 120 miles from Athens. The winner was crowned with a wreath woven from the leaves and twigs of an olive tree that Hercules was supposed to have planted.

When Greece was incorporated into the Roman Empire contestants came from as far away as Spain. Nero competed in an Olympic race. Although the emperor lost, he declared himself the winner.

New Testament times were sports conscious times. Thus St. Paul wrote, "Brethren, I do not consider that I have made it my own; but one thing I do, forgetting what lies behind and straining forward to what lies ahead, I press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus" (Philippians 3:13-14).

It was a good thing that Paul adopted this philosophy. He had been present at the martyrdom of Stephen. Wherever he journeyed, tongues wagged about his persecution of the Faith that he now professed. "I am not worthy", he once said, "to be called an apostle."

However, Paul came to realize that if the past could not be altered, it could be atoned for. A habit of mind, he concluded, should be cultivated that provides strength for the future. Life is a race. Many a defeat comes from the backward look. The things that are behind are like pursuers to spur us on.

The late Martin Luther King, Jr., wrote of a crucial moment in his struggle for Civil Rights. He had received a cruel blast on the phone. He was at the point of complete exhaustion. He began to look for excuses to get out of the Civil Rights Movement, while saving face.

Dr. King somehow realized the state to which he had been reduced. He bowed over the kitchen table and prayed, "I am here for what I believe is right. But now I am afraid. The people are looking to me for leadership. I have nothing left."

If you are at the end of your powers, get your second wind. That is what genuine prayer supplies. "At that moment", this great American was to write, "I seemed to hear the quiet assurance of an inner voice saying, 'Stand up for righteousness, stand up for truth'. All at once my fears began to pass from me."

Let the pattern of Christ's life be your goal. Let the prize you want be God's blessing when you cross the finish line. The testimony of His saints is that all things come out even at the end of the day and at the end of all life's days more even still.

Majority Think Religion Can Solve Problems

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — A majority of people in the United States still think religion can answer today's world problems, the latest Gallup Poll shows.

Sixty-two per cent of those surveyed said they believe religion can answer all or most of today's problems, while 20 per cent said religion is out of date. Eighteen per cent offered no opinion.

In a 1957 survey, 81 per cent thought religion could solve the problems of the day.

In the latest survey, 1,517 adults, 18 and older, in more than 300 locations during the period Dec. 6-9, were asked:

"Do you believe that religion can answer all or most of today's problems, or is it largely old-fashioned and out of date?"

Retired Bishop Sees Self As Episcopal Spare Tire

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Most Rev. W. I. Wright describes himself as a kind of episcopal spare tire as he relaxes in retirement after 30 years as Anglican archbishop of Algoma.

The jovial, round-faced, pipe-smoking prelate retired in the fall of 1974 on his 70th birthday, but among his plans for the future is the possibility of writing his memoirs, recollections of more than three decades in Northern Ontario.

"There's a considerable amount of history I only have in my mind that would otherwise be lost," he said.

Archbishop Wright has been a figure in the Anglican church for years, most recently as co-chairman of the General Commission on Church Union. He also fulfilled other duties in addition to pastoral supervision of the giant Algoma diocese—covering some 70,000 acres of Northern Ontario.

Reminiscing about his years in the diocese, Archbishop Wright talked of the harmful effects of white culture on Indians, suggesting segregation would give them a better basis to combat social evils developed from contact with whites.

He remembered services in isolated settlements, long train rides through frigid forests and what he called a highlight of his ministry—the faithfulness and loyalty of Indian lay people.

Born and raised in southern Ontario, he followed his father and grandfather into the ministry and worked in the southern part of the province, including Toronto and Hamilton, before moving north with his wife and three children in 1940. A fourth child was born in Sault Ste. Marie.

One feature of his term as archbishop was his success at fund-raising, an ability which made the diocese self-sufficient in 1956.

The 161 Algoma diocese churchs held special services marking his departure on the day of his retirement and at each church a foot-tall walnut cross bearing his name and his years of service was blessed and dedicated.

Zambian Minister To Speak

REV. W. DALRYMPLE

Rev. Whitney Dalrymple, working for the United Church in Zambia, will be the speaker at anniversary services of College Hill United Church Feb. 9.

The church is celebrating the 11th anniversary of its new building. This is Mr. Dalrymple's first speaking engagement since returning from Zambia just prior to Christmas. He is expected to tell of his experiences in the African country.

Born in Owen Sound, Mr. Dalrymple received the bulk of his education in the Maritimes. He has since served with the church as a special worker in youth training in Nigeria, as a missionary in Angola and most recently as a chaplain to a variety of educational instutulions in Zambia.

The service begins at 10:30 a.m.

Stitching and Chatting at the Quilting Bee

Every Friday and Monday afternoon women gather at Belleville's recreation centre for a social time in the best Canadian tradition: they hold a quilting bee.

The women are senior citizens and for four years they've met twice a week to quilt quilts and chat.

There are about eight women who regularly sew and they usually work on two quilts at once. The quilts are pieced by their owners who ask the senior citizens to do the quilting. The modest fee — $15 to $20 — goes toward senior citizens activities like bus trips.

"We raised $467 last year," Verneice Tryan points out proudly.

It takes the women four to six afternoons to complete one quilt and while the women admit to occasional sore fingers, they wouldn't miss the afternoon for anything.

"It's the only way we get to hear whether our friends are well or whether they're not," Flo Clarke says.

"It's the social part we like as much as the quilting," she adds.

For sore fingers, the women recommend a couple of coats of clear nail polish.

That takes care of one problem but another isn't so easily solved: quilting thread isn't available in Belleville. They get around it by asking friends and relatives to bring them a couple of spools from other places.

Why do they quilt when afternoon tea could also provide a pleasant social time?

Marion Wagg has the simple answer:

"Our mothers did this before us."

How-to Helps for Quilters

Quilting is more than a matter of knowing how to stitch neatly and having a good deal of patience.

To begin, when putting together a patchwork — whether it's for quilt top, patchwork pillow or patch skirt — be sure that the fabrics you select are of the same family. New or from the sewing basket, the fabrics should be of the same weight and texture and have well-coordinated colors. It's also important to be sure that prints are in the same scale.

Tools are important: a short needle with a long eye is best for quilting and the best thread is waxed quilting thread.

If that's unavailable, try rubbing polyester thread through beeswax. The wax keeps the thread from twisting.

Use a thread length of no more than 20 inches.

Templates for cutting patches have been traditionally made of paper or card, more recently a few bright people have tried fine sandpaper. A newer idea: buy sheets of plastic acetate from a photo supply or art supply store and cut your templates.

The edges will stay smooth, the transparent material will allow you to center fabric motifs accurately and the acetate will hold up through several uses.

Earlier quilts were closely stitched because of bulky cotton filling: modern dacron batting, however allows quilt lines to be about four inches apart. That distance will allow the batting to puff up.

Good News For Coffee Lovers

I gave up smoking and I never did drink much. I traded yogurt for sour cream and I pass right by the cereals that speak to you — life's blood of my childhood! — for the oatmeal. I broil, not fry; I steam not boil. I even took up a modest amount of exercise.

The cause of all these lifestyle changes was a greater awareness of diet and habit and their effect on health.

While it was relatively easy to give up smoking and while I really do love yogurt, one more recommendation of the healthy food faction never managed to catch my enthusiasm. That was the suggestion that I give up coffee for clover frond tea. When it came to coffee, I just dug in my heels and ignored my health.

For a few years, therefore, I've been guiltily gulping about six cups of coffee a day and wondering what my arteries look like.

Then came the good news: the results of the largest and longest research project on heart disease have shown that coffee drinking as engaged in by the general population is not a factor in the development of arteriosclerotic heart disease.

The 12-year-long study involved 4,500 persons and findings were based on the observation of adults drinking at least six cups of coffee a day.

There is, the researchers say, no significant relation between coffee and the development of certain other circulatory diseases. It is also a fact, according to the researchers, that there is no effect on high blood pressure or serum cholesterol.

Earlier warnings about coffee drinking were apparently the reflection of higher-than-normal deaths from all causes among coffee drinkers: further study showed the link was with those coffee drinkers who were also smokers.

Thanks, I'd love another cup.

Jalna's Real Life Counterpart Given to Heritage Foundation

CLARKSON, Ont. CP) — Benares, the house which author Mazo de la Roche described in her Jalna books, has been given to the Ontario Heritage Foundation by its present owners, Geoffrey Sayers and his two sisters, Dora Caro and Barbara Larson.

The three are direct descendants of Benares builder and founder James Beveridge Harris, on whom Miss de la Roche based the character of Philip Whiteoak, the patriarch of the Whiteoak family.

One similarity is that both the fictional and real figure were stationed in India in 1827 and, upon their return to Canada, named their country estate after their Indian post.

Mr. Sayers, who now lives at Benares with his wife Kathleen, said Miss de la Roche never actually lived in his family's home.

"But she was in and out of our house constantly and when she was 40 said she knew more about Benares than she knew about her own home."

Miss de la Roche wrote the first of 16 Jalna novels in 1927, when she was in her mid-40s. The series sold two million copies and was translated into several languages.

The Benares estate, which has never been structurally changed, was built in 1857 and is the oldest house in the area.

"When my sisters and I inherited the property we realized its financial value as a development but didn't necessarily want to see it go that way," he said. So they approached the heritage foundation.

Although the foundation lacked money to purchase the house, they worked out an arrangement whereby the family pays for repairs but not property taxes.

The Sayers, who are in their 60s, are in the midst of cataloguing everything in the house to retain as much of the actual history as possible.

Since many visitors are curious to see the house used in the Jalna books, the Sayers open it to the public once a year to raise money for charity.

The family has set up a primitive museum in the old summer kitchen containing such things as black pins used for mourning, military equipment, arrowheads found on the property, hand-carved croquet sets, tennis rackets and a wooden washing machine and ironing stand.

Another appliance, which Mr. Sayers says may be the only one of its kind around, is the first indoor toilet. It is a wooden box-like structure which used sand or ashes instead of water.

Small Investment Prevents Retardation

HALIFAX (CP) — Using a stethoscope to monitor the heartbeat of an infant during birth is the best way of contributing to mental retardation, says gynecologist Dr. Kenneth Scott.

The stethoscope is an inadequate instrument and cannot provide information on the state of the fetus during labor when an unborn infant can suffer brain damage, he said in an interview.

Dr. Scott is associate professor of pediatrics and obstetrics and gynecology at Dalhousie University here.

Electronic machines to monitor fetal heartbeat are available and they would be far better investment by society than the cost of a lifetime of custody and parental heartbreak caused by a child's mental retardation.

A slow heartbeat can be detected immediately with the machine. "You have to know the fetal heart rate during labor to evaluate the status of the fetus," Dr. Scott said.

"The stethoscope won't give it to you because of background noise. We need a better way, during and immediately after contractions, to detect early signs of the child's lack of oxygen.

"They don't cost very much. But if you weigh it against the cost and heartbreak, the cost becomes meaningless against the cost of protecting the fetus during labor.

"They are not commonly used. It is rare for a woman to have monitoring of the baby's status during labor. A stethoscope will pick up the problem only when the baby is in terrible trouble."

Another protection against mental retardation during labor is the Friedman curve. If every woman had a Friedman curve rate plotted, it would reduce the rate of mental retardation dramatically.

The Friedman curve indicates the natural progression a mother's labor can be expected to follow and shows abnormal labor when it is happening, not many hours later.

Standing Room Only in Quilting Class

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP) — When a total of 60 registered for a quilting course in the fall at Conestoga College's Waterloo Centre here, it stunned teacher Sheila Turnbull.

"It was the first time the course was offered and we only expected 12 to 14 reservations," she said. "It just proves interest in the age-old craft is very much alive."

So many registered, in fact, that a waiting list was set up, with plans for three classes in January.

And the classes also included a man. Rick Hook of Waterloo signed up with his wife. Another man joined but dropped out because of other commitments.

The quilters ranged in age from 15 to 70 and included young single women, young matrons and grandmothers.

"And quite revolutionary is the fact that eight Mennonite women, expert in the craft, have volunteered to assist in teaching," said Norman Johnstone, head of the centre's continuing education division. It was the first time that Mennonites had helped in a teaching capacity at an evening course.

"Mennonites have a tremendous sense of community," said Mrs. Turnbull. "If someone needs help they are always there to give a helping hand."

During the first three weeks of the course, Mrs. Turnbull showed how to sew patches and explained the techniques of setting up a frame and tying knots in tuft quilting.

The last three weeks of the course involved teaching the students to quilt on the frame.

Reasons for taking the course were as varied as the students participating.

Ruth Ann Watty of Waterloo, mother of an 18-month-old boy, became interested through magazine articles.

"I remembered the quilting bees by mother attended," said Mrs. Watty, "and I thought it would be fun to try my hand at a small quilt or make quilted cushion covers or wall hangings.

Having Mennonites as teachers was a pleasant surprise for Debbie Dietrich, who lives on a nearby farm.

"All my neighbors are Mennonites and their skill at quilting got me so interested that I, too, wanted to quilt,' she said. So it makes it extra nice to be taugh by Mennonites."

Sharon Teitel, a school teacher, became involved through her interest in antiques. She owns an antique iron bed and planned to make a quilt for it.

Once she visited an auction but found quilts were too expensive for her taste—"So I de-

"We Made the Most Of It"

CALGARY (CP) — The cry that the country is on the brink of another depression has been heard more than once lately, but at least one person who weathered the Depression of the 1930s does not despair at the memory of those years.

Edith Swanson, 65, who spent a major portion of her younger years on the road—riding boxcars, living in tents or cars, and helping her husband scrape together a few cents each day to feed themselves and their three sons—looks back on those years as the "good times."

"All our friends were surprised that we enjoyed our life-style," she says. "They thought we were having such tough luck.

"But that's the way the times were and that's the life we had to lead, so we made the most of it."

Mrs. Swanson was one of the 12 children of a Wainwright, Alta., homesteader whose farm land turned out to be nothing more than sand. "My father had to take a job at a manufacturing company to keep us fed and clothed," she said. "We were poor, but we had what we needed."

Her transient life-style began after, at the age of 17, she married John Swanson, a boy from a neighboring farm. They rented a farm near their families' homes, but in less than a year were forced to leave when the owner of the farm returned.

Work was getting scarce at that point, Mrs. Swanson recalled. "There were no prospects there at Wainwright at all, so we had to start moving around to where we could find work."

With their savings, the couple bought a car and went to Edmonton, Calgary and then to Banff, Alta., haying and doing other odd jobs for farmers en route.

In Banff, Mr. Swanson found work on a crew constructing a new wing at the Banff Springs Hotel. The Swansons, who had spent months living in cheap hotel rooms, were able to rent a small cabin before their first child was born.

But before the baby was three months old, the collapse of a wall on the buildng site sent Mr. Swanson to hospital.

The couple returned to Wainwright with their child, their savings diminished.

At Wainwright, Mr. Swanson worked for the railway, but by spring prospects in the town were bleak again and the Swansons, with their two-year-old son, took to the rails.

"I dressed up like a man, in overalls and a hat, and we rode the freight train from Wainwright to a town near Edmonton, then went on to Jasper in a boxcar, where we finally found work," Mrs. Swanson said.

"My husband worked in Jasper for a while, then we jumped the trains to Canmore, where he found work on a gravel gang."

At the time, numerous people were riding boxcars from town to town in search of work, but few of them were women, Mrs. Swanson said. In addition, many of the men who rode the trains in the early days of the 1930s were "rough customers".

"When I got in a boxcar, I just stayed close to John and kept my mouth shut. At times, I was afraid of what they'd do to me if they knew I was a woman."

From Canmore, the Swansons drove a $35 car to central British Columbia, where they remained until 1933. Mr. Swanson worked for a logging company for a year until he found better prospects in nearby Kamloops.

"1932 was Kamloops," Mrs. Swanson said. "For that year, we had a house.

"We worked for a guy in a butcher shop and fed his hogs for the rent of our place. My husband worked for the highway people, and in his spare time put up fence posts."

By now the couple's second son had arrived, but by the time he was a year old the family was back in the boxcars.

"We rode the rails to a town about 80 miles away where we picked blueberries and huckleberries, and then we went further west to pick strawberries. It was easier for me riding the rails this time, because I didn't have to pretend I was a man."

Women were riding boxcars in larger numbers by then.

"B.C. was the easiest for rail riding, so that's where the women were doing it," Mrs. Swanson said. "Most of the girls were the younger set, riding around looking for work just like everybody else. And they didn't seem to run into too much trouble."

The Swansons worked their way to Chilliwack, B.C., doing odd jobs and riding trains between small towns. In 1935 Mr. Swanson found a farm job that lasted for more than a year.

From the Chilliwack farm the family drove to the coast in their new Hupmobile, a wooden-wheeled car that would later be their home. In Vancouver, Mr. Swanson found work as a ship loader.

"My third son was born on the coast," Mrs. Swanson said. "We had rented a beautiful house on top of a hill, and I was beginning to think we had settled down." She was 26 and had been married for almost 10 years.

But by spring, the family was on the road again, living in a tent on the roadside as they headed for Trail, B.C. and new prospects.

Mr. Swanson was hired almost immediately to work in the smelters there, but within four years the iron residue had so seriously weakened his health that he was forced to leave.

Once again, the family bought a car, loaded its possessions, and camped their way back to Alberta.

"That was the last time we had to travel around for jobs. My husband found a job in Edmonton with the CPR and the only other time we moved was in 1943, when the company transferred him to Calgary."

Mr. Swanson died four years ago, and the three sons have left home, but Mrs. Swanson remains in the first house she and her husband bought.

Doris Clark

Brain Work Challenging

Dear Doris: I belong to "The 55 Plus" group of senior citizens. I need some easy games and contests for those who do not play cards.

Could I find something that does not require too much concentration?

I would want something not too expensive, as this group does not have much money. I myself will probably pay for whatever I get for them. They do not as a group wish to ask the government but to remain independent, paying for what they have as they go along They have even refused a grant for legal aid.

Hazel.

Dear Hazel: Why should the games and contests be of a kind which "do not require too much concentration?" Didn't you know it is important to kep the brain active? Then it is not as apt to deteriorate with age. It needs the stimulation of circulation, which comes when you do brain work. Don't downgrade your senior' challenges.

I have leaflets of good skits, games, and readings, listed for you. They are priced at 25 cents each, plus a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

But here's contradiction: your group leans on you to pay for these things. Just how independent is that? It might be a great idea for them to raise money with handicrafts — or in some other way, just as other clubs do. Perhaps they need the challenge!

Dear Doris: I should be used to it, but my husband's urges always come at four or five in the morning, so my sleep pattern is wrecked. I've had enough of having my body used to give him his kicks. This is about all he thinks of.

The doctor says I'm in fine health but I am just wearing out, body and nerves. The only excitement he needs is sex play; never spends a cent on me and never has.

I'm sure we need an extended or short holiday from each other. After 48 years the glamor has worn off. I try to intesest myself in other things — reading, etc. Which your column would emphasize that at 70 we should look up.

Weary.

Dear Weary: Talk to his doctor. Some elderly men seem to have a surprising revival of sex impulses, which may be very wearing for their submissive spouses.

There are medicines which can help to slow this down.

You do need a holiday away from each other — and it I were you I'd be firm about it. Surely his love for you is great enough that your fatique and boredom can make an impression. Get the doctor to help you explain all this. Your husband is not the only one whose sex life needs to be considered.

About looking up — yes! Mature interests, new explorations, should be figuratively reaching for the stars!

(Don't just muddle along. Doris knows human behavior and can help. Write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

Ann Landers

Minister's Wife Was Right

Dear Ann Landers: I read your column regularly in the Akron Beacon Journal and was delighted to find it in the Star-Phoenix, in Saskatoon, Canada, where we are vacationing.

Please reconsider your answer to the minister's wife who complained because a certain couple did not give her husband a "gratuity" for performing a wedding ceremony. You agreed that the minister was certainly entitled to something.

The clergyman is paid a salary to minister to the need of his flock. This includes baptisms, weddings, funerals, counselling, visiting the sick and the bereaved. I realize all this is over and beyond the Sunday sermon, but most clergymen would be insulted if you suggested that they worked only on Sunday.

What is this "fee" business anyway? Why shouldn't they charge for visiting hospitals, then? It makes just as much sense.

One final word. I wonder how many clergymen declare those "extra gifts' on their tax returns when they officiate at weddings and funerals and pay taxes on those monies. Darned few, I'll bet.—Raised Eyebrows

Dear Brows: Clergymen are among the most poorly compensated of all professionals. Those who are well enough paid so that they need not depend on "honorariums" to keep food on the table should be given an extra bonus for officiating at weddings (especially if it is part of a festive social affair which requires a rehearsal) and for good reason. These monies are needed for his "contingency" or "discretionary" fund which enables him to help the needy members of his flock—something most people aren't even aware of. Honorariums for funerals are almost always turned over to the church.

Recover Monkey

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A pygmy marmoset monkey stolen from a San Diego zoo has been recovered by police making narcotics raid. When police went to a man's house to arrest two women on drug charges they found the three-ounce, four-inch-tall monkey. It was returned to the zoo.

British Delinquents Become Criminals

LONDON (Reuter) — A chronic shortage of social workers and remedial homes may be turning juvenile delinquents in Britain into criminals for life.

"Only an enthusiastic anarchist could be satisfied with the way we are currently dealing with the problem of juvenile crime," says Edward Gardner, a Conservative member of Parliament and lawyer.

Since the Children's and Young Persons' Act of 1969, which came into force three years ago, there has been a sharp rise in the number of persistent young offenders who have discovered they can commit crime with virtual impunity, he said.

The aim of the act was to give treatment instead of punishment and to transfer responsibility from the courts to the social services.

Yet lack of facilities to implement the act successfully has led to a sense of despair among many judges and the resignation of one of them.

For first-time offenders it is generally agreed that though treatment may be appropriate and effective, the act appears to have encouraged a hard core of persistent offenders.

Lawyers noted that most juvenile offenders respond to the awesome ordeal of facing a court for the first time. But under the new act, judges cannot keep tabs on the child after the first court appearance and no longer have powers to oversee his return back into school and society.

The act provides for fines as punishment, but there is no practical way of enforcing payment. Most children have no independent resources.

Previously a judge could demand that a child be put into an approved school, but under the present act they can only suggest a certain community home—the warden of that home has powers to refuse the child. If there are no available places he may be forced to do so.

Alternatively if a child is put in the care of a local social—worker who decides a community home is needed but all are full, the child may have to be sent back to the home, parents and background which caused his turn to crime in the first place.

A third method was highlighted recently by the case of an unnamed 15-year-old.

The child was found guilty on five counts of burglary, committed while in the care of a London council as her parents had found her beyond their control.

The social worker tried to place the child in seven remand homes, nine hospitals and almost 20 community homes and child centres but all were full or refused to take "clients" from outside their areas.

As a last resort the child was sent temporarily to Holloway women's prison for one week, and only a chance vacancy enabled her to go to a juvenile remand home.

A Labor member of Parliament, Eric Moonman, said "social workers are expected to be jills of all trades with many leaving because they cannot cope with the stressful conditions they encounter.

"Thus a situation is perpetuated in which the most difficult, demanding cases—especially those involving child abuse—are likely to be handled by well-meaning but often hopelessly inadequate or incompetent newcomers."

The problem has led to a bipartisan resolution in the House of Commons complaining of the lack of facilities needed to carry out the 1969 act and urging the government to make extra residential facilities available immediately.

One aspect of the act was its failure to deal with truancy unless the child were also proved in need of care. Yet an estimated 70 to 80 per cent of children who get into trouble with the law start by playing truant from school.

With this in mind, five experimental "educational guidance centres" are being run by the Inner London Education Authority designed to resemble a conventional school as little as possible.

These centres take some 12 children, play music, make coffee and hold informal discussions with them with a view to returning them to their former schools within about a year.

Greeks Are Gossips

ATHENS (AP) — Greeks hold the world record for telephone gossiping, says the head of the country's telecommunications organization. "If we have bad quality telephone networks, it is due to a great extent to our extensive gossiping over the phone, which exceeds in time not only the average in Europe and America but of the entire world," said Michael Petropouleas.

Breast Feeding Urged, Milk Protects Babies

NEW YORK (AP) — Results of a research program at Babies Hospital indicate that breast milk contains ingredients which protect infants during the stressful period immedately after birth.

The program was described in The Stethoscope, published by the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Centre. It tested newborn rats, which are susceptible to necrotizing enterocolitis, a tissue-destroying inflammation of the small intestine and colon. The condition also affects between one and four per cent of premature and low-weight human babies.

The rats were divided into two groups. One was fed an artificial rat-milk formula, the other was breast-fed and both groups were deprived of oxygen for short periods.

All the formula-fed rats died of enterocolitis. None of the breast-fed rats was affected.

Doctors conducting the study said breast milk offers complete protection to stressed rat babies if it is given during the first 24 hours of life or after no more than 24 hours of initial formula feedings.

They said rat breast milk is rich in antibodies and macrophages, large wandering cells that swallow bacteria. And the human breast milk also contains these ingredients.

"It seems a shame that in our wisdom in promoting formula feeding we have elected to throw those goodies away," said Dr. Thomas Santulli, head of pediatric surgery at Babies Hospital.

"I would hope we will turn back the clock and encourage the use of breast feeding as a result of this study."

Keep The Fun in Snowmobiling...Know and Obey These Cardinal Rules Of

SNOWMOBILE SAFETY

Snowmobiling is Canada's newest fun-filled winter pastime. There are hazards, however, if snowmobiles are operated in an unsafe manner. The Canada Safety Council believes most accidents can be avoided if the operators of snow machines will follow a few simple rules of safety.

The businesses displayed on this page are concerned with snowmobile safety, and today present this page of Do's and Don'ts for snowmobile operators as a public service. They hope their efforts will help maintain snowmobiling as a safe form of winter recreation.

Amendments to Motorized Snow Vehicles Act, 1974

TORONTO — The Ministry of Transportation and Communications has recently amended the regulations governing the operation of motorized snow vehicles in Ontario.

The amendments cover such areas as registration, insurance, speed limits, reporting of collisions, wearing of helmets and obtaining written permission from the land owner in order to drive on his property.

The changes that will apply to the owners and operators of snowmobiles this season are:

—On the sale of a new vehicle the dealer must register the vehicle with the ministry and pay the annual licence fee. (In the case of a machine used exclusively on the private property of the owner of the machine application may be made for a refund).

—As well as being prohibited from driving on the roadway of a King's Highway you are now also prohibited from driving on the shoulder.

—Carrying of proof of insurance is now required when using public trails as well as on a highway.

—If a snowmobile is involved in a collision on or off the highway . . . including private property . . . which results in personal injury to any person or in damage to property including that of the owner of the snowmobile exceeding $100., the operator shall report the collision to the police as soon as possible.

—Speed limits have been set for the operation of motorized snow vehicles when being driven on a highway, upon any public trail, or in any public park or exhibition grounds.

—Under the new legislation, a "public trail" is defined as any motorized snow vehicle trail established and maintained in whole or in part by public funds.

—Where the speed limit on a road is 30 miles per hour or less, no snow vehicle may be driven at a greater speed than 15 miles per hour. This speed limit applies in any public park or exhibition grounds.

—If the highway speed limit is greater than 30 miles per hour, the maximum speed permitted for snow vehicle operation is 30 miles per hour. This is also the maximum speed permitted on any public trail.

—Muncipal by-laws may vary speed limits provided signs are erected. Municipalities have the right to pass by-laws regulating, governing or prohibiting the operation of snowmobiles anywhere within their boundaries, on or off the highway.

—The operator of a snowmobile driving on private property is required to stop and give his correct name and address at the request of the owner or occupier of the property.

—The towing of a cutter, toboggan or sled is not permitted on a roadway or shoulder except to cross at an angle of approximately 90 degrees. Towing is not permitted anywhere except by means of a rigid tow bar.

—Helmets must now be worn by all snowmobile operators, passengers & persons being towed by a snowmobile, when on the roadway, shoulder or a public trail. Helmets must comply with standards established for motorcycle helmets.

—All snowmobile operators must obtain written permission from the owner or occupier of land in order to drive on the property. Where an owner gives permission to a club, the permission extends to all members of the club. Trespassing on private land while operating a snowmobile is an offence carrying a fine of up to $500.

The new legislation contains authority for additional control and regulation which will not come into effect until next season. These relate to identification of the vehicle as well as driver licencing and age limits. A further announcement will be made on these subjects at a later date.

DON'T

- DON'T attempt to cross a river or lake without checking the thickness of the ice. Ask people acquainted with the area if you've never crossed before.
- DON'T use a railroad right-of-way. You can't hear a train coming above the noise of your own machine. When crossing tracks, shut off your machine so you can listen for approaching trains. Then cross at a 90-degree angle.
- DON'T be a show-off. And remember snowmobilers and skiers DON'T mix on the same slopes.
- DON'T panic if the throttle on your machine sticks. Check it before you start out. If it should become stuck, just turn off the key and let the machine come to a safe stop.

DON'T

If the back of your machine should become stuck in the deep snow, do not put your hands or feet near the track while it is driving in attempting to free your machine. Simply lift out the back end of your snowmobile and drive it out while kneeling with one leg on the seat and pushing off with your free leg. Or push the machine out by the handlebars while standing next to it and squeezing the throttle lightly.

DO

- DO obtain operating instructions.
- A DO position is sitting down with both feet inside the cab but not locked into the footboards.
- A DO for bumpy terrain is to place one knee on the seat for better balance.
- DO play safe with children aboard. Go more slowly with young passengers. And never let children [illegible] snowmobile alone.
- DO use a tow bar when pulling a trailer. Rigid hitches prevent tailgate collisions on sudden stops.
- DO check your lights before night lake crossings at night and don't break new trails.
- DO make sure when driving that the snowmobile is properly secured on its trailer. Then protect it with a bright cover.
- DO travel with extreme caution in unknown areas. Watch ahead for obstacles and follow trails that have already been marked.

DON'T

- Never jump a snow bank before first finding out what may be on the other side. You may be jumping into the path of another snowmobile, or a group of playing children, or into the middle of a highway.
- Snowmobiling brings many new winter freedoms. Damaging private property is not one of them. DON'T cut fences or trample shrubs.
- DON'T leave your key in the ignition. It's an invitation to theft and a danger to unsupervised children and adjacent property if your snowmobile is an electric-start model.
- Never operate a snowmobile at night without adequate lighting.

DON'T

DON'T tail-gate. Maintain a safe distance between your machine and the one in front of you. And here's trouble . . . DON'T cut across another's right-of-way. If in doubt, throttle down or stop.

DO

Come to a complete stop before crossing any street or highway. Cross only at a 90-degree angle to the roadway, and remember that traffic always has the right of way. Some provinces may require a driver's licence or have regulated on the age of an operator who can legally cross the roadway. Again, we suggest thorough knowledge of local regulations. If you are travelling with a companion it is always added safety insurance to have one person watch for traffic while the other person crosses with the snowmobile.

Some Final Words . . .

1. Know your snowmobile. Keep it well-maintained. In thawing weather, clear the track of slush by lifting machine free of the ground and spinning track. Regular checks with your dealer are a good investment.

2. Another reminder: snowmobiling on ice can be hazardous. Never cross a lake or stream without first knowing the ice condition. Moving water thins the ice from below. Make sure it can support both you and your snowmobile.

3. On safari, always travel with others. Do not attempt a long trip that may be beyond your capacity. Always let others know your destination and expected arrival time. Carry emergency supplies: flares, snowshoes, first aid kit, a map, an axe, extra fuel, waterproof matches and rations. As in swimming safety, use the "buddy system."

4. Join your local snowmobile club. Learn everything you need to know from experts

5. Liquor and snowmobiling are a poor mix. Leave the former alone.

6. The second biggest known cause of snowmobiling fatalities is collisions with cars, while collisions with other snowmobiles have produced many injuries. Caution, common sense and courtesy can eliminate a majority of these accidents. Practice these three Cs.

7. The most common cause of snowmobiling injuries is unknown terrain. Following marked trails is the best way to avoid this problem.

'Reduce Income Tax'

Ellis Wants Materials Tax Scrapped

Hastings MP Jack Ellis has accused the government of taking a "band-aid approach" to coping with the situation of sales tax on building materials.

"There is an obvious need to remove this tax entirely. The cost of collecting the tax at the lower figure would almost equal the revenue derived," he said.

"The registered home ownership plan is sadly lacking," Mr. Ellis added. "How can the government expect low income earners to pay rent, raise a family and live in this time of high inflation — and still save $1,000 a year for this or any other program? In addition rising inflation will mean that funds on deposit will hardly keep up. These savings will be wiped out, as are many others."

The Hastings MP called on the government to "introduce a meaningful decrease in personal income tax that would both benefit all wage earners and force down government spending.

"This," he said, "would at least work, not require a whole new tax department, be readily understood by all Canadians and leave no loopholes for expert tax dodgers."

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1975

Reaction Awaited

Mayor Robin Jeffrey, in the wake of criticism, Friday emphasized the draft minimum property bylaw introduced at council Monday was just "in the proposal stage." Reaction from the public and interested organizations will be taken into account in final legislation, she said.

Mayor Predicts Some Changes In Home Standards Proposal

Mayor Robin Jeffrey said Friday, the draft proposal of a maintenance bylaw for Belleville is nothing more than a "vehicle for discussion" and that it likely will not be approved in its present form.

The mayor made these comments in answer to the mounting wave of public scepticism over the controversial document placed before council last Monday.

They proposed bylaw is patterned closely after similar legislation in force in the Toronto suburb of East York. Toronto and Kingston — each with maintenance bylaws in force — were also approached for draft information, said City Manager Wilbur Purcell. The manager was largely responsible for the completion of the draft document.

The legislation is designed to provide city property owners and tenants with a comprehensive outline of what building standards must be maintained.

Mr. Purcell explained inspectors are not going to go out and check every building in the city. Rather, the inspection staff will wait for complaints The approach was adopted in consideration of the staff enlargement that would be needed to handle such a work load. But, the scheme seems to have backfired.

One resident objection is that neighbors might begin complaining unjustly to the city's inspection department in order to put pressure on other street residents.

Mayor Jeffrey said it must be remembered that this is a "minimum" standards bylaw with health and safety of city residents as its chief concern. "Esthetics enters into it but safety is the important part," she said.

"The draft presented Monday is for council and public discussion," said the mayor. "There will be some changes. Some places can be loosened."

Several public meetings will be held to invite resident input and it is not likely the document will receive approval before the summer. The city's zoning bylaw must be approved first.

"We're getting complaints all the time," said the mayor. These complaints originate from "slum areas" where we currently have no legislation to act upon.

The only legal support council has in urging landlord renovations comes from health and fire regulations. "The health act is a particularly difficult act to work under," said Mr. Purcell.

Once the proposal receives approval by the city government it requires no endorsement of the province and becomes law, said the mayor.

"Its restriction will then take affect immediately," Mayor Jeeffrey said.

The proposal outlines several levels for appeal of an order under the legislation with final appeal before a county court judge.

The bylaw will also allow for a maximum penalty of $500 a day for property owners refusing to enter into renovations.

Cellars Need Drain Under Draft Bylaw

Some sections of the 15-page minimum building maintenance bylaw that have caused unfavorable public reaction are:

"No vehicle; including without limitation of the generality of the foregoing, trailer, truck, camper, boat or motorcycle, or remnant or part or parts thereof or mechanical equipment which is in a wrecked, discarded, dismantled or inoperative condition shall be parked, stored or left on land, unless such vehcilce or mechanical equipment is required and used for business purposes permitted under the corporation's land-use bylaws. Where such vehicle or mechanical equipment is required and used for business purposes, it shall be screened from the street and adjoining residential property by a solid board fence."

"All areas used for vehicular traffic and parking shall be paved with bituminous, concrete or crushed stone surfacing and shall be free from dirt and other litter and kept in good repair."

"In a dwelling unit containing two or more rooms, hot and cold running water draining into a sink connected to the sewerage system shall be supplied and maintained in good working order."

"Basements or cellars that are served by a stairway leading from the building or from outside the building shall have a concrete floor with a floor drain located at the lowest point of the said floor and connected to a sewerage system."

Pancake Breakfast Part Of Tweed's Carnival

TWEED — There's still lots of fun going on in Tweed today and Sunday during their annual winter carnival which got underway Friday night with a torchlight parade through the downtown area.

Later, during a dance at the St. Carthagh's School, Kathy Chamberlain of 608 Victoria St., was selected snow queen.

Part of the main street was to be roped off today for street games which ended at 4 p.m.

Tweed Twirps were to tackle Centennial High School in Broomball from 3:30 to 4:30 at the arena, followed by figure skating commencing at 5 p.m.

Wrist wrestling was to take place from 4 to 6 p.m. Saturday at the Tweed-Hungerford hall and starting at 7:30 there will be a singles bowling tournament at the Bol-O-Way. The Kiwanis will hold a dance at St. Carthagh's starting at 9 p.m. Saturday.

Basketball started at 8 a.m. Saturday, ending at 8 p.m. at the Tweed Hungerford Senior School.

Sunday morning begins with a Kiwanis pancake breakfast from 8 a.m. until noon at the Tweed Hungerford Hall. A curling bonspiel which starts at 8 p.m. runs until 6 p.m.

Sunday sees cross country skiers off on a 50 kilometre jaunt. The endurance race starts at the Hayloft on the old Flinton road at 11 a.m. Contestants have until 5 a.m. to cross the line.

Highlight of the carnival will be snowmobile races on Sunday starting at 11:30 a.m. two miles south of Tweed at Chapmans Corners. There will be $2,000 in prizes and trophies.

Wannamaker New Orangemen Master

Howard Wannamaker, Frankford, has been elected county master of the County Loyal Orange Lodge of South Hastings, succeeding Bernard Hollinger of Foxboro.

Other officers elected were deputy master Eugene Pascoe, Shannonville; chaplain, Bernard Fox, Point Anne; secretary, Cecil Beverley, Point Anne; treasurer, Robert Rollins, Plainfield; Marshall, C. William Smith, Point Anne; lecturers, Lorne Richmond, Foxboro, Ed Thompson, Belleville and Lynn Jones, Stirling. Auditors are Horace Palmer and Charles Beatty.

The election was conducted by Russell McFarlane, Trenton, and installing officer was L. E. Jones. Four visiting county masters attended the ceremony: Fred Newcombe, Picton; Allison Woods, Campbellford; Dale Anderson, St. Ola and Debert Mumby, Stirling. Also in attendance were two representatives of the Provincial Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario East, Fred Bateman, past grand master and currently grand treasurer, representing the grand master and Lorne Hagerman, past grandmaster.

Cabinet Shuffle Delays Reply to Funding Request

TRENTON — Town council will know within a month whether its request for $800,000 in Neighborhood Improvement Program (NIP) money will be approved by the provincial government.

The fate of council's application was to be made known Friday in Toronto.

A housing ministry official responsible for NIP said Friday any announcement will be made either at the end of February or during the first days of March.

The delay is due to the Jan. 14 cabinet shuffle by Premier Bill Davis.

The official said a meeting of the Provincial Municipal Liaison Committee (PMLC) was scheduled for Jan. 17 in Kitchener. At that time, Trenton's application, along with those of other Ontario municipalities, was to be discussed.

However, the cabinet shuffle threw a monkey wrench into the ministry's plans. Co-chairman of the PMLC, then treasurer John White, was replaced by the then energy minister Darcy McKeough, who was unable to attend the PMLC meeting. His attendance was necessary, said the official.

The ministry official said another meeting is scheduled in Toronto later this month. At that time the subject of NIP grants may be discussed.

NIP funds are used to upgrade neighborhoods that are composed of older, deteriorating and predominantly residential dwellings.

In Trenton, five areas have been selected as possible recipients of NIP money.

Tax Tip

Q. I am employed as a garage mechanic and have to provide my own tools. These cost me $500. When completing my income tax return, can I claim this expense as a deduction?

No. The cost of tools is not deductible from salary or wages; nor may you claim claim an employment expense them. You may, however, claim an emptoyment expense deduction of 3 per cent of your employment income, up to $150 a year.

School Plans Display Of Local Artists' Work

MADOC — The Centre Hastings Secondary School art department here will organize an art exhibition at the school on April 24-26 during Education Teek.

Entitled Arts in Action, it will include commercial, amateur and industrial arts in the community. The public is invited to participate and displays may be either for sale or show.

Those interested can contact Brenda Hudson at CHSS or phone 473-2347 before Feb. 10.

Consideration of the event this year follows the success of a similar summer art exhibition in 1973.

Taylor Says No Funds For Wellington Harbor

WELLINGTON — The federal government has made no funds available for improvements to Wellington harbor in the fiscal year 1975-76 but James Taylor, MLA Prince Edward — Lennox, says the project will remain eligible for consideration.

Mr. Taylor noted he has been told by the regional manager, small crafts harbors branch, fisheries and marine, environment Canada that improvements will be considered if a "substantial" commercial fishing fleet uses the harbor and should supplementary funds become available.

There is also a possibility that there could be some financial assistance through the Marina Policy Assistance Program.

This program encourages development of public facilities for recreational boaters, especially those that might be classed as tourists. Under the marina policy, specified assistance may be extended to anyone willing to provide new shoreward facilities for boaters.

Mr. Taylor also observed the small crafts harbors branch of the department of environment now is discussing the question of a joint study of the future of Prince Edward — Lennox harbors with the province.

Club Looks for Members

Belleville city engineer Joe Angelo (from left), city alderman Stu Meeks and president of the Italo-Canadian Quinte Club Domenic DiPietrantonio were in Batawa Friday for ceremonies to officially recognize the areas newest club. The Italo-Canadian Club, which now boasts 90 members, is in the midst of a membership drive and hopes to end with 300 members of Italian ancestry.

Button, Button . . .

Friday was Button Day for junior grades at Harry J. Clarke School and in six classrooms more than 8,900 buttons of every shape, size and color showed up for the event. Parents were asked to encourage children to sew or pin on their own buttons to teach them classification, counting, arrangement. Button Kings and Queens were selected from each class. Local Operators Busy

Radio Network Rally Safety Valve

BANCROFT — One of the largest co-ordinated amateur radio networks ever assembled will operate the communications system for the 23rd running of the Canadian Winter Rally today and Sunday.

About 100 radio amateurs across southern Ontario will utilize 65 mobile radio units along the 700-mile route between Bancroft and Camp Borden.

System organizer is Michael Goldstein, operator of callsign VE3GFN in Toronto, who began work on the system last June.

His assistants include Belleville operator Howard Fralick, VE3RL, of 59 Palmer Rd., Art Childerhose, VE3CGD, of Carp, Hugh McCully, VE3AYR, of Burlington and Bernie Sandbrook, VE3ATL, of Brooklyn.

In a press release Mr. Goldstein related his men "completed two comprehensive radio surveys of the entire route, set up base stations on two high towers in the Bancroft area and test [illegible] their [illegible] trouble areas."

Their control stations have overlapping power and are equipped for emergency power, he added. The entire system will operate on the 144 megahertz band.

". . . extensive use will be made of a very high frequency (VHF) repeater station located in the Uxbridge area which is owned and maintained by the Toronto FM Communications Society," explained Mr. Goldstein.

"This repeater will be the basic link between the different areas of the rally route," he elaborated. "Control towers at Essonville and Maynooth will duplicate the repeater's function in the Bancroft area where the majority of the rally activity will take place."

Mr. Goldstein pointed out the mobile radios "will provide the vital communications links necessary to maintian safety standards, allow control of the rally route and ensure that scores are quickly available to rally officials."

Collisions Cause $4,400 Damage

ROSSMORE — A Belleville area motorist escaped with cuts and bruises Friday night in a bizarre accident that caused $4,400 damage.

Brian Marshall, 18, of RR1, Belleville, lost control of his car on the ice when he applied his brakes as he approached a service station on Rednersville R.d

His car slid onto private property colliding with a parked car on the garage lot. The parked vehicle, owned by Grant Park of Oakville had been involved in an accident earlier this month and was in the garage for repairs. The Marshall car struck the rear of the Park vehicle, causing a further $2,000 damage.

The Marshall car then continued striking a sign valued at $600.

It then travelled west and struck a third parked vehicle, a 1975 tractor. Damage to the tractor on the garage lot was estimated at $800.

The car then careened back onto the Rednersville Rd., taking out a mail box. Eventually, it came to rest on its roof. Damage to the wayward auto was estimated at $1,000.

The accident, which occurred at 11:30 p.m. was investigated by Constable Tom Stanford of the Picton detachment OPP. No charges were laid.

OFL Entry Shaping Up

Dale Duvall and Doug Adams, the two enterprising young men behind the Ontario Fastball League (OFL) venture which will bring Belleville into the picture, are receiving support.

And the organization is already generating plenty of interest in the city and the Bay of Quinte area.

McDonald's Family Restaurant's arrival on the scene, through manager of the local operation, Bob Saxby, is a step in the right direction. The name McDonald's has become popular in the sports world, from minor leagues to senior ranks. Saxby and company will be valuable assets.

The news that Belleville Yardmen Benefit Fund is lending its assistance in the important item of transportation for the club is also welcome.

One staunch supporter of the OFL has already called to offer his best wishes for the success of the Belleville franchise. He's Vern Wannamaker of Trenton.

Vern has a good reason to greet the arrival of the OFL in Belleville with satisfaction. His son, Paul, has proved himself an accomplished pitcher in the league, with the Canadian champion Oshawa Tony's.

"I'm happy to see McDonald's and the Yardmen getting behind the team in Belleville," offers Vern.

"The people down there might get added incentive for their efforts when they consider what the club in Oshawa has done.

"Sunday, Tony's leave for a two-week tour of New Zealand.

"It's not too far fetched to look ahead and see Belleville McDonald's as Canadian champs and heading for overseas tours some day."

Obviously, Duvall and Adams have a long row to hoe yet, as they say, while preparing for the rapidly approaching season. But they have the enthusiasm of youth on their side. And the recent display of support locally is a big plus.

As Vern Wannamaker puts it: who knows where it all may end?

Thanks for your interest, Vern. And may the McDonalds and Tony's hook up in some entertaining matches over the season. See you there.

SLICES — Speaking of the diamond sport, Bill Shaw is busy these days drumming up interest in the Quinte Fastball League (QFL) and its general meeting set for Sunday, Feb. 16 at 7 p.m. at the Recreation Centre on Pinnacle St.

Shaw has been involved with softball teams and leagues in the city and district for . . . well, let's just say a few years, now. And he never appears to show any lack of vitality when it comes to promoting team or league.

There has been no attempt by those involved with the local league to pretend the big time has not arrived in the form of the OFL. But there is the realization that these early attempts to get things going for another campaign are even more important this time around.

So get with it men. Be at that February 16 meeting.

Al Ferguson, doing his hockey playing with the Picton entry in the Trent Valley Intermediate League this season, has opened up an eight-point lead over teammate Bill Harrison at the top of the list of the loop's point-getters released recently.

Always a hot shooter, whether in Senior A company, the Junior B ranks or during his minor league training, Al has 18 goals and 35 assists in 16 games with the second place Picton entry.

Ferguson has 53 points and Harrison, 45 (he's tops in goals with 30).

Doug Senior, another well known senior performer with Kingston and Belleville teams in earlier seasons, is also enjoying a productive outing with Picton. Doug has only played 13 games but has 16 goals and 21 assists for 37 points.

Campbellford leads the league with 30 points; Picton has 23; Tamworth, 21; Brighton, 19; Tweed, 16 and Madoc, 15.

Here are the overall Toronto Maple Leaf standings in the race for the Molson Cup.

Borje Salming leads with 30 points; Darryl Sittler has 29; Norm Ullman, 24; Doug Favell, 22; Lanny McDonald, 21; George Ferguson and Dave Keon, 17 each; Errol Thompson, 14; Ron Ellis and Gary Sabourin, 13 apiece; Jim McKenney, 12; Bill Flett and Eddie Shack, nine; Dunc Wilson and Inge Hammarstrom, eight; Bob Neely, five; Clarie Alexander, Brian Glennie and Tiger Williams, four each, and Pierre Hamel, three.

Meaghers a Hit in Boston

By MIKE BRADSHAW
Sports Staff

When you think of Boston, you automatically think of the Bruins — if you like hockey — or maybe the Celtics — if you like basketball. When Boston thinks of Belleville, they automatically think of the Meaghers.

RICK MEAGHER

Again this year Rick and Terry Meagher are making a distinct impression on the university hockey scene in Boston. Former Junior B players in Belleville, the brothers are touted as "fine all around hockey players" by their coach, Jack Parker.

Terry, a six-foot, 190-pound winger, is playing first line and ranks seventh in team scoring with 11 goals and 10 assists. He is used a lot on the power play and has the second highest number of power play goals (6) on the team.

Last season Terry was given honorable mention in the all-New England hockey team selections. Parker says, "Terry has the makings of a pro. He has the size and ability and is a strong skater."

This year Terry is helping the Boston University (BU) Terriers to one of the best seasons in their history. In ECAC league play the BU club has compiled a 12-1 won-lost record. Their only setback came against Harvard.

Rick, at 21, is a year younger than his brother, but has made his mark already this season. Last year there were rumors of pro offers, but this year the rumors should be more than just that.

He is the second highest point-getter on the team with 32 points and is the highest scorer with 16 goals in 18 games. His total includes a hat trick in BU's 12-3 victory over RPI and five shorthanded goals. His goal total while killing penalties is tops on the team and a record for an individual player at the University.

In one recent game Rick set a new Boston University record by scoring two shorthanded goals within nine seconds of each other.

Boston has outscored its opposition in regular and exhibition action 122-67. The only player the team has lost from last year is all-American goalie, Ed Walsh. The team has found a most adequate starting goalie in Brian Durocher though, and many feel the BU team has a good shot at the national title.

TERRY MEAGHER

McDonald's Edged 2-1

KINGSTON (Special) — Goals by MacKenzie and Runham carried Belleville McDonald's minor atoms to an exciting 2-1 win here Thursday.

The visitors scored the only goal of the first period and after a scoreless second frame, Belleville made it 2-0 early in the third.

Peter Street notched the lone Kingston goal with less than four minutes to play.

McInroy Comeback One Short

PETERBOROUGH (Special) — A spirited comeback by Belleville McInroys fell one goal short here Friday night as the visiting squad dropped a 6-5 squeaker to Peterborough in the opener of an Ontario Minor Hockey Association AAA Bantam Minor playoff series.

Down 6-2 half way through the final period, McInroy roared back on a pair of goals by Mark Crawford and one from Clarence Broekema to make it close. Crawford was a three-goal shooter for the Belleville squad and Broekema had two.

Steve Larmer and Larry Floyd each scored twice for the winners. Connecting for one each were Steve Gerolamy and Steven Smith.

Second game in the set will be played at Belleville's Memorial Arena, Tuesday.

Preview of Metro Playoffs

Markham Tops Bobcats 6-3

By MARK BRETT
Sports Staff

MARKHAM — If "Friday night's Metro Junior B hockey game between the Belleville Bobcats and the Markham Royals is any indication of the type of action that will be seen in the first round of the playoffs these two clubs should put on quite a show. The Markham—Belleville first round matchup is confirmed.

Although the two-thirds regulars and one-third juvenile team came out on the short end of the 6-3 score, the first two periods saw Belleville more than contain the home team with some good forechecking and passing.

"We kind of fell back into our shell in the third period but the main thing is that we were trying," said coach Bob Boyle after the game.

Markham had been holding out with their decision on just who they wanted to play in the first round but informed Cats' Manager Jim (Snipe) Matthews at the conclusion of the game, it will be Belleville.

Matthews for one is confident about the outcome of the series which will begin on Tuesday, in Markham and will switch to Belleville on Thursday at 8:30 p.m.

The visitors jumped into an early lead with only 21 seconds gone in the opening period.

Good puck control in the Markham end with the finishing touches added by Grant Goegan sent Belleville off and running.

Belleville goalie Bob Moore despite the six goals that went by him, played "one of his sharpest games of the season," according to Boyle.

Both teams were checking closely for the next 13 minutes, including a good defensive showing by the Cats while they were short handed.

The visitors weren't so lucky on the second penalty they had to kill off, as the Markham squad tied the game up.

Mark Murphy standing in front of Moore made no mistake about putting the puck in the net.

Each team had more than its share of opportunities but both goaltenders proved equal to the challenge.

Juvenile call-up John Murphy had several close chances on Markham goalie Steve Weeks, breaking in all alone only to find Weeks unwilling to budge.

The Royals had their problems with Moore at the other end of the ice and also rattled a few shots off the goal posts.

With 15 seconds left in the period Tim McLeod got in behind the Belleville defence to give Markham a 2-1 lead going into the middle frame.

Mike Crawford's shorthanded goal with a little better than two minutes gone in the second period tied the game up and the Cats appeared unwilling to go down without a fight.

Stelio Zupancich, a name Belleville fans will hear a lot more of in games to come, scored his first of two on a nice deflection to give the home team a lead it never relinquished. Cats' Dave Taylor was sitting out an interference penalty at the time.

The Cats ran into trouble late in the second period as the Royals were building up momentum and the Cats were losing steam.

By the end of the second 20 minutes, Belleville was down 4-2 but the contest was still anybody's game.

"It could have gone either way after the first two periods," was the view of a bystander, still recovering from a shoulder injury, Rick Langstaff.

"They (Cats) played really good hockey for the first couple of periods but in the third they just couldn't make the passes click" added Langstaff.

The winners added a pair of goals to their cause in the last period while Steve Keech replied for the Cats to round out the scoring.

Belleville will finish up their regular season today in an afternoon contest in Oshawa.

Advance playoff tickets will go on sale at McNight's Variety for season's ticket holders only with the remainder of seats on a first come, first served plan.

REDS SIGN NORMAN

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati starting pitcher Fred Norman, a left-hander, signed his 1975 National League baseball contract Thursday, the Reds said. Terms of the pact were not disclosed. Norman, 32, compiled a 13-12 record last season. Still unsigned are Johnny Bench, Tony Perez and Joe Morgan.

Tweed, Frankford Problem: Officials Fail to Show

TWEED — The second referee foul-up in a week involving Tweed - Frankford Juvenile 'DD' Ontario Minor Hockey Association playoffs is leading to a protest over Friday night's game which saw a score of 16-1 for Tweed. One referee started the game and the second second period.

Tuesday night at Tweed the official referees did not show up, and local referees were used. The next day the game was thrown out by the league convener, according to Burt Vance, secretary of Tweed Minor Hockey Association.

Don Lesage, Tweed coach, said there was a signed agreement, but Frankford coach Bob Steele said nothing was signed. Mr. Steele said that the two referees who originally started the Tuesday game were sent home, but he did not know who authorized this.

The brother of the Tweed coach refereed (on Tuesday night) he said. "This game (Friday night) is under protest. I told them we wouldn't start this game unless it was considered an exhibition game."

Mr. Vance said that was not so, and if Mr. Steele thought otherwise he had better have his letter of protest in the mail by 9 p.m. Sunday. Mr. Vance said that Bill Mulholland, OMHA convener in Campbellford was asked to send referees.

The score for the Tuesday game which was thrown out was 8-4 for Tweed. Thursday night Tweed defeated Frankford 6-2 on Frankford's home ice.

Up 3-0, Lancers Lose 5-3

Loyalist College Lancers blew a 3-0 lead and wound up on the short end of a 5-3 score in their Ontario Colleges Athletic Association match at Memorial Arena Friday. Rebounding to score the win was the St. Lawrence of Cornwall team.

Gord Johnson was a two-goal shooter for Lancers. Pat Kilpatrick had the other counter. Dave Horwood picked up two assists.

Leading the charge for St. Lawrence was Keith Ferguson with a brace of goals.

Huskies Drop Opener

FRANKFORD (Special) — Port Perry Flamingoes drew first blood in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior C playoff series with Frankford Huskies here Friday night, taking the opener of the best-of-seven series 8-6.

Bernie Aldred's goal with a little more than one minute remaining in regulation time provided the visitors with the insurance they were looking for as Huskies showed signs of overcoming a 7-6 deficit.

The teams were tied 3-3 after one period and Flamingoes were in front 6-5 heading for the third. Huskies held a 46-41 edge in shots on goal but couldn't make it show on the scoreboard.

Second and third games in the series are scheduled for Port Perry, Sunday, and Wednesday, Feb. 12. Frankford gets the fourth game, Friday, Feb. 14.

Ed Olsen and Ted Jeffrey each fired a pair of goals for the Port Perry squad. Dave Hill, Dave Jobb, Robin Kydd and Aldred had the others.

Sharing the Frankford production were Joey Edwards, Scott Poupart, Rob Arbuckle, Al MacIntosh, Gary Payne and Pete Crawford.

Huskies took 10 of the 18 penalties assessed.

Kings Play into Habs' Hands

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Canadiens take note: Los Angeles Kings are on a three-game losing streak and are idle until next Wednesday.

The Kings, who have led the National Hockey League Norris Division most of the season, dropped behind Montreal when the Canadiens won at Los Angeles a week ago.

And with the Canadiens four points in front, the Kings took their third loss in a row Frday night—a 3-1 decision to the Flames in Atlanta.

The Canadiens stand a chance to pad their lead with games today at home against New York Rangers and Sunday in Buffalo.

Meanwhile, Vancouver Canucks, who had allowed their long-standing lead in the Smythe Division to dwindle to just one point, withstood Chicago's challenge and beat the Hawks 3-1 in a showdown at Vancouver.

In other NHL games Friday, St. Louis Blues beat Kansas City Scouts 5-0 and Pittsburgh Penguins beat Californa Seals 4-1.

At Atlanta, the usually sharp goaltending of Rogie Vachon failed to prevent Flames rookie Eric Vail from picking up his 20th and 21st goals of the season in the third period.

The teams, with 23 shots each in the game, exchanged second-period goals with Butch Goring scoring for the Kings was Jean Lemieux for the Flames.

It was the first victory for the Flames under coach Fred Creighton who took over the club on Monday when Bernie Geoffrion quit.

At Vancouver, John Gould's two goals led the Canucks who regained a three-point edge over the Hawks in the Smythe Division battle.

Paulin Bordeleau added the other Canucks goal and Darcy Rota scored for the Hawks, who trailed throughout the game.

Gould's first goal midway in the first period came on a long shot that appeared to fool Chicago netminder Tony Esposito. The puck hit him on the glove of his stick hand, bounced over his shoulder and into the net.

Gould banged in his 21st goal of the year in the second period, picking the corner after being sent in alone on Esposito on a pass by Chris Oddleifson.

Rota scored on a goalmouth scramble less than two minutes later but the Gould-Oddleifson-Bordeleau line connected again to give Vancouver a two-goal margin.

Wayne Merrick led the St. Louis offence with two goals while Eddie Johnston made 25 saves for the Blues' first home-ice win in six games.

A league record set by Johnston in 1971-72 when he played for Boston Bruins, and since tied by three other goalies, was wiped out in the game at California.

California goalie Gilles Meloche broke Johnston's record of four assists in one season with his fifth assist on John Stewart's goal in the second period.

But Stewart's goal was all the Seals got against the Penguins who were led by Lowell McDonald's two goals.

Jean Pronovost scored his 30th goal of the season late in the game to insure the Penguins' fourth win in four games against the Seals this season.

New Look Works For the Indians

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Springfield's American Hockey League team got new uniforms, a new nickname and a victory Friday night.

Springfield Indians beat Hershey Bears 3-1 in their new-name debut after playing eight years under the nickname Kings.

The decision to change the name from Kings to Indians was made by Eddie Shore, who operated the Springfield franchise for nearly 30 years before selling his players to the National Hockey League's Los Angeles Kings in June, 1967. Shore took over the operation a month ago after the NHL's Kings threatened to pull out their players.

In the other league games, Nova Scotia Voyageurs stopped Providence Reds 5-1, and Rochester Americans edged New Haven Nighthawks 5-4.

Bob Poffenroth scored in the first period and Tom Cassidy in the second to give the Indians a 2-0 lead going into the third period.

Dennis Abgrall gave Springfield a 3-0 lead at 7:58 of the third period before Hershey's Bryan McSheffrey spoiled goalie Rick Charron's shutout bid with a goal at 13:09.

At Providence, Glen Goldup scored two goals as the Voyageurs moved to within three points of the Reds in the league's North Division.

Goldup and Mike McKegney gave Nova Scotia a 2-0 first period lead as the Voyageurs defeated the Reds on Providence ice for the third time this season.

Rookie Jerry Holland scored his 32nd goal to put Providence on the board midway in the second period, but Peter Sullivan got it back for the Voyageurs at 13:47 and Goldup made it 4-1 at 19:47.

Greg Hubick added an insurance goal for Nova Scotia on an unassisted effort early in the third period.

Doug Gibson's goal with nine seconds gone in the overtime period lifted Rochester to its win over New Haven.

Gibson assisted on all three Rochester goals in the third period as the Americans came back to tie the score.

Gordie Clark, Dave Hynes, Dunk Rousseau and Barry Merrell scored the Rochester goals.

Rocky Start

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Quebec Remparts, forced out of their home rink by the annual Quebec international peewee hockey tournament, began a six-game road trip on a rocky note Friday night, dropping a 9-4 decision to Shawinigan Dynamos in one of four Quebec Maor Junior Hockey League games.

In other action, Laval Nationals and Trois-Rivieres Draveurs fought to a 7-7 tie, Montreal Juniors outscored Hull Festivals 9-3 and Sherbrooke Beavers dumped Chicoutimi Sagueneens 6-1.

Jean Thibodeau scored four goals—three in the first period—to lead Shawinigan's attack.

Benoit Gosselin and Guy Verdon with two each and Richard Dubreuil with one were the other goalscorers for the Dynamos.

Daniel Desjardins scored three times for the Remparts with Serge Leduc getting the other.

The victory moved the Dynamos into a tie for fourth place with Sorel Black Hawks in the East Division. Each team has 33 points but Shawinigan holds four games in hand.

Another four-goal effort helped Laval to its tie against the Draveurs as Jean Trottier's fourth goal of the game at 16:45 of the third period pulled the Nationals even.

CAPS FILL GAP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington Capitals reached player strength Friday when they called up amateur Tony White from their Dayton, Ohio, affiliate in the International Hockey League for a three-game tryout with the National Hockey League team.

Spitfires Upset 4-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Niagara Falls Flyers upset Windsor Spitfires 4-1 Friday in a Southern Ontario Junior Hockey League game, shrinking Spitfires' first-place edge over Welland Sabres to three points as the Welland team trampled Detroit Junior Wings 9-1.

In the only other game, Guelph Biltmores edged Chatham Maroons 4-3.

At Niagara Falls, Flyers took a 3-0 lead in the first period and were ahead 4-0 when, with 67 seconds left to play, Windsor's Scott Miller ruined goaltender Howie Vant's bid for a shutout.

Graham Snyder scored two goals for the Flyers. Wally Yaciuk and Gary Sobchuk added one each.

Toros Are Up To Old Tricks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Toros seem to be right back to where they started in the World Hockey Association.

The Toros opened the season with six straight victories on home ice and then hit the road and started losing. Later, the turned around and started winning away and losing at home, a fact that distressed some club directors enough that the pressure they applied helped Billy Harris decide to quit coaching the club.

Since Bobby Leduc took over the club four weeks ago, the Toros have run into six losses on the road but, at home, club directo rsand fans again have something to cheer about.

The Toros, playing to a crowd of 11,661 Friday night, won their fourth consecutive home game, the third under Leduc, with a 4-1 decision over Cleveland Crusaders.

The Toros record under Leduc, former Toros winger, now stands at six wins, six losses and a tie.

In other WHA games Friday, New England Whalers edged Winnipeg Jets 5-4 and Phoenix Roadrunners beat Minnesota Fighting Saints 4-1.

It was a chippy contest at Toronto with the Toros' Rick Cunningham squaring off against Cleveland's Steve Cardwell in the main bout.

"They are always chippy hockey games between Cleveland and Toronto," said Leduc. "I think it stems back from last year when we had a tough play-off series."

Leduc was pleased with hs team's performance including the goaltending of Gilles Gratton who settled down after giving up an easy goal on a long shot by Al McDonough early in the second period.

Second-period goals by Paul Henderson and Tom Simpson quickly wiped out the Cleveland lead and Vaclav Nedomansky improved the Toros' margin to 3-1 when he beat Cleveland goalie Gerry Cheevers after Gratton sent him away with a clearing pass.

Bobby Hull scored his 46th goal of the season as Winnipeg rallied from a 3-1 first-period deficit to tie the game at Winnipeg after 40 minutes of play.

But, at 8:02 of the overtime period, New England defenceman Paul Hurley scored his first goal of the season to give the Whalers the victory.

New England goalie Al Smith had a busy night facing 42 shots while the Jets' Kurt Larsson made 28 saves.

A bench-clearing brawl at Phoenix, started by an exchange between Minnesota's Jack Carlson and Roadrunner John Hughes, helped pushed the game's penalty total to 206 minutes.

The brawl itself started with less than three minutes to play in the game, ended with 156 minutes assessed.

Phoenix had clinched the victory long before the big brawl with goals by Jim Boyd, Don Borgeson and Rob Florek in the first 30 minutes of play.

TAKES FLYING LEAD

IRONWOOD, Mich. (AP) — Jerry Martin of the United States took a commanding first-day lead in the North American ski flying championships with a record leap of 482 feet on his third and final leap of the day. The jump eclipsed the mark of 476 feet he set earlier Friday, which in turn broke the 472-feet standard set last year.

Only 13 Shots, Petes Get Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Despite managing only 13 shots on goal, Peterborough Petes edged Sudbury Wolves 3-2 in Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A action Friday, snapping Sudbury's home unbeaten streak at eight games.

Fifth-place Sudbury fired 35 shots at goaltender Greg Millen before 3,649 spectators.

Tony Cassolato's second goal early in the third period proved to be the winner. Stan Jonathan added a single goal for Peterborough, now in second place and trailing Toronto Marlboros by 12 points.

Reese Dobrick and Alex McKendry scored Sudbury goals in the second period.

Peterborough took one of the four minor penalties. Each team received two fighting majors and game misconducts.

In other league action Friday, London Knights dumped Kingston Canadians 11-6, Kitchener Rangers and Toronto Marlboros played to a 6-6 tie, Hamilton Fincups dumped St. Catharines Black Hawks 6-3 and Ottawa '67s downed Oshawa Generals 8-3.

Play resumes tonight with Ottawa visiting Oshawa. London travels to Kingston and Ottawa is in St. Catharines.

Knights 11 Canadians 6

Bill Beauchamp, Rick Martin and Ron Zanussi led a 27-point London attack with two goals each before a home crowd of 2,404 spectators.

Other London scorers were Tom Rowe, Vern Stenlund, Rick Green, Terry Martin and Jim Hamilton.

Defenceman Mark Suzor scored three goals for the 10th-place Canadians, with Alex Forsyth, Mike Crombeen and Barry Scully getting the others.

London took period leads of 2-1 and 8-4 for their highest goal output this season and outshot Kingston 45-31.

Rangers 6 Marlboros 6

Dan Djakalovic and Dwight Foster each scored twice to earn last-place Kitchener a tie in the first game between league-leading Toronto and the Rangers since Kitchener coach Jim Morrison took over for Eddie Bush, who was fired.

John Baby and Mike Yosurack also scored for Kitchener, playing at home. Lynn Jorgenson scored twice for Toronto while single goals went to John Tonelli, Bruce Boudreau, Craig Crawford and John Anderson.

Each team fired 48 shots on goal.

Fincups 6 Hawks 3

Hamilton scored three unanswered goals in the first period as they outshot St. Catharines 52-20 and left themselves one point behind Peterborough.

Kam Brothers, Rick Seiling, Dale McCourt, Jack Anderson, Greg Hickey and Mike Kealing scored for Hamilton, playing at home before 2,286 spectators.

Rick Adduono scored twice for sixth-place St. Catharines and Bill Hamilton added a single goal.

'67s 8 Generals 3

Tim Young's second-period goal for Ottawa brought his league-leading scoring total to 126 points, including 45 goals and 81 assists.

DICK BYRD (left) discusses course charts with Bay of Quinte Yacht Club Fleet Captain, Bev Quincey. Byrd will, again this year be in charge of the BQYC contingent manning courses at the pre-Olympic regatta this summer in Kingston. The regatta builds towards the Olympics in 1976 when all the sailing competition will be held in Kingston.

Members of Yacht Club Again Involved in CORK

Bay of Quinte Yacht Club will again be involved in CORK (Canadian Olympic Racing Kingston) when the pre-Olympic sailing event is held in Kingston next July.

Personnel from the club ran Course Delta at CORK last year and have been invited to assist again in 1975. The Belleville club supervised the races for International 14s, 505s and Fireballs.

CORK has been running since 1969 and is designed as an Olympic calibre regatta to assist Canadian Olympic hopefuls. Dave Miller, of Vancouver, won a bronze medal in the Soling class at the 1970 Kiel Olympic.

Kingston will be the site of the 1976 Olympics and the experience BQYC members will gain at CORK will be put to use during the international event. Those club members who worked at CORK have been asked to commit themselves to running a course during the sailing Olympics. Among those involved are Dick Bird, Ernie Colebourne, Bill Finkle, Grant Rathbun, Bob Sears and Peter Cox.

BQYC veterans of the annual Around the County race have the experience necessary to remain on the open lake all day under any conditions.

The Olympic courses are not held off Kingston, but southwest of Kingston off Amherst Island, in Lake Ontario. They could be as far as 12 miles out in the lake from the Olympic site at Collins Bay. The races must be held in the open lake to eliminate the effects land has on wind direction and velocity.

Large and seaworthy boats will be needed for work boats, towing, rescue and patrol. The course director must make snap decisions on a few second's notice on course changes and starts.

Terriers Top Comets

ORILLIA, Ont. (CP) — Orillia Terriers defeated Napanee Comets 8-6 in the only Ontario Hockey Association Senior A game Friday.

Stan Gross paced the Terriers with two goals. Brothers, Barry and Danny Lutes, Paul Dickson, Jim MacPherson, Bob Kane and Dave McCullagh got one each.

Rick Gerow and John McConnell each scored twice for Napanee, with Winston Dowdell and Dick Cherry adding the others.

The Terriers moved inot a 3-0 lead in the first period and 5-3 going into the third period.

Napanee outshot Orillia 40-37.

League play resumes Sunday with Brantford Foresters hosting Whitby MacDonald's and Orillia visiting Napanee.

Chris Advances

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Chris Evert won a revenge match Friday night over Martina Navratilova and moved into today's semi-final round of the $75,000 women's professional tennis tournament.

Miss Evert, 20, seeded No. 1 in the tournament, put the 18-year-old Czechoslovakian away handily 6-3, 6-1 with powerful baseline shots and fine service returns. She will face England's Virginia Wade.

Miss Navratilova defeated Miss Evert in the quarter-final round of the pro tour stop in Washington last week.

In another quarter-final match, second-seeded Margaret Court of Australia easily defeated Julie Heldman of the U.S., 6-3, 6-3. Mrs. Court takes on Russia's Olga Morozova in another semi-final.

NAME GOLF SITE

TORONTO (CP) — The 1976 Canadian Open golf championshhip has been awarded to Essex Golf and Country Club at Windsor, Ont., the Royal Canadian Golf Association announced Friday. The new Open site came about because of "unfavorable growing conditions" preventing Glen Abbey, in Oakville—permanent home of the Canadian championship beginning in 1980—to be used in 1976.

Claim Hunsperger

Argos Not About To Miss Again

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts admit they made a mistake in failing to put in a bid for running back Mack Herron when he was waived out of the Canadian Football League after the 1972 season. They don't want to be accused of making a similar mistake.

John Barrow, the Argos managing director, says that's why they claimed Garrett Hunsperger, British Columbia Lions defensive tackle, who was put on waivers without right of recall Thursday.

Hunsperger, 26, a six-foot-four 255-pound graduate of Central Missouri who joined the Lions in 1969, was offered on waivers after being ordered to pay $15,500 damages for beating three men last spring.

He and a former team-mate, Bud Magrum, were involved in two incidents last April and May and Magrum was ordered to pay $3,000 in the civil action.

Barrow says it was solely his decision to claim Hunsperger.

"I'm not a judge or jury and I feel the very least I can do is talk to Hunsperger and hear what he has to say for himself.

"I don't see how I can arbitrarily pass on a player of his ability. If, after hearing him out and weighing the consequences, I think his presence would jeopardize the club, I'll put him back on waivers."

Barrow was asked why Argos had passed on Herron after the Winnipeg Blue Bombers back was charged with possession of drugs and was placed on waivers following the 1972 season. Herron cleared the CFL and became a standout with New England Patriots of the National Football League.

"In retrospect, I feel I personally made an error by not putting in a claim for Herron," Barrow said. "I felt at the time that the adverse publicity would be a major problem.

"That was a mistake. We should have at least talked to Herron. A friend on the Patriots coaching staff tells me Herron did a complete reversal in attitude and is one of the best-motivated players on the club."

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Robert Schmertz, owner of Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association, and Donald Safran, an insurance consultant, have pleaded not guilty to bribery conspiracy charges. Schmertz was free without bail Friday while Safran was released on a $1,000 personal recognizance bond. They were indicted Wednesday, accused of paying $31,730 in bribes to a local mayor in connection with construction of a $200-million senior citizens project.

Madawaska Cup Is on the Line

BANCROFT: The sixth annual running of the Madawaska Cup Snowmobile Races in Bancroft is slated for February 22 and 23.

The races, which are sponsored by the Bancroft-Cardiff Kinsmen Club, will be worth approximately $5,000 in cash prizes.

The Madawaska Cup is a "B" sanctioned event by the Ontario Snowmobile Racing Federation and includes races for most classes of machines.

The schedule of events lists amateur stock 350 cc., two junior 250 cc races, modified stock 250 and 440 cc., ladies 340 and 440 cc., super stock 250, 340 and 440 cc., open modified 340 and 440 and unlimited.

The race program from the first day is duplicated on the second and the major prizes are awarded on a total points system.

The actual Madawaska Cup prize for first place is accompanied by $250 cash, the second place IGA Trophy carries $100 and the third place winner will get the Vance Motors Arctic Cat trophy and $50.

Race prize money for each day will be $2500.

The local service club will also be holding a Madawaska Cup dance on February 22 in the North Hastings Community Centre.

In 1974, approximately 200 entries were registered for the event and another 2,000 enthusiasts watched from the banks.

Registrations will open daily at 8 a.m. and the races will get under way at noon.

The race course is set up in Kelusky's field on Highway 62 about one mile north of the village centre.

Bies Moves To Lead

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — There was a wistful quality to Don Bies' voice when he said: "I feel that somewhere along the way I deserve to win one."

He hasn't won a title in six full years on the professional golf tour. But the 37-year-old Bies took a major step in the right direction Friday when he slipped, almost unobserved, past Johnny Miller and into the third-round lead in the $160,000 Bob Hope Desert golf tournament.

Bies took his surprise lead with a six-under-par 66 that vaulted him one stroke in front of Miller and Tom Shaw.

Bies had a 54-hole total of 204, 10 under par with 36 holes to go in this unique, five-day, 90-hole event that is spread over four desert courses.

Miller, who established a three-stroke lead after two rounds and appeared ready to score another runaway victory, and Shaw were at 205. Miller went to a scrambly par 72 and Shaw had a 69.

A CHAT ON CHECKING

Teams which have players who check all the time are bound to perform well. In the first months of this year's National Hockey League schedule, Los Angeles Kings, Philadelphia Flyers, Buffalo Sabres and Vancouver Canucks were excellent examples of teams which won the majority of their games because of hard work and checking.

The process is simple, and while it might not offer the most exciting brand of hockey, checking usually guarantees wins and good chances at league championships.

Checking can be done in two ways. First, one can use his body to step in front of the man. Size doesn't matter in this case because even the smallest players can eliminate big men by simply standing in front of them.

Ron Ellis of Toronto Maple Leafs, J.P. Parise of New York Islanders and Bobby Clarke of Philadelphia Flyers are but three examples of players who are determined to check their opponents. In the pictures, you'll notice Dave Keon of the Leafs setting me off stride by applying the second phase of checking: using the stick.

I check players more with my stick than with my body and because of this I must be sure not to commit several moves which will take me out of the play.

For instance, I must never reach out as far forward as I can go because I will put myself off balance and allow a player to get around me. Instead, I keep the stick close to my body when I reach so that if the man does get by me, I'll be able to recover and chase him.

Another thing to try and do is to make certain that if you miss with the stick check you can use your body to knock your man off stride. When you look at it, checking is what hockey is all about because if your team stresses checking, staying on the wings and hustling, chances are other teams won't score many goals against you.

BIRTHS

McCoy — Shirley and Michael of Belleville, are happy to announce the birth of their son, Jason Christopher, 8 lbs., 8½ oz., born at the Belleville General Hospital on Thursday, February 7. First grandchild for Mr. and Mrs. Keith McCoy and a first grandson for Mr. and Mrs. Ken Chestnut. Special thanks to Dr. Manderville, Dr. Hartt, Dr. Pearce and the staff of the maternity.

IN MEMORIAM

POULOS, George — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, George Poulos, whi passed away February 9, 1973.

Those whom we love go out of sight,
But never out of mind,
They are cherished in the hearts,
Of those they left behind.
Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just in all his days,
Sincere and true in heart and mind,
Beautiful memories he left behind.

—Ever remembered by his loving wife, Betty, son John and daughter Marie.

CARDS OF THANKS

I could never express in words the feeling I have for my family, friends and neighbors for their many acts of kindness for all the treats, cards, visits and letters of encouragement while I was a patient in Belleville and Kingston hospitals. I would also like to thank the Fire Department for the lovely box of fruit, also Springbrook Mixed Bowling League for the beautiful plant, the IOOF 429 for the box of fruit, LOL 110 for the guest book, and for all those who prayed for my recovery. Again thanks to you all so very much.

Murney C. Bateman,
R.R. 1, Springbrook, Ont.

ENGAGEMENTS

The forthcoming marriage is announced of Marilyn Elizabeth McDonald (Fairbrother) of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Fairbrother and the late Mr. Walter Fairbrother, to Mr. Clifford Benson Whiteman, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Earl Whiteman of Cooper, Ontario. Marriage will take place at Bridge Street United Church Chapel on March 8, 1975 at 4 p.m.

TAKE THE RISK OUT OF BUYING A COLOR TV
RENT FROM CIRCLE TV

With option to buy and full rental rebate. Are you worried about getting a "lemon" in a TV? Well relax! Circle TV will rent you a brand new 1975 Electrohome TV for a reasonable period. If at the end of that time you are happy with the set, as we know you will be, then the rental charge will be applied against the purchase price. Or, if you wish, you can continue to rent the set. If you are not satisfied though, we will take the TV back with no further obligation on your part. Do you know a better way to take the risk out of buying a TV?

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Sunday, Feb. 9

Aries (March 21-April 19) You'll experience a few minor setbacks today, but you'll realize your foremost aim. Don't let trifles upset you.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) You have been a shade too stubborn in holding on to an idea of little value. You'll now start to loosen your grip a bit.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Situations affecting your resources still can't be treated indifferently, though some bright spots will emerge shortly.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Partnership matters are still your most critical area but it appears a moderating influence will bring more harmony.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) You are still less careful than you should be where work is concerned, but you are getting better. Pace yourself sensibly.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A misunderstanding with a pal can be settled amicably today. Each of you will be willing to compromise a bit.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Things will still be a mite hectic around home early in the day, but calm will begin to prevail toward dark.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Something you were angered by yesterday is still in the back of your mind. Today, you'll treat it more philosophically.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Continue to be extremely prudent where your resources are concerned. Lend others advic, not funds, if a request is made.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You will profit from something you learned in handling a touchy relationship. Today you will apply your lesson wisely.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Something you did for another that caused you considerable inconvenience will, surprisingly, be rewarded.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) When you get together with some friends today, you are apt to feel a trifle tense. Later you will lossen up.

North's five notrump response was one of those modern scientific bids. It demanded that South bid his lowest four-card suit. When South bid six spades, North knew his partner held four spades and three cards in each other suit. This discouraged North and he settled for letting South play what should have been an easy six notrump.

It didn't work out that way. South won the diamond lead, cashed dummy's ace of clubs and led low to his jack and West's queen. West promptly led back the 10 of clubs and East discarded a heart. He could afford this because he knew that South held just three hearts.

Now South cashed all the hearts and the last two diamonds. Everyone followed. West knew from the bidding that South only held three diamonds, so he dropped the 10 and nine and hung on to the seven.

South cashed dummy's ace and queen of spades; led a third spade and thought. West was known to have a club as one of his last two cards. Was the other the seven of diamonds or the jack of spades? South guessed wrong and was one down.

The hand wasn't a triumph for science, but it wasn't a tragedy either.

The game was team of four; at the other table the grand slam was bid and somehow or other South managed to go down two.

A — Bid six spades. Your partner is trying for a slam. You are delighted to bid it. At the same time you have definitely told him that you don't hold the ace of hearts.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding three diamonds your partner has bid three hearts over your three clubs. What do you do now?

Cubans Already Count Profits From World's Sugar Dependency

MIAMI (AP) — The government of Fidel Castro is already counting its projected sugar profits from the world's underprodution and overconsumption of the suddenly precious commodity.

As the world's largest producer of sugar cane, Cuba has taken these recent actions to shake loose a large percentage of its crop for dumping on the world market at record-high prices:

—It has joined with 19 other Latin-American and Caribbean sugar-producing countries in an attempt to control price and production.

—It is trying to get out from under some of its long-term commitments to Communist-bloc and free-world countries, which tie up more than two-thirds of its sugar at lower-than-world-market prices.

—It is cutting domestic consumption by imposing yet lower sugar quotas on its eight million people.

Representatives from 20 countries met privatelyy on the remote Mexcian island of Cozumel last November to discuss the world sugar market. Spearheaded by Cuba, Mexico, Brazil, Argetina and the Dominican Republic, sugar officials from Latin America and the Caribbean laid plans to set up a "co-ordinating organization to protect the interests of the exporting countries", as a Mexican government announcement put it.

The countries involved market more than 60 per cent of the world's exports. Some 35 million tons of their production goes to the United States.

Critics of U.S. policy, including American growers, say Congress added to the possibility that sugar prices will remain high for years by allowing the 40-year-old Sugar Act to die. Under the act, foreign suppliers except Cuba were assigned quotas for shipment to the U.S., the world's largest consumer. This sugar was often bought below the world price in recent years.

After the act expired Jan. 1, foreign producers were no longer obliged to ship sugar to the U.S. This may lead to shortages in the domestic market and even higher prices, these critics say.

Although the American market has been closed to Cuba since 1964, Castro has had no trouble selling its crop to Russia, Eastern Europe and such non-Communist countries as England, Spain, France and Japan.

Most of its production is tied up in long-term agreements, much of it on a barter basis.

Dr. Leon Goure of the University of Miami Centre for International Studies, who monitors Soviet and Cuban trade practices, says the Soviet Union buys roughly 30 per cent and other Communist-bloc countries an equal percentage. An undetermined amount of the remaining 40 per cent is tied up in agreements with free-world countries.

Castro said in a recent speech that Cuba would honor its contracts.

To Your Good Health

Milk Not Only Calcium Source

By G. HOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. hosteson: My mother has osteoporosis, and we would like to know more about it. She has the shrinking that goes with it.

Is there any treatment for it? What about diet? Would the drinking of whole milk help her? She never drinks milk or eats butter, having an aversion to both.—A.N.

Osteoporosis is a loss of bone substance, a condition that can occur in either sex but is most common in women after the menopause. About one in four women get it to some degree or other.

The loss of bone substance causes a collapse of the bones of the spinal olumn, along with the familiar redution in height (the shrinking). There may also be the humping of the upper back found in many older women. Limbs become more prone to fracture from falls or even from trivial injuries.

The exact cause of osteoporosis is still debated, but ther is some relationship between it and a decrease in ovarian hormone secretion that accompanies menopause.

Your mother's aversion to milk products may not be coincidental. Many women in this age group have a poor calcium intake. Many drink little if any milk. It has also been found in some that the parathyroid gland, which is involved in calcium metabolism, is malfunctioning.

But even without milk consumption, calcium intake need not be a problem with the advent of calcium supplements, either tablet or liquid.

For years, treatment of osteoporosis consisted of a high-protein diet to strengthen the weakening bone structure, use of female hormones, and administration of calcium. recently, sodium fluoride has entered the picture. This tends to lessen the loss of calcium from the bone substance. Your mother should probably be taking estrogen.

Unfortunately little can be done at this point to undo the damage already inflicted in terms of correcting the "shrinking' you mention. But worsening of her condition can be prevented with appropriate treatment. This can take from four to six months before effects are noted. But at least susceptibility to further brittleness of the bones can be minimized.

Women should be aware of the possibility of osteoporosis occurring. After menopause is often too late. Those who like milk shuld include enough in the kitchen supply to allow themselves a quart a day, if possible.

Proper education could cut down the incidence of this disease.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am writing about my fingernails and toenails. The skin doctor says it is onychomycosis. I took Griseofulvin and I keep my nails short. Will it ever get better? I am 62—Mrs. D.W.

Onychomycosis (also called ringworm of the nails) is caused by a fungus infection. Griseofulvin is a fungicide which is usually effective.

It must be taken over a long period of time because the growth of the nails is so slow. Attention to the cuticle is important since this may harbor the fungus and cause recurrence.

Meticulous attention to foot hygiene is important.

Wash the feet daily and use clean hose. Dust the shoes with an anti-fungal powder to get rid of any fungus that might be lurking there.

Avoid going barefoot around the house. Better still, discourage this among all members of your household.

Judge Sees Self as Buffer Between Old and New Ways

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — As the sole Supreme Court judge in the Northwest Territories, Mr. Justice William G. Morrow of Yellowknife sees his role as that of a buffer "between people coming out of a stone-age way of life and a fully-industrialized intrusion from the sophisticated south."

"The more recent oil and gas explorations, with the current promise of a pipeline down the Mackenzie River promise to complicate the situation still further," he says.

"With the scare that came with the recent energy crisis and the ever-increasing demand for the resources known to be present in the Northwest Territories, the next few years promise to be challenging ones indeed for the Circuit Court of the North."

Writing in Judicature, monthly magazine of the 47,000-member American Judicature Society, Mr. Justice Morrow describes one of his typical circuits.

An Eskimo in the remote settlement of Spence Bay was charged with rape. While out on bail he got into trouble again and wound up facing a second rape charge.

Mr. Justice Morrow decided that to ensure a fair trial the two cases would be heard at separate communities, Cambridge Bay and Inuvik.

On a Monday, the court plane took off from Yellowknife, the capital of the territories, for a 530-mile flight to Cambridge Bay.

"While we proceeded to choose the jury for the first trial, the court plane was sent to Spence Bay, 310 miles away, to collect the witnesses and the two complainants for both trials. The next day the case was concluded, the defendant being convicted of common assault.

"Next morning the court party took off for Inuvik, some 600 miles distant. In addition to judge, clerk, court reporter and both counsel, we now had the accused with police escort, the second complainant and two witnesses for the second case."

Halfway to Inuvik, Mr. Justice Morrow had the pilot land at Cape Perry, a Distant Early Warning radar line base, where the plaintiff in an uncontested divorce case was waiting at the landing strip. With the outside temperature 20 below, the hearing was held on the plane. Then it was off again to Inuvik, where a jury was chosen to hear the second case.

The second case was concluded on Thursday and Friday saw the full group fly back to Yellowknife where the convicted Eskimo was put in a correctiona linstitute The complainant and witnesses were flown back to Spence Bay.

Lack of traditional courtroom trappings are no barriers to the effective administration of justice for Mr. Justice Morrow, who has occupied his Far North post since 1966. The territories has a population of 39,000.

Mr. Justice Morrow has convened court in schoolrooms, warehouses, community halls, log cabins or whatever facility is available. Once he held an adoption hearing on a plane in flight.

One big problem is that there is no word for guilty in the Eskimo language and in some of the Indian dialects. As a result, Mr. Justice Morrow says "a great deal of care is taken to ensure that an accused person really understands the charge and what is meant by a plea."

He cites the appeal case of Koonungak, an Eskimo accused of illegally shooting a muskox. The presiding justice of the peace asked Koonungak if he had shot the animal and the Eskimo said yes. This was taken as a plea of guilty.

"Actually, what had happened was that the animal was an outcast bull that was threatening the community."

The transition of the territories from frontier to settled community life has continually tested the ingenuity of Mr. Justice Morrow and his predecessor, Mr. Justice John Howard Sissons, the first judge of the Territorial Court, which became the Supreme Court in 1972.

They have heard cases about witchcraft, hunting rights, custom marriage, custom adoptions and so on. In one case, involving the illegal shooting of a polar bear by an Eskimo named Tootalik offshore on the sea ice, Mr. Justice Morrow set aside a guilty plea "when it became apparent there might be a lawful defense."

"Before the case was over, I had to rule on Canadian sovereignty over the sea ice."

The law in the territories is enforced by the RCMP. Mr. Justice Morrow says the RCMP has been outstandingly successful in winning the respect, trust and friendship of the population—perhaps too much so.

The court has to be ever alert to be sure an untutored native hasn't made a possibly self-incriminating statement simply because he thought that would make the Mountie happy.

"The Northwest Territories are going through a rapid transition—from a fur-trading economy to a sophisticated mining way of life," Mr. Justice Morrow says.

"The movement is too rapid for the native people to adapt to and the court is caught in the middle. Only history will tell if these changes can take place without the total destruction of Canada's original northern inhabitants."

Monday's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol
Monday, February 10

Aries (March 21-April 19) Something you're counting on through a friend won't come off on schedule. Circumstances beyond your pal's control cause the delay.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) You won't derive as much satisfaction from a goal realized as you thought you would. Other events will overshadow it.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Your memory today will prove an undependable ally. Better to make lists or notes to refer to.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Business or commercial dealings today will be trickier than usual. Some relevant information may be kept from you.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Before committing yourself to any type of binding agreement, seek expert counsel to be sure it's legal and proper.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22 Be alert so that a co-worker doesn't take credit for something in front of the boss that you should be credited for.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Expectations regarding a social involvement with a friend are a bit too high. Lower your sights. Don't be disappointed.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A petty domestic issue that has caused you some frustrations is drawing to an end, if you let events take care of themselves.

Sagittarius (Nov 23-Dec. 21) There will be delay in receiving news you're expecting. It's best to wait till you receive it before making your next move.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be especially prudent today in management of material affairs. Count your change carefully. Get receipts.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A project you will begin now will have long-range benefits. Be patient. Once you've mapped your course, stick with it.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) An old plan that has outlived its usefulness will be discarded as a new and better one slowly begins to blossom.

Senator 'Confused'

U.S. 'Vets' Train Arabs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators Henry Jackson and Hubert Humphrey have called for a congressional investigation of the United States defence department's contract with a private corporation to train Saudi Arabian troops to protect oil wells in the Persian Gulf.

Jackson (Dem. Wash.) said he would ask Senator John Stennis, Dem. Miss.), chairman of the Senate armed services committee, to conduct hearings.

"Only a short time ago the president and secretary of state indicated the option of U.S. military action might be considered under certain circumstances in the Middle East," Jackson said in a telephone interview Sunday.

He said the contract to train Saudi troops was "confusing," since "we're the only ones who've raised an inference of a threat."

Humphrey, (Dem. Minn.), in calling for an investigation of the contract, said: "The possibility of having American forces training another country's troops in the Mideast is fraught with danger. . . .

"I think the armed services committees of the House (of Representatives) and Senate should promptly look into it and see what it involves," Humphrey said in a telephone interview Sunday.

The defence department's $77-million contract with the Vinnell Corp. of Los Angeles was disclosed Sunday by The Associated Press.

Vinnell is hiring former U.S. special forces soldiers and other war veterans to send to Saudi Arabia on a job usually handled by the U.S. government—training a foreign army to fire its weapons and fight wars.

There apparently is no shortage of experienced recruits for the 1,000-man force Vinnell is assembling to train Saudi Arabia's 26,000-man internal security force, which is responsible for protecting the rich Saudi oil fields and providing body guards for the Saudi Arabian royal family.

The president of Vinnell, John Hamill, told The AP he received 10 applications for every available job after he placed two modest advertisements in newspapers serving two U.S. military bases.

Retired army colonel William Walby, 49, training director for the Vinnell project, said the Vinnell recruits would pull out of Saudi Arabia in the event of any U.S. military action involving the oil fields. "I couldn't even imagine such an action, but it seems to me that would end any involvement of ours in the program," he said.

The contract was awarded last month. The Vinnell force is to assemble in Saudi Arabia in July to start the training sessions.

An incentive to former military men to join Vinnell is the pay: from $1,500 to $1,800 a month on an 18-month contract, with a $2,400 bonus at the end. In addition, most of them have healthy military pensions ranging from $10,000 to $14,000 a year.

Kissinger Given Warm Send-off

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger carried a warm endorsement from President Ford as he headed for the Middle East today to sound out Egyptian and Israeli leaders on prospects for another disengagement agreement.

Kissinger's first stop on the fact-finding mission is Jerusalem, where he will confer with Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and other Israeli leaders.

At the airport, Ford clasped Kissinger's hand and said: "You have my strong support and the blessings of 213 million Americans. We look forward to the kind of success you have achieved in the past."

A Barrel of Fun

Part of the fun on Tweed's main street for the weekend winter carnival was barrel rolling. Several rundred persons enjoyed the tug-o-war, egg-throwing, and then this barrel rolling. Several hundred persons enjoyed the erratic courses up and down, and from side to side, on main street. Eritrean Peace Aim Of Sudan

ADDIS ABABA (AP) — Sudan's foreign minister has come to Addis Ababa to try to negotiate a ceasefire in the war between Ethiopia's military government and rebel guerrillas in Eritrea province.

Foreign Minister Gamal Mohammed Ahmed was reported to have brought ceasefire proposals with him, but no details were released. However, the Ethiopian government has said repeatedly that it would never agree to the secession of Eritrea, a former Italian colony which Emperor Haile Selassie annexed 13 years ago.

The Eritrean Liberation Front (ELF) has been waging a sporadic guerrilla campaign for independence since then, but the fighting was intensified with attacks Jan. 31 on government military installations in Asmara, the Eritrean province.

Nixon Says PC Regime Breaks Up

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Ontario Liberal Leader Robert Nixon told a party convention during the weekend that he will restore government integrity when he topples the Progressive Conservatives in the next provincial election which may be "months, maybe only weeks away."

He told 1,300 delegates that the integrity of Premier William Davis' government is in doubt because of "news reports of their political troubles" and the "seemingly endless streams of scandals and indescretions."

He said the reports are "signs of a government that is disintegrating after 32 years of uninterrupted power."

He also predicted that Mr. Davis will face a "devastating" defeat in 1976 if he avoids voters this year.

Mr. Nixon, whose father was the last Liberal premier of Ontario, said pensioners, Northern Ontario residents and new Canadians are "thwarted in their attempts to get satisfaction from a remote and impersonal administation."

He promised to restore decision-making powers to local government.

Seven federal cabinet ministers and some federal MPs joined provincial Liberals at the convention, which ended Sunday.

Truce Called By IRA

BELFAST (AP) — The Irish Republican Army (IRA) begins a new ceasefire tonight. But the killing of three Roman Catholics in less than 12 hours heightened fears that Protestant extremists would sabotage the new truce.

Two Catholics were killed and another wounded by an attack on a crowd of worshipers leaving a Catholic church Sunday night. And this morning gunmen in a passing car killed a 19-year-old Catholic roadsweeper in East Belfast.

The IRA's Provisional wing announced it would suspend its guerrilla war at 6 p.m. (1 p.m. EST). No time limit for the ceasefire was set, but London newspapers reported an IRA spokesman in Dublin warned: "This is only a peace initiative. A permanent ceasefire is still a long way off."

William Craig, leader of the extremist Protestant Vanguard Movement, said the IRA's Catholic leaders probably were trying "to gain credibility and win a breathing space." He demanded the Catholic guerrillas "surrender of their arms."

Two hours before the IRA announcement Sunday night, two gunmen opened fire on the crowd leaving 7 p.m. mass at St. Bridget's Church in Belfast, killing two young men and wounding a third, and then escaped in a car stolen in a Protestant area of Belfast. Police blamed Protestant extremists.

Twelve persons have now died since the IRA Provos ended a Christmas truce on Jan. 16 after 25 days. The official death toll from 5½ years of violence in Northern Ireland has risen to 1,155.

The Provos gave no explanation for their new ceasefire except to say it came after discussions with British officials "on effective arrangements to ensure that there is no breakdown of a new truce."

Ontario Indians Fish in Protest

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — More than 100 Indians from across the province demonstrated for four hours in the middle of Curve Lake Saturday, protesting provincial interference with what they claim are native rights to fish for their own use on Indian land.

The lake is about 20 miles northwest of here.

They fished through half a dozen holes in the ice, in defiance of provincial wildlife authorities, who watched early stages of the demonstration from shore.

Three weeks ago, the authorities charged three unemployed members of the Curve Lake band for fishing out of season in the same spot, about a half mile northeast of the reserve towards Fox Island.

Percy Swansen, fish and wildlife supervisor for the Kawarthas Lakes region, said Sunday that authorities didn't "want any confrontation" with the group, comprising Indians from more than 10 Ontario reserves.

Rhodesian Settlement Not Enough

Black Rule in South Africa Is Said Black Africa's Aim

DAR ES SALAAM (AP) — Black Africa will insist on black rule in South Africa and will never agree to apartheid even if the blacks get control of Rhodesia and South-West Africa, Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere says.

"The majority of people in South Africa will continue demanding the rights of democracy that have been denied to them and Africa will continue supporting them," Nyerere said in an interview.

"You can't say majority rule is all right in Rhodesia but because South Africa is an independent state then majority rule is not an objective of Africa."

Nyerere conceded that the South African government "responded to the new changes and said, 'Look, is there a possibility of bringing changes in southern Africa peacefully?' " But he warned:

"There can't be peace until that peace is attached to freedom. It's no use (South Africa) saying, 'We will support minority rule in Rhodesia but we want peace,' or 'We will not grant independence to Namibia (South-West Africa) but we want peace.' This is ridiculous."

South Africa's white minority government has announced minor modifications of its apartheid policy of racial segregation. But Nyerere, one of black Africa's moderate leaders, said the continent's black majority will not be satisfied with even modified apartheid.

Nyerere has played a leading role, along with South African Prime Minister John Vorster and President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia, in trying to arrange political negotiations between the white minority government and black nationalist leaders in Rhodesia. He said he doesn't have "very much optimism" that Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith is going to agree to rule by the black majority "but this has to be found out by the Rhodesian nationalists when they talk."

He rejected proposals putting off majority rule for five years. He said that Rhodesian blacks "want independence yesterday" and "to talk about 1980 is to talk about war."

However, Nyerere said the Rhodesian nationalists would have "plenty of patience provided they know what the state of affairs is. If their leaders feel these talks have a chance of delivering the goods, that will produce the necessary patience. If that feeling is not there, then there will not be any patience."

Palmer Road Highrise Changes Owners Again

By CASH MAHAFFY
Staff Reporter

The on-again, off-again highrise apartment on Palmer Rd., plagued throughout its short life by financial problems, has changed hands again. And when legal and financial loose ends are tied up, the building should be completed and ready for fall occupancy by April 1.

It was announced Sunday that Starmount Investments Ltd., represented by Marcel Goldhagen of Toronto, had sold the building to Val Park Corporation of Kingston, represented by Antonio Valente and George Parkhurst, for $2,455,000.

Sale is contingent on expected approval of the assumption of mortgages totalling $2,150,000 by the purchasers, who put up $135,000 in cash and will assume a short-term third mortgage provided by Starmount for the balance.

Construction on the 15-storey building was begun in late 1972 by original owners, Wenfair Developments of Toronto. It was halted in September, 1973, and the building sat idle until it was bought in July, 1974, by Starmount.

As Starmount spokesman Marcel Goldhagen explained Sunday, mortgage financing didn't keep up with rising building costs and there was no provision for relief.

"Now," he said, "both federal and provincial governments have recognized the problems developers face and the money needed to complete the project is available."

Mr. Goldhagen said available money will make it possible to clear up outstanding accounts and complete the building.

At present only 16 apartments in the 114-unit building are rented. It is impossible to rent above the fourth floor because of the lack of elevator service, but this should be remedied within two weeks.

Antonia Valente, representing Kingston's Portuguese community, many of whom are participants in the transaction, said about 60 units are ready for occupancy and that renting will begin immediately through the supervisor on the site.

Arsonist Uses Letter Slot To Start Fire in Madoc P.O.

By RACHAEL SPENCER
Staff Correspondent

MADOC — An official from the Ontario Fire Marshal's office today is investigating cause of a fire — blamed on arson — that caused an estimated $15,000 damage to this village's post office.

Provincial police said the fire started when an inflammable substance was dropped through the letter slot in the one-storey federal building on Davidson St. about 9:30 p.m. Sunday.

Post office and volunteer firefighters were quickly on the scene, after smoke was spotted in the building and, said police, there was little damage to mail. Letters and parcels, in canvas mailbags, were hauled to safety.

Paul McKerracher, fire marshal's inspector stationed in Belleville, is assisting provincial police here in the investigation.

George Burchill, assistant area postmaster at Belleville said this morning the fire had not interrupted operations of the post office. He said he believed damage was confined to one corner of the building.

Local Radio Operators Play Vital Rally Role

Quinte area amateur radio operators did not encounter any problems in the performance of their duty during the 23rd running of the Canadian Winter Rally this weekend.

The Belleville district hams controlled the communications system in the Bancroft region, part of the 700-mile route between Camp Borden and Bancrost.

Howard Fralick of 59 Palmer Rd. in Belleville, operator of callsign VE3RL, was an assistant emergency co-ordinator for the system, which included control towers at Essonville and Maynooth.

"It turned out very well," he reported Sunday. "Everybody did their job."

The local hams operated in eight cars, forming part of the 65 mobile radio unit network along the entire route, he said.

His crew of hams handled five or six calls for assistance, including several accidents, he said. "There were about five, six or seven crackups in a 25-mile radius of Bancroft."

Mr. Fralick noted the communications supplied for the sites of those mishaps "avoided bad situations," by removing the possibility of a car colliding with a vehicle which was already in difficulty.

He said he could not guess at the number of calls logged by the communications centre in Bancroft but "there were a lot of them."

About 100 radio amateurs across southern Ontario participated in the system, reputed to be one of the largest co-ordinated amateur radio networks ever assembled.

Thieves Grab $840

CONSECON — The Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police is investigating a weekend robbery at the Hamlet Handy Food Market in Consecon that netted a thief or thieves $840 in cash.

The break-in was discovered by Constable Ed Rae during a routine patrol Sunday afternoon. A window in the upstairs apartment of store owner David Farmer was smashed to gain entry to the store.

Money taken from the cash register totalled $640 while a further $200 was stolen from the store's post office.

The breakin is believed to have occurred between 6 p.m. Saturday and 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Snowmobiler Injured

MARMORA — A woman was treated and released from hospital for injuries sustained when she was knocked from a snowmobile north of here Sunday.

Susan Cuddy was a passenger on her husband's machine which was struck by another snowmobile, near Beaver Creek, 12 miles north of here.

Mr. Cuddy sought help from David Reynolds, visiting the cottage of his father, Marmora reeve J. R. Reynolds. Mr. Reynolds drove his station wagon along a logging trail to the scene and took the injured woman to Campbellford Memorial Hospital.

Costly Park Prank

Ed Burley (left), general foreman of the city parks board, and workman John Bonter retrieve pieces of benches thrown onto the Moira River following vandalism at Panter Park sometime last last week. Vandels kicked in six out of seven benches and having the loose boards onto the ice. Cost of new lumber is estimated at over $30 and two parks employees were diverted from other duties for four hours.

Police Hold Five In $10,000 Theft

City police today said they are holding four men and a woman after theft of $10,000 from a St. Paul house during the weekend.

Detectives were still continuing inquiries today and the names of the five in custody would not be released until investigations are complete, said Police Chief Douglas Crosbie.

"We have recovered a little of the money," the chief said.

Scene of the robbery was the home of Walter Asselstine, 1146 St. Paul St.

Mr. Asselstine hauls cardboard waste from industry and downtown businesses.

The Asselstine family were helping run a dance at the nearby Bayshore Club on St. Paul St., Saturday night when the robbery occurred said Mrs. Irene Asselstine. The robbery was discovered about 1 a.m. Sunday when the couple's son, Bruce, 32, returned from the dance and found a door broken.

Two Mishaps Costly

BRIGHTON — A Campellford man sustained cuts and bruises Saturday when his car struck a patch of snow on Highway 30 north of here and rolled into a roadside ditch.

Treated for minor injuries at Trenton hospital was 19-year-old Patrick Terry Quinlan.

Police estimate damage to his car at $2,500.

In another accident Saturday in Brighton, Douglas Rightmeyer, 18 of RR 2 Codrington, was uninjured when he failed to negotiate a turn on George St. and rolled his car, provincial police here said. Damage was estimated at $600.

Yacht Club Robbed

PICTON — Town police today are investigating a weekend break-in at Prince Edward Yacht Club where an undetermined amount of cash was reported missing.

Picton Police Chief Charles Fletcher said the thief or thieves broke a window to enter the clubhouse. The break-in is believed to have occurred between 2 a.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. Sunday.

Cars Collide, Drivers Unhurt

ACTINOLITE — Two women escaped injury when their vehicles collided on the Old Flinton Rd., five miles north of Highway 7, Saturday.

Damage to a station wagon driven by Stephanie Chopak, Toronto, was estimated at $1,000 and $500 to a car driven by Debbie McNulty, 18, of Napanee.

Driver Sought

MADOC — Provincial police today are seeking an automobile that failed to stop after it struck a car on Highway 7 west of here early Sunday.

Damage was estimated at $500 to the car, driven by Russell Eaton, 46, RR3, Tweed.

Mr. Eaton and five passengers in his car were unhurt.

Police are seeking a turquoise blue, 1969 car with damage to its right rear.

Hockey Buffs Grab Most City Rinks

The city parks board has a problem at several of its 24 outdoor skating rinks — one not easily solved.

It involves older boys who take over the rinks for a game of shinny, preventing the younger children from enjoying a period of free skating.

"To date, we've had three complaints about larger boys taking over the rinks for hockey," said Ed Burley, parks general foreman, in a weekend interview.

To solve the issue, the board has attempted to establish smaller rinks at the troublesome spots for the younger skaters but there is always the risk of an unwary youngster getting hit by a flying puck, he said.

The board has tried erecting signs, but they were always torn down so about all parks officials can do is appeal to the puck-addicts and their parents to use some discretion, remarked Mr. Burley.

At one time, about one-quarter of the areas had boarded rinks designated for hockey only but high costs put a stop to that program.

"... we had to discontinue them because of the vandalism," he related. "They were awfully hard to maintain."

$3,055 Raised For Family

MARMORA — Rebuilding their burned-down home will be easier for the Joe McGrath family. Marmora area people have donated a total of $3,055.20 to aid the McGraths, whose home burnt to the ground over two weeks ago.

A benefit dance held in the Sacred Heart Parish Hall on Friday night raised $751.21 of the total sum. The balance was due to the efforts of Jim Hughes, Bill Doyle, and Harold Carmen. The three men went knocking on doors asking for contributions for the family who lost almost everything in the fire.

Thirty neighbors have volunteered to rebuild the McGrath home on Cordova Rd., and work on the foundation already is under way.

And Away We Go

Steve McConnell, 5, and his brother Brad, 2, were among the youngest participants in Athol Township's snowmobile-a-thon Sunday. Impatient for the big event to start the boys hopped aboard the family snowmobile to wait for their drive.

Snowmobilers Net $600 For Athol Hall Water

ATHOL — A snowmobile-a-thon organized by the Athol Township recreation committee Sunday raised more than $600 toward installation of water services at the community hall.

Philip Dodds, a member of the recreation committee, said 59 snowmobiles were registered for the 40-mile trail ride over country fields to Salmon Point, Milford and Point Petre.

He said the funds raised will be used for the installation of water services at Athol hall and also for community recreation.

The snowmobile-a-thon, an annual event, originally was scheduled for February 2 but lack of snow postponed the event.

This weekend, organizers decided the event could be held Sunday but time to gather pledges for the ride was cut short.

In earlier years, the snowmobile-a-thon has earned as much as $2,000 toward community recreation facilities.

Prizes were offered in Sunday's program for the entrants raising the most pledge money.

Winner of first prize of $50 for gathering the highest amount in pledges was David Galway of RR8, Picton. Runners-up were Mrs. Leland Ostrander of Cherry Valley who won $30 and Dick Harrison of Picton, who received a $20 prize.

Other winners of special prizes of merchandise awarded for pledge funds raised were Merton Bentley, RR9, Picton, Ronald Norton, Cherry Valley and Mrs. Jack Hobson, Picton.

Winner of the prize for the oldest participating driver was Gordon Demore of Point Petre, described as "in his early sixties".

A Foxboro snowmobiler, Jack Norton, won the prize for entrant coming the furthest distance.

Numerous other entrants received draw prizes donated by Prince Edward merchants.

Phone Survey Planned

MAMORA — Residents here may be able in future to telephone Havelock, Madoc and Stirling areas without a long-distance toll charge, depending on the results of a Bell Canada survey of this exchange.

If the majority approves the move, the company will survey the other three communities for their acceptance.

Social Conscience

Having a social conscience, a concern for one's fellow man, is one thing . . . but doing something about it is another.

A trio of people in the news of late have this determination in greater measure than average.

Like Bill Grimshaw, who is spending most of the winter working at a private project on Belleville's waterfront.

The 42-year-old Torontonian, who once turned a Parry Sound-area hunting camp into a lodge and social centre for troubled young people, is currently converting a 75-year-old tugboat into a three-masted sailing vessel.

Again, it will be with a view to running cruises for young people who might otherwise engage in less desirable pursuits.

It is the same kind of positive concern for youth that motivates the organizers of the Lake Ontario youth cruises which operate from Waupoos Island in the summer.

Another who knows where his influence is best felt is Archbishop Joseph MacNeil of Edmonton who puts contact with people and concern for their needs before administrative and paper work — a story told in our news pages recently.

Then there's Cathy Burns, one of a growing number of young women studying law at Queen's University and one of several law students who provide legal aid in Belleville.

Miss Burns in an interview with The Intelligencer's Isabel Huggan said as a woman she had not felt discriminated against. Her view of liberation lay in freedom to develop as an individual; besides, she thought there were more important things, like fighting pollution, over-population and racial discrimination. She was more interested in native rights, for instance, than in women's rights.

Miss Burns, like the others mentioned here, places service to others before any selfish interest.

The Strong

Miss Burns' concept of women standing on their own feet and being independent, without necessarily being militantly Women's Lib advocates or even disliking men, has a message for both men and women.

In the consumer field for instance. She believes strongly in awareness of consumer protection laws, and in speaking up where shoddy merchandise, for example, is concerned. "Being nice and polite really isn't a virtue anymore. Besides, you can be polite and still demand your rights."

Miss Burns makes a valid point, and it reminds us of something former Israeli premier Golda Meir once said. Told that Israel was "too militaristic," Mrs. Meir replied: "I do not want a nice, anti-militaristic, but dead Israel."

What Cathy Burns and Golda Meir are saying is, "Stick up for your rights!"

Stray Dog Hazard

Animal control is a need that comes into sharp focus when we hear of dogs on the loose and running in packs.

A Madoc couple, Bud and Rosalie Sutton, who moved to the village from a Metro area three years ago, have written to the local council expressing concern about the number of dogs running wild.

The animals are spoiling lawns and getting at the garbage, but the Suttons are concerned most of all for the safety of the children.

They claim there have been "isolated incidents this winter in Ontario of dog packs ripping children apart."

We have not heard of any in Ontario, but such a tragedy did occur in Saskatchewan recently when a small boy crossing a street was fatally mauled by a dog pack.

Council asked clerk Tom Burnside to contact the animal control officer in the village and it is to be hoped something can be done.

The situation seems to be more prevalent in smaller communities, but it is one that must be watched everywhere.

Tar-sand Oil is Canada's only Potential New Supply

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The future of Canada's energy supply is still on the line despite the federal-provincial decision to help finance the Syncrude tar-sands project.

Even the 600-million or 30 per cent that has been committed by the Alberta, Ontario and federal governments—plus the petroleum expertise of Messrs. Peter Lougheed, William Davis and Donald Macdonald—may not be enough to guarantee the successful exploitation of the tar sands.

It's been known for almost two centuries that there is oil under the ground in the Athabasca and Peace River areas.

As oil technology became more sophisticated, it has gradually become possible to extract some of that oil, and to take a guess at how much is buried there—at least 300-billion barrels, maybe double that.

But the technology has never become sophisticated enough to find a simple, reliable way of unlocking the oil from the sands in which it is trapped, and transforming it into a product that you can use in your car or furnace.

Any techniques that have been devised are inordinately expensive—making the product far too costly to compete against the output of conventional oil fields.

But when the world price of conventional crude oil increased five-fold in 1974, the cost of tar-sands oil began to look more competitive.

And the need for the volume of oil that the tar sands—and, in Canada, only the tar sand can supply — became more pressing than ever.

Today, however, the Canadian consumer's obvious future need for those hundreds of billions of barrels of oil is being submerged in a sea of political and financial controversy.

There is the predictable opposition of the economic nationalists to government investment in a project backed by foreign capital. But that private capital is what has carried tar-sands technology ahead to its present state—and it would be unthinkable for government to expel the foreign capital and try to start all over again.

The financial questions are the most unsettling of all. The corporate partners in the Syncrude project maintain that its probable eventual cost has doubled withn the past year to $2-billion — but they offer no facts to prove it.

If costs have escalated to that extent, then tar-sands oil would have to sell for even more than the price of just over $10 a barrel that the Middle East oil cartel currently charges.

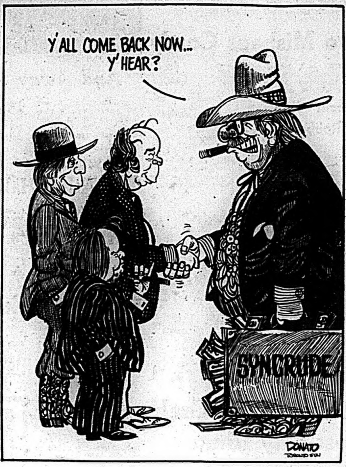
But if the Arabs were to cut the world price, tar-sands product might be unable to recover its cost.

The worrying problem about the future of the tar sands comes down to this:

—The costs appear to be rising so much and the prospect of financial loss to corporate participation are so great, that other oil companies (not in the Syncrude consortium) may well decide to cut their losses now and cancel their plans to produce oil from the tar sands.

—On the other hand, there is no other obvious domestic source of the volume of oil that Canadians must have, on a continuing and expanding basis, to replace current production and consumption.

Abandonment of the tar sands would be tantamount to abandoning Canadian self-sufficiency in energy and committing a huge share of our national income to the purchase of overseas oil—with all the distortions that this would mean for trade, jobs and living standards.



Socialist Revolution in Peru Is Not Going According to Plan

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Compared to the much-publicized Cuban revolution of Fidel Castro, a similar revolution of the political left in Peru has gone relatively unnoticed in this country, even though it is as important as the Cuban.

In the fall of 1968, the Peruvian army led by a like-minded and frustrated group of generals and colonels, trained in many of the modern methods of state planning, seized power from that country's elected civilian government.

This was no old-fashioned attack on a ruling government, but against the entire system of corrupt and self-serving Peruvian politics whose promises and programs had done in nearly two centuries little to diversify the economy, bring most Peruvians (mainly Indians) inside the market economy.

The coup still in power was led by general and still president, Juan Velasco, a peasant's son whose only outlet for a career in the old Peru was success in the army.

General Velasco has told the story more than once of looking through the barbed wire around foreign-owned sugar plantations and rich farm lands, angered at a system which permitted them to be owned abroad with the earnings going abroad.

He has brought about in Peru, therefore, what the political scientist has called "a Nasserist military revolution," a fancy way of saying that the Peruvian military are socialistic, nationalistic and interventionist.

They wanted and have brought about almost the entire nationalization of Peru's rich factors of production, oil, mining, farming, sugar and deep-sea fisheries.

The promises made by the generals to their fellow Peruvians, who are mainly illiterate Indians living in the high Andes or deep in the even more remote Peruvian Amazon, were "global" promises that everyone would be fed, housed and made literate.

These are the same promises Castro made to his people in 1959 (and has since largely kept) and in their own context, Chairman Mao has given the people of the People's Republic of China.

In Peru where swift political change came with a coup and not a major civil war which destroyed all its enemies, the military junta have had deep-set troubles.

The Peruvian Indian communities could not be changed that quickly from their old ways into modern farm and mining co-operatives, as much as the changes which were needed, had to come.

In Lima, ancient colonial city and traditional centre of political ideas in the country, the generals as central planners, budget-makers, social re-organizers also ran into trouble with public financing for their grandiose projects.

They had nationalized some of the major factors of production but could not run them as well as the foreign management which left in many cases after nationalization.

In the last few years the determined generals and colonels have had to reverse a promise never to rely on outside financing and borrow substantially from West Germany, France and Japan as well as rely on them for technological assistance.

The exact reasons for recent severe riots by the police against the army in downtown Lima are not known. But they are the most serious indication to the socialist generals and colonels that all is not well within the Peruvian social revolution. There have been brief Indian uprisings against the quick changes and the press has been totally censored for attacking the military regime.

General Velasco's course has not been as placid as Fidel Castro's.

Wagner puts Party Objectives Ahead of Leadership Rivalries

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — Everyone seems to assume that Claude Wagner will be an automatic candidate when the Progressive Conservative Party chooses a successor to Robert Stanfield.

"But these assumptions have no basis in fact," says the 49-year-old former Quebec Liberal who, at the urging of Mr. Stanfield, entered the Commons in 1972. "Unless I have a meaningful reason to seek the leadership, I have no campaign to run."

Mr. Wagner is a one-time law-and-order justice minister in Quebec who has struck a more mellow image as the Conservative external affairs critic.

He will not deny the possibility of seeking the leadership.

But he said in an interview he will not be an entry in a mere popularity contest, he will not be "the French-Canadian candidate because people think it's time we had one, and I won't enter just to make the contest look more balanced in that respect."

"Right now I believe there is a real danger to the party with the onslaught of trial balloons being sent up by possible candidates. What could develop is highly personalized enthusiasm without any thought to where the party is going."

"What I would like to see is an evolution, starting from the rank-and-file, that would result in a clearly-defined long-term direction for the party. Instead of personal popularity campaigns, I want to see issues discussed, and the various options talked about, before we start deciding on a new leader."

Asked whether this was another form of a trial balloon, Mr. Wagner says no. Since there is a general assumption that he will be a candidate, he argues, there is no personal advantage in asking Conservatives to look at party policy beyond the leadership.

"And I also want to say that being French-Canadian or bilingual is not in itself a criteria for becoming a candidate. What I think is a criteria for the entire party is to develop long-range policies and directions that represent the Canadian fabric and provide a clear alternative to the present government."

"All parties in Canada have been preoccupied with short-term concerns, and policies have appeared to be ad hoc. What Canadians want, and I know this certainly applies in Quebec, are long-term commitments so we can now begin thinking ahead to the 1978 election in terms of what we can offer."

"I know Quebeckers want something more meaningful than a six-week campaign before an election. Mr. Stanfield has given Quebeckers the firm conviction this party means what it says and now we need to establish long-term directions.

"We have to say more about poverty, about insecurity and about the unfair distribution of wealth. . . .

Mr. Wagner spoke slowly and carefully in his huge, well-furnished parliamentary office.

"I want to be honest and say that I am anxious to be part of this party's future. But that future won't come through a mere personal popularity contest. And I don't have a burning personal ambition just to be leader for the sake of sitting in that seat for a few years."

Jargon of the Seventies

Kitchener —Waterloo Record.

The language needs new words now and then so we can conveniently talk about new situations. A word we see coined for the 1975 purposes of financial writers is Copec-year.

The Copec part of it is an acronym formed to talk about the cash in the hands of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. A Copec-year is defined as the amount of surplus cash in the hands of countries like Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Venezuela, available for investment in a 12-month period.

If the estimates had to be stated in billions of dollars it would come to more than the ordinary brain could conceive. Copec-year is a handy word coinage for talking about the radically new state of affairs that has Ontario Treasurer John White travelling to the Persian Gulf to see about borrowing some large amounts of money to finance new hydro plants, and Premier Peter Lougheed of Alberta talking hopefully about Arab money to develop the Athabaska tar sands.

One pessimist has calculated that 15.6 Copec-years would be enough to buy all the companies listed on all the major stock exchanges of the free world. No doubt a few thoughtful oil-rich Arabs have done the same arithmetic. In theory, a program of slightly less than 16 years of steady buying on the world's stock markets could make the Opec countries the owners of Exxon, Royal Dutch Shell, General Motors, the world-wide Ford empire and every other industrial giant you can think of. The sheiks would be the employers of most of us.

The catch in this intriguing thought is that the calculation is done at today's stock-market prices. If buying in Copec-year quantities hit the markets on the demand side, prices would rise. It would be guess-work to say how high they would soar, but soar they would. Each Copec-year would buy less than the year before.

The whole idea may be a fantasy, but if the Copec countries should try it, the results might not be all bad.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

February 10, 1945

On the market Saturday morning green cordwood, mixed maple and birch sold for $38 for three cords. Price of eggs was from 30 cent to 38 cent. Best grade Spy and Delicious apple sold at 40 cent a half peck.

Other cities throughout Ontario have been experiencing epidemics of housebreaking and burglary to such an alarming degree that appeals to the public have been made through the press of Ontario cautioning householders to secure their premises before leaving.

February 10, 1925

The second session of the 16th Legislature of Ontario opened to-day. Of great interest was the effect of the amendment to the Ontario Temperance Act proposed by the government to allow two and a half percent alcohol in beer by volume instead of by weight as at present. This doubles the strength of beer to be sold, if the proposal passes the House.

Policeman to Transport Minister

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — Once a cop always a cop?

Transportation Minister John Rhodes is one of the government's better ministers.

As a day-to-day administrator he has appeared to be excellent. On policy matters he has shown himself to be open to suggestion and flexible. And in speaking for his ministry he has tended to be more frank and intelligent than most members of the cabinet.

But Mr. Rhodes started in life as a policeman, spending a number of years on the Sault St. Marie force.

And it seems that this background must be the reason why he has sponsored the most repressive piece of legislation to come before this session (and be approved by it).

The legislation is an amendment to the Highway Traffic Act.

The amendment changes the act so that in future the courts can't grant "restricted" licences.

Until now a judge has had the discretion in driving offences under the criminal code, which means essentially impaired or drunken driving, of giving a convicted driver a limited licence.

This has meant that though he may be suspended for three or six months he can drive his car if it is needed in his occupation while actually using it in this occupation.

This discretion has now been taken away.

One can see this having disastrous results.

If a driver is wildly drunken, or if he personally injures someone or even if he does property damage one probably can't take too much objection to the new clause.

But take the case of a man who is stopped in a routine check and shows a breath analysis reading of .8 per cent, the legal minimum for impaired.

That man almost certainly will be convicted and automatically will lose his licence for three months.

He may be a salesman to whom an automobile is essential. Or perhaps a truck driver. And probably with a family to support.

If he doesn't lose his job for a certainty it at least is in jeopardy. His life could be ruined.

Surely we should be able to leave the power of discretion in such cases with the courts and trust their wisdom.

And not to do so is really an indictment of our system.

LETTERS

Auto Part Proved no Bargain

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

It seems to me that a community the size of Belleville should have a citizens protection agency or something of that nature.

What do I mean by a citizens' protection agency? Well here is what happened to me — something I thought all taxpayers and citizens of this province were protected from.

Last week while driving my 1972 fuel-saving, small domestic car (which comes from across the pond and which is also sold by a dealer on North Front St., Belleville), the oil light came on and stayed on. Having consulted my reputable mechanic who told me to pick up an oil sender switch, I went to the dealer and had to pay $13.50 for this part. I asked the parts manager if I could bring it back if I didn't need it; he said yes if it wasn't used. Well, my mechanic got me the same new part for $3.75 so I took the $13.50 switch back to the dealer and was refused my refund from the parts manager. He said it was used although we could both see it had never been in a car. At that point I called for the owner of the business and asked him if the part looked like a used part; he examined it and assured me it was never used, but refused to give a refund.

I then began my search for a citizens' protection agency in Belleville that would speak on my behalf. After phone calls to the Chamber of Commerce, The Credit Bureau and the Mayor's office I found out there is no agency in the city that can help anyone who gets ripped off by the local merchants.

Now maybe I don't have any legal right to a refund, but I feel I do have a right to raise a little hell about the way customers are being treated by some of the local retailers. And I think if the city of Belleville had an organization that would help the people, then the merchants would think twice before taking a customer to the cleaners and thinking they can get away with it.

RIPPED OFF

Editor's Note: The Citizens' Bureau, once based in Belleville, now operating from Trenton, might have been able to help.

A Car for College President

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Prime Minister Trudeau as head of the country was recently advised by the RCMP that he should have a suitable automobile fitted to the trappings of his office and at the same time of an acceptable safety standard. He now has been fitted out with a suitable Cadillac tank that cost in the region of $80,000. Perhaps, as head of state, this is a necessary expense.

Now, locally the taxpayer is getting into the automobile for executives purchase. The Board of Governors of Loyalist College has voted to buy the president of the College, Mr. H Young a $7,000 car for his use. I doubt the same case can be made for this purchase as was made for the Prime Minister.

How can this Board so recklessly and needlessly spend this money and how can Mr. Young have the unmitigated gall to use it when he examines the cutbacks in educational expenditure now being effected at the college?

This piece of nonsense should be nipped in the bud before the free spending Hasting County School Board opts to supply Cadillacs to school principals.

WILLIAM C. HOCKLEY

March Deadline For Funds

TRENTON — Enough of the $500 grant from the United Community Services remains to keep the Citizens Bureau in Trenton in operation till the end of March.

Spokesman for the consumer help group, William Hockley said Saturday he is aware "some sort" of donation is forthcoming, but he is unaware how long it will allow the bureau to continue in operation past March 31.

At present, the bureau has on file a request for funding from the federal consumer and corporate affairs department.

If that doesn't come through and unless "Al's (Allen Baldwin bureau board chairman) got something up his sleeve, then that's it," said Mr. Hockley.

The bureau has been without secure funding since mid-summer 1974 when a Local Initiatives Program (LIP) grant ran out. Since then; its board and volunteer staff, have attempted to secure funding of a more permanent nature.

Princess Leads Cheers

Newfoundland princess, Terry Sweeney, leads the cheers of her provincial team from the cab of the Newfie Bullet during the Astra Winter Carnival closing day ball at CFB Trenton Saturday. Reputedly one of the slowest trains in the east the Bullet was one of the more spectacular showpieces toted around the dance floor during the Carnival ending celebrations.

Nova Scotia Third

B. C. Takes Astra Carnival Honors

TRENTON — Nova Scotia was toppled from its two-year dominance of Astra Winter Carnival events with the anouncement Saturday that one of the smaller provinces, British Columbia, won the carnival over-all championship.

The "smaller" says carnival chairman, Major Bert Proulx, doesn't refer to the physical size of the province, but rather the number of people at CFB Trenton who come from B.C.

As with Saskatchewan and Alberta, the three western provinces are not represented at the base as strongly as the Maritimes.

B.C. amassed more points over the numerous events during the week-long carnival to earn the honor of naming their provincial princess Shirley Ned, Astra Carnival Queen.

For the past two years, Nova Soctia had won the honor. It place third, behind Manitoba, this year.

Maj. Proulx said this year's carnival was the most successful in the event's three-year history "This has exceeded the others in all respects, in participation, spirit and competition."

This year, he said, spirit and fun was given more emphasis than competition between provinces.

The carnival was also a financial success. About $4,000 used to put on the event — for various prizes and to help the provinces finance their parade floats — was recovered through a lottery.

Its winner was Cpl. Heather McLeod, a stewardess with 437 Squadron. She won a one-week vacation in the Bahamas for two, plus a $300 cash award.

Winner of best float in the opening day parade Feb. 2, was New Brunswick. The float presented an animated moose, hunter and fisherman and the famed reversing falls. The Newfie Bullet took second place while B.C.'s 75-foot dragon was third.

Eggs, Skis and Barrels Part of Tweed Carnival

TWEED — There was egg on the faces of some Tweed residents this weekend. The embarrassment was caused when they tried to catch eggs during an egg throwing contest on the main street. Once in a while parts of the crowd had to scatter when wide-flying white missiles headed their way.

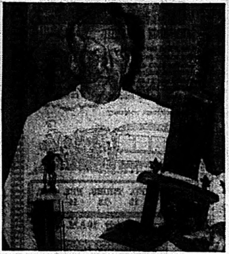
Several hundred people gathered to watch the fun Saturday afternoon, just one of 14 events during the town's winter carnival which started Friday evening and ended Sunday.

Along with the egg throwing were many tug-o-wars and barrel rolling contests.

Gisle Opsal of Peterborough won the Molson trophy for the 50 kilometre cross country skiing endurance race. The 55-year-old skier has lived in Canada for 20 years, coming from Norway. He made the route in just under three hours.

The grand event in the snowmobile races, the Formosa Spring - Molson Unlimited was won by John Ibey of Plevna. Second was Claude Leclair of Tweed. Gary Nugent of Picton placed third.

Mary O'Neil of Belleville won the Ladies 340 and Ladies IGA Open snowmobile races.



Hardy at 55

Winner of the Tweed Winter Carnival 50 kilometer cross-country ski endurance race was Gisle Opsal, 55, of Peterborough. He won the Sunday event held at the Hayloft on the old Flinton road with a time of two hours, 58 minutes and 47 seconds. Mr. Opsal came to Canada from Norway 20 years ago. The trophies were presented by Armand Duffy of 268 Victoria Ave., Belleville on behalf of Molson's Brewery.

A Different Kind of Day

Mural painting in the hallway at Queen Elizabeth School.

By SHARON AIRHART

The classrooms at Queen Elizabeth Public School looked a little different Friday afternoon when 20 community artisans and art students joined the school's 235 intermediate students for Artsfest 1975.

The project, school principal Ross Walmsley says, was the "beginning of a look at the arts in learning."

The outgrowth of the schools electives program, which allows students to pursue their creative interests for an hour weekly, the afternoon provided a creative education experience that transformed classrooms and halls into artists' studios.

Lilian Pettie, a widely-known rug hooker, demonstrated her craft in one classroom while a little further down the hall Nadine Dolan was leading the children in pen and ink.

In the school gymnasium, children sat cross-legged, learning to macrame with Helen Smith. Jacqueline Wright showed students how she make candles and Florence Watson instructed papier macho techniques. Ceramist Laurie Goddard helped the kids form pots and Merne Branscombe taught them to construct paper flowers.

Queen Elizabeth vice-principal John Miller helped with sculpting while teacher Carol Jeffs showed another group of children how to work with dry tempra.

Helen Jones demonstrated batik.

And 11 Belleville Collegiate art students led groups in everything from sew-design to construction art.

Mr. Walmsley points out that the afternoon was not an isolated experience.

It's just one part of a series of programs which involve music, sports, creative writing and public speaking.

Quinte Cuisine

Linda Ingram, an assistant 4-H leader, learned this stir-fry technique at a leaders' meeting. Besides her interest in young people, Mrs. Ingram keeps busy with flower gardening and crocheting. She and husband Jim, a CN employee, live in Plainfield and are the parents of three-month-old Sean and two-year-old Todd.

Steak and Spinach

¼ cup cooking oil
½ lbs. round steak
one clove garlic
one cup onion thinly sliced one lb. spinach, washed and drained
one tbsp. cornstarch
two tbsp. soy sauce
one tsp. salt
¼ cup water

Cut steak across the grain diagonally in thin slices. Heat oil and saute beef for one minute over moderatey high heat. Stir in garli cand onion; add spinach. Cook two minutes uncovered stirring frequently. Blend cornstarch, soy sauce, salt and water. Add to meat mixture and cook and stir several minutes until thickened. Serves six to eight.

Joy Comes from Getting Along

Has it occurred to you lately that an important part of our joy in living comes from our ability to get along with others? In all our relationships there arp at times misunderstandings, and it is desirable for us to have some grasp of what makes people tick. That is, if we are to recognize motives behind the actions of those we care about and make helpful responses.

There are touchy situations. Junior talks back to Daddy. Mother-in-law corrects daughter-in-law. Brother and sister try to outdo each other and lose their tempers in the effort.

Why? Maybe the agressor does not need chastisement or rebuke, but his own spot in the sun. Maybe somebody has been jealous of somebody else, and needs praise and encouragement about themselves.

And that's what this column is all about.

Dear Doris: Thank you for giving me an opportunity to read the book I am returning to you — "Give Us The Tools", about rehabilitation. It is a beautiful idea — especially to me, who would love so much to get out of this wheel chair.

I have been ill and am still quite weak. Your letter cheered me a lot. I am alone so much and feel really separated from the community.

But I still have much to be thankful for — friends who drop by — grandchildren who come in — and others who care about me.

Mary F.T.

Dear Mary: Your handicap is not only frustrating to you, but it explains at least in part the fears which your husband expresses.

But he seems to take out his anger on you; this is a human failing, but it just isn't fair. He could make all the difference in the world to you with an optimistic approach — one which recognized your potential, hope, and determination to use every bit of ability which has been left to you.

Did you have your husband read Hank Viscardi's book too? "Abilities Unlimited", on Long Island, N.Y. which hires only grossly handicapped workers, is the inspiration of one fine man who was born with very short stumps for legs, and overcame a handicap which would have thoroughly discouraged most human being.

Dear Doris: I am writing to request your leaflet "Children With Learning Disabilaties." (25 cents enclosed.)

How can I prepare my son for the teen-age years in regard to the changes taking place in his body, sex ual feelings, learning to think for himself and many other things? My husband will not counsel with him along these lines.

No Help From Father.

Dear No Help: The leaflet is on its way.

If, in addition to a learning disability in your son, he has a speechless father — on some subjects — you are carrying an overload.

Believe it or not, some fathers actually think they are virtuous when they refuse to discuss such things with their sons. They would rather criticize their boys than help them through those teen-age tribulations which come with changing bodies and urgent sex drives. Not fair!

I am sending you a copy of my 25-cent leaflet listing books on Dating, Sex and Birth Control and will mark certain ones which I think could be particularly helpful.

Your boy is experiencing strange new feeling. Let him know he can come to you and talk; that nothing ever shocks you, and that in your youth you have been been through some of the same baffling experiences.

(When writing in to Doris, in care of this newspaper, allow four weeks for private reply, which will be sent if an eight-cent-stamped, selfaddressed envelope is enclosed.)

Ann Landers

Don't Abort Baby If You Have Doubts

Dear Ann Landers: I want to rebut your statement to a woman who wrote dna asked whether or not she should have an abortion. You stated your position on abortion, but added, "If abortion is against your religion, or, if you feel in your heart that it is murder, I urge you not to do it. The guilt might cause you a lifetime of agony."

I am enclosing a magazine article entitled, Abortion: No Lasting Emotional Scars. It deals with a book written by an obstetrician and a psychologist and states clearly that an abortion rarely damages a woman's emotional health. In fact, the opposite is true. It often brings improvement.

The article also cites facts and figures from other experts. They report "70 per cent of the women said they were very happy about their abortions. Only three per cent said they were sad." These are extremely good odds no matter what the kooks who write to you say.

I know this letter will go into the wastebasket because you don't like to be challenged by people who have the facts and figures.—One of the 70 Per Cent

Dear One: Figures lie and liars figure. I don't believe that only three per cent are sad. I stand by my original statement: If abortion is against your religion, or if you feel you are killing a live child, do not risk a lifetime of guilt by choosing this solution to your problem.

Dear Ann Landers: I must comment on the letter from "Bothered and Bewildered" because her daughter Nancy is identical to ours, only we had an added problem—drugs.

My husband and I went through hell trying to get that girl straightened out. Nothing worked. Finally, my sister, who lives 350 miles away, asked if she could take our daughter "for a while." My misgivings were the same as Nancy's parents', but out of sheer dspration, we said yes.

Within three months there was a tremendous change in that child—a complete turnaround of her behavior and attitude. We visited her last weekend and were amazed.

Please tell "Bothered" two things: (1) She hasn't lost a daughter. Nancy will be back. (2) The pressure removed from the parents is an absolute blessing. Separation gives both parents and child a completely different perspective. It turns out that my sister was a lot stronger than I thought.—L.A. Mother your letter. I got plenty of heat for suggesting that Nancy be housed "elsewhere." Some "experts" called it "rejection," others called it "abandonment."

Sometimes parents and children need a rest from each other and a change of scenery can work wonders.

Sweets Harmful He Says

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. John Yudnin, founder of London University's chair of nutrition, wants sugar labelled as toxic.

In his book Sweet and Dangerous, the biochemist and physician says people should be warned of the studies that tie the increased use of sugar to the steady rise of coronary disease and that the sugar-rich diets of today's children leave them potential subjects for a wide range of diseases.

Dr. R. E. Haist, director of physiology of the University of Toronto, said a study conducted 30 years ago by Dr. C. C. Lucas and Dr. Charles Best showed that sugar and alcohol had the same effect in producing fatty livers in rats.

Dr. Yudkin says in the book few parents are aware that sugar is added to canned soups, infants' foods and peanut butter.

The artificial sweetener, cyclamate, he says, is safe and should not have been banned by the United States Food and Drug Administration and Canada's Food and Drug Directorate (FDD).

The basis for the ban was a study indicating the sweetener developed cancerous tumors in the bladders of rats.

Grant Cornell, president of Abbott Laboratories Ltd. Canada, said in an interview "our data has shown that cyclamates are harmless" and that over the last four years "scientists have not been able to duplicate the experiment which gave rats cancer."

He said that although cyclamate was banned by the FDD for use in prepared food and drinks, "there's no trouble getting it from the druggist and many doctors continue to support cyclaimate."

Dr. Vladimir Rasper of the University of Guelph's department of food said neither fudge nor toffee can be made with artificial sweeteners but that industry - financed research is being conducted to find other ways of making the confection.

THE BOARDROOMS OF CANADA DON'T HAVE MANY WOMEN.

WHY NOT?

Policy decisions made in Canada's boardrooms have a tremendous influence on our lifestyles. They affect the price of our food, the style of our clothes, the design of our homes, the quality of the goods we buy. Yet most of the women you see in Canada's boardrooms are serving coffee to the men who make those decisions.

The strange thing is that, so far as we know, no company has a charter forbidding women to sit on the board of directors. And there is no legal barrier blocking the way.

So why aren't more of us reaching the boardroom? Why aren't there more of us at the mid and upper management levels? Are we so conditioned into believing that only men have careers that we automatically hesitate when we reach the fifth rung on a ten-rung ladder? Or is the ladder pulled out from under our feet if we take one step too many?

Perhaps the answer lies with us. Perhaps we should all look upon every job we tackle as being a career. Being a housewife is a career and a demanding one. Being a mother is a career and a rewarding one. But, if we want to be bankers or brokers, carpenters or caretakers, printers or politicians, why not? Why don't we refuse to accept prejudicial barricades? Why don't we follow the examples of those who have proven it can be done?

Maybe we've all been conditioned into not caring enough. Maybe. But, if a law, a precedent or a prejudice stops any one of us from pursuing any career we choose, then we should try to change it. We should make our voices heard. We should talk to each other and to those whose influence we need. Politicians, husbands, friends, teachers, newspaper editors.

And we should talk to the men on the boards of directors. As equals.

is the best time to drive a NEW Automobile...

Motorland offers 7 very good reasons why

TRADE IN VALUES AT RECORD HIGHS

The increase in the value of your present car means that the difference you pay to enjoy the luxury of a '75 model has risen very little.

CARS COST LESS IN ADJUSTED DOLLARS

Automotive authorities say that the average buyer spent 5.1 months of his income in 1954 to pay for a standard-size car. Today the comparable car takes only 4.4 months pay. Plus the buyer is getting a lot more automobile today than he was 20 years ago.

LONGER TERMS AVAILABLE

Increasing the term of financing from 36 to 42 months could reduce monthly payments by as much as 12 per cent. It's quite possible by extending the term to wind up with a lower monthly figure.

FINANCING AVAILABLE

Credit is relatively easy to obtain for new car buyers. You may rest assured we will work out a payment plan that is in keeping with your capabilities.

DEALER SERVICE

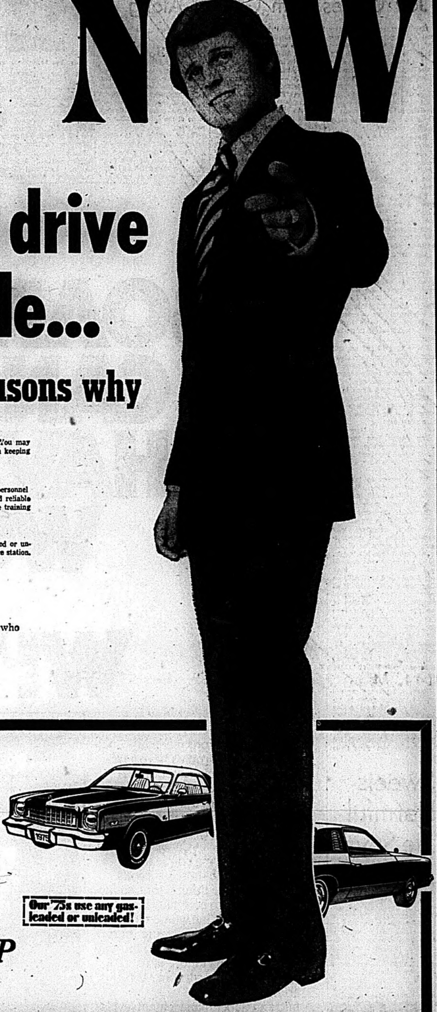
As a franchise automobile dealer our service department personnel are better qualified than ever before to provide fast and reliable service because of our manufacturer's continuous update training program.

USE LEADED OR UNLEADED FUEL

The 1975 Chrysler cars are equipped to use either leaded or unleaded fuel. That means no searching for the right service station. Stop anywhere.

THE CLINCHER

Chrysler's one year unlimited mileage new car warranty. It's going to take better care of the people who buy our cars.



Our '75s use any gas-leaded or unleaded!

Dugre Takes Provincial Title

TRENTON -- Lou Dugre (Dew-gray) has been to the Royal Canadian Legion Dominion Curling Finals before. In fact, he won the national event for Chatham, New Brunswick, in 1970.

But for a while Sunday, at Trenton Curling Club, it appeared as if Dugre might have blown his chance for the provincial honors and another shot at the Dominion championship.

Representing Legion District G, out of Vanier (Ottawa) Dugre had his work cut out for him when be hooked up with George Holborne's District E champion Sutton foursome in the final match-up of the provincials.

Dugre went to the showdown with a perfect record in the Holborne would have needed a pair of wins over the Vanier rink to cop top honors.

And, displaying a calm, cool, almost detached approach to the business at hand, he made the District G representatives sweat before bowing out in an extra end, 7-4.

Dugre had the win in the bag in the 10th end. The house was clear when Holborne delivered his last rock just off the button.

It was clear to the large, enthusiastic crowd of onlookers that Dugre had the title cinched. He had the hammer and all he needed was one to snap a 4-4 tie and it was all over.

But Dugre failed to keep his rock in scoring position after connecting with Holborne's stone. And the deadlock forced the extra end.

Dugre and company counted three to keep their unbeaten record intact.

"I had that last shot torqued,'' offered Dugre, explaining his failure to wind it up in the regulation 10 ends, "but my rock just wouldn't stay."

Defending champion Branch 110 Trenton was knocked out by Sutton 6-5 when Holborne scored two in the 10th.

"That's the way this game goes," summed up Trenton skip Earl Carson.

Vanier got to the final with wins over Haileybury, 8-5; Highland Creek 7-4 and Trenton 9-8.

Sutton topped London 7-6; lost to Trenton 15-8; bounced back to take out Highland Creek 5-2; topped Trenton in a rematch 6-5 and qualified for the final by putting Copperclifi on the sidelines 6-3.

Dugre credited the other members of his rink for making the win possible. They are Ron Powell, vice; Cal Hegge second, and Larry Blanchfield, lead.

It was an especially satisfying win for Dugre. He got his schooling in Trenton, residing in this community from 1945 to 1956.

A member of the Canadian Armed Forces, he is stationed in Ottawa where he was transferred from New Brunswick in September, 1974.

He has a string of curling honors to his credit. He represented New Brunswick in the 1973 Brier; is a four-time Legion Provincial champion and of course, capped it with his Dominion title in 1970.

And now, it's on to Sussex, New Brunswick, for the national championships, March 17-21.

Brown Rink Is Tops

Host Quinte Curling Club rinks walked off with the lion's share of the honors in the annual Victoria and Grey Bonspiel staged here on the weekend.

Dave Brown repeated as first event winner, a feat he accomplished in 1974.

It was an all Quinte Club final. Brown got by Jack Preston's foursome to take the Victoria and Grey Trophy.

Curling with Brown are Nev Burroughs, third; Wilf Weymark, second, and Mike Terris, lead.

Rounding out Preston's rink are Glen Watson, third; Corky McCorquodale, second, and Bob Anderson, lead.

Doug Belch of Kingston defeated quinte Club's Vern Goodwin for second event honors.

But in the third even, Quinte rinks met in a head-on confrontation and it was Ross Booth skipping his quartet to a win over fellow club member Jim Pettigrew.

Chris Glithero at third; Doug McLean, second, and Bill Spinelli, lead, are the other members of Booth's rink.

Sixteen rinks competed for the championship with Quinte Club represented by 10 entries.

Bayside Team is Tops

50 Wrestlers Qualify for COSSA

By DOUG WALSH
Sports Editor

Off their showing in tournament action Saturday at Bayside Secondary School, the 50 high school wrestlers who will represent the Bay of Quinte district in the Central Ontario Secondary Schools Association meet in Oshawa, February 20, should make a good account of themselves.

Wrestlers from eight Bay of Quinte schools competed in 13 of the 14 weight classes offered and came through with efforts which reflect the months of training necessary to prepare properly for such events.

Seventy-five wrestlers participated in divisions ranging from 90-lb. to unlimited. The 194 lb. class was not contested.

Bayside Secondary School (BSS) will send all its wrestlers to the COSSA meet since the host school finished on top in points on the day's competition.

BSS wrestlers led the way as a team by accumulating 60 points. Trenton High School (THS) was second with 53 points, nosing out Centre Hastings Secondary School (CHSS) which had a total of 52. Points were awarded for first, second, third and fourth place finishes in each of the 13 weight divisions.

Moira Secondary School's Jim Hughes, convener for the event, is concerned about the apparent lack of interest in wrestling and other in-school sports. But he needn't be disappointed in the ability shown Saturday by the accomplished young wrestlers who took part.

"You can see from the number of wrestlers who were involved in our meet (75) that interest is slipping when you consider that a full list of entries from the eight schools would bring the number to 224," he offered.

Each school is allowed two entrants in each of the 14 weight classes.

"These wrestlers have been preparing for the Bay of Quinte meet since November. During the weeks leading to the meet, it's a case of conditioning and just plain hard work while preparing for the district competition in February," explained Hughes.

"We do hold meets involving four schools at a time but it's all a matter of the wrestlers gaining experience for the Bay of Quinte meet.

"Since we're situated a fair distance from larger centres where wrestling is popular and the competition is tops, our boys are not able to meet more experienced wrestlers until COSSA.

"Wrestling is big in other areas of the province. The all-Ontario meet in London will attract about 600 wrestlers and its the second largest event of its kind in the world."

"There can be no letup once the training starts. These wrestlers must be in top shape at all times. It's a sport which demands dedication."

Hughes feels the sport could use more exposure. He was quite disappointed with the small turnout of the general public for Saturday's meet at which there was no charge for admission.

Except for COSSA and then the all-Ontario competition, wrestling is about finished for this season. But Hughes is looking to next year when efforts will be made to generate more interest.

BSS put together two firsts; three seconds; three third and a pair of fourths to take the team honors.

Paul Geneau was tops in the 141-lb. class and Gary Strevett followed suit in the 168-lb. category.

Second place went to Kevin Dezwolak in the 90-lb; Terry Squires, 115-lb, and Jim McCann, 143-lb.

Third place rankings were chalked up by John Dezwolak, 115-lb.; Chuck Frail, 136-lb. and Rick Wagner, 178-lb.

The two fourth place ribbons for Bayside went to Mike Strevett, 148-lb. and B. Kemsley, 178-lb.

Steve Topping, Napanee District Secondary School (NDSS), 148-lb.; D. Neal, CHSS, 157-lb.; Bruce McGillivray, THS, 178-lb.; Jeff Conn, Centennial Secondary School, unlimited.

The top four in each weight class join the BSS team in the COSSA competition.

Trenton High School's Bruce McGillivray appears to be in troube during early going of Saturday's Bay of Quinte wrestling meet at Bayside Secondary School. He's on one knee in match with Bayside's B. Kemsley. McGillivray came on strong to win top honors in 178-lb. class.

Open Playoffs Tuesday

Bobcats Wind Up with Win

OSHAWA (Special) — Belleville Bobcats prepared for the start of their Metro Junior B Hockey League playoff series with Markham Royals by stopping Oshawa Legionaires 8-6 in the final game of the regular schedule here, Saturday.

The Belleville - Markham series opens Tuesday in Markham with the action shifting to Belleville Memorial Arena, Thursday night at 8.45 p.m. Game three will be played in Markham, Friday, with the teams returning to Belleville for the fourth match, Sunday, at 8 p.m.

Once again, Bobcats had their lineup sprinkled with call-ups from the Shell Juvenile squad. Called on to replace injured players and others who were out of action because of work commitments, the reinforcements proved their worth.

Don Thompson in his first junior start went all th[illegible] in goal. Gary Thompson scored a pair of goals. John Murphy, Wayne Clapp, Mike Crawford and Roger Chapman each checked in with an assist.

Cats broke in front 3-1 in the first period and each team scored twice in the second and divided six goals evenly in the third frame.

Thompson was the only two-goal shooter for the winners. Singles went to Grant Geogan, Al Jeffrey, Scott Samis, Rob Foster, Andy Ricketts and Mike Watt.

Oshawa also went with a lineup dotted with players promoted from minor league ranks. Coach Bill Berwick got a look at eight replacements.

Dave Shymko, a reliable Legionaire over the season, marked his club's season finale with a strong effort. He fired two goals and drew three assists. Stan Konarowski, Mike Pidgeon, Pat McArthur and Tom Olsen took care of the other Oshawa goals.

Legionaires made a late bid to pull it out.

A pair of early third period goals by the Cats built what looked like a comfortable 7-3 cushion. But Oshawa stormed back to pot three consecutive goals and put the pressure on.

Thompson's goal with 24 seconds to play supplied the Cats with some much needed insurance.

Coach Bob Boyle's Bobcats took six of 14 minor penalties plus a five-minute high sticking sentence. Oshawa's Steve Austin and Cats' Wayne Calberry each drew five for fighting when they traded blows in the second period.

Cats' general manager Snipe Matthews reminds season ticket holders they can pick up their tickets at McKnight's Variety for Thursday night's game. Tickets must be picked up no later than noon, Thursday.

General admission for the Thursday match is $1.75 for adults; $1.50 fo students, and $1.25, children.

Win First All-Catholic Tournament

Nicks Bounce Back in Oshawa

OSHAWA (Special)—Nicholson Catholic College scored two come from behind victories in their first two starts Saturday and went on to defeat St. John's of Brantford, 43-37 in the final to win the Oshawa Catholic First Invitational Senior Catholic Basketball Tournament, here.

NCC coach Gary Duggan stated, "this is the toughest tournament we've been in this year." The host of the tourney made sure only the top Catholic Secondary Schools in Southern Ontario were invited.

In the first round the Nicks downed Bishop Ryan, of Hamilton, 52-43 and in the semi-finals dumped Oshawa Catholic 50-32.

St. John's made their way to the final game by upending St. Basil's of Toronto in the semi-final. The Toronto school is tops in their league with a 37-8 won-lost record this season. They had also won the York University Invitational Christmas Tournament.

Bishop Ryan, led by a front line that averaged 6-foot-5, jumped into an early, but short-lived lead. Jeff Boyle scored 14 points and Dale Wilson, back for the first game since being sidelined three weeks ago with a knee injury, got 12. Bob Zilly was tops for Hamilton with 17.

Oshawa Catholic, winners of the Durham Invitational in December, jumped into an early 8-1 lead in the semi-final contest, but the Nicks combined outstanding rebounding and defence to outscore the host school 29-21 in the first half and 21-11 in the second.

Wilson demonstrated his complete recuperation in this game with 22 points and strong inside offensive and defensive work.

In the final game the Nicks came up with an all-round strong defensive effort to edge St. John's. The Brantford school, consolation champion at the University of Western Ontario Tournament, couldn't contend with the combined rebounding of Wilson and Boyle and the latter's hot, corner-shooting. He led the attack with 15 points. Bruce Collins and Mark Soule were next with seven each, Danny Kraszewski had six, and Wilson and Dave Holland rounded things out with four apiece.

Add to Bobcats

The Belleville Bobcats Booster Club will be running a bus to Tuesday's game in Markham. Tickets are $5 each and must be picked up at McKnight's Variety on Front Street by 1 p.m. Tuesday. The bus leaves the Memorial Arena at 5.30 p.m.

London Midget Champ

The most unusual thing about Belleville Collegiate's Annual Invitational Basketball Tournament this year is that BCI wasn't in the finals.

G. R. Roberts of London, in the final game of the day, edged out Brighton High School by a 46-45 margin for the Championship.

In the Consolation finals between two Bay of Quinte teams, Trenton and Centennial, the latter came out on the long end of the 39-23 score.

Armstrong led the Championship Roberts team picking up a total of 15 points for the game, with Grealis adding 11 in the winning effort.

Most of the 45 points scored by Brighton came from two players, Boers and Platt who netted 26 and 13 points respectively.

Roberts were undefeated for their first three games on Saturday, topping Centennial 38-22 in the first game. Sydenham was next to go down to the eventual winners by a 75-37 score and in a close game to decide the team to go to the finals, Roberts slipped past Cobourg West 35-33.

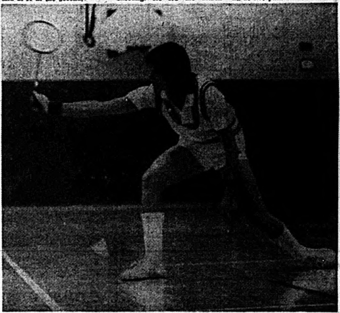
Brighton had gone through the first set of three games in much the same fashion defeating Moira 44-23; BCI 44-31 and then dropped Kenner in the semi finals 53-48 to advance to the finals.

In the consolation end of things, after losing the first game to the eventual champions, Centennial won their next three games in a row in convincing style for the consolation trophy.

In the final game a 19-point barrage by Moletta led the city team to the victory over Trenton.

Trenton, after losing their first game to BCI went on to edge Moira and Napanee to advance to the consolation finals.

Patrick and Mack led the losers attack with six and seven points respectively with the remainder divided equally among the rest of the team.



Here's one that got away on Belleville Badminton Club's Judy Woodley in women's singles final with Trenton's Lynne Helps during tournament action Saturday at Centennial Secondary School.

Sydenham Hills Prove Too Much for Opponents

For anyone who entered the doubles competition at the Central Ontario Badminton Association's C Tournament on Saturday at Centennial Secondary there were just too many hills to climb, or rather, too many Hills to climb over to get to championships.

In ladies' doubles Cheryl and Susan Hill combined to defeat Belleville's Pat Hasselfelt and Jackie Gilbert. The consolation title went to Joan Weir and Jackie De Silva, of Napanee.

In men's doubles, Graham and Dudely Hill downed Bill Latchford and Malcolm McFarland, of Picton, to earn the championship. Consolation honors went to Dave Snider and Gene Pellerin, of Kingston.

The Mixed Doubles championship was won by Graham and Susan Hill. They beat George Eadie and Gail Raycroft, of Napanee. Steve Buckle and Fiona MacGregor, of Whitby, took the consolation round.

All the Hills play out of Sydenham Badminton Club and they are all in the same family.

In ladies' singles, Lynne Helps, of Trenton, upended Judy Woodley, of Belleville, in a hard fought battle to take top honors. Cheryl Hill was the consolation champion.

The only Belleville winner was Sari Amal in Mens Singles. He only joined the local club this week. Amal beat out Bill Cameron, of Trenton, in the final. Consolation honors went to Dave Snider, of Kingston.

Barriage Nips Picton To Take Second Place

Belleville Mel Barriage scored an important Quinte Ladies' Hockey League win on home ice Sunday, when Sue Fobert shot the deciding goal in a narrow 4-3 defeat of Picton, with 30 seconds remaining in the match.

The win gives the Barriage team second place in the standings.

Joyce McFarlane made the play for the winning goal and Fobert made no mistake.

Earlier in the game, Joyce McFarlane took a pass from Fobert for a Barriage goal. Fobert was a two-goal shooter for the winners. Carol McFarlane had the other Belleville counter.

Picton goals were scored by Sandra Sutton with a pair, and Judy Pettingill.

Bonnie Hannah was in goal for Belleville. Goaltender for Picton was Lorraine McConnell.

Huskies Down 2

PORT PERRY (Special) — Scoring a well-earned 6-3 victory over Frankford Huskies, Port Perry Flamingos, first place finisher during the regular Ontario Hockey Association Junior C season, took a two game lead in a best of seven series here, Sunday.

Bernie Aldred paced Port Perry with two goals. Checking in with one each were Paul Hadden, Dave Jobb, Neil McLaughlin and Rick Campbell.

Pete Crawford shot a pair for Huskies. Al MacIntosh was the other marksman for the losers.

The teams hook up in Game 3 here, Wednesday night with the action shifting to Frankford for the fourth game, Friday night.

Habs Run Road Streak To 16 for a Record

By GLENN COLE
The Canadian Press

Pity the Washington Capitals. Even the opposition players that have been beating them with some consistency do.

"It's awfully tough for them," said Derek Sanderson of New York Rangers Sunday night after scoring two goals to lead the Rangers to a 7-3 win over the Caps in one of seven National Hockey League games.

"They work hard, but until they develop a system, they'll continue to have troubles. The years will be lean for them until they get players to compement their system."

The Capitals dropped their 28th road game of the year in New York, leaving them with a 4-45-3 record for 11 points. All 11 points gained have been at their home rink in Landover, Md.

But while the Capitals continue to have problems away from home, the same cannot be said for Montreal Canadiens.

The Canadiens, leaders in the Norris Division, set a league record in Buffalo as they fought the Sabres to a 4-4 tie to run their road unbeaten streak to 16 games.

In other games Sunday, Los Angeles Kings edged Chicago Black Hawks 2-1, Detroit Red Wings topped Toronto Maple Leafs 5-3, Minnesota North Stars edged Atlanta Flames 3-2, Boston Bruins clipped New York Islanders 5-1 and Kansas City Scouts defeated California Seals 2-1.

Saturday, Montreal blasted the Rangers 7-1, Toronto and St. Louis Blues battled to a 3-3 tie, Minnesota blanked Philadelphia Flyers 5-0, Boston outscored Detroit 8-5 and the Islanders clipped the Caps 5-1.

"We've been going good in the last six or seven games," noted Washington coach Jimmy Anderson of the worst club in recent NHL history. "We have a good attitude. We have been 100 per cent better in the second half of the season."

At Buffalo, Guy Lafleur scored his 43rd and 44th goals of the season as Montreal gained its first point against the Sabres in five games this season.

The Canadiens trailed 3-1 at one stage in the second period but rallied to tie the score before the session ended.

Lafleur shot them into a 4-3 lead at 4:22 of the final period but Fred Stanfield, recently acquired from Minnesota, tied the game at 6:05 with Buffalo's third power-play goal of the day.

Mike Murphy's 19th goal of the season gave the Kings the win at Chicago, allowing Los Angeles to snap its three-game losing streak.

Phil Roberto, acquired in a trade from St. Louis earlier this year, registered the first three-goal game of his NHL career to lead Detroit past Toronto.

The win snapped a five-game Detroit losing streak and was the 200th lifetime win over the Maple Leafs in the 49-year season series. The Leafs have 199 wins and there have been 75 ties.

Second-period goals by Blake Dunlop and Craig Cameron gave the North Stars their win at Atlanta.

Gregg Sheppard scored his 20th and 21st goals of the season as the Bruins extended their unbeaten streak to five games—four wins and a tie—with the home-ice win over the Islanders.

Goals by Robin Burns and rookie Wilf Paiement provided the Scouts with their winning margin over the Seals in Oakland. Charlie Simmer got the goal for California.

Red Wings' Lead Shrinks to Two

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Virginia Red Wings acted as if they didn't want to keep the American Hockey League Southern Division lead, dropping losses to both of their nearest challengers in weekend action.

The Wings gave in 3-2 to second-place Richmond Robins on Sunday after dropping a 5-2 decision to third-place Hershey Bears on Saturday.

The two losses left the Wings with only a two-point lead over Richmond and a five-point edge over Hershey.

In other games Sunday, Nova Scotia Voyageurs beat Syracuse 3-2, New Haven whipped Providence 6-2 and Springfield Indians tied Rochester 2-2.

Saturday's other matches saw Providence edge Springfield 5-4 and Syracuse beat New Haven 5-2.

Ron Anderson's goal midway in the third period gave Richmond the victory over Virginia. Bob Sirols and John Paddock got the other Robins goals after Virginia had taken a 2-0 lead on goals by Tom Mellor and Rick McCann.

Nova Scotia's win pulled the Voyageurs to within three points of leading Providence in the Northern Division. Peter Sullivan, Jim Cahoon and Mike McKegney scored for the Vees while Jean Rene Losier and Joe Robertson scored for Syracuse.

League points leader Doug Gibson scored his 27th goal for Rochester to earn the tie against Springfield and the draw stood through a scoreless overtime. Lorne Stamler and Dale Lewis scored for Springfield and Ray Maluta scored the other Rochester goal.

Tom Colley scored twice to lead New Haven against Providence. Bob Cook, Scott MacPhail, Alain Langlais and Rick Kessell added single goals. John Wright scored twice for the Reds.

Blanked Twice on Weekend

Ottawa '67s Are in a Rut

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines Black Hawsk blanked Ottawa 5-0 Sunday in Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A play—the second blanking in as many days.

On Saturday, Oshawa Generals defeated the fourth-place '67s 7-0.

Sunday's shutout marked Hawk goaltender Bill Cheropita's first Junior A shutout and left winger Kevin Kennery's first three-goal game.

After a scoreless first period, Kennery scored the only two goals of the second and added his third in the final 20 minutes. Defenceman Bob Manno and rookie Mark Florentino also scored before a home crowd of 1,325 spectators.

Florentino joined the Hawks from Niagara Falls Flyers of the Southern Ontario Junior Hockey League to replace injured regulars Greg Craig and Doug Caines. Ottawa outshot the fifth-place Hawks 32-26.

In other action Sunday, Kingston Canadians dumped London Knights 10-3 and Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds trounced Sudbury Wolves 10-6.

Canadians 10 Knights 3

Kingston built up period leads of 4-2 and 6-3 and outshot London 37-33 on home ice before 2,483 spectators.

Brad Rhiness, Alex Forsyth, Barry Scully and Mike Crombeen each scored twice for ninth-place Kingston, with Larry Murphy, and Larry Plumb getting the others.

Bill Beauchamp, Ron Zanussi and Dennis Maruk, with his 47th of the season, replied for London, now three points behind Kingston.

Armstrong and Boys Take Diving Honors

OTAWA (CP) — Ken Armstrong and Beverley Boys of the national diving team took top honors at the Ontario Open diving championships during the weekend.

Armstrong, of the Woodstock Diving Club, placed first in the men's 10-metre and three metre events. Miss Boys, of Pointe Claire Diving Club, Pointe Claire, Que., was first in both women's events.

he top three men in the men's 10-metre event and their scores were:

1. Armstrong, 414.05

Toros Find the Coach Hard Man to Please

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Toros are beginning to feel a little more comfortable at Maple Leaf Gardens.

But Coach Bob Leduc wasn't entirely satisfied with his team's performance Sunday night, despite a 7-5 victory over Indianapolis Racers in a World Hockey Association game.

"If Gilles (Gratton) hadn't made some key saves early in the second period we'd have been down two or three goals and would have had a hard time coming back," said Leduc after Toros registered their fifth win in succession on home ice.

In other WHA games Sunday, Phoenix Roadrunners defeated Edmonton Oilers 6-4, Winnipeg Jets nipped Chicago Cougars 3-2, Houston Aeros beat Cleveland Crusaders 4-1 and Vancouver Blazers trimmed New England Whalers 5-1.

In Saturday's action, Baltimore Blades upset Houston 6-4, Chicago beat Winnipeg 6-3, Quebec Nordiques edged Phoenix 4-3, Vancouver defeated the Whalers 4-1 and San Diego Mariners topped Minnesota Fighting Saints 8-4.

"I'm happy that we got two points, considering we didn't play so well," said Leduc. "We gave up five goals against a team that on the average scores two. The first period was probably the worst we've played all season. It was just terrible."

Despite a 3-0 goal advantage in the second period, it wasn't until Paul Henderson scored his 27th marker of the season at 18:52 of the third period that the Toros were really in the clear.

Rick Cunningham and Jim Dorey each had two goals for Toronto, which remained eight points behind the Nordiques, leaders of the Canadian division. Tom Martin and Pat Hickey added single goals.

The foot-weary Whalers, who were playing their third game on the road in less than 72 hours, were unable to match the speed of the Blazers, who beat the New England club for the second time in two days. The double victory during the weekend moved the Blazers into a tie with the Oilers for third place in the Canadian division.

Goaltender Don McLeod played a heavy role in Blazers win Sunday by earning two assists. He lost his shutout bid at 14:17 of the third period, however, when he yielded a goal to Ron Earl.

Mike Pelyk, Paul Terbenche, Murray Myers, Ron Chipperfield and Danny Lawson participated in the scoring that carried Blazers to their fourth consecutive victory.

GOALIE McLEOD
Earns Two Assists

The Jets led 2-0 on goals by Anders Hedberg and Danny Gruen, then needed one by Danny Johnson midway through the second period to overcome the stubborn Cougars, who got goals from Frankie Rochon and Mark Lomenda.

Team captain Ted Taylor set a good example for the Aeros by scoring two goals against the Crusaders. Gordie Howe managed one and his son, Mark, registered his 16th of the season. Richie Leduc scored for Cleveland in the third period.

"We started off like the organist—off key," said Cleveland coach and general manager Jack Vivian. "We were flat, that's all there is to it."

Robbie Ftoren the first period and they equalled the margin the Roadrunners emerged with over the Oilers. Dennis Sobchuk, Pete McNamee, Murray Keogan and Michel Cormier completed the Phoenix scoring, with Cormier's shot landing in an open net with 31 seconds remaining.

Barry Long connected twice for the Oilers, with Ken Baird and Mike Rogers adding single goals.

Terriers Remain On Whitby's Heels

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Orillia Terriers built period leads of 4-0 and 8-3 en route to a 9-5 win over Napanee Comets in Ontario Hockey Association Senior A action Sunday.

Norm Metcalfe led the visiting Terriers with two goals. Single goals went to Danny Lutes, Stan Gross, Paul Dixon, Bob Kane, Len Bray, Colin Gordon and Jim MacPherson.

Rick Gerow, with two, John McConnell, Peter Ford and Jim Sunstrum replied for Napanee, which outshot Orillia 44-37.

The win keeps Orillia two points behind third-place Whitby McDonald's. Last-place Napanee slipped to five points behind Cambridge Hornets.

In the only game Sunday, Whitby edged Brantford Foresters 4-3. Saturday, Cambridge defeated Brantford 4-2.

McDonald's 4 Foresters 3

A crowd of 416 saw playing-coach Dave Nicholishen, Carl Ahlsten, Bob Munro and Doug Tate get the Whitby goals.

Steve DeGurse, Jim Lebar and Al Osborne replied for second-place Brantford, which outshot the visitors 39-27.

Each team scored in the first period with McDonald's taking a 2-1 lead into the final 20 minutes.

Hornets 4 Foresters 2

Jim Springall broke a 2-2 tie early in the final period and set up the insurance goal by Ken Tyler with 49 seconds left in the game.

Sylvia Burka Sets 3 Records

RED DEER (CP) — Sylvia Burka of Winnipeg smashed her way to three Canadian speed-skating meet records, skating through below-zero tempertures and blowing snow in the two-day competition which concluded late Sunday night.

Burka established records in the senior women's 1,000-, 1,500- and 3,000-metre events, shaving as much as 10.8 seconds off her old mark in the 3,000 metres Sunday. The new meet record now is 5 minutes 21.4 seconds.

She knocked 1.6 seconds off her old 1,500-metre record with a 2:25 clocking.

Her third record, a 1:34.4 time in the 1,0900 metres, ticked one-tenth off the old meet record.

She failed to top the record in the 500 metre dash, which she won with a 47-second time, skating in temperatures as low as 20 below Saturday morning.

During a warm up prior to her 500 pairs race she said that under international rules a meet is cancelled if the temperature drops lower than 14 degrees. The 500-metre record is 44.8, held by Burka.

Pyles Moves Up To Take Third

EAST TROY, Wis. (AP) — Rudd Pyles of Aspen, Colo., took first place in Sunday's slalom championship to sweep both events in the weekend professional ski meet.

Pyles, who won $6,000 with victories in Saturday's giant slalom and Sunday's slalom, Muxel on Sunday by .426 seconds in his two best slalom runs.

He had surprised favorite Hank Kashiwa in Saturday's giant slalom, and became only the fourth skier in the six-year history of the tour to win consecutive races.

Kashiwa, of Steamboat, Colo., the tour leader with season money winnings of $25,300 after this Alpine Valley event, finished second in the giant slalom but was ousted in the slalom quarter-finals.

Pepi Stiegler, the 37-year-old former Olympic gold medalist from Austria, was third in Sunday's racing.

The top Canadian on the weekend was Doug Woodcock of Oshawa who place ninth in the slalom.

The victories gave Pyles 104 points and $12,900 in the season standings, good for third place behind Kashiwa and Henri Duvillard of France. Duvillard failed to qualify both days.

Next stop on the pro tour is next weekend at Montreal.

Jaynes Stopped By Clyde Gray

TORONTO (P) C— Clyde Gray of Toronto, Canadian and boxing champion, scored a seventh-round knockout victory Saturday night over Beau Jaynes of Boston.

Jaynes, who usually fights as a lightweight, was at 145 for the bout against Gray.

Gray, making his first ring appearance after a long layoff, said he was not surprised to learn after the fight that Jaynes had never before been stopped. The Boston fighter, who went down once in the fourth round, staggered to his corner at the end of the sixth and was unable to answer the bell for the seventh.

"I hit him with some great shots, combinations, everything," said Gray. "He was a tough one all right."

Jaynes had a swollen face after the bout while Gray had only a slight cut above his eye where the two bumped heads.

Kathy Kreiner Tops in Eagle Cup Downhill

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP) — Kathy Kreimer of Timmins won the women's downhill event Saturday with a two-run combined time of 53.2 seconds in the third leg of the Eagle Cup ski races.

Judy Richardson and Karen Gerbasi, both of North Bay, Ont. clocked an identical time of 54.7 seconds. Officials awarded Miss Richardson the silver medal in the event since she started after Miss Gerbasi in the race.

In the men's downhill, Tim Evans of North Bay won the gold medal with a two-run time of 52.3 seconds. Brad Elgie of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. was second with 52.5 seconds and David Ghent of Laurentian University, Sudbury, Ont., third in 52.8 seconds.

In the women's giant slalom Sunday, Miss Gerbasi won with a time of 70.9 seconds, Martha Trussler of North Bay followed with 74.8 seconds and Barb Olmsted, also of North Bay, placed third with 77 seconds.

Gord Gourley of Lively, Ont., won the men's giant slalom with a 68.9 clocking. Steve Wallace of North Bay was second in 69 seionds and Peter Virene of Sault Ste. Marie third with a time of 9.7 seconds.

Celtics at the Top of Their Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tempo, pace, intensity, pressure—it's Boston Celtics at the top of their game.

The Celtics put it together in a weekend series with New York Knicks, routing the New Yorkers 126-102 Saturday in Madison Square Garden and following that up Sunday with a 105-88 decision at Boston Garden.

"Our tempo has been fast, excruciatingly fast," said Celtics' coach Tommy Heinsohn, whose defending National Basketball Association champions have won 13 of their last 14 games. "We've been playing with a lot of intensity, and that has a lot to do with our success."

Elsewhere in the NBA Sunday, Detroit Pistons nipped Los Angeles Lakers 97-96, Buffalo Braves edged Seattle SuperSonics 99-93 in overtime, Philadelphia '76ers beat Chicago Bulls 109-97 and Houston Rockets defeated Portland Trail Blazers 102-92.

The return of centre Dave Cowens from his early injuries has sparked Boston's surge.

Cowens scored 25 points, grabbed 20 rebounds, handed out six assists and blocked three shots Sunday.

Boston's pressure defence limited New York's Walt Frazier to nine points and Earl Monroe to five.

Pistons 97 Lakers 96

Bob Lanier scored 31 points for detroit, including what proved to be the winning basket with 51 seconds left.

Braves 99 Sonics 93

Buffalo got 39 points from Bob McAdoo, but it was a free throw and jump shot by Randy Smith midway through the overtime that proved decisive. Smith's points gave the Braves a 93-91 lead.

76ers 109 Bulls 97

Centre LeRoy Ellis scored 27 points and team-mate Fred Carter matched that figure to lead Philadelphia past Chicago.

Rockets 102 Blazers 92

Rudy Tomjanovich scored 20 points in the first half as Houston built a nine-point lead, and the Blazers were never able to draw even. Tomjanovich finished with 28 points.

George McGinnis won the battle, but the Spirits of St. Louis won the war in the American Basketball Association.

McGinnis took game scoring honors with 40 points, but the Spirits defeated McGinnis' Indiana Pacers 120-108 Sunday, getting 89 points from their all-rookie front line of Marvin Barnes, Maurice Lucas and Gus Gerard.

Elsewhere in the ABA Sunday, New York Nets beat Virginia Squires 117-90, Kentucky Colonels beat Utah Stars 112-95 and San Antonio Spurs defeated San Diego Conquistadors 126-123.

Miller Agrees He's the Best

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Now, perhaps more than anyone ever has before, Johnny Miller has thrown down the challenge to Jack Nicklaus.

"Right now I might be No. 1," said Miller, after scoring his third golf victory in four starts this season.

This one came by a comfortable three strokes in the $160,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic, and put Miller ahead of last season's pace when he scored eight victories, acquired Player-of-the Year honors and collected a record $353,021 in prize winnings.

Niklaus, who has dominated pro golf for thec past decade, did not compete in this five-day 90-hole grind.

"Jack has been No. 1 so long, people are wanting someone to challenge him," Miller said after posting a last-round, four-under-par 68, for a 339 total, 21 under par.

"I think just because they want to see somebody else up there, they're beginning to say I'm No. 1," Miller said. "Right now I might be.

'But Jack has the ability to be better," said Miller.

"He has the potential. He's stronger than I am and more experienced. But he's not playing up to his potential, and I am.

"Maybe I'm better right now, but he could be."

"I'm not going to talk about winning four majors in a year," Miller said of the nunccomplished grand slam. "But I want to win one of the majors. After I win the first one, then I'll talk about the next one."

He now has won 11 American tournaments in the last 14 months.

The $32,000 he collected from this tournament pushed his winnings for the year to $108,343. That compares with $100,943 at this stage a year ago—when he set a record—and he's planning on playing a little more this year.

"I played good enough to win most tournaments," said Jerry Heard, second to Miller in Phoenix and third in this one.

He once had a share of the lead in the last round but couldn't match Miller's efforts down the stretch.

Bob Murphy came on to take second with a 66 and a 342 total, 18-under-par and three back. Heard was at 343 after a last-round 69.

George Knudson of Toronto, only Canadian in the tourna-

The key, Miller said, was a 25-to-foot putt, up and over a hump in the green, for birdie on the 14th.

"When I made that," he said, "I thought I had it won."

He did.

Shells Too Much For Bs

Belleville's Shell Juveniles whacked their local "B" counterparts 15-1 in a Sunday exhibition at the Memorial Arena.

Ross Lawrenson paced the winners with four goals and two assists. Three-goal efforts by Martin Thistel and Wayne Clapp, two each from Gary Thompson and Ross MacLeod, and a single from Ken Just rounded out the Shell scoring.

Peter McInroy got the last word, however, scoring the game's final goal for the losers with about seven minutes left to spoil Don Thompson's shutout bid.

Gun and Hunting Clubs Fight Gun Registration

OTTAWA (CP) — Representatives from gun and hunting clubs from Quebec to British Columbia gathered here Saturday to oppose gun control legislation now before the Senate.

The representatives, who said they speak for three million Canadians, specifically oppose registration of sporting guns. This would not stop killings, they said. They also demanded to be consulted during the formation of gun control legislation.

The centre of their attack was a bill that Senator Donald Cameron of Alberta is trying to get through the Senate. It has received second reading, approval in principle, and is awaiting discussion in committee.

The bill would require registration of all firearms including sporting rifles and shotguns, now exempt from such treatment under the Criminal Code. A permit to carry all guns would be mandatory as would training in the use of guns. The ownership of handguns would be under tighter control than at present.

A spokesman for Firearms and Responsible Ownership Inc. (FARO), a national gun association, presented these arguments:

—Registration of sporting and hunting rifles and shotguns would impose an unfair and restrictive burden on three million Canadians owners;

—It would hit those who respect the use of guns and not the criminals who get guns and use them, no matter what the law;

—Registration would hamper police in their normal duties;

—The Cameron bill is overly restrictive in that a man could not lend his gun even to his son to practice on a shooting range;

—Gun registration never has had any effect on murder rates;

—Registration in England and parts of the U. S. has not worked and pistol registration is not effective;

—Even police don't want further gun registration;

—Gun control is a coverup for failure of other forms of law en-forcement to cope with crime.

FARA spokesman William Jones of Hull, Que., said gun owners are being made the scapegoat of the politicians,

"We're the easy target. You can release a lot of pressure by talking gun control."

He said gun control would not work and instead advocated five-year, no-parole sentences for perpetrators of violence using a gun.

L. H. Nicholson of Ottawa, a former RCMP commissioner, spoke on behalf of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association and the Canadian Wildlife Federation.

He said there are between five and seven million rifles and shotguns in Canada. Registration of them all would take thousands of hours of police work that could be better spent in investigation and crime prevention.

The registration of handguns over the years called for in the Criminal Code, had been of only minimal assistance to police, he said, and the Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police is against further registration.

Gregory Believes Hunt Killed JFK

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP) — Dick Gregory, United States political activist-comedian, said Saturday he soon will formally accuse convicted Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt of the 1963 assassination of president John F. Kennedy.

Mr. Gregory told about 300 persons at a symposium at the University of Waterloo that he will make the charge despite knowing he cannot prove beyond a doubt that Hunt was in Dallas on the day of president Kennedy's death.

Mr. Gregory, 41, bases his charges against Hunt on photographs taken in Dallas the afternoon of the assassination.

The pictures Mr. Gregory showed the audience are the same as those brought before the Rockefeller commission investigating CIA domestic operations.

The pictures taken in Dallas soon after Kennedy's death show three men, two of whom Mr. Gregory said resemble Hunt and fellow Watergate conspirator Frank Sturgis.

He said the men were booked as vagrants after their arrest at a shopping centre near the death scene, but used John Doe aliases and were never fingerprinted.

SEES LIKELY LINK

Mr. Gregory said the picture "might connect Dallas with Watergate."

He said he will make the charge to get Hunt into court. Hunt has threatened to sue Mr. Gregory if he continues to accuse him of Kennedy's death.

He said his accusation will include charges that Hunt has killed "a number of other people" and served as the head of the CIA's domestic operations, starting in 1960.

Mr. Gregory described the Rockefeller commission as "a trick" since "the CIA is a tool of Rocky and the East Coast aristocrats put together to guarantee the safety of their money and investments around the world."

Mr. Gregory also said the CIA was connected with the deaths of Robert Kennedy and black leaders Malcolm X and Dr. Martin Luther King, as well as with the Symbionese Liberation Army (SLA) and the kidnapping of Patty Hearst.

Donald Oag Escapes Once Again

VANCOUVER (CP) — Donald Oag, 25, escaped from custody Sunday for the fourth time, [illegible] this time he won't "be taken alive."

Police said the London, Ont., native overpowered a prison guard at Vancouver International Airport, forcing him into a station wagon at knifepoint.

He shackled the guard and drove to downtown Vancouver, robbed the guard of about $1.50 and fled on foot. A second guard was picking up flight luggage when the incident occurred, police said.

Oag, serving a 12-year sentence for manslaughter, was being transferred to the British Columbia penitentiary from Millhaven penitentiary near Kingston, Ont., in order to appear in court in New Westminster, B.C., today.

He is one of eight prisoners seeking a court declaration that they have been deprived of rights guaranteed them by penitentiary service regulations. They claim their hair was cut forcibly and that they were subjected to "cruel and unusual punishment under indefinite solitary confinement."

In 1972, Oag was one of 14 prisoners involved in an escape from Millhaven. In 1973, while at the B.C. Penitentiary, he overpowered a guard escorting him to a nearby medical centre but was recaptured six hours later while hiding in a garage a few blocks away.

In October, 1969, Oag escaped

Buffalo Police Invade Canada

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — A Buffalo, N.Y., police cruiser chased a truck bearing Ontario licence plates across the Peace Bridge early Saturday and fought with the driver and passengers on Canadian soil, a spokesman for Niagara regional police said Sunday.

Canadian immigration officials said they tried to persuade the Buffalo policemen to return to United States soil, but they did so only after the arrival of Niagara police, called by immigration officials.

James Powless of Fort Erie, driver of the truck, suffered a fractured skull and was taken to hospital. His condition was said to be satisfactory.

Police said a lawyer representing Mr. Powless said Sunday that his client's head injury was caused by a bullet fired by Buffalo police during the chase.

But Niagara police said they had no evidence to support the claim and a hospital spokesman said the hospital could not confirm or deny that the wound was caused by a bullet.

Two witnesses—a Peace Bridge official and a truck driver—said they heard what they thought were gunshots during the high-speed chase.

Niagara police charged two Fort Erie brothers—Terence Hill, 26, and Lynn Hill, 23—with causing a disturbance.

Buffalo police said the chase began about 3:45 a.m. when the half-ton truck was spotted with six people in the cab. The three other persons were Mr. Powless's wife and two other women Niagara police would not identify.

The Buffalo force said its cruiser pulled alongside the truck just before it reached the U.S. side of the bridge and signalled for it to stop.

A police spokesman said the truck swerved towards the cruiser, hitting its front fender and then drove through the toll gate without paying.

Fort Erie detectives said they found no evidence of damage to the truck.

The Buffalo spokesman would not confirm that its vehicle entered Canada.

"I can verify only that the truck and our cruiser ran (U.S.) customs. I cannot verify the extent to which it crossed."

St. Pierre-Miquelon Give France Ultimatum

ST. PIERRE (CP) — Unions and local political leaders in France's only North American territory Sunday gave their national government until Wednesday to agree to a meeting here to discuss economic and other problems.

In a cable to Olivier Stirn, minister of overseas territories, locally-elected officials and union leaders said they would not go to Paris for a meeting, and threatened more strikes if the minister did not agree by Wednesday to come to St. Pierre-Miquelon, off Newfoundland's south coast.

Senator Albert Pen, president of the islands' general council, said the council would consider itself to have definitely resigned if there was no affirmative reply. The council first resigned in January to protest handling of a civil service strike.

Last Thursday more than 2,200 persons held a demonstration and general strike to back demands that Gov. Jean Cluchard and 65 special policemen be recalled immediately.

Senator Pen, mayor of this island capital of 5,500, reiterated during the weekend demands for the recall of the governor, described as the main obstacle to development planning for the islands.

The islands, which depend mainly on fishery and summer tourism, have asked the French government to pay for harbor developments, an enlarged airport and a wage subsidy for employees in private industry.

Ecology vs. Economy

Syncrude Oil Sands Project Called Classic Conundrum

OTTAWA (CP) — Energy Minister Donald Macdonald says the Syncrude oil sands project presents "the classic conundrum . . . the environmental tradeoff against the oil supply tradeoff."

Speaking on the CTV television program Question Period, Mr. Macdonald said the environmental impact of the project on the Athabasca River system is being investigated.

"There has been a preliminary study and there is a program to continue that," he said. "For the moment, we have decided to go on and try to perfect a technology but there is a problem."

Mr. Macdonald said initial environmental studies indicate that the Athabasca River system will not be endangered by the Syncrude project.

"On the other hand, I would acknowledge . . . that there is a major environmental concern here which has to be very much more defined before there is any very substantial additional development."

Last week the federal, Alberta and Ontario governments worked out a joint rescue operation for the financially-troubled Alberta project. All three governments would be shareholders—Ottawa's share is 15 per cent—along with the three oil companies already involved in the consortium.

Mr. Macdonald said the National Energy Board predicts that Canada could produce more oil than it needs by 1985.

"Now, there are all kinds of question marks and the board acknowledged this on the road to that conclusion. Among others there was the question mark as to how many oil sands plants we would be able to bring into operation in that period of time," he said.

"All we have really done this week is to keep open the option on that possibility."

The television program was taped on Thursday and broadcast Sunday evening.

Lewis Says Liberals Obsessed by Scandal

AJAX, Ont. (CP) — Stephen Lewis, Ontario NDP leader, attacked the Ontario Liberal party Sunday for its preoccupation with scandals, personal attacks and "vindictive politics."

He said Ontario voters do not respond well to such tactics.

Mr. Lewis was speaking at the NDP nomination meeting for the new provincial riding of Durham West which takes in Pickering, Ajax and Whitby, communities just east of Toronto.

Dr. Charles Godfrey, chairman of the People or Planes committee opposing the proposed Pickering International Airport, defeated Lawrence O'Leary and Dr. Matthew Rotstein on the first ballot.

Speaking of the Liberal party convention in Windsor this weekend, Mr. Lewis said he is "struck by how much they're concerned with generalities and scandal—their politics have become so vindictive and personal."

Mr. Lewis said the Conservatives, "embattled and filled with self delusions, are barking back—there's something pathetic and sad in their performance."

He said major issues in the next provincial election—which he expects in six to eight months—will be the proposed Pickering airport and the North Pickering project which will create a city with a population as high as 90,000.

If the NDP forms the next government—or is in a position to influence policy—both of these projects will be stopped, Mr. Lewis said. He said the federal government will not go ahead with the airport if the province does not co-operate.

He said the NDP campaign will not follow the Liberal tactics of personal attacks.

Dr. Godfrey's only declared opponent is Liberal Des Newman, mayor of Whitby and former chairman of the provincial municipal liasion committee.

Environment Minister William Newman, who lives just outside the riding, is deciding whether to contest Durham West.

Toronto Youth Held On Extortion Charge

TORONTO (CP) — York regional police arrested a 17-year-old youth Saturday in connection with a bid to extort $20,000 from Thomas Humphrey, a funeral parlor director from nearby Thornhill.

Neal Burden of Toronto has been charged with extortion and mischief endangering life.

Mr. Humphrey had received a letter instructing him to take the money to a tennis club Feb. 8 "or else there will be more trouble."

Shots were fired last Sunday, hitting two houses in Thornhill. One of the shots shattered a kitchen window, narrowly missing Mr. Humphrey

PC Caucus Gathering Held Two Days at Barrie

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — Robert Stanfield, leader of the federal Progressive Conservative party, said Saturday he hopes caucus meetings held as an experiment during the weekend will continue.

"They can do much to keep members of parliament in touch with the realities of the country and familiarize us with all parts of the country, local aims, aspirations and problems," Mr. Stanfield said. "And they can also make local non-parliamentary sections of the party more familiar with the complexity of the country and its problems."

Forty-five members of parlia- Ontario ridings met in Barrie ment and representatives of 80 Friday and Saturday.

SHOPLIFTING INCREASES

SASKATOON (CP) — City police reported an increase in shoplifting in Saskatoon. Hugh Fraser, deputy police chief, said thefts under $200 in November totalled 205, compared with 154 in November, 1973, and attributed much of the increase to shoplifters.

Science Advisory Body Planned by Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — Allan Grossman, provincial secretary for resources development, said Saturday that the Ontario government intends to set up an advisory committee on science policy.

The committee would advise on organization and management of science within the government and would recommend research and development projects, Mr. Grossman said at a meeting of the Council of the Chemical Institute of Canada.

Ezeke Wants to Teach PM How to Climb Tree

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP) — One of the first things Ezekiel Gray wanted to do in Canada was to show Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau how to climb a coconut tree.

Mr. Gray—or Ezeke, as he prefers to be called—recalled the prime minister's visit to Jamaica with a smile.

"I would like to meet him. I'd ask him why he didn't come to me to learn how to climb the tree." he said.

Although he had only been here a few days—Ezeke was in Owen Sound to entertain during Jamaica Night—there were several other things he wanted to do here.

"I would like to have a contract to record here in Canada. And I wouldn't mind living here for a while; I like the free country."

Inspiration came as easily to Ezeke in Owen Sound as it does in Jamaica. During an interview, he started to compose a song dedicated to Owen Sound.

Here are the first four lines:

Oh, how the people sweet.
Music rock you off your feet.
Owen Sound jump up carnival. Owen Sound jump up bacchanal.

"A bacchanal is like a festival. It's a word we use in Jamaica." he said.

Ezeke, who is 30, has been singing since he was a choir member at an English school. But it was not until 1960 that he began recording his own songs—and popular rock and calypso ballads—professionally.

"I used to be a caterer at a Jamaica Hotel. Now, instead of feeding the visitors, I entertain them," he said.

But the style of his performances depends on the mood he is in.

"You may see me perform two nights in a row, maybe singing the same songs. But they won't sound alike. It depends on what's going through my head."

"I'm not getting up to preach on a pulpit in a church. I just want to relate my thoughts through my singing," he said.

This communication takes other forms than music in Ezeke's performances. He eats fire, dances, prophesies and even walks on glass.

"It's not that hard. It's just a question of mind over matter."

Through his songs and performances, Ezeke tries to help people see the freedom and joy he sees. He wants people to feel the way he feels.

"I want people to love each other. It's very simple."

Song - writing; rehearsing and the endless responsibilities of a performer are not accomplished on a tight schedule, as far as Ezeke is concerned.

"I don't rehearse a song. I sing it in my mind and remember the words. It's a continuous process."

When he's listening to the radio and a song that he hasn't heard before is played, he asks his wife, Linda, to write down the words.

The most important thing to remember about a performing career is to know yourself—your own limitations and capabilities, Ezeke said.

"I know I was born with this thing and as time went on, I progressed."

NEW YORK (AP) — Police were searching today for two armed men who robbed 13 CBS employees in a second-floor lounge at the network studios in mid-town Manhattan.

The robbers, armed with a shotgun and knife, wore ski masks and apparently skirted the main entrance guarded by a security desk, police said.

No one was injured during the holdup which occurred shortly after 8 p.m. Thursday.

MEMPHIS (AP) — Elvis Presley, being treated for what his doctor says is an intestinal blockage, remained in satisfactory condition in hospital Wednesday, but won't be released as soon as had been expected.

The singer's physician, Dr. George Nichopoulos, said Presley will be in the hospital "several more days." The hospital said Sunday that Presley might be released by mid—week.

Roy Rogers Recalls Career As 'King of the Cowboys'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — At 63 and despite a heart condition, Roy Rogers still seems capable of heading 'em off at the pass.

He weighs 170 pounds, the same as when he was riding and guitar-strumming his way through all those Republic westerns And his light brown hair has only a few strands of grey.

"My dad died at 89 and he was less grey than I am," said the cowboy star. "Maybe that's because we're part Choctaw. You don't see many grey-haired Indians."

After almost 45 years as an entertainer Rogers keeps busy with a variety of enterprises and appears at a half-dozen state fairs and rodeos with wife Dale Evans every year. When he isn't working, he's out in the desert on his motorcycle or exercising his thoroughbred horses. He bowls five or six times a week.

All this is despite a heart condition that would send some men into retirement..

"I think that's what life was meant to be—being active with the things you like to do," he said. "I'd rather die with my boots on."

Rogers was in town for business affairs and civic dinners, then was heading back to Apple Valley, the Mojave Desert resort where he and Dale have made their home for nine years.

"I never thought I could ever live in the desert," he said. "I can remember when I was making those Republic westerns and we shot locations where it was 100 degrees. Ole Gabby Hayes was with me then and we were chompin' salt tablets like they were sugar candy."

Born Leonard Slye in Cincinnati, Rogers spent his boyhood in the country. He has vivid memories of those Ohio winters—"walking three, four miles through slush to get to school; sitting around the pot-bellied stove in the room that held Grades 1 through 8; thawing out our feet in buckets of melting snow."

California seemed a paradise when the family visited his older sister in 1930. On the return to Ohio, Leonard—still in high school—announced he was going right back to Los Angeles.

He had learned to play guitar and call square dances and he found a job singing on an Inglewood radio statio. He appeared on local radio with western groups—the Rocky Mountaineers, Pioneers Trio and Sons of the Pioneers—accompanying singing cowboys like Dick Foran and Gene Autry in their films.

When Autry had a fight with Republic boss Herbert J. Yates, Rogers was hired as the new western star. From Under Western Stars in 1938 to Spoilers of the Plains in 1951, he made 88 westerns, earning him the title King of the Cowboys.

"Yates insisted that we leave out the romance," Rogers recalled. "I never kissed the girl, except maybe on the cheek like a sister. Even then, we'd get tons of letters from boys saying, 'Leave out that mushy stuff.' Trouble was that the girls liked a little romance, so we had to try to please them too."

Rogers' first wife died in 1946 and he married his leading lady, Dale Evans, on New Year's Eve, 1947. Yates, insisting that the public would not believe Rogers' wife playing his girl-friend in the movies, dropped her from the series.

"The studio got a jillion letters of protest and Yates had to put Dale back in the pictures."

After the western movies headed into the sunset, Roy and Dale starred in 101 television westerns which are still playing reruns. They kept up their heavy schedule of personal appearances until 1958, when Roy developed a heart condition.

"I was hunting deer at 9,000 feet in Utah. I had just shot and cleaned one and the two fellows I was with put it on a carrier with a bicycle wheel to take it down the mountain. I had gone about 150 feet and my arms started hurting. I couldn't get air but I thought it was just because of the altitude."

He managed to get home and for weeks afterward he felt the same sensations. He entered a clinic and the trouble was diagnosed as angina pectoris. For a year his activity was limited.

"Now I can do almost everything, except a rough-and-tumble fight in a picture."

He tours the country to open new additions to his chain of restaurants. He continues recording, including the recent song Hoppy, Gene and Me. He oversees the Roy Rogers Museum in Apple Valley, where up to 100,000 tourists pay 50 cents to $1.50 to view mementoes of his career, including his stuffed horse, Trigger.

Recently he taped introductions for a syndicated TV series, Roy Rogers Presents The Great Movie Cowboys, showing westerns starring Autry, Johnny Mack Brown, Tim Holt, Charles Starrett, Rogers and others.

He deplored recent westerns with blood spattering all over the screen—"that could have an adverse effect on some of the children in the audience."

Roy and Dale are alone at home. All the children have married and there are 15 grandchildren.

The family consisted of two children by Roy's first marriage, one by Dale's, one of their own, four adopted and one foster child. Three have died: their own Robin, the retarded child Dale wrote about in the first of her 13 books,

Blames Dog For Fire

SOUTHINGTON, Conn. (AP) — A pet dog was to blame for a fire which destroyed a ranch-style house and killed the dog, Fire Chief Arthur Toss said. The dog, owned by the Blair Alexander family, apparently flipped a hotplate switch on the electric range while jumping on the counter to get an orange, he said. The hotplate caused a can of soup to boil until it evaporated, then started a fire which spread to nearby cabinets. When Mrs. Alexander returned home, she found the house full of smoke and the dog dead on the floor.

SHOOT LARGE BEAR

DOUGLAS, Ont. (CP) — A 560-pound black bear was shot by David Wright at nearby Constan Lake. Gary Himberg, local conservation officer, said it was one of the largest to be killed in Ontario.

Your Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 11

Aries (March 21-April 19) One with a strong affection for you is working behind the scenes too cover bases you've neglected to touch.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) An active pal of yours will do his best to see that this is not a dull day for you. Be ready to shift your schedule around.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) You're going to get an unexpected boost toward a goal from one who appreciates your spirit and how hard you're trying.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) The best ideas you get will not be for yourself but for loved ones. Information you pass on will be used advantageously.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Business dealings today will not be conducted in the normal manner. When final results are tallied, though, they will prove profitable.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A sudden decision you'll make will startle all concerned because of its boldness and lack of selfishness on your part.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 3) A career opportunity will pop up that will spell "gain" for you, if you can tie the loose ends together quickly.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You've made more of an impression than you realize on a recent acquaintance. Don't be surprised to hear from his person out of the blue.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be lucky today in dealings with friends whose sincerity is beyond question. Seek out those you trust.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Take the initiative in getting in touch with one who has been on your mind lately. Your call will trigger a chain of fun events.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your financial prospects will be bright the next few days but not in obvious ways Be alert for offbeat windfalls.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't wait for good things to happen the next few days. The breaks will be there if YOU take the first steps.

Oceans Are Rich With Minerals

VANCOUVER (CP) — The oceans of the world are rich with mineral resources which have barely been touched but a University of British Columbia scientist says vastly increased production is delayed by technological and political considerations.

In 1969, mineral resources recovered from the sea accounted for $7 bililon ,or about two per cent of world mineral production, and those resources were taken from the ocean bottom closest to shore and in shallow water on the continental shelf.

"Even the mineral resources of the ocean closest to shore, therefore, have barely been touched," said Dr. Huge Wynne-Edwards, head of UBC's department of geological sciences.

"It is now plain that they represent only a tiny fraction of the total potential resources of the seas."

However, resource development won't be launched on a full scale until technical and political problems are overcome, he told a meeting of the Vancouver branch of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy.

The rate of development will depend on laws of domain, he explained.

"Most states agree that there is some region beyond the national limit where the ocean belongs to no one. At present there is no way of staking a claim and no way of defending a mineral property. There is no means of regulating mining practices."

Another consideration in development would be environmental controls, although these would be coupled with increasing environmental controls in land-based operations.

"Developing countries could not be excluded from the benefits of ocean development and an unrestrained race to carve up and pollute the oceans must at all costs be avoided," Dr. Wynne-Edwards said.

Offshore oil and gas accounted for 20 per cent of world production and that figure would probably double by 1980.

About $1 billion worth of other minerals would annually be produced from the sea floor or from the surface. Sand and gravel, diamonds, tin, iron, chromium and titanium were recovered by dredging from drowned river channels. Sulphur, coal and iron ore were mined or extracted from the surface. Salt has an annual value of $173 million.

He said other chemicals are also being extracted from the sea and the possibility of taking gold and uranium has been studied. Not yet exploited, but valuable, were phosphorite deposits in the form of coating and nodules in many offshore areas.

Endometriosis Poses Infertility

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Almost three years ago my doctor informed me I had endometriosis.

After reading two letters in your column and your reply, I decided another problem associated with endometriosis would be worth mentioning. That problem is infertility.

Although I have been under close medical care, my doctors did not inform me how detrimental endometriosis can be to fertility. On my last checkup my physician suggested that my husband and I start adoption proceedings if we wanted any children.

Please warn women with this disease that abdominal pain is only part of the problem—a part that can be controlled.—M.E.

Infertility does accompany endometriosis, but the reasons for it are not clear.

Endometriosis, as you probably were told, is the presence of uterine lining tissue that is misplaced outside the uterus. The name of the muccous membrane lining the uterus is endometrium, hence the name—endometriosis. The misplaced tissue can be found anywhere within the pelvic cavity.

Endometriosis occurs in women during their childbearing years, often in women who have never carried a child successfully. This misplaced tissue responds typically to the effect of the female hormone, with resultant pain at the time of menstruation

If pregnancy occurs before the endometriosis becomes too extensive, the condition usually abates for varying periods of time. Thus one treatment for it is to create a "false pregnancy" with the use of ovarian hormones, either with the birth control pill or with a drug called diethylstilbesterol. If you have been under close observation for three years, as your letter indicates, you may already have had this widely-used treatment.

The surgical approach is to remove as much of the misplaced endometrial tissue as possible. But if the condition is extensive, the uterus and ovaries are removed, which of course means absolute infertility.

Women should be made aware of the infertility factors accompanying this condition, but they should also know that the future is not always predictable or certain. Pregnancy sometimes has a way of occurring even when least expected.

Your doctor's advice sounds good to me.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has emphysema, and we live about a block from a lake. He wondered if we moved away if this would help him.

There are about six other men here by the lake who have it. What is your opinion? — E.H.V.

It is doubtful that the humidity produced by the lake has any effect on emphysema.

The nature of emphsema is such that victims often grope for any factor that they suspect makes breathing more difficult.

It seems logical that simply taking a vacation away from the lake to a dry area would indicate to your husband whether or not the lake is or is not a factor, though it is doubtful.

Jim: "Does anyone ever ask you how he will know when he has become a good bridge player?"

Oswald: "Not often. Most players are too busy telling me about their partner's mistakes."

Jim: "One way to know is when other good players begin to think you are. This doesn't happen too often either. Here is a better test. You are a good player when you learn to make winning plays, that seem to go against normal good procedure."

Oswald: "I see you have a hand right here to illustrate this."

Jim: "The ordinary player grabs the first trick with the queen or jack of spades and leads a diamond. East wins with the king, leads a second spade and eventually our ordinary player winds up in the soup."

Oswald: "A slightly better player leads a club to dummy at trick two and then plays a diamond. Unless East hops up with the king the hand will come home."

Jim: "The really good player lets East hold the first trick. He wins the second one and attacks diamonds. It doesn't matter who wins the first diamond trick. There is no way for the defence to bring the spade suit home.

Helms Admits Failing to Give Facts on CIA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard Helms, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency, admits he intentionally failed to tell United States Senate committees all he knew about CIA work in Chile and withheld information about the Nixon administration's desire to have the Marxist government of Salvador Allende overthrown.

Helms' admission was made in secret testimony Jan. 22 before the Senate foreign relations committee. A censored version of his statements was released Sunday.

Helms appeared before the committee to explain various apparent discrepancies in previously sworn statements regarding CIA operations abroad and at home.

"I felt obliged to keep some of this stuff, in other words, not volunteer a good deal of information," Helms said of his testimony in 1973 before the foreign relations panel and a subcommittee on multi-national corporations.

Helms denied he ever knowingly lied to a congressional committee, but said: "If I have been guilty in the past of not having gone the whole way, all right."

Testifying two years ago on his nomination to be ambassador to Iran, Helms was asked if the CIA tried "to overthrow the government of Chile." Allende headed the government and died when the military staged a successful coup in 1973.

"No sir," Helms replied without elaboration.

"Did you have any money passed to the opponents of Allende," Helms was asked.

"No sir," said Helms.

"So the stories you were involved in that are wrong entirely?" Helms was asked.

"Yes sir," Helms replied.

He told the foreign relations panel last month he should have answered the 1973 questions "in a much more extensive way."

"I think I made one mistake in that testimony, maybe a serious mistake, but I should have probably asked either to go off the record or to have asked to discuss this matter in some other forum. . . ." Helms said. He said disclosure of CIA operations against the Allende government might have further damaged relations between the United States and Chile.

"As far as the earlier statement is concerned, whether the agency tried to overthrow the government of Chile, I answered 'no.' I believe that is true . . ." Helms said.

"I know that the Nixon administration wanted it overthrown but there was no way to do it that anybody knew of. . ." Helms said.

He repeatedly told the committee he did not remember details of CIA expenditures in Chile. Other officials have said the Nixon administration authorized more than $8 million for covert CIA operations in Chile to help Allende's opponents in government and the press.

Income Tax Changes To Get OK This Week

OTTAWA (CP) — Government and Progressive Conservative officials say that important income-tax proposals, already debated for seven days, should be approved by the Commons this week.

The New Democrats, seeking opportunities to fight the Syncrude oil sands agreement, are not so sure.

Stanley Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), NDP House leader, said Friday that the tax bill, on which 1974 income-tax deductions depend, should get second reading—approval in principle—this week. He would not say what might happen after that.

He added that the Syncrude agreement, announced last week and strongly opposed by the NDP, will be debated during discussions of the tax bill's resource provisions.

The NDP has been seeking every available means to prod the government and to gain publicity for its opposition to the Syncrude agreement, under which the federal, Ontario and Alberta governments participate in the Alberta oil sands project.

The New Democrats ran into trouble with Speaker James Jerome last week when they attempted to move a string of resolution opposing the Syncrude agreement.

The NDP will be able to zero in on Syncrude when debate begins on sections of the tax bill end provincial resource royalty deductions from corporation tax.

Sections of the bill that individuals look forward to are those reducing personal income tax by $150 to $500 for 1974 and by $200 to $750 in 1975.

Other sections provide for tax-free savings of up to $1,000 a year—to a maximum of $10,000—for the purchase of a first home. There also is provision for tax-free savings interest of $1,000.

The 1974 income tax forms are printed on the basis of the bill being passed. The government hopes that the bill will get speedy passage so it can become law as soon as possible. The deadline for mailing income tax returns to the government is April 30.

The Conservatives, although they strongly oppose the resource-tax sections and want an increased income tax deduction, say they are not trying to delay the bill.

Sinclair Stevens (York-Simcoe), who is running the Conservative strategy, said the legislation might get through the Commons before Friday. It was debated for four days last week.

Sharp Jump Occurs In Ontario Jobless

OTTAWA (CP) — A steep rise in unemployment in Ontario was the major contributor to a jump in the national unemployment rate to 6.7 per cent in January, Statistics Canada reported.

Nova Scotia was the only province with a drop in the unemployment rate while there was no change in Quebec and Saskatchewan.

The January figure is up from six per cent in December and it is the highest since April, 1971. The unemployment rate has gone up for three straight months. It was at 5.3 per cent in October.

In Ontario, the January rate was six per cent, up from 4.6 in December. The last time the Ontario rate was that high was in April, 1961.

These figures are adjusted to account for the fact that many workers are out of jobs because of seasonal factors which hit such industries as agriculture, fishing and logging.

The actual January unemployment rate was 8.4 per cent, or 817,000 in a labor force of 9,683,000.

The increase in unemployment here is part of a trend affecting industrial countries. The January rate in the United States was 8.2 per cent, a 33-year high.

Newfoundland continued to have the worst unemployment rate. At 16.1 per cent in January it was up slightly from 16 per cent in December but still below rates last June when it hit 20 per cent.

The New Brunswick rate in January was 10.9 per cent, up from 10.6 per cent in December. These are the highest rates in the province since Statistics Canada began compiling separate unemployment figures for the Atlantic provinces in 1966.

Men absorbed all the rise in unemployment in January.

For men over 25, the rate went to 5.2 per cent from 4.4 and for men 24 and younger there was an increase to 13.3 per cent from 11.7.

The number of women with jobs increased on a seasonally-adjusted basis, as more women entered the labor force.

The seasonally-adjusted unemployment rate for women over 25 was unchanged at 3.6 per cent while for younger women there was an increase to 9.5 per cent from nine.

In Nova Scotia, the unemployment rate dropped to 7.3 per cent from 7.6.

The British Columbia rate was 7.5 per cent, up from 6.8 in December and the highest since January, 1973.

Snowmobile Clubs Pleased By New Rules

TORONTO (CP) — New legislation governing the use of snowmobiles has been favorably accepted by most operators, say spokesmen for the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs (OFSC).

The Motorized Snow Vehicles Act, which became law last Dec. 20, encourages snowmobilers to travel on trails rather than roads, and is loose enough to allow municipalities to design bylaws geared to their own needs.

Two School Construction Jobs Planned in Hastings

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

Estimated project costs totalling $838,000 for additions and alteratios to two elementary schools were approved by the Hastings County Board of Education Monday.

Construction is involved at Tweed-Hungerford Senior School, where advanced renovations will also occur, and at Tyendinaga Public School.

Keith Hawkins, controller of plant, told the board in his report, the Tweed - Hungerford project will be tendered "as a stipulated lump sum project using a general contractor in the hope that the one person will be able to effectively co-ordinate all of the work and to complete the work in sufficient time so that the school may be occupied for September."

Separate cost for this project is $527,000 to be financed from debenture and current revenue.

The Tyendinaga project, with a price tag of $311,000, will be undertaken "on a construction management basis using our own forces," said Mr. Hawkins.

Margaret Thatcher Elected Leader

LONDON (AP) — Margaret Thatcher today was elected the first woman leader of Britain's Conservative party. She would become the first British woman prime minister if the Tories, now in the opposition, won the next general election due by 1979.

Mrs. Thatcher, 48, a former education minister and leader of the party's right wing, received 146 votes, outpolling four male competitors and giving her an outright majority of the 276 - member Conservative caucus in the House of Commons.

This was 16 votes more than she got last week when she outpolled former prime minister Edward Heath and toppled him from the Tory leadership without herself getting a decisive margin.

Her main rival this time, the former secretary for Northern Ireland, William Whitelaw, polled 79 votes. James Prior and Sir Geoffrey Howe each polled 19 and John Peyton 11. Two members were absent or abstained.

Mrs. Thatcher, currently party spokesman on financial affairs, pulled off a stunning political upset in deposing Heath. The former prime minister had agreed to put his leadership to the test after losing two national elections to Harold Wilson's Labor party last year.

Doctors Consider Pot Use No Crime

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Medical Association (CMA) said today that offenders convicted of simple possession of cannabis—marijuana or hashish—should not be burdened with a criminal record.

Dr. Bette Stephenson, president of the association, which groups 26,000 physicians, led a delegation which presented a brief to the Senate committee on legal and constitutional affairs.

The committee is studying proposed legislation to transfer control of marijuana and hashish from the Narcotic Control Act to the Food and Drug Act.

Dr. Stephenson said the CMA welcomes provisions of the proposed legislation that would eliminate jail sentences for simple possession of cannabis drugs, but said this is not enough.

"The association must view with considerable concern the failure of the legislation to eliminate the stigma—the possibility for criminal record.

"The social and health problems resulting from a criminal record far outweigh the crime of simple possession of cannabis for personal use."

Dr. Stephenson said the CMA "strongly urges" amendment of the proposed legislation to eliminate criminal records in cases of simple possession for personal use.

But if that was not possible, the association called for provisions "for the automatic erasure of the criminal record" following a two-or three-year "charge-free probationary period."

At the same time, the CMA reiterated its opposition to legalization of marijuana and hashish and warned of the potential hazards of using them.

"There is an increasing body of evidence that marijuana may not be the relatively harmless substance is was thought to be, and scientific observations over the past five years have suggested that there are definite hazards in its use," the brief said.

Rebels Beaten Back

ADDIS ABABA (AP) — Ethiopian troops beat back a determined attempt by Eritrean insurgents to seize Asmara's airport and cut the besieged northern provincial capital's only remaining supply route, diplomatic sources reported.

Kissinger in Israel

JERUSALEM (AP) — State Secretary Henry Kissinger of the United States planned a full day of talks today with Israeli leaders as he pressed his search for common ground between them and the Egyptians.

Onassis Has Operation

PARIS (AP) — Aristotle Onassis was reported recovering satisfactorily today from a gall bladder operation as well as the attack of influenza that confined him to bed nearly two weeks ago.

Colson Will Face Queries About CIA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles Colson, former White House special counsel, will answer questions from the Rockefeller commission staff following his recent charges that the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) was involved in espionage in the United States, his lawyer says.

"We'll be over there answering whatever questions they have to throw at him," lawyer Kenneth Adams said in confirming the interview scheduled for today.

Colson, who was released from prison less than two weeks ago after serving seven months of a one-to three-year term for obstruction of justice, has charged the CIA had prior knowledge of the Watergate burglary and the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Iran Army Trained In Copters

NEW YORK (AP) — Recently-retired United States Army aviators working for a private American company run by their former commanding officer are providing the shah of Iran's emerging army with the latest tactical training in combat helicopter assault warfare.

Veterans of the 10-year attempt to perfect air mobile warfare in Vietnam, these officers are part of a 1,500-man American civilian force assembled in Iran in the last 18 months by retired U.S. Army Maj.-Gen. Delk Oden, formerly the commanding general of the U.S. Army Aviation Centre at Ft. Rucker, Ala.

As president of Bell Helicopter International, Oden is directing his men to help create the Iran Sky Cavalry Brigade, a strike force using helicopter gunships and assault helicopters modelled after the U.S. 1st Cavalry Division that fought in Vietnam's highlands.

Man Says Ailment Hidden

TORONTO (CP) — John Dodds, an employee at the Canadian Johns-Manville Co. asbestos plant for 22 years, says he was not told by the company until last November that his lungs were damaged from breathing asbestos and silica.

And he wonders why because he had chest x-rays at the company every year for 18 years and twice last year. His most recent chest x-ray was last June or July.

Mr. Dodds, 55, said the company doctor, who informed him of his condition three months after a private physician told him his breathing was abnormal, said that he "might as well keep working."

"'You've got it anyway,' he told me, 'and there's no cure for it,'" Mr. Dodds said in an interview Monday.

Another private physician later told him his breathing was abnormal and, like the first private doctor, told him to avoid further exposure to asbestos and silica.

"I decided to quit right there," Mr. Dodds said.

Ellis Lists Benefits Of Christmas on Monday

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Christmas comes but once a year — and last Christmas led to some misunderstanding about his feelings for the festival, says Jack Ellis, MP Hastings.

In his current newsletter to constituents, Mr Ellis explains comments published in a newspaper about Christmas — a holiday he feels should fall on a Monday.

Among the advantages he quoted in his newsletter:

Retailers would have the previous day off; industry's plans would be facilitiated; families would have Saturday and Boxing Day for travelling.

Most of all, since it would be preceded by Sunday, the change would mean Christmas would "regain some of its original meaning," said Mr. Ellis.

"It has become altogether too commercial and the change would help to bring it back to the Christian observance intended," said the MP.

He said he mentioned it at a prayer breakfast in Ottawa and members of "all faiths" thought it an "excellent idea".

"Nowhere in scripture is there anything that says Christmas must fall on Dec. 25," said Mr. Ellis. "In fact, there is some controversy on the subject."

Election Called

LISBON (AP) — Portugal will hold its first free election in 50 years on April 12, and President Francisco da Costa Gomes has warned the voters to beware of extremists of both the right and left and join in the construction of a pluralistic democracy.

Petition in Blood

After cutting his finger with a razor blade, Deputy Nguyen Van Binh, left, lets blood drip into bowl. The blood was used to sign a petition calling on the U.S. government to end all support for South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thiep. Board To Hire Secretary

BLOOMFIELD — Prince Edward school trustees have voted to hire a secretary to co-ordinate a community education program to be funded through ministry of education grants.

It was noted at Monday's board meeting that a total of $61,200 in grant funds is available for community education programs in region nine. Of this amount the Prince Edward County board is eligible for $7,000. A total of $6,000 will be spent for a secretary's salary and the balance used towards administration costs of the course.

Prince Edward County director of Education John McNeil says the community education program will tap community resources. He suggested individuals with wide varieties of hobbies and interests will be approached for presentations. Also county industries may be asked to outline their operations.

The community education program is open to all interested persons and there is no fee.

Mr. McNeil stressed the need for public input and said the secretary would co-ordinate and organize the program.

The grant for the county board would run from March until July. At the end of May application for additional funds can be made.

Four Injured In Two-car Crash

TRENTON — Town police say four people suffered minor injuries in a two-car rear-end collision on West St. near Barbara St. late Monday.

Only one was treated at Trenton Memorial Hospital and no record exists of the other three unnamed individuals, a hospital spokesman said today.

Treated and released was Margaret Homwood, 53, of 132 Byron, driver of one of the two vehicles.

Police said the Homwood vehicle was stopped on West St. to discharge a passenger when struck in the rear by a car driven by Glen Richard Rouse, 45, of 6 Russell St. in Brighton.

Damage to the two vehicles was estimated at $1,800.

Crash Throws 5-year-old Off Bridge

STOCKDALE — A five-year-old Stockdale boy is in good condition today in Kingston hospital after the impact of a car-snowmobile collision sent him over the side of Cold Creek Bridge to the creek bank 16 feet below.

A Kingston General Hospital spokesman said today James Earl Lawrence is in good condition with head injuries.

The boy's father, James Frederick Lawrence, 28, is in Trenton Memorial Hospital under observation following the Saturday afternoon collision. He is reported in satisfactory condition.

Brighton provincial police said the Lawrence snowmobile was in collision with a car driven by Elizabeth Kotrba, 44, of 66 Main St. Frankford.

The boy, a passenger on the snow machine, was thrown from the snowmobile when it slid into the front of the Kotrba vehicle, police say.

He was taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital from where he was transferred to Kingston Saturday.

Bates Re-elected

Charles Bates, Melrose farmer and veteran Liberal organizer in Hastings County, has been re-elected Liberal Party vice-president for eastern Ontario.

Mr. Bates, first named to the post last year, was re-elected at the party's annual meeting in Windsor last weekend.

As a vice-president he supervises party organization in an area from Toronto east to the Quebec border.

Using electricity wisely isn't just a matter of avoiding waste.

Being watchful to avoid the frittering away of kilowatthours is everyone's concern, in the interest of economy and conservation of valuable energy resources.

But for some people, living in older homes with outdated wiring, restricted use of appliances is not always a matter of choice. They do not have sufficient circuits to serve normal needs without resorting to 'octopus' outlets and extension cords. The result: overloading and blowing of fuses. These conditions also tend to diminish the performance of appliances and shortens their life.

Inadequate wiring is not only inconvenient, it can be a safety hazard. If you have any doubts about the capacity of your home's wiring have it checked by a qualified Electrical Contractor. Then, use electricity wisely... and safely.

'First Come-First Served'

Trenton Sets Limit on Local Grants

TRENTON — Requests for donations from town council will henceforth be given on a "first come, first served" basis until a budget maximum of $1,000 is reached.

Once the $1,000 is gone, further requests will be turned down and the suppliants will be told to come back in the following fiscal year.

Town council agreed on the action Monday as a solution to the problem faced early in 1974 over its policy of granting money to various town organizations.

Ony three groups will be exempt from the new policy's provisions — Arc Industries, the Chamber of Commerce and the Victorian Order of Nurses.

Originally, the resolution brought before council established a Jan. 31 deadline for submission of requests.

However, the provision was deleted upon objections from councillors Ron Price and Edward Todd. Mr. Price said, "I don't think we have to set a time limit. There are too many things that come up that people don't know of themselves."

Councillor Robert Wannamaker again failed in his attempt to further restrict town expenditures by limiting town contributions for shared advertising.

He suggested an limit of $25 be set as the town's contribution to a joint advertisement with any town group. He accused council of throwing taxpayers' money away: "We shouldn't be shelling out money for advertising" as high as $100.

As of Monday, all requests for funds will be reviewed individually by council and money will be donated on the merits of each case.

Hospital Ward Now Open to Visitors

TRENTON — Hospital authorities here have lifted a ban on visitors to elderly patients saying the high incidence of flu in Trenton has decreased over the previous week.

Trenton Memorial Hospital administrator John Lupton said Monday the restriction of visitors to C-2 ward was discontinued on the advice of the ward's two medical advisors. The ban was lifted Monday afternoon, five days after it was imposed.

"The extra risk is past," said Mr. Lupton, who earlier stated that elderly patients are more susceptible to upper respiratory ailments than other hospital patients.

The move last week was a preventive measure in view of what was considered a high level of flu infections in Trenton.

Affected by the measure were about 40 patients in the ward, one of five wards in the hospital.

Fewer Disposal Sites Endorsed

TRENTON — Town council endorsed a resolution from Tweed village council here Monday calling for the establishment of several centrally located disposal sites in Hastings County.

Tweed's resolution is based on a recommendation by the county waste management study. It calls for central sites instead of the many now scattered across the county.

Operation of Dock Prompts Meeting

TRENTON — A special meeting will be held in council chambers next week to allow the Trenton Chamber of Commerce and the town to iron out any differences in opinion over the operation of the government docks here this summer.

Earlier this year, council offered the chamber the opportunity to run the dock this year and were met with a written reply that such operation should be discussed.

Council decided Monday to call a meeting with chamber representatives for Monday next week.

The chamber has argued that operation of the dock would be a money losing deal if full-time staff had to be hired to work serving summer boaters.

Town council offered the dock to the chamber in order to help offset some of the losses the chamber itself has incurred.

In response to council's offer, the chamber suggested a meeting be held outside a regular council meeting. It felt discussions could become lengthy and "there could be mire ideas brought forth at an informal meeting".

Mall Approved

TRENTON — By bylaw Monday, town council established three days in July as those in which shoppers and small children will be able to wander Dundas St. West free of the noise and gas fumes of vehicles.

A pedestrian mall will be held on the roadway from Thursday, July 24 to Saturday, July 26.

Dundas St. will be closed from Front to Division Sts. King St. will be barracaded near Elgin.

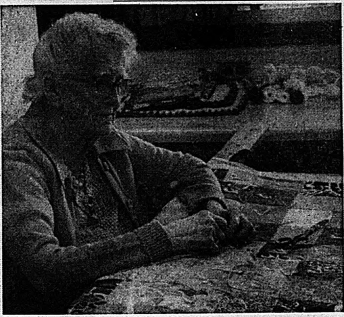
Town Faces CAS Hike

TRENTON — The town will face a 13-per-cent increase in its levy to the Family and Children's Service of Hastings County this year, councillor F. J. Pete Aziz told council here Monday.

The increase represents about $6,000 over the $44,500 the town gave the Children's Aid Society (CAS) in 1974.

Mr. Aziz said Trenton's portion is less than the overall 13 per cent increase of the CAS budget in 1975. At present, the budget is before the provincial government for approval.

He said the higher levy is due to an increase in wages, materials and costs of keeping children in foster homes in the county.



Sewing for Greenhouse

Emma Miles of Hastings Centennial Manor in Bancroft helps with finishing touches on a quilt that was made in the manor's craft shop. Money raised from the sale of crafts made at the manor has been earmarked for a greenhouse to be built at the manor to provide an additional activity for elderly residents.

Bancroft Senior Citizens Designing Roadside Park

BANCROFT — For more than 130 Bancroft area senior citizens, a weekly club meeting on Wednesday afternoons, holds a particular friendly charm and a true feeling of concern and fellowship.

The club, which was only formed three years ago has been the incentive for the formation of other area clubs in Cardiff, Maynooth Apsley and Coe Hill.

"We don't have nearly all the local senior citizens involved yet," said Bancroft club president Reg Blatherwick, "If they all came, this hall wouldn't be large enough to hold them."

Each week, the meetings program includes cards or bingo as well as a vigorous dance session to keep everyone limber.

Past president Kay Genest said "when we first started, no one would get up and dance but now there are some couples who don't sit down the whole time. We also don't hear now about any aches and pains."

A draw is also run often, for items such as a cake, baked and donated by Margaret Pickering.

The Bancroft club is a member of the united co-operative of the senior citizens of Ontario and was originally formed under a New Horizons grant.

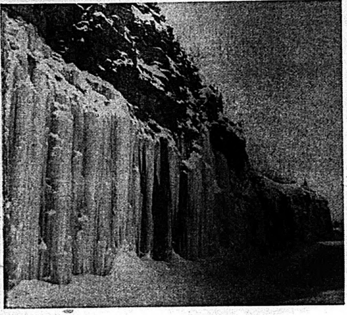
At the moment, the senior members of the North Hastings community are designing and looking after a park on Highway 62 and have hopes that sometime in the future they will have a permanent meeting spot that could be open on a daily basis.

Bonds Stolen

PICTON — Town police are investigating the theft of $2,650 in cash and bonds from the residence of a Picton man.

John Carey of 16 Mill St. this week reported a fishing tackle box containing money, bonds and personal papers missing from his home.

Police say the theft is believed to have occurred sometime in the last week.



Silver Lining

When winter storms slow traffic and make driving hazardous motorists can hardly wait 'til Spring. This unusual ice formation on a rock cut near South Bay offers a silver lining to winter's stormy weather, however. Water trickling from the rocks has frozen into giant icicles that offer abstract art to a keen eye. Ghost-like arms and faces can be spotted in the ice sculpture.

Taylor Says Programs Creating Inverted Society

PICTON — The decline of the dollar's purchasing power is causing increasing concern, confusion, fear and even anger among consumers says James Taylor MLA Prince Edward-Lennox.

Mr. Taylor, in a recent address to the Prince Edward Women's Conservative Association, observed the quality of products and service are slipping.

"There seems to be a deliberate and progressive cheapening of goods which the manufacturers must conclude are too small to be noticeable."

"Prices rise, quality falls and the struggle is to stay even."

Mr. Taylor suggested both the consumer and the government must budget.

He said there is "a tug of war for your dollars" at the government level.

"Every level of government and every department of government is competing for the hard-earned money of the citizens of this nation," said the MLA.

He explained the extraction process is called taxation — which is really confiscation.

"Government spending at all levels now approaches 40 per cent of the country's total output. We can no longer tolerate an average annual growth rate of government expenditure of 11 per cent when our average economic growth rate is only nine per cent."

Take 2

Mr. Taylor said the philosophy of our tax laws is to apply an increasingly higher rate of taxation as one earns more. This tends to level net incomes.

.The money raised is then re-distributed through government programs and social services.

"This is a very intricate and complicated process but the net result is an institutionalization of equality," he explained.

Mr. Taylor added the aged, infirm and the "unfortunate victims of circumstance "must be provided for but he questioned support of "the indolent and lazy."

"Should this be tolerated in the cause of social justice?" he asked.

"If we countenance this situation then I say to you we are developing an inverted society. We are spawning a new leisure class of the least able and the less you work the better you are off," he stressed.

Mr. Taylor noted the government has concentrated in recent years in providing a high standard of social services. Government at the provincial level continues to work toward ways of curtailing expenditures.

He referred to some of these programs such as re-organization of government ministries, financial constraints on education, hospitals and related health services.

"I think it is necessary to encourage development of a strong private sector," he observed.

"We need more production and less government interference. We must pay more attention to the guy who is paying the freight. I believe what people often want most is to get government off their backs," he said.

Students Seek Board Help for Film Project

BLOOMFIELD — Members of the student project SVAP (Student Video Action Project) Monday met with Prince Edward school trustees to request formation of a board liaison committee to assist in their project operated through an Opportunities For Youth (OFY) grant.

Pince Edward Collegiate Institute student Bill Maddox says students expect to produce television program for airing on Quinte Cablevision. The program operated in 1974 under an OFY grant of approximately $6,500.

In his presentation to trustees, Mr. Maddox noted that in 1974 board members assisted in obtaining equipment and a work location.

A total of 10 shows was aired over Quinte Cablevision for community viewing.

He observed this year "There are quite a few problem," with project SVAP and a board liaison committee could assist in relation to obtaining equipment and a place to work for the group. There is some indication that this year's OFY grant will be smaller than the previous year's.

Mr. Maddox said this year's project and equipment basically will be the same as last year. One of the highlights will be a special, two-hour program on Picton's late Mayor Harvey J. McFarland.

Project SVAP in an 11-week program scheduled to begin in July.

The project includes four students from Prince Edward Collegiate Institute, Bill Maddox, Rick Nelson, Debbie Greer and Cindy Hudgin, and one student from Loyalist College, Randy Wardell.

School trustees referred the group's request for a liaison committee to the library and supply committee for recommendations back to the board.

Board Considers Closing Athol Township School

BLOOMFIELD — Prince Edward school trustees Monday discussed the advisability of closing Athol School.

A maintenance budget report indicated renovations needed in the old building would be costly. From a maintenance point of view it did not seem economically feasable to continue operation of the old school adjacent to the new Athol Central School.

Hutton Martin, Athol Township trustee, said the community would be against closing the school, "just for the sake of closing it."

"I feel it is doing a good educational job — beter than a portable class room — but it is in a state of neglect," he said.

Mr. Martin said as long as the school remains in operation it should be kept clean and in reasonable repair.

"Let's not get all worked up over closing it before the board suggests it," he said.

Trustees agreed to transfer the maintenance budget with amendments to the finance committee for budget consideration.

O'Krafka Gets Post

TRENTON — Town barber, Jim O'Krafka has been appointed as Trenton's representative on the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority in place of Marion Baker who had previously received council's nod but refused to accept the post.

Miss Baker refused the appointment saying she is no longer interested in serving the town upon its adoption of a policy that limited the tenure of its appointees to town boards and committees.

She had served for 20 years o nthe parks board, until her appointment to the authority.

Chicken Flying Part Of Frankford Carnival

FRANKFORD — A chicken flying contest, similar in intent to the frog jumping contest, won't be the only event, but it will be one of the more interesting at the Frankford Winter Carnival here Feb. 15-22.

It's an innovation at the week-long carnival, now in its second year, and is modelled after a similar event in Wisconsin.

Al Doone, carnival chairman, said the chickens will be unleased in the village arena on the final day of the carnival.

It will be one of the "fun-events" that have been scheduled for the weekends when the crowds can attend. During the week, however there will be other events.

The first three weekdays are primarily reserved for village children. Mr. Doone said in 1974, area school teachers showed such enthusiasm for carnival capers that school-related activities have been incorporated this year.

Numerous tournaments — euchre, badminton, shuffleboard, and cribbage — are also planned.

Take 2

Seven area groups — an increase of one from 1974 — will enter those competitions.

All events will be held at either the Lower Trent Fish and Game Club, Frankford Legion Hall, village arena, or village public school.

Mr. Doone said proceeds from the carnival will go towards a fund for the construction of a sports centre in the village. In 1974, the carnival was able to raise $1,247 for the fund.

Installing an additional bathroom or even a sink can be an expensive proposition if there are not existing pipes, drains and vents in the location you have selected. Why?
Putting in long new runs of pipe, knocking out and later patching holes in walls and ceilings, involves considerable work. You can make life easier — and less costly — if you locate new outlets so the fixtures can be tied into existing supply pipes, drains and vents.
The ideal way to do this is to place a new bathroom or sink back-to-back with an existing bathroom. This way, both sets of fixtures can be connected to the same pipes by short spurs. The next best solution is to place the new bathroom beside an old one or directly above or below it.
Wait! This expansionist thinking indicates your family is outgrowing its present home. It might be wiser to consider buying a larger home and save yourself the money and inconvenience.

Images of Our Time

It says something about human nature and about our times that the horrors of the war in Southeast Asia as depicted on the television screen are quickly forgotten.

It took some effort of recall for instance the other day to call to mind, not a war scene, but the recent slaughter of calves on North American farms. A network anchor man acknowledged there had been protests from viewers, but defended the screening as being part of the fabric of our times.

The battlefield suggests a similar rationale.

Leafing through the "Best of Life" publication — prior to attending James Forshee's "Incredible Japan" travel film at Centennial secondary school — turned up pictures of the earlier, wartime Japan. It was a coincidence, and momentarily off-putting given the evening travel entertainment to come. For there, in a captured Japanese picture, which was circulated hand-to-hand by GIs during the period of hostilities, was a Japanese officer, sword upraised, about to behead a captured Australian flier, hands tied and kneeling.

What a contrast with the beauty of the film that evening: the beauty of landscape and of culture and of character epitomized by the best of this dynamic Far Eastern land.

The scene changes, and another image from the news cameras comes to mind: panic . . . pandemonium . . . soldiers rushing from a school in Phnom Penh, Cambodia . . . in their arms the broken and bleeding bodies of small children.

A Communist shell had hit the school, as rockets had hit other non-military targets in the past — another example of how the Communists, either by direct military action or by support of terrorist groups in various parts of the world, strike at the innocent.

Those words of Golda Meir's about the need for a strong military defence also come to mind. Unhappily, the Cambodians, not to mention the South Vietnamese, do not have that kind of capability. And they may have it in diminishing measure if further U.S. aid is denied. So little children and the innocent die as an alien political system pursues its latter-day imperialist aims.

In Canada the worry among some is that Sunday night viewing through the medium of the Performance drama series is corrupting the minds of the young by undue emphasis on sex.

We are fortunate missiles are not falling on our schools.

Individual Touch

Education . . . the small school versus the large one with a thousand or more students . . . problems of alienation, discipline and so on.

This is not meant to be the whole educational process in a nutshell, but rather a distillation of some of big versus small problems, and an introduction to the advantages of one small school in Quebec.

Mount Royal Roman Catholic high school has only 300 students. As principal John Bayer told Gordon Bathos of The Montreal Gazette: "There's no trace of vandalism at our school, no drug problems or absenteeism and discipline is excellent. "Every one of our students feels he belongs, that this is his school."

Bayer says that "size" is really their big advantage. The school has only 18 teachers and he says they know most students by name.

"That's the kind of human touch you just don't find in a larger school," he says. Moreover, the school has a fine academic record.

Of the large comprehensives, Bayer says the atmosphere in many is intolerable. Staff apathy, absenteeism and disciplinary problems abound.

There is no way the comprehensive style of school, with its large student population, can be eliminated. They have their advantages: if they can also inculcate school spirit, where it is lacking, and if staff and students can inject a more personalized atmosphere into the daily schedule, then a happier feeling could prevail all round. There is a lesson though in this story from Quebec.

"What Items Do You Wanta Put Back"

The 'Comprehensive' School is not To Everyone's Liking in the U.K.

Belleville educator LINTON READ is spending a six-month sabbatical in Britain as an associate of the Institute of Education, University of London. Prior to taking up the post of principal of Bayside secondary school, which he helped plan, in 1971, Mr. Read was active on the Belleville educational scene, and in community work. For 26 years he was a teacher and department head at BCI and before going to Bayside he was successively vice-principal and principal of Moira secondary school.

Mr. Read, a specialist in English who has edited text books for Canadian publishers, is engaged in a course of seminars and lectures on the English secondary education system, with emphasis on the new comprehensive schools. He will be visiting schools in England and Scotland.

Only a newcomer to England would dare to make generalizations on this remarkably varied polyglob of 55,000,000 people But how badly a great nation is being smitten by all the problems of social and economic upheavals complicated by a seemingly masochistic desire to cripple themselves.

A recent poll of European people showed that only the Italians are more pessimistic towards 1975 than the British. The significance of that negative reaction is that it is so unusual over here. Certainly it is understandable. Last week's morning papers include such items as these:

— Aston Martin car manufacturers have ceased production, five hundred men out of work

— British Leyland shaky.

— Burmah Oil (the co-developers of the Atlantic oil beds) in serious difficulties and is to be saved from bankruptcy by the British government.

— Channel tunnel project cancelled.

— I.R.A., threats put Britain on bomb alert again.

— The "Grocer" magazine notes 550 price increases last week.

— British doctors begin work to rule to enforce pay demands.

— Because of the Burmah Oil peril the stock market dropped one billion pounds.

— A conference of English teachers deplores breakdown in discipline and demands more remedial teaching for the three r's (In regard to the former, the teachers have asked for protection against physical assault!)

Since I am here to study aspects of the British educational system, I am naturally keenly interested in and amazed by what I have read over this last week about the general state of school discipline. But one naturally allows for prophets of gloom and doom. I have asked porters, a retired school teacher, an artist a doctor of engineering, fellow students and anyone else who had time to talk to me (everyone we have met has been extremely friendly) how he felt about the problem. No one seems to believe it is exaggerated. Everyone has a layman's explanation — social breakdown, family permissiveness, too many pupils per teacher, incompetent or uninterested teachers the radical changes in secondary schools over the last ten years, the new compulsory attendance to sixteen regulations — and so on.

Why a discipline problem in an old established, traditionally firm educational system while we in Ontario have no such "problems' as such, at all?

Ontario schools are much criticized for our multi-option system — and yet over here are the same complaints about weakness in the basics in a system where options are still a relative luxury. In Ontario drop-outs are no longer a discussible problem; the English assistant masters' 'conference' on the other hand has asked that students be allowed to drop out on their 16th birthday rather than at the end of the term.

The terribly difficult and complex problem faced by British edućational authorities is the integration of their somewhat stratified secondary system into "comprehensive schools". In the last two decades because of a vast building program almost 2000 new schools were built but many of them are too small to be practicable comprehensive schools (or composite schools as we know them in Ontario).

But the mood of the day is comprehensive schools for all means equal opportunity for all; therefore, we must have comprehensive schools available everywhere. But there persists a counter feeling of suspicion toward these new schools by those who feel that old "grammar schools" remain a superior educational institution and that the more democratic comprehensive schools lead to mediocrity.

It is a thorny problem. As might be expected, however, the British are coping amazingly well. And why not, in a country where I overheard this conversation while waiting for a train in the "tube" (underground) at Russell Square:

"Eh, Gertie, I see that the Irish are going to start bombing us again."

"Cor, blimey. What bloody cheek!"

Who is to worry unduly about complicated educational problems when that story perhaps epitomizes the real spirit of a whole nation.

Adamson says that Toronto Could go Way of U.S.

Kingston Whig-Standard

Toronto Police Chief Harold Adamson used to describe Toronto as the safest city in North America. Now he says: "In many instances, that's not true." And C.O. Bick, the chairman of Toronto's police commission says: "We are faced with the definite prospect of Toronto becoming another Detroit or Chicago or New York."

The comparison strains even the bounds of hyperbole. Toronto, with 45 murders last year, remains a haven of peace and security when contrasted with Detroit (861 murders,) Chicago (1,003 murders) and New York (1,741 murders) And yet Bick's dramatic exaggeration, following as it did a series of violent crimes that appalled Canadians from coast to coast, strikes a note of simple truth.

In both of Canada's major cities, Toronto and Montreal, Canadians are witnessing a wave of crime of unprecedented proportions. But somehow it seems more than that: an inundation, perhaps more than a wave.

The trauma of violent crime can only strengthen the voices of people across the country who argue that Canada must act now to halt the widespread use of guns. The one effective way to do that is to impose stiffer penalties on people who use them for criminal purposes.

Mr. Bick proposed a mandatory five-year sentence without parole, for any person convicted of a criminal offence which involved the use of a gun. The five-year sentence would be on top of the sentence for the crime itself. In Ottawa, John Diefenbaker pursued the proposal. The stiff gun penalty was needed, he said, because of the common use of guns by "thugs who are terrorizing all parts of Canada."

Solicitor-General Warren Allmand said he agreed, personally, that Canada needs more stringent gun laws. But he added this qualification: "Two-thirds of our murders are committed by friends, acquaintances or members of the same family." The hard-core criminal, Mr. Allmand seemed to say, was not the problem.

That's an impossible argument against action. Crime of passion has existed amongst men since Cain killed his brother. Mr. Allmand will have little success in ending it.

Mr. Allmand appears concerned that the impact of the tougher gun law would fall heavily on the crime-of-passion killer, the "non-professional" criminal who loses control of his actions for one brief, violent moment of time. The solution to that concern could lie in making the distinction, in the gun law, between premeditated and spontaneous use of guns.

To avoid action against criminal gunmen on the basis suggested by Mr. Allmand would be a profound misapplication of the humanitarian mind. It would be more than that. The maintenance of order is a primary responsibility of government. The avoidance of that responsibility could be construed by itself, as a criminal act.

Voluntary Restraint Makes Sense In These Inflationary Times

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Self-restraint in the use of energy—that's the new appeal from Ottawa.

Let's hope that Energy Minister Donald Macdonald's campaign will be more successful than Finance Minister John Turner's appeal for self-restraint in price-and-income increases.

It probably will. The more energy you save, the less difficult it will be to cope with inflation.

The latest consumer price index, announced just after Mr. Macdonald urged that we all save more energy, was the highest ever.

So, unless you can count on the same type of income increases that go to grain handlers and members of Parliament, Mr. Macdonald's case makes good sense for consumer budgets.

Each household could save $50 to $100 a year in energy costs, Mr. Macdonald contends, by adopting techniques that he will be suggesting in a series of advertisements.

The energy minister also invited the Canadian people to monitor the government's efforts to point out examples of waste.

Who could pass up an invitation like that?

Let's see now—it was just a few days ago that the federal government reaffirmed its intention to push through a project that would cost perhaps $2-billion and increase fuel consumption to an extent that could not even be measured.

That project is a super-airport in the vicinity of Pickering, northeast of Toronto—the dream-child of bureaucrats, who seem prepared to defend it to the death.

Other North American cities with two airports, such as Chicago and Washington, have found that one of the two turns out to be a costly white elephant.

Yet our experts insist that the Toronto region must have a second airport that would require thousands of Canadian travellers each day to journey some 35 miles by road to change between domestic flights (at the old airport) and foreign flights (at the new).

Surely a government that professes to advocate restraint in spending and in energy use must set a better example, by abandoning such examples of conspicuous waste.

(Even the food prices review board chairman has protested the Pickering airport plan because it would pave over some 30 square miles of prime farm land that supplies one of Canada's biggest concentrations of population).

Apart from the effect on the family budget, reasons for energy-saving are not obvious enough to convince every Canadian of the need to turn down the thermostat and stop driving.

Just what is Canada's energy-supply situation? Easy enough to account for the scores of private airplanes that landed at Vancouver just before Grey Cup weekend? Bad enough to justify the extra time that many people would need if they took a bus rather than a car to work?

If it's as bad as Mr. Macdonald seems to be hinting, then he should eliminate something more dramatic than civil servants' parking spaces. Elimination of plans for unneeded airports would be an effective place to start

U.S. Schools have Dropout Problem

The Christian Science Monitor

It's 11 a.m. — do you know where your children are?

Most American parents would say their children are in school.

The sobering news is that, at a time when everybody needs education more than ever, some 2 million American children, from 7 to 17, are not enrolled in school. In addition, during one recent school year, 1,012,347 children were suspended at least once. Their absences totaled 11,130 school years.

Compounding the problem, the children who are more likely than others to be out of school are those who may need it most — to overcome minority or poverty status, for example.

These are some of the findings of the Children's Defense Fund, a private advocacy group, in a 366-page report released on the weekend — "Children Out of School in America."

The report raises questions that must be confronted, ranging from the inadequacy of national data for finding out the full dimensions of the problem to the exclusionary factors that keep children out of school not by choice.

Among the latter the report plausibly cites "statutory exemptions from compulsory attendance laws; school and book fees; transportation charges; poor enforcement of truancy laws; inadequate programs for bilingual children; and lack of clothing for poor children."

Then there is the whole matter of discrimination and lack of due process in the educational channeling of minority and "handicapped" children and in imposing disciplinary measures.

"We found," says the report, "that if a child is not white, or is white but not middle class, does not speak English, is poor, needs special help with seeing, hearing, walking, reading, learning, adjusting, growing up, is pregnant or married at age 15, is not smart enough or is too smart, then, in too many places, school officials decide school is not the place for that child."

What gives parents, government, and the educational establishment even more challenging food for thought is the array of recommendations for improvement offered.

Children with special needs, for example. It makes sense to ensure a well-rounded evaluation as a basis for remedial decisions, and to guarantee parents such rights as knowing precisely the background information and accepting or rejecting plans for their child.

As for discipline, many teachers can testify to the demoralizing effect of undue administrative toleration of chronic troublemakers. There must be procedures to preserve the school system for all children as well as to help, rather than merely punish, those who are disruptive.

More broadly, other steps could help with discipline. Courses could be more varied. Parents could be involved in selecting school principals. Teachers could be better prepared for handling discipline cases.

It's 11 a.m. — more American children should be in school.

Strap Makes Comeback in London

Oshawa Times

Could the London, Ont., board of education's decision to re-institute use of the strap in schools be the first step in a return of discipline with meaning in our classrooms?

We hope so. Because if the state of our classrooms today is any indicator of the success of psychology as a substitute for corporal punishment, that much-respected symbol of yore should never have been locked away in the first place.

Some of us remember the strap very well, indeed, and that last, long mile down the hall to the principal's office, where it was kept. And one of the things we remember best of all was the infrequency with which it was actually used. The knowledge that it was there, and that it was available for the use of any teacher whose pupils got out of line, was frequently quite enough to make a glare of warning suffice in the classroom.

As a deterrent, the strap in school had few equals.

The strap began to disappear just after the Second World War, at about the same time that the experts started telling us parents shouldn't be parents; that they should, rather, become chums to their children and advisors to their teachers. Its use virtually ceased long before school boards began banning the strap, as the result of legal actions against teachers by outraged parents who weren't teaching Johnny anything about decent manners or good citizenship at home and resented his teachers trying to discipline him in class.

Not many teachers, aware they could be successfully charged with assault, continued to use the strap on their own hook.

The strap was not a pleasant experience. Neither is it much of a pleasant experience for a teacher — as one who quit recently in Toronto testified — to have to put up with physical abuse or foul-mouthed classroom punks who know the worst penalty they face is suspension ... and would probably like nothing better.

We hope Durham's boards of education note London's action. Somehow, we have the feeling education in Durham would improve immensely in calibre if teachers knew they once again had the means to effectively control their more outrageous students.

Property Standards in Belleville

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

A caption in The Intelligencer announced "Property Standards By-Law to get Public Scrutiny". Its the range of scrutiny that concerns me.

This particular piece of legislation, if passed will affect everybody living in this city, therefore, one has a right to expect that every opportunity will be extended to those likely to be affected to examine and criticize. However, true to form, Her Worship Mayor Jeffrey tells us that copies will be circulated to the medical officer of health, city engineer and solicitor, Quinte Homebuilders Association, Quinte Real Estate Board and the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

The only relevant people in that list are the city solicitor and the medical officer of health. It is not good enough to merely toss a couple of copies into the public libraries for the benefit of the general public.

The overall affect of this bylaw is such that nothing short of prolonged public discussion and examination will suffice. The same time, consideration and input must go into this bylaw as went into the city plan.

This is one piece of legislation that should not be entrusted to the Chamber of Commerce, Home Builders and the Quinte Real Estate Board. As it stands in draft form, it is the most arbitrary, unrealistic and punitive document ever to be introduced by council.

WILLIAM C. HOCKLEY

The Missing 'Brotherhood'

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Regarding the railway engineers strike; there would seem to be some inconsistency when a group of people who break their contractual agreements, inconvenience scores of their fellow men, and do serious damage to the economy of their country, call themselves a "brotherhood."

While on the subject of names — let us bid farewell to "truant officers" and welcome our new "attendance counsellor" and "school-home liaison offcers" — titles with the golden ring of belonging to our galaxy of educators whose prolificacy seemingly knows no end. Could this latest idea be a product of "development daze?"

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

February 11, 1925

Bishop Brewing of the Reformed Episcopal Church, speaking to the Canadian Club, said he thinks radio is bound to be one of the greatest civilizing agencies the world has ever experienced. He said that in 20 years people will receive not only entertainment but religious instruction over the air. He stressed the point that no matter what unsavory stuff could be sung or spoken in a small group in a room or a theatre nothing of the kind could be broadcast on the air to be heard by a million ears.

40 YEARS AGO

February 11, 1935

That the salary reduction by law governing salaries of the permanent staff of the city, including firemen will not be re-enacted this year, is the general view gathered from embers of city countil. Unless council passes the bylaw, salaries will be restored to their 1932 figure except in cases where the salaries have since been changed. In the year 1933 and 1934 reductions were made to salaries.

BLEECKER AUDITORIUM — FAIRGROUNDS

The White sisters, Julie and Michelle, pose by the recent portraits done by Michelle. "I usually chat to people while they sit to see what sort of personality they have," says Michelle. "It's a little harder to do a self-portrait." An exhibits of her work hangs in Corby Library until February 25.

She'll Capture Your Likeness in an Hour

With a flick of her charcoal and an artful smudge or two, Michelle White finishes the portrait she's completed in less than an hour.

The subject, Ann Bouma, a nurse at Belleville General Hospital, has a chance now to view Michelle's impression of her, and is pleased by what she sees.

"I'm having this sketch done to surprise my husband," she says.

The reasons that people give for having their portraits done are as varied as the people themselves, Michelle says. Christmas is an especially busy time, but there is always a demand for sketches for both family and business matters.

"Mayor Robin Jeffrey says she intends to hang my sketch of her in her office," says Michelle.

"I like to have lots of variety in what I do, and since every person is different from the next one, sketching faces is always interesting. I don't do dogs or cats, I'm only interested in people. I've done babies, as young as five months, but I prefer sketching older people. In fact, the older the better. There's more to work with then."

Michelle is never troubled by commissions from individuals who have less than perfect features.

"People already know what they look like," she says. "And if they ask me to leave their lines out, I tell them it costs extra for flattery!"

Although her training at art college in Adelaide, Australia, prepared her for a career in oil painting, Michelle doesn't work with color at all.

"I can't travel with all the equipment I'd need for oil, so I've just drawn the line at black and white," she says.

This method also permits her to work quickly, so that she can do several portraits a day. That has been an important consideration during her department store stints, both in Adelaide and at Selfridges' on Oxford Street in London, England.

"I've earned all my travel money this way," says Michelle, "I don't feel nervous drawing with a crowd standing round watching, probably because I was used to my brothers and sisters and parents giving me lots of criticism when I was at home."

Men with beards are one of Michelle's least favorite subjects, since the facial hair takes a lot of time and detail. Another difficult task is self-portraiture. Using a mirror, Michelle recently did a sketch of herself for inclusion in her Corby Library exhibit, which opens today.

You'll notice the flower and scarf round my neck," she says with a smile. "I don't usually wear that sort of thing, but I was working on the sketch after supper, and left a greasy fingerprint on the paper. I devised the neck decoration to cover it!"

Ann Bouma sits for her portrait as Michelle White quickly sketches with pencil and chalk. Cost of the finished sketch will be $15.

Fun, Work and Travel Long Way from Home

Coincidence and good fortune are responsible for Michelle White's first showing of sketches now hanging in the upper gallery of Corby Library.

In her early twenties, the artist left her home in Adelaide, Australia, more than a year ago. She and her sister Julie flew to Britain, where they lived and worked, Michelle as a model and Julie as a nurse. From this "home base" in London, England, they set out to travel across Europe, together and separately.

Last June, a chat on a bus trip led to Julie's acceptance of a nursing job in Belleville.

"When I came here I didn't know anyone, for I had only met my patient's daughter, and she wasn't home. But I liked it right away," Julie says. She joined the choir at St. Michael's church and the judo club at the YMCA and within a short time wanted Michelle to join her.

Michelle, by this time, hired by a large department store to sketch customers, soon saved enough money to travel to Canada. Now both young women live with Lucinda Henley, where Julie cares for her daughter, Katharine Hogg. Michelle is hoping to again support herself through her talent as a portrait artist.

"Most of my commissions come by word of mouth," she says. "I expect as I get to know more people, I'll have more requests."

The sisters say that they find Canada extremely informal and friendly, especially in comparison with Britain.

"It's more like Australia here," says Michelle, "except of course for the weather. But I've really started to like the cold. It's so much better than damp, and I enjoy crunching around in the snow."

Accompanied by photo albums of their family and friends back in Adelaide, and the souvenirs of their travels in Europe, Michelle and Julie feel happily settled here, for the time being at least.

"We plan to return to London in June, and then start to make our way home," says Michelle. "We much prefer to stay in one spot for a while and get to know it, rather than travel all the time.

"This way we're starting to make friends. It was through friends that I was asked to hang my work at the library."

Talent, hard work and good luck mean that Michelle faces her future as an artist with an optimistic eye.

JACK

Jack doesn't always look so serious. He has an engaging smile but at the moment is a little self-conscious about it because of orthodontic work being done on a front tooth.

Jack, 12, is Irish and English in descent. He has red hair, green eyes and fair skin with freckles.

A most likable boy, he is good company because along with a friendly personality he is a lively, interesting talker.

Jack is an average stduent in Grade 7.

He is interested in sports, especially hockey. Though not a skilled player he enjoys the game and likes to watch the pros on television.

He likes music and is learning to play the piano.

Jack is living in a rural foster home where there is a big poultry operation. He has become knowledgeable and efficient in helping with the hens and gathering and packing the eggs. He also likes to help his foster mother in the house.

Jack says his ambition is to do something that will help children or maybe be a preacher.

A boy who needs a great deal of attention, Jack can be difficult and demanding when it is not forthcoming. Therefore it will be best if he can be the only child or at least the youngest child with no others close to him in age. He can adapt to either city or country living.

Jack will be a rewarding son for parents who have much time to spend with him, who will appreciate his pleasant personality and who are able to set firm limits.

To inquire about adopting Jack, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2.

Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most important—this improvement was maintained in cases where clinical observations were continued over a period of many months. Furthermore, these tests and observations were made on patients with a wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. All this was accomplished with a healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a stated cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Introducing the new money-saving travel plan from CN; 4-Day, Off-Peak Round Trip Fares. The idea is simple: if you go and return within 4 days, you pay only one Blue Standard fare, plus ⅓; provided you travel at off-peak times.

For example, the round trip fares between Montreal and Toronto are:

On Red Bargain Days	$32.00
On White Economy Days	$38.50
On Blue Standard Days	$42.00
Now, the 4-Day Round Trip Fare is only	$28.00

You can get new 4-Day Round Trip fares for travel between points from Mont Joli to Windsor/Sarnia.

You can get them on any train, any day of the week, except on trains leaving from 1601 hours to 1830 hours.

You can get 4-Day Round Trip fares in coaches when the Red Coach fare is $5.00 or more. Dayniter, club car and sleeping car accommodations may also be purchased in conjunction with this new plan. Call your Travel Agent or CN Passenger Sales Office.

BELLEVILLE FAMILY Y.M.C.A.

1893 — 81st ANNUAL REPORT — 1974

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

The Y.M.C.A. came to Belleville in 1893 and has been continually serving the Youth and Citizens of Belleville for the past 81 years. I would ask you to examine our Annual Report to realize the extent which the present facility is utilized and the diversity of its programs, all of which we try to base on the changing needs of the community.

The 'Y' has been built with voluntary gifts of money from citizens and companies in our city who believe that the services provided to our Youth and Adults are an invaluable asset to the community. One of the highlights of the past year has been the reduction in the capital debt to approximately $40,000. This was accomplished under the Honorary Chairmanship of Judge J. C. Anderson and the Chairmanship of Mr. Ben Corke, along with many others and I would like to extend the grateful appreciation of the Board and Membership as a whole for their dedicated efforts and to all those who gave to make this possible. We hope in the next year to be able to reduce this capital debt to zero.

The 'Y' has always declared that it needs yearly economic help to operate. We are, in this way, no different than Y.M.C.A.'s throughout Canada and the U.S.A. The reason for this is that the fees are kept low enough so that the facilities and program can be available to as large a portion of the community as possible, and so that free memberships can be given to those in need and interested in membership. Part of this subsidy comes again from voluntary dollars from citizens able and willing to give. Before the concept of the U.C.S. these voluntary dollars came from yearly 'Y' campaigns; they now come from voluntary dollars through the U.C.S. The rest of the Subsidy comes from the City of Belleville by a foregiveness from the general tax rate. We do, however, pay taxes for school and local improvements. In addition each year we request City Council for money for services rendered to the citizens of the city of Belleville i.e. use of land for soccer - baseball - lacrosse - free memberships for those in need - swimming facilities below cost for public swimming, etc. This has been termed a grant, but it could equally well be called a bill. City Council in the past years has felt this has been involuntary dollars well spent in view of the tangible and intangible benefits to the community to which they are responsible.

I would like to thank Mr. Di Diamantides B.Sc., M.Ed., our Executive Director for his most capable administration of our Belleville Family Y.M.C.A. The hours he puts in far exceed the "40 hour week" and without his professional training and experience the operation would not be effective. We are temporarly without a Physical Director, a much needed professional in the operation. Volunteers are filling in for the present but when the right person appears he or she will necessarily complete our understaffed situation. Professionals as well as volunteers are needed to guide the operation of a Y.M.C.A., contrary to the opinion of a nearsighted few.

Other highlights of the year have been a much needed and highly utilized Nursery School, a busy and active Outreach Program in other areas of the City run by Mr. Jack Frame and made possible by a LIP grant which is continuing again this year until June 1975.

To the volunteers both in the spheres of programs and the "Y" Board and Staff I would like to extend my grateful thanks to all for working to make this past year a success. I look forward to a great year in 1975.

To the U.C.S., which is doing a difficult job in light of the ever diminishing voluntary dollar, on behalf of the "Y" Board I would like to express our thanks for their efforts, and we look forward to working again with you in the future.

Finally to the Membership and future members of the "Y". The "Y" Board and Executive Director are actively looking at ways that our present programs are expanded to meet your needs, and at ways which our present facilities can be enlarged.

S. D. HORNE, M.D.
President.

BELLEVILLE CITIZENS SERVING ON VOLUNTEER BOARDS

More than one hundred volunteer leaders served on the various Committees, Boards, and Classes giving strength to the Y.M.C.A.'s program of activities.

Our Thanks

In reporting the year 1974 we gratefully acknowledge the support of many individuals and organizations. It is not possible to record all, but the following are representative:

The Belleville United Community Services — The City Council — the Y.M.C.A. National Council — the Y's Men's Club — the Y's Menettes Club — The Intelligencer — Radio Station CJBQ — the Moira River Conservation Authority — the City Recreation Committee — the volunteer leaders and workers, and many business concerns and individuals who assisted us.

Statement of Purpose

The Young Men's Christian Association is a world wide fellowship dedicated to the growth of persons in spirit, mind, and body, and in a sense of responsibility to each other and the human community.

Membership

Total different members and program participants served during '74.

Leader Patrol	28
Total	741

LEADERS CORPS

The Leaders Corps is the junior service club of the Y.M.C.A., and it is designed not only to develop leaders and leadership for the "Y" programs but for the community as a whole.

During 1974, 16 leaders ranging in age from 12-17 met regularly for theory and practise and to assist in different "Y" programs on a volunteer basis. Social activities, training sessions with leaders of other Y.M.C.A.'s and participation in major "Y" programmes such as Open House, Swimathon, Exhibits etc., also constitute their program.

SERVICE CLUBS

Y'S MEN'S CLUB

This Senior Service Club of the Y.M.C.A. provided valuable support for both the "Y" and the community in 1974. The club assisted the "Y" with the purchase of some equipment, a donation to the Building Fund, helped to sponsor leaders training events, and supported the Y's "Kinder-Kamp" program. In the community the club assisted and sponsored minor sports, the Spelling Bee and other educational and sporting projects.

Their two major fund raising projects, the Radio Auction and the Christmas Tree sale were most successful.

Y'S MENETTES CLUB

The Y's Men's wives provided assistance to their husbands in their projects, and assisted the "Y" with the purchase of new drapes for the Club Room and the Auditorium, kitchen utensils, as well as provided valuable volunteer service to the "Y" when needed. Their funds were raised through catering to the Y's Men's dinner meetings and from successful book sales.

JUDO

Under the leadership of Jim Driscoll, Judo once again attracted a number of youth and adults. Judo is an excellent way to maintain physical fitness, develop self-defence skills and build self-confidence. Adults met three times a week and youth twice a week.

LIFESAVING

During 1974, 86 persons passed awards in Intermediate Bronze, Bronze, Bronze Cross and Award of Merit levels and 28 persons participated in a Red Cross Leader Patrol course.

"UNDER 8" PROGRAM

The Y's "Under 8" program continued to meet a need of pre-school children in 1974.

Based on the concept of "Movement Exploration" and aiming to stimulate children to explore and develop their abilities in water and on land, this program had an enrolment of 345 children.

The children were divided according to their age into "Wee-Folk" up to 2 years of age; into "Kinder" 3 to 5 years old and into "Small Fry" 6 and 7 years old.

"Y" NURSERY SCHOOL

This program for children 3 to 5 years of age continued with 3 different classes from January to June. Starting in September, however, a fourth class was added to meet increasing requests. As at the end of December 113 different children were registered.

Its programme consisted of the opportunity to experiment with creative materials such as paint and clay; enjoyment of stories, books, pictures; experiences to develop wonder and curiosity about the world; movement rhythm and learning to play and share with children of their own age.

MEN'S HEALTH AND PHYSICAL FITNESS

During 1974 the "Y" offered three different fitness programs to Men on Monday, Wednesday, and on Friday. The "Early Bird" group met at 7:00 - 8:15 in the morning; the Noon group from 11:30 a.m. - 1:00 p.m.; and the Evening group from 6:00 - 7:30 p.m. These programs included calisthenics, jogging, volleyball, paddleball, individual exercise, swimming, and sauna. Men were encouraged to participate in any one of the above activities.

A number of recreational swimming periods and swim instruction were included in the Men's program of activities.

WOMEN'S HEALTH AND PHYSICAL FITNESS

Women members had four "Ladies Keep Fit" programmes organized to participate in, every Tuesday and Thursday. These included 3 Ladies "Keep Fit" classes — one in the morning and 2 in the evening — Aquabics, the "Slender Figure Salon", instructional and recreational swimming and sauna. The classes were all designed to aid in figure control, flexibility, endurance and relaxation. Recreational and instructional swimming on other days during the week were also included in the Women's programme.

GOLF SCHOOL

For the 19th consecutive season the "Y" Golf School met with the same success as in the past. Seventy four players — beginners and advanced — had enrolled in the course.

COMMUNITY "OUT-REACH" PROGRAM

Once again the "Y" received a Local Initiative Grant (L.I.P.) from the Federal Government to fund our Sports and Recreation Program offered to communities in the Belleville area.

Programs are underway at Prince Charles Public School for youth in the West Hill area; Quinte Secondary School for youth in the Parkdale area; Hillcrest Public School for the Hillcrest area; and the Y.M.CA. for weekly Saturday swim and sports programmes.

The Hastings County Board of Education made the school facilities available at no cost, and Loyalist College, Behaviour Sciences — Community Services, offered several students as Field Placement to assist the actual program.

Three qualified supervisors were hired for the program to offer a varied program of sports and recreation, namely, Volleyball - Basketball - Floor Hockey - Cosmo Hockey - Swimming - Table Tennis - Trampoline - Tumbling, and Table Games. Registration since December 16th — five week period — is 250 teen agers.

SUMMER ACTIVITIES

In addition to the regularly scheduled swims and other physical education program of activities, summer was highlighted by the following special events.

a—JUNE-LEARN-TO-SWIM — featuring the teaching of swimming to non-swimmers only in order that they may have a safe summer. 197 were taught to swim, of whom 166 were youth.

b—Swimming Instruction in July and August continued with another 151 who enrolled in various classes.

c—Nine hours of pool time a week were allocated for public swimming, and another 1½ hours a week for special "teen-swim" sponsored by the City Recreation-Arena Committe.

d—Fifty Children from Stirling, sponsored by the Stirling Rotary Club received swimming instruction in August.

e—The Day Camp — for children 8 to 12 years old, operated by the Y.M.C.A. and City Recreation Committee, enjoyed once again a successful season. A total of 265 children participated in the four 2-week periods. Nature Study, Arts and Crafts, hikes, and games constituted the daily program, and many special events, such as sport days, over-night "sleep-outs" and trips to historic sites were added throughout the program. The campers were bused to Vanderwater Park in the morning and returned in the afternoon to the "Y" for a shower and for recreational swimming.

f—Kinder-Kamp for 5 to 7 years old — also enjoyed a successful season. This group's program was centered in and around the "Y". Basics of camping were emphasized to this group. Active and quiet games, crafts, sports and visits to interesting places in the City were included in their program. A shower and a refreshing swim ended each day's program. 126 children participated in this program which lasted for six weeks.

NEW PROGRAMS

Competitive swimming and Spring Board Diving were two new programs added in the fall. The competitive swimmers meet on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, coached by Wolfran Tounsendfreud, and the divers meet every Tuesday and Wednesday with John Peoples as their coach. Competitive meets with teams of other Y.M.C.A.s are being planned to take place early in 1975.

Two more new programs that commenced the latter part of the year are Cross-Country Skiing and Yoga. Both have met with much success.

DID YOU KNOW

That in 1974

- 104 program sessions were held in any program week.
- 54% of the Y's members were youth.
- 37 different students were employed on a part-time basis as swim instructors, life guards, desk clerks, for building maintenance and at the control room.
- An attendance of 58,683 people were registered using the "Y" building or an average of 4890 per month.
- 74 persons were provided with free annual memberships.
- The "Y" facilities were available free of charge to 250 youth registered in the Y's Outreach programs.

Attend the Annual Dinner Meeting this coming Thursday, February 13, 6:30 p.m. at the Sun Valley Motor Inn, Belleville.

Speaker — Mr. Russ Kisby, National Co-ordinator, Sport Particip-Action Canada.

1975 'Last Chance for Women'

SASKATOON (CP) — Women have made significant strides toward equality but "1975 may be the last chance that women have for some time to come," says Carole Fogel, director of the Saskatchewan Human Rights Commission.

In an interview, she said sex discrimination in employment may well increase.

"Attitudes have not changed so that although there are a number of women being hired in jobs that have not been traditionally women's jobs—because that is the law and they now know what the law is—the attitudes of the workers working with that person, of the employer, have not changed.

"They still don't think women should be there.

"And as unemployment increases ... I think that we're going to find it more and more difficult. I think there's going to be more and more sex discrimination.

"I feel there is going to be a move to get women back into the home as there was after the Second World War. There'll be a concerted effort by the media, by everybody, for women to go back home where they belong because if you have 10 per cent unemployment a lot of people are going to start saying the people that need the jobs are the heads of the households."

Lost in the emotional reaction to unemployment, said Ms. Fogel, will be the fact that half of working women are heads of households.

She would like to see "affirmative action" programs to draw more women and members of minority groups into better jobs and to give them a better chance, of promotion.

That, she said, might be disliked by men who have been expecting more rapid promotion than they would get if women were given an equal chance, but "the white Anglo-Saxon male has had preferential treatment all those years."

At the moment, Saskatchewan human-rights legislation does not permit what is sometimes termed positive discrimination.

"The law doesn't allow for quotas or affirmative-action programs."

Ms. Fogel said, however, the economic facts of life would prevent instant sexual equality even if social attitudes suddenly were transformed.

"It's easy in Saskatchewan to say that one shouldn't discriminate against blacks because there aren't any blacks.

CAROLE FOGEL

"But women are half the population and if you're going to have to treat them as equals the whole society changes.

"If every woman in Saskatchewan received equal pay for equal work I'm not sure that the economy could survive."

For Saskatchewan hospitals alone, the principle of equal pay for equal work would add 4.5 million to the yearly payroll, she said.

In discussing how prejudice against women pervades society, she gave a simple test for judging whether a statement is sexist: "Change the word girl to black."

It is ironic, she mused, that what are considered socially acceptable jokes when made about women would be viewed with disfavor when made about racial or ethnic groups.

"Being a sexist is not considered necessarily a bad thing. Being a racist is very bad. Nobody will publicly admit that they are a racist."

Bicycle Exercise Test Detects Heart Disease

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Rene F. Favaloro of Argentina, a heart surgeon, said Thursday that all men over 40 years old should be given an annual bicycle-exercse test to detect heart disease.

In a lecture at the University of Toronto, Dr. Favaloro said some men have impaired circulation to their heart muscles without suffering any symptoms.

The doctor, who pioneered the heart surgery that links the aorta with the coronary arteries to renew blood circulation to the heart muscle, said an electrocardiogram taken while the patient is resting does not detect the defects.

He said treadmill or step tests also are inadequate.

But Dr. Favaloro said that if the men are linked to an electrocardiogram machine and blood-pressure monitors while they take a bicycle test, symptoms can be produced by gradually increasing the resistance.

Doris Clark

Teen-agers Can Overcome Shyness

Three of my favorite teenagers were discussing essays and class presentations. The two younger admired the oldest one for not being bothered by having to stand up in front of everybody and make a speech.

The youngest, my niece Sue, said she was the shy type; always sat at the back of the room, hoped the teacher would never ask her a question.

So Lynn — the oldest — told how her pal had overcome shyness. She said that for one thing, this girl determined to answer at least one or two questions every day. And she did that.

Then before she had to present an oral theme she got a couple of her classmates to sit and listen to her deliver it. If there were no pals handy, Mom and Dad would do.

Which helped a lot. At this point, the middle one, David, said that if he knew his work cold, it did not bother him to deliver it in front of the class; but if he was sketchy about it, then he was "really really nervous."

Four points, Teens: If you tremble at the thought of public speaking, start improving by answering one question, in class, each day; rehearse any presentations before a long-suffering audience of two or three; know your work cold; then when you get up there, give it all you've got.

Anyone who gets along in this world — well, nearly anyone — finds that learning public speaking is a help in becoming a poised personality and can be a delight.

Dear Doris: In the attached clipping from your column you offer to share prayers and graces "for 25 cents and a stamped envelope."

I would like you to know I think it is simply deplorable for you to request money for mailing out a prayer or two — especially so when postage is covered.

Where, might I ask, is your Christmas spirit?

Mrs. R.P.

Dear Mrs. R.P.: Thank you for expressing your doubts about me. In case others are thinking the same way, I'll give you my side of it.

Years ago — 14 to be exact — I shared all materials I had for no charge at all.

Then it occurred to my accountant that labor, paper, duplicating efforts, had to be paid for somehow. And it occurred to me that I wouldn't be writing my column very long if I wasn't supporting myself. So we decided that any duplicated material had to carry its own weight.

I'm hoping there is really nothing wrong with my Christmas spirit. Your letter arrived just ahead of Christmas, at a time when I had been trying to steer others into happy ways of handling Christmas gatherings and, while you perhaps do not realize this, I write many private and lengthy letters of advice without charging the enquirer at all. This means I share professional knowledge (gained over seven years at university) without any charge. You wouldn't expect your doctor or lawyer to do that, would you?

Dear Doris: I have always stood erect and been admired for a good carriage and a straight back. Now, at 55, I seem to be getting almost a hump on my back, my spine is getting sort of curved. Is this a disease?

Stooped

Dear Stooped: It is one thing if poring over a desk or a sink or a stove at the wrong angle is gradually developing a built-in curve. It is another thing if bones are weakening — which needs the diagnosis and treatment only a doctor can give.

The exercise in my leaflet "Don't Slump Into A Hump" can help to strengthen back and shoulder muscles, if you do them faithfully, and I am sending them. (Available to other readers for 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Ann Landers

Some Insurance Policies Will Pay After Suicide

Dear Readers: Pass the humble pie. I've done it again. This time to the insurance companies.

Remember the letter from the young man whose uncle had throat cancer and committed suicide? The nephew greatly admired his uncle's wisdom. He put it this way: "His business was in perfect order. He had money in the bank. All his debts were paid and his wife will benefit from a very nice insurance policy. Had my uncle spent his money on hospitals and doctors he would have impoverished his family and suffered a great deal of physical agony. The way I see it, uncle was a wise man. What do you say, Ann Landers?"

I said two things. First, that perhaps uncle wasn't so wise because cancer of the throat is not always fatal and had he sought treatment he might have beaten the rap.

My second statement was a bummer: "It's a rare insurance policy that pays off on a suicide."

The morning that column appeared, the Chicago Sun-Times switchboard lit up like a Christmas tree. "Prudential calling ... Mutual of Omaha on the line ... George Herrmann and Company ... World Book Insurance ... Occidental Life is waiting ..." And so it went. Pierre G. Rothstein of Chicago Pierre G Rothstein of Chicago and then hundreds followed.

So this is to tell you that almost all insurance companies will pay on suicides, provided the policy has been in effect for two years. There are exceptions however, so check your policy for special clauses. Mea Culpa—and shame on me.

Family Refuses to Sell Land for Papineau Park

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

The owner of a large land tract which is a key to development of a controversial provincial park on Papineau Lake in north Hastings County has told the Ontario government she is "definite" in her intention not to sell any acreage for the project.

Mrs. Myrtle Davis, head of the family which owns the land, made the statement in a letter to Natural Resources Minister Leo Bernier late last month.

In the letter, she calls ministry actions in the proposed development of a 600-acre park "intolerable". She charges that the project has a "political nature" with Clarke T. Rollins, MPP Hastings a main instigator in the issue.

The letter, written Jan. 20, was released Monday by one of her 10 sons, Garry Davis, a Trenton police officer.

In a covering letter to her son for press publication, Mrs. Davis said the government will not acquire her land — if she can prevent it.

Mr. Davis said his mother, as yet, has not received an answer from her letter to Mr. Bernier.

The park — proposed as a camping site — has been a topic of dispute for more than a year — during which opposition came from local cottagers and a majority of the local township council.

The Davis property — pioneered by the family in the 1880s — now counts about 500 acres, much of it fronting on a shoreline needed for the park.

Last August, Mr. Bernier announced the project would go ahead. Jan. 22 Mr. Rollins reiterated ministry intentions.

In her letter to the minister, Mrs. Davis said properties involved in the project and owned by herself or her family "will not be saleable to a Crown agency, or to the Crown, regardless of price."

"The actions on behalf of your ministry, past and present, ... are intolerable to say the least," added Mrs. Davis.

"It is my sincere feeling this matter has been one of a political nature since day one; Clarke T. Rollins, MPP, being a main instigator by the use of his authority as a member of the St. Lawrence Parks Commission."

The local municipal council in Bangor-Wicklow-McClure Township voted 3-2 to have the ministry seek an alternative site. Later Hastings County council approved the Papineau project 38-1.

Mrs. Davis told Mr. Bernier she found it "completely incomprehensible" that his ministry would go against the local council.

"Should further attempts be made to secure this property by unfair means I state quite emphatically that court action may become necessary to protect my rights and the rights of my family," she wrote.

Mr. Davis said the rest of his family — his nine brothers and two sisters — supported their mother in a situation that has become "very, very much bothersome to the whole family."

"We don't want expropriation. We want to keep the farm," he said.

He said the issue seemed to be a "pet project" of Mr. Rollins' to "force it on us."

He added the provincial government owned plenty of land in the area and could find a suiable alternative for the park on Bark Lake, just north of Papineau.

"We're not against parks. Our whole family does a lot of camping. But we want to keep our land," he reiterated.

The farm is still under cultivation and various family members help in its upkeep, he said.

Part of the Davis waterfrontage has been subdivided, but as yet, no approvals had been received for buildings, he said.

In her letter to Mr. Bernier, Mrs. Davis warned she would wait no longer for a ministry decision.

"Should it become my desire to sell any part of my subdivision, I shall do so without any consultation with your ministry," she said.

Rollins Calls Charge 'A Red Herring'

TORONTO — Clarke Rollins, MPP Hastings, denied today the Papineau Lake provincial park proposal has political implications as far as he is concerned.

He called the charge — made in a letter to Natural Resources Minister Bernier from Mrs. Myrtle, owner of property needed for the park — a "red herring."

In a copy of the letter released by one of Mrs. Davis' sons — Garry Davis, Trenton police officer — Mr. Rollins was described as a "main instigator" in the controversy through his membership in the St. Lawrence Parks Commission.

"That has no significance — it has nothing to do with it," said Mr. Rollins. "This program for Papineau was started before I was appointed to the St. Lawrence Parks Commission."

Break-ins Reported

City police are investigating two overnight break-ins. Nothing was taken in either case.

In one, entry was gained by splintering a frame on an inside door at the Circle TV warehouse on Station St. In the other, a residence on 180 Farley St. was entered through the basement.

Killing Time

While his owner was inside a Bridge Street restaurant having coffee, Floyd, the St. Bernard, was killing time waiting for his master, who goes by the nickname Rabbit. Floyd didn't mind the wait although he wasn't sure if the meter he was tied to had expired by the time his master came out.

70 Titles Considered

Board Agrees on School Name

Hastings County Board of Education member Monday decided the new elementary school currently under construction in Thurlow Township will be officially named Foxboro Senior Elementary School.

It was one of five titles selected by a screening committee from about 70 names for the board to consider.

The total list of names where submitted by students, parents and teachers for consideration in keeping with board policy D-16 which holds the local community should be involved in advancing possible names.

The four rejected names were Foxboro Elementary School Sagonaska Senior Elementary School, William Ashley Elementary School and Fairfield Senior Elementary School.

R.D. Horwood, superintendent of schools, pointed out at least 45 of the total names concerned the use of the name Foxboro.

Lennox Achieves First Test Power

BATH — The first power from Ontario Hydro's first oil fired development, the Lennox Generating Station, was achieved Friday at 2.15 p.m., a news release announced Monday.

Power was generated in Unit No. 2, the first of four 575,000-kilowatt oil-fired units to come on line, stated the release.

The station is located four miles west of this village on Lake Ontario, about 20 miles west of Kingston.

"The event signifies a milestone ... and is the result of seven years of design and construction effort since the project was announced in December, 1968," noted the release.

Upon completion, the station will have the capacity to meet twice the combined needs of Kingston, Belleville, Ottawa and Hamilton.

Greenbelt Grant Okayed

TORONTO — A $10,750 provincial government grant has been made to the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority for the Trenton greenbelt area, the office of Correctional Services Minister Richard Potter, MPP Quinte announced Monday.

It is part of a program of greenbelt land acquisition on the Trent River's west bank in Trenton.

The authority proposes to buy a small parcel of land on the east side of Water St. for extending the greenbelt.

As major benefitting member municipality, Trenton will bear 90 per cent of the authority's share of the cost.

Long List of Cheques Makes for Hectic Night

Due to a deferment in the approval of last November's accounts, Hastings County Board of Education members were faced with a two-month total of about $8.5 million in general accounts payments to be digested and approved Monday.

The breakdown showed November accounts totalling almost $3.5 million and the December amount reaching about $5 million.

There were almost 37 pages of separate cheque listings for amounts in excess of $200 for board members to peruse, many of them in the $200-$300 range.

The board decided to investigate raising its minimum of cheque listing to $300 to save on time and material.

City Workers Maintain Rinks Around the Clock

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

Unless most city dwellers have a hankering to head for the country and shovel off a pond or trek to the nearest ice arena and pay admission, there is not much opportunity to enjoy a winter skate.

But for Belleville residents there are two dozen opportunities for some free skating not more than a short walk away for many people.

The city parks board maintains 24 outdoor skating rinks around the city each winter.

Ed Burley, parks general foreman, says a minimum of 2,300 man-hours are involved during January and February keeping the rinks as well-flooded and cleaned as possible.

There are three crews of two men each working three eight-hour shifts during the week, including two men Sunday through Thursday nights, who both flood and clean off the rinks.

Equipment includes a one-ton truck with 400 feet of hose, a small Scout jeep with plow and hose reel attached, two tractors with plows and a third tractor with a broom.

"If at all possible, we broom all our rinks before we flood because you get a smoother surface," he noted.

The temperature has got to be well below freezing to begin the rink program each year. "The temperature's got to be at least 25 degrees or you might as well forget it," says Mr. Burley.

"We try to make them rinks as large as the area permits," he said. "There's a great variation in size" due to the contour of the land in certain places.

Four of the rinks are areas cleaned off on the Bay of Quinte where the longest rink, 450 feet, is located at Bayshore. And twice a week testing of ice thickness on the bay "is a must," comments Mr. Burley.

Not all rinks are on city property. Some are situated at schools where they are used for physical education. There are eight lighted areas for night-time skating.

"I think we've tried to hit all major population areas," commented Mr. Burley.

Outdoor Rink Popular

This outdoor skating rink at King George Public School on North Front Street is a busy spot for area youngsters, even during school hours as both skaters and hockey enthusiasts vie for space. The city parks board maintains 24 outdoor rinks for winter recreation.

Car Dealers Report Strong Sales

By CASH MAHAFFY
Staff Reporter

Belleville automobile dealers are unanimously enthusiastic about the cash rebates being offered by major car manufacturers to buyers of certain models. Most, though, said they hadn't noted any serious sag in sales and regard the rebates as a bonus.

The big thing the rebate offers do, say senior sales personnel, is create interest and traffic in the salesrooms and on their lots. This gives salespeople a chance to go to work on prospects.

At Fry Ford Sales, sales manager Dante Pace said sales this year are about 20 per cent ahead of last year's level, and he's hiring sales personnel. Trucks, he said, are moving well, too.

Bryce Philp, general manager of Elliott Motors said he found the rebate offer helpful, but sales were increasing at his GM dealership anyway.

Sales manager at American Motors dealer Hanthorn Motors, Bill Girdwood, credits the rebates with creating traffic. He said this is a traditionally slow time of year but the rebates are bringing people into his dealership and sales are up from last year.

Take 2

Bill Stewart at Motorland Chrysler Plymouth said the rebates are creating interest. Action had started slowly, but advertising is beginning to take hold and sales are healthy.

At Trudeau Motors, general sales manager John Trudeau said January was the best sales month they've had in the last five years. The rebates have helped in the lines they apply to, but the strongest part of the market is still standard-size cars."

Another thing Mr. Tudeau mentioned was the buoyancy of the used car market, which he said is "very strong."

"Actually," he said, "there are as good buys available now in both new and used cars as there have been in years."

Newsmakers

Heart Week Set

The week of Feb. 23-28 has been set as Heart Week in Tweed. Volunteer canvassers will be door-to-door to raise funds for heart research. J. Harry Thomson, head of the drive said, 85 per cent of each dollar donated and 100 per cent of all In Memoriam gifts go to heart research.

Student Gets Honors

David Chisholm received first class honors in Grade One rudiments in Royal Conservatory of Music examinations two weeks ago and not just a pass as reported in a news story last week. The information had not be included in a list of students provided by the Conservatory.

Lights Planned

The city parks board hopes to include a provision in next year's budget for lights at a toboggan hill and outdoor quarry skating rink in the board's service area at the end of North Park St. Ed Burley, general foreman, points out the location's proximity to Highway 401 might make it a popular spot.

Kisby to Speak

Russ Kisby, national coordinator for Sports Participation will be guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Belleville YMCA, to be held at the Sun Valley Motor Hotel Thursday, February 13. The dinner meeting, which begins at 6.30 p.m., is open to the public at $5 a plate.

Five Charged In Theft

City police have released the names of five people charged in connection with the theft of $10,000 from a St. Paul St. home during the weekend.

They are Ernest Godfrey, 25, 17 Bridge St. W., Leonard Godfrey, 22, 78 Springhurst Ave., Toronto, David Inwood, 22, 17 Bridge St. W.; Larry Leroy Vardy, 23, 28 Maple St., Trenton and Marlene Wheeler, 19, 17 Bridge St. W.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said today the five were arrested in Bancroft and are charged with break, enter, and theft, following the theft of $10,000 from the home of Walter Asselstine of 146 St. Paul St.

Mr. Asselstine hauls cardboard waste from industry and downtown businesses.

Chief Crosbie said that more of the missing money was found Monday, adding that "several thousand dollars" have been recovered so far.

Early-morning Blaze Causes $4,000 Damage

CARRYING PLACE — An early morning fire today caused $4,000 damage to a cottage in the Quinte Shores subdivision here.

Deputy chief Roger Flower of the Ameliasburg fire department said at the fire site that flames broke out in a crawl space beneath the living room floor. A heating duct, leading from a propane furnace overheated and set the plywood floor and joists aflame, he said.

Owner of the cottage is Al Steer of Toronto.

In fighting the blaze, firemen were forced to chop through 16 inches of ice on Weller's Bay to get water.

The deputy chief said the fire was under control within 10 minutes of the arrival of his men and was extinguished within 35 minutes.

Rebates Help

New car dealers in the city are enthusiastic about the rebate program introduced by major manufacturers. While there had been no serious sales slump in Belleville, rebate offers bring more potential customers to dealers' showrooms where sales people can show off their shiny new models.

Total Collapse by Leafs Might Get Things Moving

What are we going to do about the Toronto Maple Leafs?

One might well answer that question with a question: Who cares about the Leafs?

Some of us do.

And many of us have been caring for longer than we care to think.

The younger members of the pro-Leaf clique need only hark back to the '60s when Punch Imlach (now running a successful operation in Buffalo) was punching out Stanley Cup champions.

To refresh some memories, the Leafs of the Imlach era were four-time cup champs in the '60s, winning three in a row (1961-62 to 1963-64) and again in 1966-67.

In the 1950s, of course, Montreal Canadiens under manager Frank Selke and coach Hector (Toe) Blake, owned the cup. Habs put together five straight cup titles beginning in the 1955-56 campaign. Before that string, Dick Irvin coached the team to the Cup in the Spring of 1953.

Toronto went all the way just once in those days, taking the nod in 1950-51. Detroit Red Wings (remember them?) took the cup home on three occasions in the '50s.

The 1940s were great for our side. Manager Conn Smythe and coach Hap Day assembled some talented teams and supplied the leadership which resulted in five Cup wins, among them, three straight from 1946-47 to 1948-49.

Without delving deeper into the past, it's obvious there's a pattern here, as far as Leaf success goes. Would you believe history shows there is every chance we'll have slim pickings in the 1970s? But wait until the 1980s.

But why wait?

Perhaps, fellow conspirators, we can hasten the revival of our heroes.

If we concentrate, and I mean concentrate, do you think we could encourage Leafs to play worse than they have been?

Now, to coincide with this miracle, we need another one.

California Seals have got to come on like gangbusters.

Get the drift?

Leafs finish out of the playoffs.

Then, friends, we may get some action before 1980.

But don't bet on it.

Forget the team for a moment.

The problems in that organization start at the top, in my opinion.

And who's going to make changes at that level?

Who can?

SLICES — If our Bobcats are to get by Markham in first round Metro Junior B League playoffs, it will take an all-out effort by the players and all the others connected with the team.

To get the best from their charges, coach Bob Boyle, GM Snipe Matthews, Russ Soule and the rest will be counting on that extra plus so evident here over the years and so envied by other clubs . . . excellent support from the Belleville junior hockey fans.

The action starts tonight in Markham.

Thursday night at 8:45 in Memorial Arena, Game 2 goes here.

Be there.

And be a booster.

One softball operation that should be well prepared for the 1975 diamond season is the Belleville and District Ladies' Softball League.

That group has already held meetings to plan for the new campaign and its most important session is scheduled for Wednesday at the H and R Block offices, 8 Bridge St. East, at 7 p.m.

League officials emphasize that all coaches, managers and sponsors are required to be at this one as the time for finalzing plans nears. Interested players are also welcome.

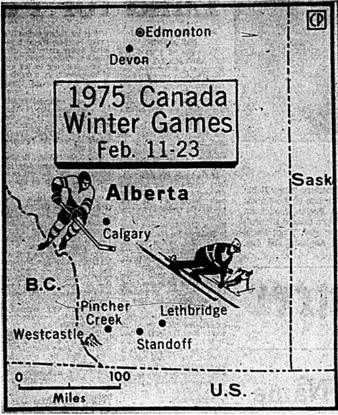
Wellington's fine peewee hockey club has completed the regular season in the Trent Valley League with a near-perfect record. The club topped the 11-team grouping with 19 wins and a tie in 20 starts, for 39 points.

But there's a lot to be said for the team at the botom of the list of standings. Warkworth went through the season without a win or a tie in 20 games. But the point is, the club completed the season and deserves a pat on the back for sticking with it.

Bancroft finished in second place with 30 points; Campbellford had 27; Madoc, 24; Stirling, 23; Colborne, 22; Brighton, 22; Frankford, 18; Mamora eight; Tweed, seven.

Glenn McQuaid led the point parade. The Wellington whiz scored 42 toals and earned 19 assists for 61 points. Campbellford's Art Nicholas had 48 (32-16); Brighton's Carl Deline, 48 (31 - 17); Wellington's John Jackson, 40 (20-20); Marmora's Francis Doyle 32 (24-8); Stirling's Brian Doxtator 32 (15-17); Jeff Rupnow of Bancroft, 32 (17-15); Andy Fawcett of Colborne, 31 (13-18); Don MacDonald of Wellington, 29 (14-15); and Grant McCrae, Frankford, 29 (14-15).

'Second Wave' Athletes Get a Chance



A dozen Alberta communities, ranging in size from Standoff (population 300) to Lethbridge, a city of 45,000, will play host to 2,600 athletes during the Canada Winter Games. Most events will be held in community arenas and school gymnasiums. Skiing events will be at Westcastle, a resort area 90 miles west of Lethbridge in the Rocky Mountains. Because of the cost of building a ski-jump facility, that event will be held in Devon, about 40 miles west of Edmonton. (CP Newsmap)

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — Big-name athletes are conspicuous by their absence from the list of more than 2,500 competitors at the third Canada Winter Games starting tonight, and that's exactly how the sponsors want it.

With only the odd exception, these Games are restricted to young men and women who have not attained national or international ranking in their specialties.

There are no Betsy Cliffords or Jim Hunters in the skiing, no Lynn Nightingales in the figure skating and no Sylvia Burkas in the speedskating.

For that matter, any of the more than 175 athletes who participated in the Canadian figure skating championships in Quebec City a week ago are barred whether they finished first or 12th.

The winter games lead off with an official opening ceremony tonight at which Prime Minister Trudeau, Health Minister Lalonde, Alberta Premier Lougheed and Lethbridge Mayor Andy Anderson will preside. Many of the competitors will also participate in the colorful program at Sportsplex, the 5,000-seat arena built for the Games.

But competition proper will not start until Wednesday morning when athletes representing the 10 provinces and two territories in 16 sports begin displaying their skills in Lethbridge and 14 other Alberta communities. All but one are in a 90-mile-wide area of southern Alberta, the exception being ski-jumping which is held in Devon, west of Edmonton.

John Hudson of Ottawa, executive-director of the Coaching Association of Canada, (CAC) offered his view of the philosophy behind the Winter Games, first held in Quebec City in 1967 and then in Saskatoon in 1971.

He sees the competitors gathered here as the "second wave" of athletes, those below national or international level. The games give them their own "elite day"—a chance to emerge from the shadow of the first-rank athletes who regularly make the headlines.

Hudson said the real elite need competition at their own level and would not benefit from competing here. And he took issue with one or two of the Winter Games admission rules.

For example, there are no restrictions on the makeup of the women's basketball teams, with the result that some members of the national team will be playing for Ontario and British Columbia, probably giving those provinces a clear advantage.

And in the case of wrestling the only restriction is age—competitors must be 16 to 20 as of Jan. 1, 1975—which could mean that a youngster who is the best in Canada could participate here.

Hudson added that he opposes the idea of setting upper age limits. This could cut out some elder athletes who may deserve to be in the "second wave" and who, if allowed to compete here, might be encouraged to continue longer in their sport.

Ontario and British Columbia were 1-2 in the points standing in the last two winter games and are likely to fight it out again for the top spot this year, although Quebec and Alberta are also reported to have fielded strong teams.

One move to equalize the level of competition has been taken in hockey where Ontario and Quebec would normally be strongest. Although all 10 provinces and two territories are restricted to Junior B players, the two central provinces must send a regular team. Other provinces may add players to the chosen team and the territories are permitted to strengthen their teams with three players each undr 23 at Jan. 1.

The sports included in the Games competition are badminton, basketball, boxing, curling, fencing, figure skating, gymnastics, hockey, judo, skiing (in- and jumping), speedskating, synchronized swimming, table and wrestling.

Points will be awarded to provinces and territories on the basis of 12 for first down to one for 12th place.

Preliminary events in most sports will be held in communities throughout southern Alberta and, with the exception of skiing, all finals will be held in Lethbridge.

The Games wind up Feb. 22.

TEAM HIRES COACH

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP) — Woodstock Warriors of the Ontario Fastball League (OFL) announced Monday the signing of Ken Fortey of London, Ont., as coach for the 1975 season. Fortey replaces Tom Murphy.

Players State Their Worth

Arbitrators Get the Call

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The old saying that you can't argue a judgment call has given umpires the final say on the baseball diamond. That same principle has now moved behind closed doors with arbitrators having the one and only call in baseball's contract disputes.

When the clock struck 12 Monday night, close to 30 ballplayers began looking to members of the American Arbitration Association to find out how good their 1974 seasons actually were.

The players, including such star performers as 25-game winner Ferguson Jenkins of Texas Rangers, slugger Reggie Jackson of Oakland A's and batting champions Rod Carew of Minnesota Twins and Ralph Garr of Atlanta Braves, have jotted down a number approximating their self-worth. The teams have countered with a different financial figure, a smaller one no doubt.

Which leaves it all up to the binding arbitrator, who must pick either the owner's figure or the player's price—and nothing in between. The arbitration hearings begin Wednesday.

Last year, 53 players were reported set to go to arbitration but only 29 filed and had their cases heard. The scorecard read 13 winning players and 16 players called out.

This year's roster would make a representative all-star team.

There's Joe Rudi, Sal Bando, Ken Holtzman, Vida Blue, Gene Tenace, and Bert Campaneris, all of Oakland; Bert Blyleven and Steve Braun of Minnesota; Pat Dobson of New York Yankees; and Garry Maddox and Randy Moffitt of San Francisco Giants.

And then there's the Jerry Kapstein team with Baltimore Orioles.

Veteran Baltimore pitcher Mike Cuellar, represented by Kapstein, notified the Orioles Monday that he wanted to take his salary dispute to arbitration. And the Orioles requested arbitration for eight other unsigned players—all represented by Kapstein.

The Orioles requested arbitration for Ross Grimsley, Bob Reynolds, Mike Torrez, Doyle Alexander, Don Baylor, Al Bumbry, Bobby Grich and Andy Etchebarren.

Mariners' Production Up But Team at Standstill

LOS ANGELES (CP) — San Diego Mariners haven't made much progress lately in the World Hockey Association Western Division race but they have two of the hottest scorers in the league at the moment.

Centre Andre Lacroix and right winger Wayne Rivers together have accounted for a total of nine goals and 13 assists in the last week while the Mariners remain fourth in their division.

Rivers, 20th among the leading scorers a week ago, has climbed to 10th in the statistics released by the league Monday. He scored seven goals and three assists in the last week and now has 35 goals and 22 assists for 57 points.

Lacroix, with two goals and 10 assists, has moved up to third spot from fourth, and now has 22 goals and 45 assists.

Winnipeg Jets' Bobby Hull still leads the league with 47 goals and 39 assists for 86 points.

North Bay Rejected

Spitfires in Major Series

TORONTO (CP) — Operators of Windsor Spitfires of the Southern Ontario Junior Hockey League have been awarded a franchise in the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A series for the 1975-76 season.

Team owners in the Major series voted unanimously Monday to accept the Windsor application, while at the same time rejecting one from North Bay, which currently has a team in the OHA Provincial Junior A series.

A spokesman said the Major series, which now will have 12 members, will be divided into two divisions. The league currently plays a 70-game schedule with eight teams qualifying for post-season play.

"The consensus (at the meeting) seemed to be in favor of reverting to a 66-game schedule and admitting four teams in each division to the playoffs," said series commissioner Clarence (Tubby) Schmalz.

The franchise means a return of Major Junior A hockey to the border city. The former Spitfires, a junior affiliate of Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, operated in Windsor between 1946 and 1953 when they were shifted to Hamilton.

Majority owners of Windsor Spitfires—Fred Sorrell, Brian Beach, Al McLaren and Cal Parent—had been turned down because of the inability of Windsor Arena to meet Major Junior A specifications.

But Schmalz noted that the arena's owners have spent $200,000 on renovations over the last two years and further renovation will bring the facility up to standard. The Windsor ice surface currently is 15 feet shorter and five feet narrower than Major Junior A standards.

Schmalz said factors contributing to the North Bay rejection included the fact it was a first-time application from that city and that Jim Talentino, coach of the Provincial Junior A Trappers, was fired last weekend.

Talentino's father, Terry, is manager of the North Bay Arena and a prime mover behind the Major Junior A application.

SIGNS WITH PHILLIES

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Left-hander Steve Carlton signed a three-year contract Monday with Philadelphia Phillies, the National League baseball club announced. Also signed were first baseman Willie Montanez, pitcher Wayne Twitchell, infielder-outfielder Alan Bannister, and relief pitcher Ed Watt.

Money for Needy From Ali Fights

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali said Monday he will give his profits from all future fights to groups who help the needy and minorities.

"From this fight on, all my fights will be free," Ali said at a news conference to formally announce his title defence against Chuck Wepner on March 24 at the Cleveland Coliseum.

"All the profits I make from the Chuck Wepner fight will be given away to groups like the NAACP (National Association for the Advancement of Colored People), the Negro College Fund and the Black Muslims," said the champion.

'From here on out, in all my championship fights, I don't want nothing but what it costs to train. I'll start with Wepner after I have paid my taxes and paid everybody."

Ali, who is guaranteed $1.5 million to fight Wepner, admitted the program would have to be carefully co-ordinated and supervised.

"I feel real guilty," Ali said. "The money I make is so easy. Fightin' George Foreman was an easy $5 million. Fghtin' Chuck Wepner will be an easy million and a half."

Join Hall Of Fame

LAKE PARK, Fla. (AP) — The Professional Golfers' Association Hall of Fame, swelling its ranks for the first time since 1969, enrolled Cary Middlecoff and Julius Boros, the PGA announced Monday. Middlecoff won U.S. Open tournaments in 1949 and 1956, captured the Masters in 1955 and won 35 other PGA tour titles. Boros also is a two-time winner of the U.S. Open, taking the crown in 1952 and 1963.

Potvin and Goaltending Have Islanders Moving

MONTREAL (CP) — For the first two seasons of their existence in the National Hockey League, New York Islanders were considered something less than a threat.

During their first 156 games, the Islanders managed 31 wins and lost 101 times. They were outscored 594-352 and were last-place finishers in the East Division in 1972-73 and 1973-74.

But the Islanders have improved to a point this year. Statistics released today by the league show the third-year club with 22 wins, 18 losses and 14 ties in 54 games, good enough for third spot in the Lester Patrick Division.

An improved offence, led by of-the-year, as well as impressive goaltending by Billy Smith and Glenn Resch have combined to provide a good portion of the Islanders success.

Potvin, a defenceman, has 18 goals and 41 assists for 59 points, good for 16th place in the over-all scoring race. Last year, he established a club record with 54 points on 17 goals and 37 assists.

Over-all, the offence has produced 50 goals more than it had this time last year—180 compared with 130. The club finished the 1973-74 season with 182 goals.

Prior to this season, Islanders goaltenders had failed to record a single shutout. This campaign, Smith has three and Resch has two. They have combined to cut their goals-against total by 27—to 147 from 174—and raised their position to third in the goaltending race from 10th.

Resch, still a rookie, has a 2.47 goals-against average while Smith's mark is 2.74 for a team average of 2.72. Smith has appeared in 40 of the club's 54 games.

Meanwhile in the scoring race, Phil Esposito has bettered the 100-point mark for the fifth season in a row. He had five goals and nine assists in last week play to bring his point total to 105 on 52 goals and 53 assists.

Bobby Orr is next with 33 goals and 65 assists for 98 points followed by Guy Lafleur of Montreal Canadiens, who has 44 goals and 51 assists for 95 points.

Rogatien Vachon and Gary Edwards of Los Angeles Kings have the best goals-against average with a 2.20 mark while Bernie Parent leads with nine shutouts.

Andy Brown

Goalie's Effort Carries Racers

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Dr. Jekyll replaced Mr. Hyde in the Indianapolis Racers' goal Monday night.

The result was a 4-1 victory over Chicago Cougars in a battle between World Hockey Association East Division teams.

It was the only WHA game played. There were no National Hockey League games scheduled.

Racer goaltender Andy Brown, a changed man since a 7-5 loss at Toronto Sunday night, played one of his best defensive games all season against the bruising Cougars, who had 29 shots on goal.

The Racers broke the game open in the second period with three goals erasing a 1-0 first-period lead Chicago had taken on Gary MacGregor's 29th score of the season.

But Indianapolis got to Chicago netminder Dave Dryden with Nick Harbaruk producing the first goal after only 44 seconds of the period had elapsed. Ron Buchanan followed with a power-play goal at 9:51. Bob Sicinski added the third one at 14:18.

Jimmy Johnson collected the last Racer goal at 9:03 of the final period.

Buchanan, whose goal snapped a 1-1 tie and put the Racers ahead for good, said: "We're playing good hockey. If the team had won about five or six of those 13 in a row it lost, the playoffs definitely would be in our reach.

"If we can't make them, we're going to be a spoiler for somebody. I think we can win at least 13 of of our last 28 games."

Bucks Stop Pistons

By THE ASSOCIATE' PRESS

From a Milwaukee Bucks vantage point, Detroit's lineup looks better without big Bob Lanier. And from Milwaukee captain Bob Dandridge's vantage point, the Bucks' lineup looks much better when it's not lining up.

Milwaukee took advantge of Lanier's early foul trouble to run past the Pistons 130-109 in the National Basketball Association Monday night.

"I don't see why we shouldn't continue to run like we did tonight if Kareem (Abdul-Jabbar) goes to the boards," said Dandridge, who sank 10 of 13 shots and scored 23 points.

"We've got the tallest centre in basketball," Dandridge said. "Cornell Warner is a good rebounder and I'm good for a few every night. If we rebound we should be able to run. I hope this game shows everyone on the team we're just more effective when we run."

Elsewhere in the NBA, New Orleans Jazz beat Atlanta Hawks 96-89 and in the only American Basketball Association action, Utah Stars beat Virginia Squires 97-90.

Lanier took his bulky 6-foot-11 frame to the bench four minutes into the first period because of foul trouble and a bad knee. Jabbar roughed up Lanier's replacements, Jim Davis and George Trapp, and contributed 39 points, 11 rebounds, seven assists and three blocked shots.

Constellation Moves to Fifth

Constellation Carpets pulled one point ahead of Jim's Pizzeria in their Gas House Hockey League battle for fifth place.

Constellation downed Art's Esso 8-3 while Jim's wound up on the short end of a 4-1 score against the Belleville Generals.

In the other Gas House game, league leading Stanley Structures won their 20th game of the season. Belleville Yardmen took the brunt of the powerful Stanley attack Monday night as the Structuremen rolled to an 8-1 victory.

Ron Mitchell scored twice to top the Constellation scorers. Singles went to Dale Kiley, Bill Yull, Greg Bellis, Ken Kerik, Ken Vos and Wayne Andrews. Vos added three assists to his goal.

Warren Rushlow, Bernie Robar and Steve Rushlow each scored once for Art's.

Ken Bertrand, Bob Dolan, Dave Skelton and Bill Van Soelen got a goal apiece for the Generals.

Fred Stickle was the lone Jim's goal scorer.

Stanley's put up their usual diversified attack as eight players shared in the goal scoring. Bob Mulvihill, Rob Harrington, Wayne Storms, Ron Fuller, Mike Goegan, Ray Summers, Wayne Leveque and Charlie Rowbotham were the marksmen. Leveque also drew three assists.

Pat Mullins replied for the Yardmen.

Three Shutouts In Juvenile Play

Belle Cleaners, Avis Rent-A-Car and J. F. Nelles Real Estate picked up wins in Belleville Minor Hockey Association Major Bantam play last week.

The Cleaners took Belleville Toyota 5-2; Avis dropped Sidney Inn 7-2 and Nelles romped over Allied Chemicals 8-1.

Paul Slaughter's two goals paced the Cleaners. Randy Donovan scored both Toyota goals. Steve Pearce and Dave Bennett each scored twice for Avis while Nelles was sparked by two-goal efforts from Mike MacDonald and Tim Coates.

Shutouts highlighted play in the Juvenile section.

First place Lou Williams blanked Warwick and Weeks 3-0 with Paul Colotelo recording the shutout. Jim Aitken, Rod Dafoe and Semor Jianopoulis produced the goals.

Harvey's Drive-In and Arthur Sills played to a scoreless draw. Steve Hale and Steve Coates combined talents to close the door on Harvey's. Coates included among his saves the stop on a penalty shot. Sills couldn't get the puck past Don Thompson.

In the other match, Belleville Plaza stopped Sir James Whitney 6-2 as Gord Male potted three goals.

First Place Finish For Algonquin Team

KINGSTON (Special) — Algonquin College, Ottawa, nailed down first place in the Eastern Ontario College Athletic Association (EOCAA) women's volleyball circuit here on the weekend.

With one round robin series left in the regular season the Ottawa entry cannot be caught by any of the other three teams in the league.

First place in the loop gives Algonquin the right to represent Eastern Ontario at the Ontario College Athletic Association championships to be held at Loyalist College, February 22.

The local college, participating in only its second year of EOCAA volleyball, finished second in the league.

Saturday, Loyalist took two from Durham of Oshawa, 15-2 and 15-9, but lost a third 15-2.

Against St. Lawrence Kingston the locals lost two 15-12 and 15-6 and won a third game 15-2.

Algonquin rolled over the Loyalist squad 15-9, 15-3 and 15-5 in their three games.

Durham has finished in third place and St. Lawrence brings up the rear in the standings.

The final round-robin of the season is scheduled for this Saturday at Algonquin.

Lancers Bounce Back

Down three at the half, the Loyalist Lancers came back to earn a 56-49 win over visiting Sir Sandford Fleming College, of Peterborough, Saturday night in the Ontario Colleges Athletic Association basketball action.

Bill Kyle was top gunner in the Loyalist comeback with 19 points. Dave Culmer added 10. Scott Harrigan scored 20 for Peterborough and Steve Dinsdale had 10.

Wednesday the Lancers are in Ottawa to take on the Algonquin Cats in what could be a prelude to playoff action. Loyalist must meet the first place team in the first game of the playoffs and Algonquin and St. Lawrence, Kingston, are currently tied for first place in the Eastern Ontario College Athletics Association circuit.

Loyalist's season winds up with a game February 20 in Lindsay. Playoffs are Feb. 28 and March 1 in Kingston.

Kingston Moves Up

Kingston pulled to within two points of Belleville on the weekend with a 5-2 win over Frankford in Quinte District Church Hockey League action. In the only other game, Odessa and Picton battled to a 5-5 tie.

Belleville was idle on the weekend, but still remained on top of the standings with 19 points. Kingston now has 17 and Frankford 14. The final two spots in the standings go to Picton with eight and Odessa with two.

Stu Sears scored twice to lead the Kingston attack with singles going to Dave Kennedy, John Gale and Ron Eaton. Frankford replied with one each from Richard Patrick and Walter Twiddy.

Ron Smith scored three times to top the Picton scoring attack and Paul Moore and John Yearwood got one each. Frank Derue, Ken Carroll, Paul Hogeboom, Glen Macklin and Tim Minnagen were the Odessa marksmen.

SIGNS WITH BREWERS

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Relief pitcher Tom Murphy has signed with Milwaukee Brewers, the American League baseball team announced Monday. Murphy, a right-hander, had 20 saves for the Brewers last season. He appeared in 70 games, worked 123 innings and had a 10-10 record, with an earned run average of 1.90.

For the second consecutive year Dave Brown has skipped his rink to the Annual Victoria and Grey Mens Bonspiel championship. The amazing thing about this victory is that the Vic and Grey 'spiel is the only time of the year the four curlers play together. The rest of the year they curl on different rinks. Members of the winning rink are (left to right) Mike Terris, lead; Brown,; Nev Burroughs, vice, and Wilf Weymark, second. They took the title Saturday at the Quinte Curling Club.

Rollins Peewees Produce In Bon Soo Tournament

It took a while but it would appear off Belleville Rollins Major Peewees' showing on the weekend at the annual Bon Soo Tournament in Sault Ste. Marie, that the team is coming around.

Team manager Ron Culloden and coach Bob Cook got a big lift from the efforts of their charges in the tournament. And the players themselves benefitted from the fact they advanced to the A series semi-final before bowing out to a Guelph team.

"If the boys can continue the fine play they showed in Sault Ste. Marie, I'm confident we'll have a good shot at a championship in the tournament in Orillia next month," offered Cook.

Rollins will be in Orillia for tourney action, March 22-23.

"We're very happy with the way the boys played in the Bon Soo. With any luck at all, they'd have been in the final," observed Culloden.

In the semi-final match with Guelph, Rollins trailed 3-2 in the second period but ran into a rash of penalties which led to a 6-2 defeat. There were 52 minutes on penalties in the game. Rollins took 42 of them.

Tom Quesnel and Jamie Robertson were the Belleville scorers.

It was Robertson's fourth goal of the tourney. He had two including the winner in an opening game 4-3 defeat of Sault Ste. Marie Purple Lantern, in overtime, and added another in a 2-1 squeaker over Hamner.

Saturday's opening game win over Purple Lantern was a nail-biter. And the method used to decide a winner after the teams finished regulation time tied 3-3 added to the excitement.

In the overtime; each team ices four skaters and a goalie for two minutes. If there is no score, the lineups are reduced by one for another two-minute go, and so on.

The teams were down to one attacker and a goalie each when Rollins finally got the deciding goal.

Purple Lantern came close to breaking it up but their shooter was foiled on a breakaway by Rollins' goalie Hugh Northey. From the faceoff in the Belleville zone, Robertson skated the length of the ice, deked the goalie, and the game was over.

Robertson also opened the scoring in that game. Other Rollins goals came from defenceman Steve Slaughter and Tony Parks.

Danny Hazlewood supplied some sparkling goalkeeping in Rollins' 2-1 win over Hamner. He lost his bid for a shutout with only nine seconds to play.

Robertson and David Semark supplied the Rollins goals.

Semark and Tye Cole, called up from the peewee house league for the tourney, responded with solid efforts as did every member of the team.

And the players now feel they are capable of holding their own with the best of them.

Kinsmen In Split

The Belleville Kinsmen Major bantams split a pair of weekend games in exhibition Ontario Minor Hockey Association play. Saturday the locals dropped a 6-5 decision to Brookly-Whitby. Nelson Frederick, Gary McInroy, Pat Wilman, Dan Duffy and Danny Vance each got one for the Kinsmen.

Sunday, Dan Duffy scored twice and Danny Vance, John Royer, Gary McInroy, Randy Donovan, Pat Wilman and Jim Skinkle scored one each as the Belleville club defeated Napanee 8-6.

Porteous Joins Cats For Markham Series

For the second straight year, the Belleville Bobcats will be carrying another team's goalie with them into the playoffs.

Last season the Cats picked up Peterborough Lions' Rob Duncan for the second round series against Pickering Panthers. This year the local Junior B's goaltending duties will be shared between Bob Mooire and Oshawa Legionaires' Dan Porteous in the first round series against Markham Royals. The series beings tonight in Markham.

Regular Bobcat goalie Bruce Clark will be out at least 10 more days with a head injury incurred against Pickering Panthers a week and a half ago. Last season Clark incurred the same type of injury.

Porteous was the Legionaires' number one goalie this season. He started in almost all of their games. The Oshawa club finished at the bottom of the Metro Junior B East Division loop thus missing the first round of the playoffs. League rules stipulate that if a team is missing a player due to injury at playoff time and a doctor's certificate can be obtained to verify the injury that team may replace the player with one from any other team not involved in playoffs.

Along with Clark, defenceman Rick Langstaff and winger Jim Richardson will also be missing from Tuesday's lineup. Both of those players are out with shoulder injuries. Langstaff isn't expected back for two to three weeks and Richardson isn't expected to be back for another week to 10 days.

The remaining holes in the Belleville lineup will be filled by members of the Shell Juvenile squad. John Murphy will be a back-up defenceman and Gary Thompson will travel as a substitute forward. Mike Crawford will centre a regular line between Scott Samis and Eric Powell and a fourth juvenile, Roger Chapman, may also make the trip.

Bob Thompson has returned to the lineup following his injury, but Dave Taylor may not make tonight's trip due to work commitments.

Belleville Girls Win

BRIGHTON (Special) — Jane Acton, Anne Templeman and Cindy Hannah each scored one goal as the Belleville Junior Girls Hockey team beat the home town juniors 3-1 on the weekend in an exhibition game. Debbie Semple got the only goal of the game for Brighton.

Saints March to Title

KINGSTON (Special) — Sudbury took three cracks at Quinte Secondary here on Saturday, but couldn't get a win at the right time as the Saints took the Grand Championship of the Third Annual KCVI Blueball Tournament.

The title came right down to the wire as Sudbury and Quinte went at it in a sudden death game.

The tournament began Friday and Quinte came up with a pair of wins. In their opener they defeated Queen Elizabeth Collegiate of Kingston 38-24. Steve Hale dropped in 11 points for the locals and Steve McCracken and Pete Vos added eight each.

Later Friday, the Saints dumped KCVI 53-44. Hale had 14, Vos got 10 and McCracken and Sterling Wilson popped eight each.

Saturday morning Quinte faced Sudbury in the A final. Both schools had recorded two wins. The Saints came out on top 42-37. Vos led the way with 14 points and McCracken added 11. The win put Quinte in the Grand Championship.

Since it was a double elimination, Sudbury went on to play the winner of the B final. In that one they dumped Oshawa Central and earned a spot in the Grand Championship. In it they upended Quinte 73-61. Hale was tops for the locals with 23 points and Vos was next with 14. Rick Culkin added 10.

Because both teams had only lost one game, and it was a double elimination tournament, a special 16 minute game had to be played for the Grand Championship.

The Saints came out on top 31-24. Vos had 10, Hale got nine and McCracke scored eight to account for the majority of the Saints scoring in the sudden death match.

FASTEST GAME EVER

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto bowler Walter Heeney is claiming the fastest five-pin game ever played—one minute, 37 seconds, with a score of 290. He said the record would be submitted to the Guiness Book of World Records for verification. He used 18 balls in the game—a perfect 450 score requires 12. "To bowl a fast game you've got to get a lot of strikes," he said. "As it turned out, there were a lot of strikes and few open frames."

Lions on Target In Exhibitions

Belleville Lions Major Midgets picked up a pair of exhibition wins on the weekend while keeping in trim to defend their Brockville Tournament championship, Saturday.

Lions will be out to repeat as the top team in the Brockville event, an honor they took in 1974 when goalie Jeff Merrill recorded three shutouts.

In the exhibition action, Lions topped Belleville Juvenile B Selects 6-2, Saturday and Sunday they broke a close game wide open in the second half to hang a 12-5 defeat on Stirling Midgets.

PaPt McGinn and Sandy Waterson each scored twice in the win over the juvenile squad. Singles went to Calvin Pope and Dave McBride.

Dan Murray and R. Neal counted for Selects.

Stirling held Lions to a 2-2 tie for one period but couldn't match the Belleville squad after that.

Paul Hayman, Clint Riendeau and Pat McGinn each potted three goals. Waterson had a pair and Marty Lowry, one.

Taking care of the Stirling production were Brian Hadley with two, Wayne Andrews, Doug Bastedo and Craig Morton.

Rosebush and Sage Go on Scoring Spree

Rick Rosebush and Grant Sage were one man shows in their respective Northern Electric Hockey League games on Sunday.

Rosebush scored all six of his club's goals to lead the Rebels to a 6-3 win over the Falcons. Dwight Rathwell, Don Matthews and Frank Cummings replied for the losers.

Sage got seven goals and drew three assists as the Bearcats trounced the Yankees 11-6. Rod Salter added a hat trick and Ron McFarlane scored once to account for the rest of the winners goals.

Bob Baitley tallied four times and Wayne Brown and Les Johnston once each for the Yankees.

BIRTHS

McLAREN — Steven Dean McLaren is happy to announce the safe arrival of his sister Stephanie Ann, born Feb. 7, 1975, weight 7 lbs., 12 ozs. Proud parents, John and Beverley. Granddaughter for Mr. and Mrs. Jack McLaren, Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whitney, Ottawa. Great granddaughter for Mr. and Mrs. Grant McLaren. Special thanks to Dr. Seward, Dr. Pearce and the nurses on 5th floor.

LEWIS — Wayne and Alice (nee Dykstra) proudly announce the arrival of their son, 7 lbs., 6½ ozs. on Saturday, February 8, 1975 at Belleville General Hospital. Special thanks to Dr. Rackham, Dr Allore and O.B.S. staff.

IN MEMORIAM

MACK — In loving memory of my parents Percy Mack died Feb. 9th, 1950 and Violet Mack, died Dec. 8th, 1962.

A cherished smile, a heart of gold,
To my dearest parents the world could hold.
Happy memories fond and true,
From us who thought the world of you.

—Never forgotten by daughter Mildred and family.

REID, Floyd — In loving memory of a dear husband who passed away Feb. 11, 1974.

Gone from me but leaving memories,
Death can never take away,
Memories that will always linger,
While upon this earth I stay.

—Always remembered and loved by wife Linda.

REID — In loving memory of a dear father, Floyd Reid.

Dearest daddy we miss you,
In a very special way,
But I know I will meet you,
In heaven again some day.

—Sadly missed and loved daughter Shannon.

REID — In loving memory of a dear son and brother Floyd Reid.

It's lonely here without you son,
We miss you more each day,
For life is not the same to us,
Since you were called away,
But someday soon we'll clasp your hands,
In God's great heavenly land,
And walk down the street of glory,
Oh that will be grand.

—Ever remembered and loved by Dad, Mom, sister Ellen.

POOLE — In loving memory of our dear mother Catharine who passed away Feb. 9, 1972.

If I had all the world to give,
I'd give it, yes, and more,
To hear her voice, see her smile,
And greet her at the door.
But all I can do, dear mother,
Is go and tend your grave,
And leave behind tokens of love,
To the best mother God ever made.
I like to think when life is done,
Wherever heaven may be,
She'll be standing at the door,
Up there to welcome me.

—Sadly missed by son Harry and daughter Jean and family.

GUNSOLUS, Foster Daniel — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Foster Gunsolus, passed away Feb. 10, 1974.

Those whom we love go out of sight,
But never out of mind,
They are cherished in the hearts,
Of those they left behind.
Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just in all his days,
Sincere and true of heart and mind,
Beautiful memories he left behind.

—Ever remembered by his wife Bill and Peter, grandson Robert.

CARDS OF THANKS

Mr William Fothergill, 286 MacDonald Ave, Belleville, came home this past weekend after undergoing surgery in the BGH. Many thanks to the nurses and staff on 6th and 7th Levels and special thanks to Dr. Miraj and Dr. Palet for such fine care.

William Fothergill

Words are not adequate to express our thanks to relatives and friends for the many acts of kindness done for mother during her illness and for the family at the time of her death. Your support made our sorrow easier to bear.

Family of the late Betty Edmondson.

"Whatever It Takes Elliott Motors Gives"

Your Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

Wednesday, Feb. 12

Aries (March 21-April 19) A situations you've taken for granted will not fall into place as easily as you anticipated. Elbow grease is called for.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Don't rely on information you will receive through a friend who got it from a dubious source. Get the facts yourself.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Your ambitions will not be best-served today if you are whishy-washy. You know what's in it for you—act accordingly.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Others will not co-operate with your plans if they feel you are disguising your true motives. Be wise. Lay your cards on the table.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't expect more than is reasonable from a situation where you share an interest. What can be gained is very limited.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The uncertainty you'll feel prior to a discussion you'll be having with an associate will vanish once the talk begins.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your goals will be a bit fuzzy early in the day. Some valuable time will be wasted. Later, you'll double-step to get on target.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You have a tendency today to cater to your whims in spite of what your common sense tells you.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't misinterpret motives of those who love you and are concerned to see your interests protected. They want what's good for you.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll spare yourself from making a poor decision today when you forget about the if's and concentrate on the here-and-now.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You won't be as sharp as you should be in material dealings with friends but you'll behave in a practical manner with others.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Put your trust in one who has proven loyal to you, not in one who may be able to do something for you in the future.

Cost Higher

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — The cost of living in Uruguay rose 107 per cent during 1974, the government said. Food prices were responsible for 20.5 per cent of the increase, the largest single item.

Battle Inflation

'Work Hard' Cure Attracts Attention

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — The post office at Bateman's Bay has been flooded with 3,500 inquiries from around the world since a committee of townspeople announced a plan to deal with inflation: Cut prices in local shops and work more to give others more for their money.

"The whole thing seems to have caught the imagination of a lot of people, though when we started we weren't thinking in any bigger terms than Bateman's Bay," said Lance Smith, a motel-owner in the town of 3,500 and an organizer of the Think of Others (TOO) campaign.

"A couple of dozen towns in Australia have told us they have TOO-ism going strong," he said, and similar programs are being set up in New Zealand and South Africa.

One of Melbourne's most prominent Presbyterian ministers turned down a pay rise last month in a major publicity boost for TOO and a recent round of gasoline and beer price-cutting in Melbourne is being linked to the TOO example.

Newspapers and radio are pushing the campaign, though economists say the movement still needs big trade union and business support to do much about Australia's inflation rate of more than 20 per cent.

Bateman's Bay, a picturesque resort about 150 miles south of Sydney, founded the TOO campaign on the principles that employees should increase their productivity to make up for wage increases and employers should resist price rises from their suppliers and cut charges to the public.

Smith's eight-unit Batehaven Motel gives a two-per-cent discount on room rates (a single room costs $9.80 a night) to customers who turn off lights and electric appliances when they leave their rooms and townspeople save a cent on newspapers every Friday because of the TOO contribution of a local newsdealer.

At the Lobster Pot restaurant, owner Alan Morgan said he is giving a five-per-cent discount on every meal, including his special $7.35 lobster dinner.

"We lose a little bit of profit but part of that is made up by two of our employees who have volunteered to work a quarter-hour extra each week for free," he said.

Child's Adenoids Have to Go

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My 7½-year-old grandson suffers from enlarged adenoids and tonsils.

Some specialists have advised against surgery because his upper palate has an unusual shape which would make surgery difficult.

Other specialists encourage surgery because the danger may become great. The child is developing continuous ear infections and is becoming hard of hearing. He cannot breathe through the mouth at all.

The child is receiving doses of medicine to dry up the adenoids.

I am very perturbed, and would appreciate your opinion.—Mrs. H.A.N.

While removal of tonsils and adenoids is approached more conservatively than it was years ago, I believe that in the case of your grandson you have major reasons to go along with the specialists urging removal. One has to assume that they, too, realize any difficulties posed surgically by your grandson's peculiar palate problem.

Ear infection and obstruction of breathing to the degree you mention are prime indications for such surgery.

Tonsils and adenoids do tend to shrink with time, but I am not familiar with any medication that hastens this process. Allowing the shrinking process to occur naturally might be too great a risk. By that time the ear infection and the breathing obstruction could cause damage that would be irreparable.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 52 years old and I have not had any periods for twenty months. In the previous year I had two periods. I assume I have finished my change.

But I have a question which continues to puzzle me. I have heard that a woman can get pregnant even after she stops her periods since she still ovulates for a year or more afterwards. Is this true?—Mrs. M.A.

First, you are well beyond the menopause after nearly two years of no periods.

As to the second question, even before the menopause, ovarian functioning begins to decrease appreciably. In fact, this begins after age 40.

True, there are some "change of life" babies, but they are infrequent. Ovulation does NOT occur after periods cease. Estrogen may be produced and cause some bleeding, but the source of this hormone is the adrenal glands and not the ovaries.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is once a year too often for a person to have the barium test (upper and lower)—with so many enemas and x-raying?

Also, is there any connection between a fistula and a polyp? Can one encourage the other?—Mrs. K.E.

The barium test is a method which enables the physician to obtain good pictures (x-ray or fluoroscope) of the stomach or of the colon. The frequency of such tests would depend on just what the physician is looking for and the persistence of your symptoms.

For example, if there is a polyp high up in the large bowel, it is important to know what is happening to it over a period of time, whether it is growing larger. If it is changing in size, it should be removed. Hence the need for follow-up barium enemas.

There is no connection between a fistula and a polyp. The former is an abnormal passage in the tissues. A polyp is a protruding growth from a mucous membrane.

Endorses Course

EDMONTON (CP) — The Classical Association of Canada has voted to endorse a summer course offered by the University of Alberta department of classics. The association has written each classics department in the country requesting that students interested in classical literature and ancient history be made aware of the opportunity to study in Italy, using the facilities of the British School of Archeology at Rome. The course this summer—being offered for the ninth consecutive year by the U of A—runs from July 2 to Aug. 6.

PLAYS BAGPIPES

Students in Douglas Cutter's bagpipe classes at Syracuse University, should be able to play the Scottish national anthem Scots Wha Ha'e before the thistles bloom. Cutler, teaching three courses in Highland bagpiping, has competed in 23 Highland gatherings in the United States and Canada, playing first in seven, second in five and third in one.

North bid this hand with all the delicacy of a charging rhinoceros, but no one can blame him for insisting on a slam after his partner opened the bidding with a spade.

South's first look at dummy suggested that maybe he should give up opening 10 high-card point hands. A second glance told him that everything was going to be all right.

Then he played low from dummy and ruffed, then led his three of clubs. This gave West his choice of ways to let South bring home the slam. Actually, he chose to duck. Dummy's queen of clubs won the trick, trumps were pulled with two leads and the king-eight of clubs discarded on the two high diamonds. South still had to lose a heart trick but he could afford it.

If West had hopped up with the ace of clubs South would have been able to discard one of dummy's low hearts on the king of clubs. He would have lost a trick to the ace of clubs but the heart loser would have vanished into thin air.

Tax Bill Approval Is Slow

OTTAWA (CP) — The omnibus income tax bill, which Parliament must approve before 1974 tax rebates can be mailed, is expected to take another step forward today on its long legislative journey.

The Commons was expected to give the 287-page bill approval in principle, but how long it will be before final passage is anybody's guess. Detailed and perhaps prolonged study faces the bill once it goes to committee of the whole House after approval in principle.

Union Keeps Watch

OTTAWA (CP) — Elmer Mackay (PC—Central Nova) said Monday that Seafarer's International Union (SIU) funds apparently are being used to keep a union dissident under surveillance by two Toronto-area private investigators.

Fears for Ecology

OTTAWA (CP) — A Sudbury-area New Democrat MP said Monday night the Syncrude oil sands project and others like it will "create a wasteland never before experienced by mankind."

John Rodriguez (Nickel Belt) said the ecological damage in northeastern Alberta will be worse than that which wrecked the Sudbury, Ont., basin area.

Consider Protest

OTTAWA (CP) — A recommendation by the Toronto city council executive committee against the proposed Pickering airport will be considered by cabinet, Transport Minister Jean Marchand said Monday.

Asbestos Effect Quick

TORONTO (CP) — A University of Toronto research team said in a draft report made public Monday that workers employed in an asbestos plant for as few as four days can develop cancer of the larynx anytime between five and 55 years later.

Cost Tie Backed

OTTAWA (CP) — The value of cost-of-living wage adjustments was strongly supported by Finance Minister John Turner Monday, but construction industry and union officials showed little enthusiasm.

TORONTO (CP) — A more efficient claims section is what the Workmen's Compensation Board (WCB) needs to update and improve its services, Pat Reid (L-Lab-Rainy River) said Monday.

Pair Sentenced

TORONTO (CP) — Two Toronto men were sentenced Monday to eight years in prison each after pleading guilty to raping a 23-year-old woman in the underground garage of her Toronto apartment building last May 29.

Sentenced were Allan Marvin Dussault, 24, and William George Pritchard, 19.

Report Asked

TORONTO (CP) — Solicitor-General George Kerr said in the legislature Monday he has asked Niagara regional police for a full report on an incident early Sunday in which police from Buffalo, N.Y., entered Canada following an aborted arrest bid on the United States side of the border.

Miller Says NDP Fear-mongering

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Frank Miller has accused Stephen Lewis, leader of the Ontario New Democratic Party, of "fear-mongering" in his efforts to draw attention to asbestos health hazards at a Toronto plant.

During a heated exchange in the legislature Monday, Mr. Miller said Mr. Lewis has "scared to death" residents of a neighborhood near a Canadian Johns-Manville Co. Ltd. plant.

Mr. Lewis countered by accusing the minister of "engaging in criminal negligence" by not take severe measures to counter hazards caused by glue asbestos—said to cause fatal lung cancer.

Mr. Miller's comments followed publiciation of findings of a study which show asbestos levels in the air near the plant are "well within established guidelines."

The testing was done by D. Ray Kosan of the York-Toronto Respiratory Diseases Association.

"According to these latest tests, a person would have to live 2,000 years in the area to achieve an exposure approaching the danger level," said Keith Fitzgerald, deputy medical officer of health for Scaborough where the plant is located.

Concern over asbestos levels was magnified last week by Mr. Lewis who warned that workers and residents near the plant were being exposed to the risk of cancer and other diseases.

On a CBC radio program last Wednesday, Dr. Bertram Carnow, an environmental medicine specialist in the United States, said the amounts of asbestos fibres found at a Scarborough borough secondary school are 57 times the recommended level.

Ontario's environment ministry has said it will release the results of its testing next week.

Tax Not Reduced

TORONTO (CP) — The proportion of the sale price of a new car being returned to the buyer in the form of a rebate is not eligible for removal of the seven-per-cent sales tax, Revenue Minister Arthur Meen said Monday.

Probe Cost $930.000

TORONTO (CP) — Public inquiries into violence in the construction industry and the letting of the contract for the new Ontario Hydro building cost taxpayers more than $930,000 in 1973-74.

Buffalo Police Invasion Probed

OTTAWA (CP) — A chase into Canada by Buffalo, N.Y., police pursuing a truck is being investigated, External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen said Monday.

Following the investigation, "appropriate comments" will be sent to the United States authorities, he told Derek Blackburn (NDP—Brant) in the Commons.

Earlier, immigration, external affairs and customs spokesmen said Niagara regional police and the RCMP are being questioned about the incident in which the U.S. police fought with the truck driver and passengers after catching them at Fort Erie, Ont.

Mr. Blackburn asked that Mr. MacEachen's comments to U.S. authorities say "exactly what U.S. police can and cannot do in this country and assure that it never happens again."

The truck, bearing Ontario licence plates, was chased across the Peace Bridge early Saturday. Immigration officials said they were unable to get the Buffalo police to return to the U.S.

They eventually returned, but only after Niagara police were alerted by immigration officials and arrived on the scene.

Before the Buffalo police went back across the border, they caught the truck and became involved in a fight with its occupants.

The driver, James Powless of Fort Erie, was reported in satisfactory condition in hospital with a fractured skull.

His lawyer was quoted by police as saying the injury was caused by a bullet fired by Buffalo police during the chase.

Price Manipulation Charged

Bath Man Says U.S. Fakes Crop Reports

By CHRISTOPHER ALMEY
Staff Correspondent

STIRLING A director of the Ontario Wheat Producers Marketing Board has charged the United States department of agriculture and its crop reporting board with falsifying crop reporting to depress the market for all grains.

Peter MacKinnon

Peter MacKinnon however, told the annual meeting of the Hastings County wheat producers Tuesday night that it cannot be proved that the reports are being falsified.

"Most of us in the business know they are altering figures," Mr. MacKinnon said in an interview after the meeting. "We can't prove it. They revise figures when the crop is off."

He explained that by predicting high crop yields, the price of grains is kept down. He used corn as an example.

"They were off on their forecast on corn. They predicted 6.4 billion bushels of corn would be harvested in 1974. The last revised crop figures show 4.7 billion bushels. That's a hell of a big error. You can make an error, but not that big."

"They are mucking around with all grains," he added. "sorghum, corn, soybeans, wheat.

The marketing board director told the meeting the U.S. has a policy of providing cheap food, and it falsifies crop reports in order to depress prices.

"They don't make any bones about it," Mr. MacKinnon told the group. "They don't even attempt to cover it up."

Mr. MacKinnon said the U.S. has been manipulating figures for the past year and a half. "They have been manipulating it since the prices started to move up. They have done everything to stop it and have succeeded a bit," he said.

Mr. MacKinnon said the U.S. has also told foreign countries wishing to buy wheat that i can't fill their orders.

"That keeps a surplus on the domestic market whichs suppresses prices," he said.

The Ontario Wheat Producers Marketing Board numbers the United States among its worldwide customers. The board sells wheat on behalf of Ontario wheat producers.

"American pricing influences us greatly," Mr. MacKinnon told the meeting.

Mr. MacKinnon lives at Bath, Ont. He first became a director of the OWPMB in 1959.

Liberals Defeat Bid To Broaden Tax Cuts

OTTAWA (CP) — The majority Liberal government swept aside two opposition attempts Tuesday night to broaden personal income tax reductions announced Nov. 18 by Finance Minister John Turner.

Arguing that the country cannot afford additional tax cuts now, government MPs also used their majority muscle to give second reading—approval in principle—to a bill authorizing tax changes proposed by Mr. Turner.

They were assisted en route by Leonard Jones (Ind—Moncton) who managed to get through a motion effectively ending the second-reading debate which had lasted nine days.

Fewer than the required 10 MPs stood to object when Mr. Jones moved late Tuesday night that the House sit continuously until second-reading was voted. NDP members indicated they wanted to continue the debate today but only nine were present at the time.

The Conservative proposal, defeated 125 to 96, called for a substantial increase in the 1974 tax cuts of $150 to $500 announced by Mr. Turner in November.

Sinclair Stevens, Conservative financial critic, said the proposal, costing $500 million, would have given taxpayers a break of $50 to $150 more for 1974 than the reduction proposed by Mr. Turner.

Mr. Turner has proposed further tax cuts for 1975 raising the minimum reduction to $200 and the maximum to $750.

The NDP motion, defeated 204 to 18, would have granted all taxpayers a $400 tax credit. It was presented by NDP Parliamentary Leader Ed Broadbent as part of a package of economic proposals to give the economy a "massive" shot in the arm.

1978 Bid Considered

Facilities Studied For Ontario Games

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Belleville recreation and parks officials are still cautiously sounding out the possibilities of holding the Ontario winter or summer games in the city for its 1978 centennial.

The recreation committee Tuesday night decided to write the Chamber of Commerce's convention bureau to discover the district's accommodation potential.

It's one of the core situations to be defined before any decision is made on bidding for the games, which could involve up to 2,000 participants in a multitude of events, the committee was told.

Meantime, recreation director Clifford Belch said, one of his main concerns was a basic one — whether the province's community and social services ministry is prepared to make the games available for the city in 1978.

The issue was first broached three weeks ago in a letter from the ministry which inquired if Belleville could play host to the 1975 summeer games or the 1976 winter games. The committee decided the city was not prepared to accept the invitations at such short notice. Availability of facilities was a major factor.

However, Mayor Robin Jeffrey has since written the ministry suggesting the centennial year as a possibility for either winter or summer games.

Among new facilities that may be ready by that time is the Belleville Yardmen's Cannifton Road sports complex, planned for a construction start this spring.

Ald. Paul Russell parks board chairman, told the committee he disliked linking the games to the completion of the Yardmen's complex "when they haven't put a shovel in the gground yet".

Joan Guthrie, committee member, indicated if the complex weren't finished a new problem could be created.

"I wouldn't want to see us make a formal application (for the games) until the complex is started," she said.

However, Mr. Belch felt there may not be difficulties with facilities — particularly for winter games — if all area facilites were utilized.

He also suggested cafeteria and dormitory facilities in local schools might be canvassed.

Ald. George Zegouras, committee chairman, recalled a convention in the city involving more than 1,000 some time ago was assisted by persons offering "home hospitality" to the visitors.

Ford Says Jobless Flood to Be Fast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Ford has warned the United States to brace for a faster-than-forecast surge in unemployment; but says the jobless rate will peak at under 10 per cent and head downward before year's end.

The president's personal prediction came at a Topeka, Kan., news conference Tuesday night after he announced the release of $2 billion in frozen highway funds to spur 125,000 or more jobs in the hard-hit construction industry.

Ford scheduled a meeting today with his top economic advisers to discuss unemployment and the reaction to his latest two-day trip in search of support for his economic and energy proposals.

In his second out-of-town news conference in a week, Ford skirted a direct response when asked whether he agreed with his economic advisers' forecast that unemployment will peak at 8.5 per cent about midsummer. The jobless rate soared to 8.2 per cent last month, the highest figure in more than three decades.

Malagasy Police Said Slayers Of President

TANANARIVE (AP) — Malagasy's military rulers today accused dissident police forces of assassinating President Richard Ratsimandrava.

The president's limousine was ambushed on a narrow road Tuesday evening as he was being driven from his office to his home.

Ratsimandrava was critically wounded and died several hours later, the goverment said. Two bodyguards and several of the assassins also were reported killed.

Home Builders to Protest Minimum Maintenance Law

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

The Quinte Home Builders Association will protest the city's proposed minimum maintenance bylaw.

In addition, association president Bob Marcotte said Tuesday night, the association will ask for an Ontario Municipal Board hearing into the recently approved sign bylaw.

Mr. Marcotte said the association wants revisions made to the sign bylaw and that a letter of "strong opposition will be sent to council", concerning the maintenance bylaw.

"The minimum requirements outlined in the bylaw are more than minimum for Belleville," he said.

Since the proposed maintenance bylaw was first made public, tempers have been running high in a number of city groups with many claiming council is gathering too much power.

The maintenance bylaw and the sign bylaw were two of Mayor Robin Jeffrey's Belleville priorities during her fall election campaigning.

Earlier this week Mayor Jeffrey conceded that some portions of the maintenance bylaw wil be changed and that the document is tailored from a similar bylaw in force in the Toronto suburb of East York.

Mr. Maacotte said the association will meet again Thursday to arrange committees to comb through both documents.

"Following this, we will ask for a special meeting with council to go over the documents, clause by clause," he said.

Mr. Marcotte said "the powers given council in the document are too far-reaching".

"The document is totally unacceptable . . . council would be getting too much power. We are objecting strenuously," he said.

"Speaking personally, I think the bylaw infringes on traditional rights of (property) ownership and I find it frightening," he said.

"Council must re-think the entire bylaw," he said. "This draft is the worst such a bylaw could look. It can only get better."

Mr. Marcotte said he hopes the OMB will "rescind" portions of the sign bylaw.

He said builders met with council to discuss the sign bylaw and that "agreements made at that time were forgotten in the final draft of the bylaw".

"Originally we (builders) were exempt from sign fees . . . now we have to pay," he said. "It seems kind of strange."

"We thought we negotiated in good faith and didn't feel it was necessary to police the final document," he said.

"We have some strong objections."

Kissinger Moves on to Cairo

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger flew to Cairo today after a 36-hour visit to Israel which Foreign Minister Yigal Allon said was "a very successful preliminary move" toward a new Israeli-Egyptian agreement.

"We didn't expect too much from the first move," Allon said. "We must stick to the initiative until we get positive results."

The state secretary said that "we did not attempt to reach any final conclusions on this trip."

Kissinger went to the Egyptian capital from Israel to tell President Anwar Sadat how much more of the Sinai desert Israel is prepared to return in a second disengagement agreement and what it demands from Egypt in return.

After getting Sadat's outline of the agreement he wants, the United States negotiator will return to Jerusalem Thursday with a stop en route in Damascus, the Syrian capital.

U.S. sources said Kissinger encountered resistance during his talks Monday night and Tuesday with Premier Yitzhak Rabin and leaders of his Israeli government.

And informed sources in Cairo said Egypt was firm in its demand for return of the strategic Mitla and Gidi passes and the Abu Rudeis oil fields and also refused to make a nonagression pledge demanded by Israel.

Contract Dispute Goes To Arbitration Board

TRENTON — An arbitration board formed to settle the dispute over the 1974 wage contract between Trenton and its firemen will meet for the first time in Belleville next week.

The Feb. 19 meeting is the first step towards agreement after negotiations between the town and the 10-man local of the International Association of Fire Fighters broke down in late spring, 1974.

Town firemen have been working at 1973 pay scales since the beginning of last year.

An arbitration board hearing had been scheduled in January but was cancelled. It further held up settlement of the 1974 contract and the start of talks on this year's wage package. At present, the town has in its hands proposals from the firemen for the 1975 pact.

Contract negotiations ended early last year when talks were scuttled by the town's refusal to accept its negotiating team's offer of a 14½-per-cent wage increase to firemen. The town said a 12½-per-cent increase was its final offer.

At the start of talks, the firemen demanded a 24-per-cent pay raise but later dropped their demands to 18 per cent at the time talks were broken off.

Firemen then indicated their desire to bring the dispute before an arbitration board, the third time such a tack has been taken in wage negotiations with the town.

The first meeting of the board was delayed for half a year over the selection of the three board members.

Negotiations on the 1975 contract will not take place until the 1974 contract is settled.

Teacher Stresses Need For Career Guidance

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — A student guidance information service employing a computer may soon be used by students of Prince Edward Collegiate Institute, says Larry Richardson head of the school's guidance department.

He told Picton Rotarians Tuesday the service is "new and a sign of the times."

A Toronto computer has been set up storing all career information and schools can affiliate with it in two ways.

A form fill-in system can provide the student with information concerning individual colleges and their programs or a computer terminal may be installed in the school for immediate feedback to questions punched by students.

"This is becoming a necessity because of the huge volume of information and it will encourage the students to investigate careers much sooner," said Mr. Richardson.

"We are hoping to get involved as soon as possible," added the teacher.

Mr. Richardson observed vocational guidance represents more than an attempt to help young persons discover fulfilling careers. Advice also is offered to the Grade 8 pupil entering Grade 9, the student unhappy with a curriculum that is not working and the mature student of 35 or 40 who has returned to school after several years absence.

He noted many persons are unsatisfied in their jobs and may regret lost opportunities or a failure to work to their full potential.

Such dissatisfaction might have been avoidable through more information on possible careers.

Mr. Richardson said a large volume of career information continually crosses his desk and it is difficult for youth to keep pace with all of the new job opportunities.

He added that young persons often experience many personal pressures and group and family problems that make career selection take a back seat.

Also, many are concerned with involvement in a meaningful career and this creates an overload in certain jobs while other more practical careers are bypassed.

Mr. Richardson discussed information programs now available at PECI, noting Community Colleges Week, meetings between students and university representatives and seminars soon to come on women in the working world.

"Many parents still feel college is unnecessary for girls as they get married anyway," says Mr. Richardson.

The guidance teacher urged Rotarians to consider acting as guest speakers at the school or to suggest guest speakers willing to discuss their careers with students.

He suggested the question of proper guidance for today's youth and recognition of the students' problems is a community responsibility, not just the school's duty.

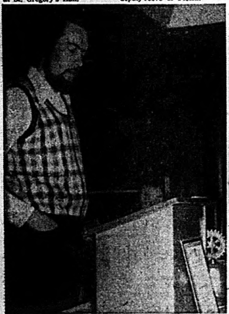
He noted the word "community" includes the federal and provincial governments and municipal governments.

Mr. Richardson, a teacher at PECI since 1968, is also deputy-reeve of Picton.

Tape Deck Stolen

PICTON — Town police today reported the theft of a stereo tape deck valued at $60 from a car of a Belleville woman, Dorothy Munroe. Her car was parked at the Elks' Hall in Picton at the time of the theft.

A battery charger of undetermined value also was taken Tuesday night from an unlocked car owned by Tex Grover of Picton. His car was parked at St. Gregory's Hall.



Guidance First Hand

Larry Richardson, deputy-reeve of Picton and head of the guidance department at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute Tuesday urged Picton Rotarians to suggest guest speakers from various professions to discuss careers with PECI students. Club members themselves were invited to "talk shop" with pupils.

Fire Burns Floor

An early morning blaze Tuesday ripped a gaping hole in the living room floor of a cottage south of Carrying Place that is owned by a Toronto man. Damage as a result of the fire, blamed by Ameliasburg fire officials on an over heated duct, has been revised upwards by $2,000 to an estimated $6,000. Firemen completed mopping up operations around 9 a.m. Tuesday.

ARC Industries Shop Looking for Projects

BANCROFT — The Bancroft and District ARC Industries Workshop located in the old L'amable school building near Bancroft is a beehive of activity with a woodworking shop, a craft and sewing centre and an inside greenhouse.

Since it started a year ago, the workshop, which is sponsored by the Bancroft and District association for the mentally retarded has been strivng to become a self-sufficient industry through projects and contract work.

Recently the workshop received a Local Initiatives Project grant which has allowed them to increase the staff to three for the seven trainees and the anticipated attendance of 10 or 11.

At the moment, the problem in getting more trainees is transportation.

"Our first and foremost need is a vehicle for the workshop," said Joan Altoft, one of the staff members.

During last spring the workshop members made and sold picnic tables and are presently involved in sanding and refinishing canoes and snowshoes for the local schools.

"We need long-term industrial projects in order to grow," said Mrs. Altoft, "There's a lot of talking, planning and thinking going on now to see what things we can do that would support the workshop and would be of benfit to the community."

Any businessmen, industries or local organizations that could use the services of the workshop trainees are invited to enquire at the rooms in L'amable.

Pancake Supper Success

WELLINGTON — People from all over the county came to the Anglican Church parish hall this week for the fourth annual pancake supper followed by plays by the Covenant Players at the United Church here.

Over 175 people turned out to eat as many pancakes as their stomachs could hold.

"This was the best turnout we've ever had," said Rev. David Hawkins, rector of the parish. "I am overwhelmed at the response we have received," added the minister.

The pancake supper raised over $200 that will be sent to help support a young boy by the name of Lemain Lerapo in Kenya Africa.

Also a group of young American performers, the Covenant Players, brought in a large crowd at the United Church just across the road after the meal was finished.

The performers presented a number of short skits with little or no props dealing with everyday life.

The group is on tour until May, when they will return to the U.S. The cast was made up of three people who live off of silver collections. This is only one of 30 groups performing all over the world under similar circumstances.

The Covenant Palyers next stop will be in Belleville next week.

Work 'Lonely'

Author Outlines Novel Technique

BRIGHTON — A play, a poem, a novel are lies, but also truth. They are an amalgamation of an author's past, whether remembered easily or dredged up from the back of the mind.

A work is the result of an author's tapping of his experience plus an infustion of imagination, all formed and shaped by his craft.

Such creation, in the essentially lonely occupation of a writer, is the picture white haired novelist W.O. Mitchell painted for a group of students at East Northumberland Secondary School here Tuesday.

A completed work is not good if it is contrived, something easily done if one sets out to write with a pre-conceived plot and gathering of characters, he said.

What is good comes from long hours of work on a daily basis.

"One must do the consistant prospecting." One must search for "sensous fragments" buried in the "subconscious notebook" everyone carries.

From such "prospecting" comes fragments of events, bits of a remembered individual, or scene, that eventually will be melded into a story, he said.

Such a process has yielded Mr. Mitchell, now a Calgary resident, his first novel, Who Has Seen the Wind, published in 1974, and his latest release The Vanishing Point published two years ago. All of his books have been published by MacMillan of Canada in Toronto.

The time he spent in Brighton, and later Tuesday in Port Hope, is being sponsored by the provincial education ministry through the Regional Professional Development Fund.

Writing, he told students and a number of teachers from the Northumberland — Newcastle Board of Education invited to hear him, is in part lonely because people insist on being kind. Assistance, whether with respect to the craft of writing or with a judgement on the quality of what one has written, is often not forthcoming: "No one wants to hurt someone."

But as encouragement, he ended by saying, "You'll find there will be someone you can trust," even though, ultimately, it is in the writer himself that the critical role, the objective evaluation, rests.

Picton Hires Constable

PICTON — The Picton police commission has hired a new constable to fill a vacancy created on the town force by the recent promotion of Constable Charles Fletcher to Police Chief.

Thomas Thrush, 25, an member of the Metro Toronto police force for five years will begin his duties with the Picton police department on March 2, 1975.

Constable Thrush was educated in Haliburton except for his final year of secondary school which he completed at Belleville Collegiate Instutute.

He also has attended the Ontario Police College at Aylmer.

Asbestos Study

If swallowing drinking water which may have been exposed to asbestos fibres is all right in the view of Hydro's director of health and safety, Dr. Don Grant, there remains a great deal of concern over the effect of asbestos processing when it is inhaled. Dr. Grant acknowledges there is danger from the latter.

The problem is of immediate and pressing anxiety to employees and area residents in and around the Johns-Manville Co. Ltd. plant in Scarborough. It is alleged that asbestos fibres from the plant caused the death of seven employees and the illness of about 50 others and it may also pose a threat to the health of students of a nearby secondary school.

Complaints have come from the students about the pungent odor from the plant. According to school principal G. W. Horwood, a 1971 test showed no danger, but he says he is not satisfied yet. Many of the students show an awareness of the situation, while others are fatalistic if they think about it at all.

Meanwhile, Environment Minister Newman is expecting a report on asbestos levels at the plant within ten days, based on testing started last September. He has praised the plant itself for its "excellent co-operation" in reducing asbestos levels and infers there would be no shutdown if results are "within reasonable bounds of the levels we set."

Whether this is a responsible attitude to take remains to be seen. More than testing of the asbestos levels is required if the public interest is to be met. Medical checks not only of plant personnel but of the nearby students must surely now be considered seriously.

It is a reminder also that environmental pollution takes many forms, and that governmental and industrial, as well as public, vigilance is vital.

A poignant quote from principal Horwood of the school — Sir Oliver Mowatt Collegiate — seems appropriate at this point: "The students don't seem concerned — but after all, young people think they're immortal." At a time when life expectancy is greater than ever, government and industry have a duty in this situation to ensure that these youngsters are not short-changed.

Time for Reading

Remember when those four-cent stamped postcards were around?

Well there was one in the mail the other day, with an additional Mackenzie King four-cent stamp to bring it up to the prevailing rate.

And it was from the library.

It was the same form card that had arrived, with some justification, a little while ago, seeking the return of a book that was two weeks overdue.

There are the heroic types who staggered from the library clutching an armload of books.

And yes, the ones who read a book a day. How do they do it? Speed read maybe . . . but how much do they absorb . . . how do they savor the beauty of language, where it emerges, in any book at this rate of scanning?

In any event, the book (one of Joyce Carol Oates' brooding pieces on violence in U.S. inner city life) was read in overtime, and a fine duly paid.

On then to Billie Jean by Ms. King. Very readable, B. J. emerging as a more sympathetic and human sort of person than she has been regarded by many in the course of a stormy career in tennis and tennis politics. Very revealing about her fellow players, the backbiting and the jealousies; revealing too on the subject of womens' liberation, her own unconventional marriage, and on the attitude of the male players to women's tennis and so on.

This one was finished in only three extra days, and returned one evening before 9 p.m. closing.

In the mail the next day — one of those little brown cards. Satisfaction at beating them to it? Not really. One thought though: wouldn't it save the library some money over a year or more if those with books overdue were contacted where possible by phone?

Anyway, it is a fine library we have in Belleville — one of the best anywhere. One of the focal points of our downtown too, and that is an important factor.

A 'Payment of Sort'

The Intricacies of Conflict of Interest in Ottawa

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Look at it this way, says Conservative MP Sinclair Stevens of the Central Ontario riding of York-Simcoe, there was "payment of a sort" for that $20,000 trip to Japan that Margaret Trudeau took as the guest of Hong Kong shipping magnate Y.K. Pao.

Critics have been lacing it to Prime Minister Trudeau for approving his wife's acceptance of the holiday to the Far East as a "gift," raising again at least the suspicion of conflict of interest in the eyes of the taxpayers.

It becomes suspect, and the propriety of it all has been questioned alike in Parliament and public, as seen against the background of:

•The gift to Margaret of $2,000 worth of cameras and photographic equipment from King Hussein of Jordan and the ensuing controversy over the question of the payment of customs duties.

•The new $84,000 silver-grey Cadillac, as a companion-piece to the $74,000 black Caddy already in service.

•The more than $200,000 spent on the prime ministerial digs at the official residence, the summer lakeside mountain lodge and the Parliament Hill offices.

Others in Opposition — both Conservative and New Democrat — have pronounced themselves only in general terms on all points at question on the basis that with "restraint" the official federal government line for all Canadians, such spending by the Trudeaus is unwarranted extravagance, and that acceptance of "gifts" in High Places involves the delicate issue of ethics.

But Sinclair Stevens is different.

He doesn't argue the element of extravagance, simply says that the junket was no gift, but in reality a "thank you" from a beneficiary of the Canadian government and taxpayer.

Attention on money matters must be paid Sinclair Stevens, because in the ranks of the Conservatives, he shapes up as the most likely to become Finance Minister should the Tories come to power in his parliamentary lifetime.

Let's face it, Sinclair Stevens has suggested, and ask ourselves if she would have been asked to go to Japan to name one of Y.K. Pao's super-tankers if she had been little Margaret Sinclair of yesteryear?

And would the wealthy Hong Kong shipowner really have spent $20,000 just to have her break a bottle of champagne on the tanker's prow if he didn't think there might be something in it for him?

The answers, searched out by questions from Sinclair Stevens, have been given in the Commons by Justice Minister Otto Lang, the minister in charge of the Canadian Wheat Board.

What, it turns out, was in it for Y.K. Pao, was more than $500,000 - for his World-Wide Shipping Limited from Otto Lang's Wheat Board.

The half-million-plus was paid, the Commons has been informed by the Justice Minister, last year in compensation for delayed grain shipments.

Y.K. Pao emerges as a director and major shareholder of World-Wide, operator of one of the globe's biggest tanker and cargo fleets.

Some of his ships had to wait in Canadian ports for grain held up by strikes on the West Coast.

The compensation for delay is the accepted procedure under such circumstances, and in the shipping industry is known as demurrage.

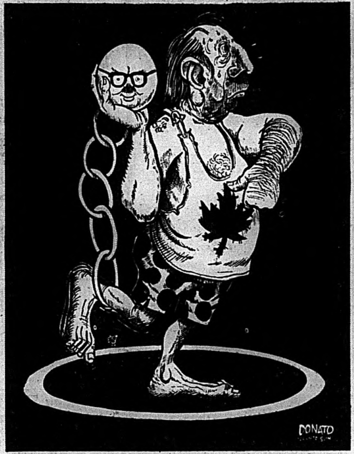
Y.K.Pao's fleet of World Wide tankers collected not only $502,042 from the Canadian Wheat Board last year, but an initial $17,693 in 1973.

It means, says Sinclair Stevens, that the Prime Minister's wife, presumably with his approval, accepted this all-expenses paid $20,000 junket as the guest of a man who has been doing a lot of business — better than $500,000 worth — with the Canadian Government.

And if the increase over the year from an initial $17,693 is any indication, he could be doing a lot more business in future.

The "impression of conflict of interest," says Sinclair Stevens, "is inescapable."

With a Prime Minister's wife, he insists, "even the appearance, the slightest suspicion, the very existence of an element of questioning has to be avoided. And it has not."



Budgeting for Inflation

Consumer Price Index for 1975

By VNCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

If you'd care to try your hand at drawing up a long-term family budget for this year and next, there's some guidance in a newly-published "inflation forecast."

Prospects are that Canada's consumer price index will rise about 10 per cent in 1975, and a further eight per cent in 1976, according to the forecast of Wood Gundy Ltd., a Toronto-based investment house.

(For 1974 as a whole, the CPI moved up 10.9 per cent. At year-end, it was 12.4 per cent higher than a year earlier).

The 1975-76 forecast assumes some toughening in monetary policy; average-to-good crop conditions, and no major changes in the prices of essential commodities as a result of political decisions—such as, for example, large Arab grants to Third World nations, which would send food-commodity prices to new highs.

Last year's biggest increases were in food prices—an average of 16.6 per cent, vs. 8.9 per cent for non-food prices.

You can look for food prices (which account for nearly one-quarter of consumer spending) to lead the 1975 and 1976 increases as well. According to the Wood Gundy forecast, your food bill is likely to advance another 13.1 per cent this year and 9.2 per cent next year.

The biggest price jumps of all are likely to hit processed vegetables (35 per cent and 20 per cent) and processed fruits (30 per cent and 17 per cent).

Pork prices, one of the more stable items in the food budget until recently, may jump 25 per cent this year plus another five per cent in 1976.

Other big increases—13 per cent and 12 per cent—appear to be in store for sugar-related products, convenience foods and the like.

The cost of shelter is expected to advance 11.7 per cent in 1975 and 8.3 per cent in 1976.

Contributing the most to the increase are the 31-per-cent jumps coming this year in fuel oil and gas. For 1976, they are likely to rise another 10 per cent and 35 per cent respectively.

Rents will probably go up by 25 per cent in 1975 and 15 per cent in 1976, while insurance on your dwelling is expected to increase 23 per cent this year and then level off in 1976.

The only relief is to be found in mortgage interest rates, which are expected to drop 12.5 per cent and 9.5 per cent this year and next, according to Wood Gundy.

Transportation costs are headed 8.7 per cent higher this year and 8.5 per cent in 1976, led by 20-per-cent annual increases in auto-insurance premiums, plus other substantial jumps in fares for local transit and for rail and air travel, auto repairs and gasoline.

Greeks' Turbulent Politics

Junta Victims Seeking Revenge

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Greece in 1975, like France 30 years earlier, is swept with demands from survivors of a harsh and fallen military regime for vengeance on their former captors and torturers.

The vengeful Greeks are those who suffered at the hands of the recently-fallen and cruel military junta. Their would-be victims are the hundreds of military and civilian servants of the colonel's regime which seized power in 1967 and was overthrown last year.

The parallel embraces the dilemma of the democratically-elected government of Premier Constantine Caramanlis who must decide like Gen. de Gaulle's French government in 1945 how many of the former offenders will be punished and in what way.

The most severe penalty, death by a firing squad, is the maximum one facing the dozen or so senior junta leaders, including the once all-powerful, ex-president George Papadapolous, now in a Greek military prison.

One of the junta's former ruling men, Gen. Ionnides, who volunteered to stay on as president until Greece elected a new one, has also been placed in jail, as a former chief of military intelligence of the fallen junta.

Thousands of relatives of surviving and dead victims of the Greek military junta are demanding swift justice for many of the former regime's officials.

They are not satisfied with harsh justice against distant leaders. But more particularly they want it against identifiable jailors, torturers, neo-fascist civil servants who expunged free education, ordered history books rewritten to portray a romantic and unreal Greece free of the recent real-life history of left-wing and Communist causes.

Such former military persons as the recently-arrested lieutenant-colonel in former command of the military prison outside Athens, which housed many of the intellecuals who were victimized by the junta, is a prime target for death according to the vengeful victims.

Greece, like France at the end of the Second World War, is not in a mood to be pacific. And yet Prime Minister Caramanlis must use care in the ways and to what extent justice is applied against former junta toughs.

And again like Gen. de Gaulle after the war, not all Greeks in a new era were opposed to the military junta, the same as thousands of Frenchmen supported the pro-Nazi Vichy regime and shunned the brave anti-Nazi Maquis resistance as "a bunch of Communists."

In addition, Mr. Caramanlis must use proper juridical procedure to bring offenders to trial, with proper evidence against the accused and not too severe measures in all but the most critical cases as punishment.

Greece in the world, like France after 1945, has to maintain the reputation for free government which the end of the junta restored.

So again it is time for the admitted victims of a modern brutal regime to see their hopes for quick vengeance sublimated in the requirement of a successor state to do justice to all, and of many of the guilty as a result, to be freed or let off from harsh punishment for cruelties against fellow citizens.

France of course did execute her senior German collaborators. And citizens took their vengeance against oppressors in the chaos which followed immediately after the Allied armies' return to France.

Not even this kind of interlude is available to the victims of the colonels' junta. Justice in Greece for a change may be gentle.

Bureaucratic Overlap Compounds Controversy over Asbestos Plant

By DON O'HEARN

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — We all know that government is awkward.

Also that it has long had the reputation of being much less efficient than the private sector.

But you have to be really close to it to know just how awkward and inefficient it really is.

Currently there has been a furore under way here over possible environmental contamination through asbestos fibres from a Johns-Manville plant on the outskirts of Toronto.

The facts of the situation are controversial.

But the revelation that the incident has given over the inner workings of government has been startling.

It has come out in the house that there has been suspicion of possible dangers from this plant for at least three years.

But three ministries have been involved in protecting the public.

The environment ministry has been responsible for testing for air contamination.

The health ministry has had the job of testing within the plant.

And the labor ministry has had the job of enforcing new standards if these were found to be needed.

All have had reports.

But the startling aspect enters in that none of them have compared their reports. Each ministry has acted on its own. And so if there has been any actual danger from the plant there has been no co-ordinated effort to see that it has been stopped.

A most pertinent point is that this is not an isolated instance. It is a more or less general situation in government.

And what's more there's little chance that it will ever be changed.

Such a situation wouldn't be tolerated in the private sector. And any enterprise that tried to operate with such a lack of co-ordination would probably soon go broke.

But government has one great difference from the private sector.

Instead of one unified enterprise it is made up of many little empires.

In our Ontario government we have some 26 ministries and each is a domain to itself. And each is strongly jealous of its particular authority.

And you really can't see this ever disappearing. It is the nature of government.

Is Law and Order in Decline?

Editor:
The Intelligencer.

As a Canadian I am concerned with the quality of our society, as it must be the concern of all law-abiding Canadians.

From Moncton to Victoria our policemen have been assaulted or killed by fellow citizens.

The Federal Government has legislation providing the death penalty for those convicted of slaying policemen or prison guards. The cabinet has chosen to ignore the legislation and half of those convicted have had their sentences commuted while the rest await further appeals..

In the light of the increasing death toll of our policemen we must demand that the Canadian parliament upholds the law, as it now exists, by seeing that those who commit crimes punishable by death, should receive the lawful punishment.

If your readers are concerned about the kind of society we have in Canada; if they wish to have the best quality of law enforcement; if they would have the system of judge and jury upheld; if they would have the law enforced; then let them tell their Members of Parliament to support the law they were elected to uphold. Show our policemen that the general public is behind them.

School Discipline in the 70s

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Regarding your editorial of February 5, entitled "Where's the Discipline?", this writer would like to ask the question why it is assumed by a sweeping majority of men such as yourself that the behavior of youth is the responsibility of primarily educational and secondarily legal systems?

Why and wherefore did school (which word incidentally comes from the Greek skhole meaning leisure) become associated with conduct correction? And after the fact that it did in deed acquire this artificial unity, when did punishment and all the implications of retributive justice become an integral part of education?

Nowhere in my dictionaries under the headings school and education do I find explanation or even reason to relate the apparently perverse misinformation which suggests that civilized behavior is a taught subject. (viz. strapping or thrashing)

Discipline moreover is defined as "instruction imparted to disciples or scholars; teaching; learning; education —1615 ... The training of scholars and subordinates to proper conduct and action by 'instructing' and 'exercising' them in the same; mental and moral training". — the Oxford Universal Dictionary on Historical Principles, rev. 1955. — italics mine.

Perhaps it has become too easy to forget "self evaluation" altogether and treat the symptoms instead of tracing causes. It is arrogant for us to ever believe that nothing is for nothing; if we were to honestly stop 'blaming' and start 'looking' with integrity it is possible that we would discover to our ultimate horror that we have been instrumental in creating and sustaining the very problems now waging such controversy.

I send my children to school that they may experience a learning environment. The onus of insuring that they grow to become autonomous, considerate, responsible and moral adults is my job as a parent. From the school I expect knowledge and cultivation and from the law I expect enforced restraint as is necessary in exceptional and I would hope, infrequent cases.

MAXINE ALBERT

Editor's note: Where there is no classroom discipline, or the teacher has no authority to impose it, in the face of "perverse" classroom behavior (as witness Toronto teacher Barry Donath's experience in recent days), an intolerable situation is presented. There was a time though, in the memory of many people, when things were different.

Ambulance Service in Belleville

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Some five months ago I became concerned about the standards of efficiency of the ambulance services in the Belleville area. I made contact with the health minister and Mr. Brubacher of the Ambulance Services Dept. of Ontario, the leaders of the opposition and expressed my thoughts on the situation. In correspondence with the leaders of the opposition, myself, the Health Minister and Mr. Brubacher all four indicated they were very concerned about the high cost of operation in Ontario in general and in Belleville in particular.

Therefore I would support completely the action of Mr. Brubacher and his office in giving fair warning to the ambulance services in Belleville that they either operate in an efficient economical manner or the province will take them over.

As the people of Ontario have a very considerable financial investment in these ambulance services, they should be run in an efficient and economical manner or the people should take them over to ensure that they do so.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

February 12, 1945.

An increase from 17.5 to 19.1 cents per pound for honey was reported for Ontario at the Ontario Beekeepers Co-operative Association, according to B.O. Lott, director of the organization.

At the annual meeting of the Belleville Industrial Commission it was revealed that Belleville is now credited with 44 industries with a capital investment of more than $15,000,000 and which give employment to around 3000 employees.

Armory Lawn Gets Roses

The city parks board has agreed to help beautify and maintain Belleville's only midtown greenspot — the armory lawn.

The plan will centre around the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment's memorial at Pinnacle and East Bridge streets.

The board Tuesday night approved the project which calls for planting of rose bushes and trees near the monument.

The plan was suggested in a letter from Angus Duffy, Quinte emergency measures co-ordinator, a former commanding officer of the regiment and memorial committee chairman.

The project calls for the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire Argyll chapter to provide 30 rosebushes while the parks department will plant a row of trees.

Boy Shot Accidentally

A 10-year-old Cannifton boy is in fair condition today at Belleville General Hospital following a shooting incident at his residence Monday night.

Brian Teasdale was taken to hospital with chest injuries, police said. Police added that the incident occurred as the boy's father David was showing the boy how to target practise on the porch on the home, using a .22 calibre handgun.

The incident occurred about 5:10 p.m. Monday. Police said that George David Teasdale has been charged with dangerous use of a firearm.

League Franchise Might Improve Ballpark

Granting of a trump ball league franchise to Belleville could speed improvements to facilities at the city's Alemite ballfield.

The city's parks board Tuesday night agreed to have consulting engineers survey installations — including dressingroom space — and later consider its recommendations for this year's budget.

The franchise will see Belleville join the nine-team Ontario Fastball League. (OFL).

But the committee must discover what specifications the league demands for facilities.

Already information is being sought from other OFL centres, Lloyd Syers, parks board director said.

Clifford Belch, recreation director, said there "is no question" that better facilities are needed at the Alemite.

"Certainly, it's not adequate for the (ball) program we have right now," he told the joint meeting of the parks and recreation committees.

The arrival of the OFL had spurred the issue of imporvements.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey pondered how such improvements would fit budget priorities.

The committee voted to have engineering consultants Morden-Guthrie examine the present facilities and make recommendations which will be scrutinized at the committee's budget meeting later this month.

"I think the Ontario Fastball League is a great thing for Belleville and I wouldn't like to see them leave because of the facilities," said Ald. Wally Daver. "When you get a chance for major league softball I don't think we should turn our backs on it."

Other cities in the league include Oshawa, Newmarket, London, Woodstock, Hamilton, Burlington and St. Catherines.

Banana pumpkin pie cuts sugar content with fruit's natural sweetness.

Something Different for Dessert

Something different for dessert may be just the right menu addition to add sparkle to mid-winter meals.

Our offerings today include pumpkin pie with bananas, French lace cookies, [illegible] pudding with apricots a[illegible] chocolate and orange sou[illegible] among other unusual desserts.

BANANA PUMPKIN PIE

½ cup packed dark brown sugar
one tblsp. flour
½ teasp. salt
one teasp. cinnamon
½ teasp. ginger
¼ teasp. nutmeg
⅛ teasp. cloves
one cup canned pumpkin one cup mashed ripe bananas three eggs, slightly beaten one cup evaporated milk or light cream
one unbaked 9-inch pastry shell

In large bowl mix sugar, flour, salt, cinnamon, ginger, nutmeg and cloves. Stir in pumpkin, bananas, eggs, and evaporated milk. Pour into unbaked pastry shell. Bake in 400 degree oven 40 minutes, or until tip of knife inserted in centre of pie comes out clean. Serve warm or cold. Serves six.

FRENCH LACE COOKIES

one cup sifted all-purpose flour one cup finely chopped nuts
one-third cup corn syrup
two tblsps. frozen orange juice, undiluted ½ cup butter
two-thirds cup packed dark brown sugar
one tblsp. grated Florida orange rind

Sift flour and stir in nuts. Bring corn syrup, undiluted orange concentrate, butter, brown sugar and orange rind to boil in saucepan over medium heat; gradually stir in flour and nuts. Remove from heat. Drop batter by level teaspoonfuls about 3 inches apart on lightly greased baking sheet. Bake in 375 degree oven from five to 6 minutes. Remove from oven; allow to stand 5 minutes before removing. Remove cookies gently with wide metal spatula. If cookies cool too much and are difficult to remove from pan, return to oven for a minute. Makes 4 dozen cookies.

BANANA CHOCOLATE PIE

Crumb Shell:
1 ¼ cups graham cracker crumbs
¼ cup butter or margarine, melted
¼ cup sugar

Mix crumbs, butter and sugar. Firmly press over bottom and side of 9-inch pie plate. Bake in 375 degree oven 8 minutes; cool completely.

Filling:
one package (3 ⅝ ounces) chocolate pudding mix
two cups milk
two bananas

Prepare chocolate pudding with milk according to directions on package; cool slightly. Peel and slice bananas; arrange in crumb crust. Pour pudding over bananas. Chill at least two hours. Before serving, garnish with whipped cream and additional banana slices. Serves six

BUTTERSCOTCH PIE

2¾ cups milk
1-one-third cups lightly packed dark brown sugar
½ cup cake and pastry flour three slightly beaten egg yolks two tblsps. butter or margarine
one tsp. vanilla
three egg whites
¼ tsp. cream of tartar
six tblsp. granulated sugar

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Prepare baked pie shell Cool. Scald milk. In a salcepan, combine brown sugar and flour. Gradually add scalded milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cover and cook two minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Stir a small amount of hot mixture into egg yolks, then blend into remaining hot mixture. Cook one minute longer, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and blend in butter and vanilla. Cool to lukewarm and turn into baked 9-inch pie shell. Cool.

Top with a meringue made by beating egg whites and cream of tartar to form stiff but moist peaks. Very gradually add sugar. Beat until very stiff and shiny. Spread on cooled pie, touching pastry rim all the way around. Swirl points.

Bake in 400 degree oven until tops become golden. Cool at room temperature.

HOT FRUIT COMPOTE

one cup sliced peaches one cup apricot halves
one cup pineapple wedges one cup sweet black cherries
one tblsp. lemon juice
1½ tsp. pure vanilla extract

heat all fruit and juices together. Remove from heat; stir in vanilla extract. Serve warm for first meal; if any is left, chill, serve. Serves six.

APRICOT RICE PUDDING

one quart milk
one cup regular rice
one teasp. salt
½ cup sugar
two eggs
½ cup light cream
one tsp. vanilla
¼ tsp. grated lemon peel
one can (17 ounces) apricot halves, drained

Combine milk, rice and salt in top of double boiler. Cook, covered, over boiling water 45 minutes or until rice is tender and most liquid is absorbed, stirring occasionally. Beat together sugar, eggs and cream; stir into rice mixture. Cook and stir over low heat two minutes or until thickened. Add vanilla and lemon peel. Cool. Spread pudding in large, shallow serving dish. Arrange apricot halves in pudding. Serves 8.

HOME-MADE BOMBE GLACE

Vanilla, Strawberry and Peach ice creams flaked coconut chopped nuts raspberry syrup
candied cherries

In an angel cake pan arrange alternating scoops of the three kinds of ice cream. Use additional flavors of ice cream or sherbert if desired. Sprinkle each layer with coconut or nuts, and drizzle with syrup or sauce. When the pan is filled, cover with slightly softened vanilla ice cream, pressing it down and smoothing the surface to fill the pan evenly. Cover with plastic wrap and tie down with foil. Keep frozen until serving time.

To serve, unmold and accompany with cherries. Serve additional sauce as well if desired.

For a different type of bombe, line a melon mold with vanilla ice cream to about one inch depth. Freeze until hard. Fill with strawberry water ice and cover with vanilla ice cream. Freeze until serving time. Serve with strawberry sauce.

SURPRISE SOUFFLE

Chocolate Layer:
one tbsp. cornstarch
two tbsp. sugar
⅛ tsp. salt
two tblsps. unsweetened cocoa six tblsps. milk
two eggs, separated

In small saucepan mix cornstarch, sugar, salt and cocoa. Gradually stir in milk. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Remove from heat; beat in egg yolks one at a time. Cool slightly.

Orange Layer:
one tblsp. cornstarch
four tblsps. sugar divided
⅛ tsp. salt
six tblsp. orange juice
½ tsp. grated orange rind
two eggs, separated
¼ tsp. cream of tartar

In a small saucepan mix cornstarch, two tablespoons sugar and salt. Gradually stir in orange juice. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Remove from heat and stir in orange rind; beat in egg yolks one at a time. Cool slightly. Combine four egg whites from both mixtures in bowl, add cream of tartar and beat until soft peaks form; gradually beat in reserved two tablespoons sugar and beat until stiff. Divide beaten whites in half, fold orange into one half and chocolate into the other half. Turn chocolate mixture into a greased 1½-quart souffle dish. Gently pour orange mixture on top. Bake in 375 degree oven 25 to 30 minutes, until set. Serves 8.

Bronte Potters Show New Work at St. Lawrence

Collectors of Canadian pottery have for several years placed high value on the work of Peter and Liz Coviello.

The potters, who moved their Bronto Pottery studio to Plainfield two years ago, have rapidly become known in the Belleville area as creators of extraordinary porcelain and stoneware. Admirers of their work have seen it recently in The Door in the Wall, and can view it until the end of the month in the art gallery at St. Lawrence Community College in Kingston.

The exhibit, which opened Monday evening with a wine and cheese party, also features the work of four Kingston photographers, Joseph R. Bronson, Allen B. Clarke, Emil Erkan and John Ruskay.

The show is remarkable for the disparity between realistic and romantic photographic techniques, and for the contract between the pottery styles of the Coviellos.

Asked only five weeks ago to join the exhibit, Peter and Liz Coviello prepared all new work during that time.

For both potters, the deadline created an intense atmosphere that prompted to work to the limits of their imagination.

"I really think this is the best work that either of us have done," says Peter Coviello of the display. "We're exhausted but it has been really exciting for us."

His pottery has become even larger and stronger, and shows a new use of bold, bright color and design.

"I have always liked to work on a massive scale," he explains "When I was a painter my canvases were immense, and how with clay I'm following the same direction."

Completely dissimilar are the pices of porcelain created by Liz Coviello. Many of her delicate and distinctively-shaped goblets and vases in the show are a familiar pale green, glazed with celadon, a traditional Oriental procelain glaze that is a favorite with her. But she has moved into new areas with her use of carved surfaces and crackled effects.

Liz Coviello's pottery also features tiny bird-headed stoppers for narrow-necked vases, porcelain eggs, and various pieces upon which float small white clouds.

"It all happened so fast," she says. "Under pressure I found myself trying new things and progressing. I feel really happy with what has turned out."

The pottery and photography exhibition is open to the public during college hours. All the work is for sale.

The Coviellos enjoy a moment together beside Liz's porcelain ware.

Single Parents Elect Officers

Members of One Parent Families Association, Belle-Trent Chapter, bid farewell to their old executive and welcomed in the new one, Saturday evening at their installation dinner and dance, at the Masonic Temple, Trenton. The event followed the annual election of officers which took place the previous Thursday at Parkdale Public School in Belleville.

The One Parent Families Association of Canada is an organization open to single, separated, divorced or widowed parents.

Ross Watson, together with his wife Sylvia, reminded the gathering that he and his wife owe their marriage to the organization. Both had been officers on the executive in their single parent days.

National President of One Parent Families Association, Mike Kenny, performed the installation ceremony. As the new executives were called from head table, each carried a slender white candle which Mike lit from his own candle.

Past-President, Selma McComb was honored for her work in the Trenton-Belleville area for more than five years, initially with Parents without Partners, and more recently with One Parent Families Association. As a token of their esteem, the members presented Selma with an engraved serving tray.

Mike Kenny and Herb Edwards, chairmen of the national board, addressed the meeting, as did Ethel Lebovic, national publicity director.

A government-approved charter was awarded to the Belle-Trent chapter during the evening, the first charter to be presented since the Canadian Association was formed 14 months ago.

The chapter's slate of officers for the 1975 executive includes Pete McGowan, president; Barb Ross, first vice-president; Marvin Bailey, second vice-president; Lola Hopkins, recording secretary; Marg Smith, corresponding secretary; Kathy Morris, treasurer; Gerry Geow, membership director; June Wilcox, program director; John Heaven, newsletter editor; Sharon Harvey, adult activities director; Bea Schroth, child activities director; and Janet Kriticos, publicity director. Selma McComb was elected to chair the new friendship and hospitality committee.

Parents Want to Be Fair About Son's Curfew Hours

Dear Doris: Can you suggest a kind of guide for us where a 14-year-old boy is concerned, about proper hours to be in?

He feels he should be allowed to come and go as he pleases, stay out after 11 p.m. night after night when he has school to attend at nine the following morning. When we make him stay in he expects to watch TV until it signs off in the wee hours of the morning.

Our elder boy was more interested in sports or family doings at 14 than girls and parties, so we could be too strict in our ideas and do—

Want to be Fair

Dear Want: "Come and go as he pleases"? Not in my book, not at 14!

The best way is to discuss things with him. Remind him that he is quickly becoming a young man, and yet that he is still your responsibility, both because he is just at the point of beginning to look after himself a bit, and that all of us learn by rules made for our own benefit — mentally and physically.

A growing boy needs time to sleep, he needs set curfew hours which you and he work out together, since "lights out" at times differs with the individual's need for sleep.

Decisions should be reached after you, your husband and your son have a cool, courteous discussion about responsibilities and health.

Praise and rewards when he sticks with his promises; love and an indication of how important he is to you — all these things will help.

Dear Doris: I have a very small bust. I always wear a padded bra, because my husband does not want our friends to know about it.

I am 32 years old, three children, and sick of hiding my body. I never wear a bathing suit.

Do you know any method by which one can increase the bust, even if it is only an inch or two? I have seen a certain thing advertised and I wonder if it would help. I am giving you the name of it because I am too shy to ask my doctor.

Hopeful.

Dear Hopeful: Would you care to guess just how many women with apparently nicely rounded breasts are walking around with falsies on? I don't have the statistics, but from the sales of padded bras, the proportion is notable.

I do not recommend the advertised item you suggest because breasts are very tender and you must take care o fthem. My own doctor is not acquainted with the item either and would advise you to just accept your measurements and be glad you can pad things out a little.

He also said this: There are many young men who would like to be six feet tall; often there are women who would like to be shorter. But they learn to live with what they have. Most of us have some feature we are not quite exuberant about.

Learn acceptance; and talk with your husband about being grateful for good health. There are just as many women with very large busts who would gladly share with you some of that extra flesh!

Ann Landers

Idealistic Not Realistic

Dear Ann Landers: I read with interest your advice to the mother who signed herself Numb. She walked in on her 17-year-old daughter and boy friend and caught them in the act.

As the mother of five beautiful, dimpled, blonde girls, I'd be thankful that I caught them and not their dad. Fathers have a thing about daughters, you know.

If this happened to me I would ask my daughter and her boy friend to go into another room and put on their clothes and then we'd have a talk—the three of us. The following alternatives would be suggested:

1. Continue to have sex and risk pregnancy or taking the life of an unborn child by abortion.

2. Get married, when possibly the only attraction is sex, in which case the marriage would probably fail.

3. Agree to send our daughter to a doctor for proper instruction and the best method of birth control. (In essence, I'd be saying, "you're going to do it anyway. At least don't get pregnant.")

4. And now the tough one: I'd tell them they might decide that sex outside of marriage isn't right, but abstaining would take a lot of self-control and discipline. This means being alone as little as possible, more double-dating with another couple who don't neck and pet. Vow to abstain from kissing in a car or any other place where sex might be possible.

I'd then say:

"You two must make the decision, but whatever it is, we will always love our daughter. We might be hurt but our love will still be there."—Another Mother

Dear Mother: In my opinion your approach is much more idealistic than realistic. Some teen-agers might abstain for a while, but the odds for permanent abstinence are small. Along with the hope, trust and confidence, I'd make sure that daughter had plenty of information.

Dear Ann Landers: Last year at this time I was a secure, happy wife and mother. Today I sit here wondering if I can get together the money to pay my utility bill before they shut off the electricity and gas. The grocer has been wonderful about credit. He knows I must feed myself and the five-year-old twins.

Fourteen months ago I received a phone call from a hospital across town. My husband was in critical conditon. He had suffered a heart attack while driving home. By the time I reached the hospital he was gone. I couldn't believe it. The man had never had a sick day.

The ironic part of this story is that less than one month before he died I asked him to buy some life insurance. He refused, saying the smart thing to do is to keep his money in a savings account where it will produce interest.

When he died, the bank gave me the $2,200 he had in his savings account. If he had bought the life insurance policy I would have received $50,000.

I loved my husband dearly but I can't help feeling resentful. After all, the children and I were his responsibility. He should have looked out for us. I hope you will print this letter. Maybe somebody will learn from it.—His Widow

Dear Widow: Your husband made a mistake, which, unfortunately, you and the children are paying for. Put aside your resentment and accept the fact that he was not inconsiderate. He was ignorant.

Legal Profession Holds 'Jock Shop Attitude'

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Bar Association was told by an articling student Wednesday that the 9,000-member, male-dominated legal profession in Ontario is one of the most discriminatory and chauvanistic groups in the province.

Barbara Betcherman told about 450 persons attending a panel discussion, entitled Women and the Law, that typically, women in law are "not treated like real people" and are asked personal and offensive questions when they apply for jobs in legal firms.

Instead of being asked about job experience, scholastic marks or ability, Miss Betcherman said she has been asked if she is a virgin, whether she intends to get married and what type of birth control she practises.

She said the anti-woman bias exists even in Osgoode Hall law school, where a "jock-shop attitude" prevails.

The panel consisted of Miss Betcherman, former Liberal MP Judy LaMarsh and two lawyers who regularly appear on the CBC television program This is the Law—Hart Pomerantz and William Charlton.

Miss LaMarsh, a practising lawyer for 25 years, said the attitude toward women law students does not change when they are called to the bar, but becomes worse.

Women are not given the same opportunities to advance and are often treated as glorified secretaries by their male counterparts, she added.

Miss LaMarsh said judges either "want to pat you on the bottom or cop a feel if they can," or they adopt a paternalistic attitude and constantly tell women to "speak up."

Mr. Charlton said he had never heard of women being asked the type of questions mentioned by Miss Betcherman.

Miss LaMarsh, former health minister in the Liberal cabinet of Lester Pearson, said the problems faced by women in the legal profession extend to all parts of society.

"It's an attitude about what role 51 per cent of the population is expected to fulfill," she said.

Women are discriminated against in their jobs, marriages ann in their ability to compete equally with men, Miss LaMarsh added.

A member of the audience, the wife of a lawyer, asked Miss LaMarsh how she, as an individual, could help to make the law more equitable for women without becoming a public figure in the process.

"Yoo ran't start by being quietly at home," she replied.

"You can't start by being quibe a soldier, to stand up."

"The Murdoch case shows what the law thinks of the woman's work in the home—it's valueless and meaningless," Miss Betcherman added.

Irene Murdoch, wife of an Alberta rancher, lost her bid in the Supreme Court of Canada last year to have her contribution to her husband's business recognized.

French Poll Reveals Stay-at-home Wives Envy Working Women

PARIS —Reuter — Half of France's stay-at-home housewives are jealous of women who go out to work. They feel working women have more successful marriages, greater financial freedom and a wider circle of friends.

These are the findings of the weekly magazine Elle in a giant poll on women's working conditions that will give Francoise Giroud, France's first secretary of state for women's affairs, plenty of food for thought in the struggle to liberate her sex.

Housework takes up an average of more than nine hours a day and only one French husband in 10 is prepared to give a hand with the washing and dusting, the survey found.

The poll, conducted by 750 interviewers across France, has been published as a 200-page book under the title, The Great Adventure of Work for Women.

But for those stuck at home it's far from a great adventure.

Elle said: "One in two housewives confessed to envying those who worked because they had more contacts with the world, greater financial independence and better relations with their husbands.

"Many women long to work. After the age of 40 they feel both available for work and frustrated at the same time. Many feel the obstacles are insurmountable. They feel they will be rejected for being too old or having too little training."

Another common grumble was that "the woman who stays home has this feeling of guilt because she thinks she is useless." Some men tended to be scornful of them.

However, once the woman landed a job it was far from the paradise she had expected.

Elle noted: "In every field women are relegated more often than men to jobs with little responsibility and therefore little pay. The salary gap between the two is 33 per cent on average."

This is a constant complaint of Mme. Giroud who said the French woman is treated like a second-class citizen — she got the vote only after the Second World War — but supplies one in three members of the country's work force.

The poll shows many complain of job insecurity. "Men are always given preference especially when the employment market is tight," Elle said.

"Women furiously contest claims that their absenteeism is higher than men especially when you take into account absenteeism the day after a soccer match or the opening of the hunting season."

The female farmer is contect with her lot and finds working with her husband improves their relationship. But 80 per cent confessed they never had time for a holiday.

What do the men think?

The poll showed that Frenchmen like women to work, but only because it helps the family budget.

Rape Crisis Centre Aids Ottawa Women

OTTAWA (CP) — A rape crisis centre that opened here in December handled 30 calls from women who sought advice—or just wanted to talk—in its first three weeks of operation, but there were no emergencies.

Calls are not restricted to rape victims and every day the staff receives calls from concerned husbands, parents and friends asking where a rape or assault victim can go for medical, legal and psychological help.

The centre handles calls in English, French, German, Italian, Hungarian and Spanish. Three paid workers and 30 volunteers operate the centre, started with a $14,000 federal grant.

"Usually, the woman wants time to think about the thing for a while," said one volunteer. "We get a call a day later."

"We have received calls from women who were attacked a year ago and from women who are ashamed or too shy to say they have been raped and want to be volunteers. We try to help them all."

Volunteers are screened by two sociologists. Those accepted for the work are given at least 30 hours of basic training about all aspects of rape. Training is a continuing process and the volunteers frequently attend seminars on legal, medical or psychological aspects.

Response from professionals has been "really great," a volunteer said, and guest speakers from relevant professions provide the widest possible education for the staff.

Workers do not offer detailed counselling over the telephone. They ask a few preliminary questions and offer to send someone to visit the caller to talk things over.

"The telephone is too impersonal," said one volunteer. "It is much better and warmer to look at somebody when talking about something as personal as rape."

The relationship between a volunteer and a victim may go on for weeks or months, depending on the person and the mental anguish caused by the assault.

Psychological counselling is usually recommended and medical or legal help is available if the person wants it but there is no pressure on the victim to take any action.

When the time is judged right a weekly discussion group is suggested where seven or eight women get a chance to talk out their feelings.

After going to the group sessions, many women are more open in talking about rape, said a volunteer.

"This is the only way women will start reporting rape to the police and it is the only way we can bring rape out into the open and have the men prosecuted."

In 1973, 26 complaints of rape were reported to Ottawa police. Fifteen cases were investigated but only one case was taken to trial. The accused was acquitted.

Police estimate that only 10 per cent of all rapes are reported.

Hydro Spokesman Says:

Machines Draining Energy Supplies

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

Society's increasing dependance on machines is forcing energy sources into an intolerable situation.

Bill Broad, applications supervisor in marketing with Ontario Hydro's eastern region in Belleville, told Belleville Kiwanians Tuesday, "this state of affairs cannot be tolerated indefinitely ..."

The Toronto native pointed out, " ... the total amount of energy available is limited to the stored energy reserves in its various forms — coal, oil, gas, uranium and water power — and to energy received daily from the sun."

"Our consumption of energy cannot exceed the fixed amounts available at any point in time," said Mr. Broad. "... we must find ways to limit energy consumption to match available short-term and long-term supplies."

Mr. Broad remarked society's common attitude is "why sweat when a machine can do it?" or "why be uncomfortable when a machine can make you comfortable?"

The result of this attitude has seen society "on a machine splurge" for decades, said Mr. Broad.

He explained, "as the number of machines per person increases, and as the sophistication and energy requirements of each machine increases, energy consumption per capita grows rapidly."

Mr. Broad outlined four basic solutions:

— "allocate special energy sources (like oil and gas) to needs they serve most suitably, and improve efficiency of production from all our energy sources."

— "improve the ways we transport and distribute energy."

— "consume energy more efficiently."

— "develop a 'conservation ethic' that shifts emphasis from a 'throw-away society' to one that stresses refillable containers, more reliable and durable equipment, recycling of basic materials, and design of smaller machines that save both on the energy needed to power them and the energy needed to manufacture them originally."

It's Under Study

Study of Bay of Quinte waterfront is explained to parks and recreation representatives Tuesday night by consultant R. E. Crysler. Survey, commissioned by Moira River Conservation Authority, is to assess open space and recreation potential of shoreline in Belleville and Sidney and Thurlow Townships. Parks director Lloyd Syer (left) and parks board chairman Paul Russell listen to expert's comments.

OMB Hears Objections To Townhouse Plan

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

An Ontario Municipal Board (OMB) hearing moved into its second day Wednesday with opponents listing their objections to townhouse development in the vicinity of Elizabeth Cres.

This is the third OMB hearing to be held on the Rollins Construction proposal. In its previous two hearings, the development was deferred on technicalities.

The two-man municipal board heard a lengthy slate of municipal officers Tuesday, who spoke in support of the project.

The development has been on planning books for three years. Slated as a condominium scheme, the plans call for 81 townhouse units — each selling for about $30,000. In an attempt to separate the townhouse units from the existing neighborhood, the developer has also laid plans for a "buffer zone" of 33 single family dwellings to line two sides of the condominium site. These homes are expected to sell for $40,000.

"Both of these estimates are conservative — it's difficult to estimate the total financial outlay of the project," said Rollins official Bob Marcotte.

Vera Heimbach, principal objector in the hearing, said the development would damage the quality of life in the neighborhood.

"At the moment we on Elizabeth Cres., have the very kind of neighborhood that planners in other cities are trying to preserve," she said. Mrs. Heimbach described her neighborhood as "quiet, close-knit and well-kept".

William Thompson, chairman of the municipal board, said public objection will be heard Wednesday and an OMB decision on the development could be available by Wednesday afternoon.

City Hall Employees To Discuss Strike Plan

City hall staff meet tonight and among topics likely to be discussed is the possibility of strike.

The 43 members of Local 140, Canadian Union of Public Employees, now is officially entitled to walk out any time after Feb. 21, their spokesman said today.

Right to strike follows a report of a conciliation officer with whom union and management spokesmen met Jan. 29.

Subsequently, the official made no recommendation that a conciliation board be set up, said Peter Ouderkirk, president of the local.

City hall's two-year contract with its staff ran out at the end of the year. But meetings with management have produced no results, said Mr. Ouderkirk.

Management representatives re city manager Wilbur Purcell and Douglas Wright, purchasing-personnel agent.

The staff is asking for a one-year contract with a 25-per-cent increase for clerical staff and 21-per-cent boost for technical workers.

Present salary spread is $5,668 to $11,500, estimated Mr. Ouderkirk.

The last offer of management was an $1,150 across-the-board increase — which is about 14 per cent on the average salary, said Mr. Ouderkirk.

He said the union's demands were negotiable and the local's representatives were willing to discuss the issue with council.

Yacht Basin Location Prompts Harbor Study

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Where should the Belleville area's main boating facility be located??

The query was among questions, Tuesday night, thrown at city officials involved with the civic outdoors and recreation.

It came at a meeting of parks and recreation representatives with a man who now is meeting with public and community representatives on local waterfront potential — R. E. Crysler.

Mr. Crysler now is hitting stride in a study of the Bay of Quinte shoreline of Belleville, Thurlow and Sidney townships, west to Aiken's Road.

The study, commissioned by the Moira River Conservation Authority, from resource consultants Crysler and Lathem, is aimed at assessing the potential of the waterfront for open space and recreation.

Mr. Crysler, who already has walked much of the area and had it surveyed from the air and water told the recreation and parks committees his prime aim at this stage is to provoke discussion, thus seccering local response and ideas.

Among questions he posed to the committees:

— Should all local marina facilities be concentrated in tre Victoria Park harbor area, or elsewhere along the Bay?

— Should the area around the present Morch property on the Moira's west bank, become a marin basin?

— Should marshland along the shoreline running through the city's east end be retained?

Mr. Crysler also had praise for the potential of marshland and other scenery in the Point Anne area.

But the expert's prompting elicited some reactions from committee members.

"I think one of the big questions is — how much of a yacht basin do we want?" said Mayor Robin Jeffrey. "Do we want it all in the city centre, or do we want it all spread out?"

She queried Mr. Crysler on the possibility of having a marina basin in the main quarry at the former Canada Cement Co. plant at Point Anne, connected to the Bay.

It's a very interesting possibility," agreed Mr. Crysler. "... I've no idea what the cost might be. Also I've heard the cement company intend to continue to operate that quarry. But I've not had a chance to speak to the company yet."

He told recreation vice-chairman Joan Guthrie the study would not be ready within its two-month deadline. He expected it to be complete by the end of April.

One reason is that he still has to glean more local reaction.

His first discussion came last week with Thurlow council. Next week he meets with Sidney councillors.

Meantime, Mr. Crysler said later, he hoped to meet with representatives of community groups within another two weeks. He already has sent notices to selected organizations, although advertisements so far have drawn "limited response."

Eight Charged After Tuesday Drug Raid

Eight persons from the Trenton, Carrying Place and Consecon areas have been charged with trafficking under the Narcotic Control Act or the Food and Drugs Act.

The eight were arrested late, Tuesday night in various locations in the Quinte area following investigations conducted since the beginning of the new year. The arrests were made by members of the RCMP, Belleville city police and Trenton police.

Charged are Philip John Vince, 18, of 67 Dominion St., Trenton, trafficking in cocaine and marijuana. He is also charged jointly with Jed Leon Byreiter, 19, of Consecon with two counts of trafficking in LSD.

Randy Bruce Demorest, 20, 116 Division St., Trenton, trafficking in mariuana (cannabis).

Steve Vincent Baker, 17, RR2, Consecon: Ralph Kimberly Sloan, 20, RR1, Carrying Place, and Wilbert Vincent Kemp, 28, of 65 Ontario St., Trenton, all charged with trafficking in marijuana.

Charles Jeffery Byreiter, 24, Consecon, trafficking in THC and Larry Steven Alfred Watson, 18, of 65 Ontario St., Trenton, charged with trafficking in MDA.

All those charged except Steve Baker will appear in court in Trenton. Baker will appear in Picton court.

80 Local Briefs Received For Mini-cabinet Session

Allan Grossman, provincial resources development secretary, said Tuesday field policy meetings, such as the one planned for Belleville next Monday and Tuesday, "are the best kind of dialogue a government can deal in today."

Mr. Grossman, who made the remark in a telephone interview from Kingston, said his secretariat, which includes the ministries of transportation and communication, environment, industry and tourism, energy and agriculture, has received about 80 briefs on various topics from local groups.

He said the government hopes to hear representatives from about 40 of the groups during the two-day meeting at the Four Seasons Hotel.

"At least now people know somebody in the government is listening to their problems, even if no immediate solution can be found," he said.

Mr. Grossman said six or seven provincial ministers are expected to attend the meeting. Topics, he said, will probably include the recent government announcement of a 10,000-acre industrial park near Prescott, the proposed new bridge across the Bay of Quinte and the current study of Lake Ontario.

The secretary said fears expressed by some eastern Ontario municipalities that the proposed industrial park will divert potential industry from surrounding communities are unfounded.

"All we are trying to do is tell industry they can't build every plant in Toronto. Most likely any industry going into the park will complement existing industries in the nearby areas."

The province has established three field policy groups. The remaining two deal with the justice and social aspects of government.

Mr. Grossman was in Kingston to address a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce.

Ottawa Studying AMDU Operations

From The Ottawa Bureau of The Intelligencer

OTTAWA — National defence headquarters here is conducting a review of maintenance facilities at all Canadian forces bases across the country.

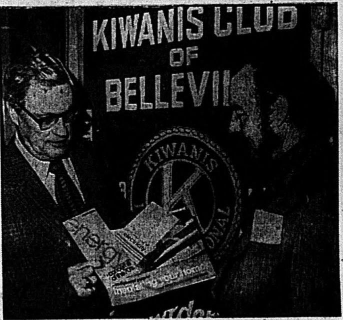
COL. John Boulet, a media liaison officer here said Tuesday the materials division began the study last November. It is likely to continue for "another couple of months," he said.

The officer dismissed as "not true" rumors that the defence department plans to close its Aircraft Maintenance Development Unit (AMDU) located at CFB Trenton.

The materials division is reviewing AMDU operations as part of the "numerous studies taking place now" to see how maintenance operations can be made more efficient and economical, he said. "It's strictly at the study stage," Col. Boulet stressed. "No decision has been made yet."

White AMDU is located at CFB Trenton, it reports directly to Ottawa, rather than the base commander or Air Transport Command which has its headquarters at Trenton, he said.

Col. Boulet described the materials division as a major section of the forces which has responsibility for equipment, fuel, heating, buildings and weaponry.



Energy Saving Hints

For tips on how one can personally practice energy conservation, these three booklets held by two representatives of Ontario Hydro's eastern region in Belleville are available to the public. The two men are Bill Kerr (left), operations manager, and Bill Broad, applications supervisor. Mr. Broad was guest speaker at the Belleville Kiwanis Club meeting Tuesday and Mr. Kerr is a Kiwanis member.

City Stumped Over Hockey Dominance of Park Rinks

Keeping hockey players off outdoor rinks created for youngsters who just want to skate continues to frustrate the city parks department.

"We're wide open for constructive suggestions," said parks director Lloyd Syer Tuesday night.

Deterring those who want to play hockey from outdoor ice pads intended for more pleasure skating has been an ongoing problem, he told a meeting of the parks board and recreation-arena committee.

The director remarks were prompted by Ald. George Zegouras, recreation chairman who said he'd had a number of complaints about such situations.

"I'm just wondering if there's anything we can do about it," he said.

"Every winter when we establish rinks we have the same complaints," said Mr. Syer.

He said various methods had been tried to segregate the skaters, with little success. Where signs had been posted they'd been torn town, he added.

One solution had been skate-around tracks, which did not facilitate hockey-playing.

But there were few areas in the city where such installations were feasible.

"There are other areas we should investigate for another year," he said.

"But where you have ice rinks hockey does predominate."

As a result many youngsters skated on marshy areas which are not suitable for hockey, he said.

Kiwanis Pool Program Now Self-sufficient

A city service club came in for commendation Tuesday night for deciding not to seek city funds for a community swimming program.

The Quinte Kiwanis operates a swimming program annually at the Black Hawk Motel used by more than 26,000 persons in the past year, the club wrote the city's recreation committee Tueasday night.

It has secured additional funding from the Belleville Yardmen's Benefit Fund and plans additional programs this year, wrote the club.

Ciyt council has "very generously" supported the swim program over the past eight years and, initially, the club could not have carried on without such support, said the letter.

But now, indications are sufficient income will be available this year without city help — although the club hopes for city aid if required in future.

"I'm particularly pleased to see thhis," said committee chairman George Zegouras. "It's not very often you see many groups in a community do this sort of thing. Once they latch onto a grant they very often come back."

The committee decided to send a formal letter of congratulations to the Quinte Kiwanis.

Vehicle Looted

City police are investigating the theft of goods from a car broken into sometime from Sunday to Tuesday.

Thieves pried open the driver's door window of the vehicle owned by Manuel Montes of 344 Front St. and stole 11 assorted tapes, two speakers and 12 hockey pucks.

Total value of the items is about $60.

Dief Sees Bands' End As Attack on Royalty

OTTAWA (CP) — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker charged the government Tuesday with making another attack on royalty, this time by dropping four "royal" bands from the armed forces.

He said in the Commons that this is part of the government's plan to remove the word royal as much as possible.

The charge was part of a lively, noisy, catcalling 10-minute exchange over Conservative demands that Defence Minister James Richardson revoke the order to drop the bands.

The noisy exchange continued until Derek Blackburn (NDP—Brant) protested that time was being wasted on an irrelevant matter.

Unemployment was "a hell of a lot more important than whether a band is called royal," he said.

The Conservatives were protesting the force's recent money-saving decision to drop the bands of the Royal Canadian Regiment at Camp Gagetown, N.B., Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry of Calgary, Royal Canadian Artillery of Montreal and the Air Tansport Command of Trenton, Ont.

Mr. Diefenbaker insisted on calling the latter the Royal Canadian Air Force band.

Mr. Richardson said there still will be 90 bands in the military reserve and regular forces and "I am certain that all will be playing royally."

He said he is trying to make the armed forces more efficient and Mr. Diefenbaker asked how dropping four royal bands—and leaving only two in the regular forces—could have anything to do with efficiency.

Wiretaps Reveal Spying

OTTAWA (CP) — Wiretaps by the RCMP last year uncovered evidence of spying and other subversive activity, says a report from Solicitor-General Warren Allmand.

The report, for the last six months of 1974, said the wiretaps were of value in detecting, and in some cases preventing, subversive activity.

It said there were 339 warrants issued to wiretap between July 1 and Dec. 31, and the average length of the taps was 143 days—almost the entire six-month period.

The report, issued under terms of the wiretap law passed by the Commons more than one year ago, came into effect in July.

The report says no convictions have yet been achieved by legal wiretapping in criminal matters, but an official says that might mean the cases have not yet appeared in court.

The information on wiretaps under the Official Secrets Act gives no details of spying or subversion and Mr. Allmand would give no explanation to reporters.

Kingston Girl Freed In Firearms Action

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — A provincial court judge ruled Tuesday that Linda L. Griffin, 17, of Kingston did not fire a gun with "wilful disregard to the consequences," although the blast temporarily blinded her 14-year-old brother, Clifford.

Judge Ronald J. Delisle acquitted Miss Griffin of a firearms charge laid under the Criminal Code resulting from a prank to scare guests at her apartment last December.

The judge said he said he felt the girl had "neither the knowledge nor the wilful disregard of the consequences of her act" to warrant a conviction.

Mr. Swan said the girl was told "it's only a blank—go out and scare them."

ONTARIO

ONTARIO ENERGY BOARD

Notice of Application And Hearing

TAKE NOTICE that an application dated February 5, 1975, has been filed by Newco Limited, an Alberta corporation, under section 26(2) of The Ontario Energy Board Act to obtain the leave of the Lieutenant Governor in Council to acquire all the outstanding voting shares of Northern and Central Gas Corporation Limited ("Northern") and that the Board has appointed Monday, March 17, 1975, at 9 a.m. at the Board's Hearing Room at 14 Carlton Street, Toronto, Ontario M5B 1K5, for the hearing of the application.

The proposed acquisition of the Northern voting shares by the Applicant is part of a proposed reorganization involving Northern and its Albert subsidiaries, Canadian Industrial Gas and Oil Limited ("Cilgol") and Coleman Collries Limited. The proposed reorganization will also involve a statutory amalgamation of the Applicant with Cigol to form a new Alberta corporation, Norcen Energy Resources Limited ("Norcen"). In the result Northern will continue to exist, but as a wholly-owned subsidiary of Norcen.

The Applicant submits in its application that its proposed acquisition of the shares of Northern is part of an internal corporate reorganization and does not involve any real change in the ownership or control of Northern and is not detrimental to the public interest.

Any person who intends to oppose the application or otherwise intervene shall, within 14 days after publication of this notice in daily newspapers, file in duplicate with the Board at 14 Carlton Street, Toronto, Ontario M5B 1K5, and serve upon the Applicant's solicitor, Peter F. Scully, at 4600 Toronto-Dominion Centre, Toronto, Ontario M5K 1E5, his Answer containing a clear and concise statement of his interest and his grounds for opposing or otherwise intervening, and being endorsed with his name and address and, if documents are to be served on his solicitor, his solicitor' name and address. Filing or service shall be personal or by registered mail.

The Board has directed that service of this notice on all persons who may be affected by this application shall be by publication in daily newspapers. If any person notified does not attend at the hearing, the Board may proceed in his absence and he will not be entitled to any further notice in the proceedings.

Copies of the application are available from the Board and the Applicant's solicitor. Further particulars are available from the Applicant's solicitor.
DATED at Toronto this 7th day of February, 1975.

Prince Edward Isle Defends Curb or Land Ownership

OTTAWA (CP) — Prince Edward Island has a long history of problems arising from non-resident landlords "and it was to cure this mischief" that it enacted a 1972 law limiting the amount of land non-residents can own, the Supreme Court of Canada was told Tuesday.

Non-residents, under the provincial law, can own no more than 10 acres of land and no more than 330 feet of shoreline.

M. H. Fyfe of Ottawa, appearing for the P.E.I. government, defended the law against an appeal launched by two New York state residents who want to buy 36 acres on the island.

They contend P.E.I. went beyond its powers in passing the law because it diluted Canadian citizenship and dealt with aliens, a field granted to the federal government by the British North America Act.

The federal justice department, arguing against the law's validity, said the limit on ownership applied to federally-incorporated companies with head offices outside the province.

Mr. Fyfe said the statute applies only to individuals and not to companies, but he understood the province has either passed or soon will pass a law dealing with land ownership by companies.

Lawyers arguing against the law said it would be beyond attack if similar ownership limits were put on residents.

Mr. Fyfe said the P.E.I. law did not forbid Canadians or aliens from buying up to 10 acres. But if they wanted to buy more, they needed special permission from the provincial government.

Kirkconnell To Be Honored

WOLFVILLE, N.S. (CP) — Dr. Watson KKirkconnell, a former president of Acadia University and author of 100 books, will have a special present for his 80th birthday this year.

McClelland and Stewart will release a volume of essays written in his honor. The release date is set for May 1, in time for his birthday on May 16.

President of Acadia from 1948 to 19664, Dr. Kirkconnel is one of the world's leading linguists and has also served at United College in Winnipeg and at McMaster University in Hamilton.

Edited by Dr. J. R. C. Perkin, head of Acadia's religious studies department, the volume The Undoing of Babel will contain six essays on topics suggested by Dr. Kirkconnell's special interests which are shown in the more than 1,000 articled he has written.

The contributors include former colleagues and students.

Zimbabwe Ruins Remain Mystery

ZIMBABWE, Rhodesia (CP) — Few of the world's great ruins have aroused as much heated controversy as the ones here at Zimbabwe.

Almost 100 years after their discovery the debate over the origins of the building goes on.

In the meantime hundreds of thousands of visitors have toured the ruins described as being as important to Southern Africa as the Pyramids are to Egypt.

One of the earliest explorers to see the ruins was German geologist Carl Mauch in the 1870s.

His suggestion was "that the ruin on the hill is a copy of Solomon's Temple on Mount Moriah, and the building in the plain is a copy of the palace where the Queen of Sheba lived during her visit to Solomon."

In support of such theories the Arabs living around the ancient port of Sofala in the 16th century claimed that the Queen of Sheba's gold came from Rhodesia, which they called the land of Ophir. They told the early Portuguese that this fact was related in their "old books".

More support is given this theory by the fact there are an estimated 75,000 ancient mine workings scattered over a wide area of Rhodesia. Expert analysts have concluded that the oldest and finest rock mines in Rhodesia were probably of Asiatic origin.

There are about 80 stone ruins in Rhodesia, but none are as impressive as Zimbabwe. In fact there is nothing of comparable scale in black Africa.

The Temple or Great Enclosure, for instance, is a massive elliptical structure 250 yards in circumference and tapering upwards from a base 21 feet wide to a maximum height of about 35 feet.

Nearly a million hand-trimmed blocks were used in its construction which was carried out without the use of cement.

Zimbabwe has a perfect blending with the surrounding countryside. This is shown on the Acropolis, which towers 32 feet above the lush valley below.

Here the hill, itself a natural stronghold, has been strengthened by massive walls, passages, parapets, staircases and entrances incorporating gigantic granite bolders.

Skeletal remains were conspicuously absent and various experts have been unable to agree on whether the radio-carbon dates given by two pieces of timber date the walls in which they were incorporated. These are 700 AD, plus or minus 95 years and 590 AD, plus or minus 120 years.

Archeologists gave added substance to the theories that the ruins were the homes and gold depots of an ancient gold-mining people.

In particular the Conical Tower, the Chevron Wall, massive soapstone birds, ingot moulds, gold plating, ornaments, wire and tacks, Arabian glass beads, Celadon and Ming china, spindle whorls and pottery of non-Bantu origin found here convinced many experts the ruins were not the work of native ancestors of the Bantu people now living a simple subsistence life in huts.

The latest book on the ruins, he Origin of the Zimbabwean Civilisation by R. Gayre, has convincing arguments as to the origins of the ruins.

Gayre argues that the earliest and finest phase of stonebuilding here was probably the work of pre-Moslem Sabacan Arabs of about the seventh century AD, assisted perhaps by Indians, Ethiopians, Malays and even Chinese.

There are those who say that the ruins are the remains of a lost art of the Bantu people, but this argument holds little water when it's remembered that the Bantu didn't move into the area in any great numbers until the 12th century.

A book on the ruins was published as early as 1552. In it de Barros, a Portuguese, wrote that the Africans in the area did not know who had built the ruins. He said they cause the buildings were beyond the Bantu's powers to execute.
attributed it to the devil be-

The ruins are located in the Zimbabwe National Park about 20 miles southeast of Fort Victoria, the base for the European settlement of Rhodesia.

Should Check Package Tours

OTTAWA (CP) — Winter-es-route should do some checking, the Consumers' Association of Canada says.

If it's an international flight, be sure it originates in Canada and not the United States. The Canadian transport commission requires travel agencies to pay for return flights in advance so there's less chance of being stranded.

Determine if there are any costs the tour does not cover, such as airport tax or taxi fares. And find out what happens to your money if you have to cancel your trip or if the flight fails to leave on schedule.

Reaching Epidemic

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP) — The United States face a drug crisis which has reached epidemic proportions, Robert Papelian, supervisor of U.S. Customs in Massena, N.Y., says. Speaking to members of the Cornwall and District Transportation Club, he said U.S. Customs everywhere are tightening vigilantie to put an end to drugs trafficking.

World Ignores War's Toll And Hunger in Bangladesh

LONDON (CP) — During the Second World War, an estimated six million people died in bnazi-run concentration camps. The memory still evokes horror and revulsion throughout the world.

During the last four years, international aid experts believe, millions of people may aso have died of starvation, disease and war in the tiny Asian country of Bangladesh. The world reaction has been something approaching an international yawn.

Bangladesh was born in 1971 out of a genocidal civil war in Pakistan which split the country in two. Since then, two crops have been destroyed by floods, inflation has put imported supplies out of reach, disease is rampant and thousands are dying.

Canada has become the country's biggest single food-aid supplier but the reaction of the major powers to the tragedy has been either to ignore it or to make such pitiful aid donations that they have been of little or no real assistance.

In the cauldron of world politics, Bangladesh has no importance. It has no oil, no military strength, no great strategic value.

But in Britain, at least, the awesome magnitude of the disaster now has been highlighted in dramatic detail by Daily Mirror reporter John Pilger and Anglia Television, one of the country's top commercial production companies.

The reaction to Pilger's nationally - televised documentary has been spectacular, he says.

Writing in The Mirror, Pilger said one Wiltshire woman had sent him a week's wages. Another woman in Yorkshire had set up a fund-raising drive among office colleagues and a husband and wife from Shrewsbury actually sold their entire household furnishings and car to send aid to Bangladesh.

In his column, Pilger says the response has been mortifying. But Bangladesh would only start to live again [illegible] Dr. (Henry) Kissinger diverts food aid from his client states, such as South Vietnam, which gets more American food than any other country and re-exports it to buy arms."

The famine would also be given some relief if "Canada and Australia transfer their surplus grain from silos and cattle troughs to human mouths."

The documentary itself was a skilful personal exposition of the individuals who are starving and dying in Bangladesh, with Pilger relying on his own experience in the area to give it historical perspective.

"I saw four dead children this morning heaped on a stretcher," he began. "One of them was about 18 months old and I could tell this because his feet were the same size as my son's."

The film showed bodies buried for 18 months in more heavily-populated areas being dug up to make room for the thousands of others who have died in the meantime.

Children, said Pilger, have been the worst hit of all.

"Many of these children died because they couldn't get milk. Last year, the United Nations in Dacca stopped feeding starving children a powder made from milk and soybeans simply because the Common Market countries had bought up all American soybeans to use as cattle feed."

But Pilger's greatest concern seemed to be an attempt to discover why and how the tragedy has been so widely ignored.

Apart from the strategic unimportance of the area to the superpowers, he concludes that at least part of the fault lies with journalists and their editors.

"Why have these children been allowed to starve? Why have they not been saved? The answer is not what you have often been told: That Bangladesh is so corrupt it is beyond redemption.

"For some of us who came here at the birth of this country, reporters, foreign-aid officials (and others), Bangladesh was no more than a brief, cynical romance—a source of good copy—and now the story and the cause are stale, the problem too great, the tragedy unfashionable."

It will take a lot more than one TV documentary, excellent though it was, and the continuing reporting of John Pilger to save Bangladesh.

But their efforts may force a handful of others to look again at Bangladesh, however unwillingly.

Hippies Gather In Goa

GOA, India (AP) — The tall blonde man, his long hair waving in the wind, walked naked from the surf and strolled across the beach whil a group of young Goans watched and giggled.

Such incidents trouble the people of this former Portuguese colony which has become a haven for young westerners adrift with little to spend and time to spare.

The visitors have set up a little colony in Goa, drawn by the warm Arabian sea, the unspoiled beaches, the low prices and the generally tolerant attitude of the Goan people. Goa now is a part of India.

But the tolerance is wearing thin. Goans now talk of all young travellers in casual dress as "hippies," often saying it with a sneer.

Neither Roman Catholicism, the religion of a third of Goa's 850,000 resdents, nor Hinduism, the religion of most of the rest, makes much allowance for the free ways of European and North American youths on the move.

Residents, shocked at nudity on the beaches, have demonstrated in the capital city of Panaji, petitioned the territorial government and written indignant letters to newspapers.

Police have posted Calnagute Beach, a favorite sunning spot for the youths, with red signs warning that nudity is against Goan law and that offenders will be punished.

Police commissioner M. B. Kaushal said his odficers also are troubled by Western girls coming into the police department for visa extensions wearing lightweight Indian blouses without bra.

But Kaushal said, "The real hippies are all right—they just want to be left alone."

The real trouble comes from drug dealers, passport racketeers and thieves who mix with the young drifters and prey on them.

"The local boys were getting involved," he said.

Authorities estimate that about 5,000 young Westerners have made up the revolving population of Goa s beachside houses, renting for about $18 a month.

"I've been on a holiday, an extended holiday," said a Swede, packing up with a French girl to head back to Europe after four years away from home and two months in Goa.

But the number of Westerners has dropped to about 1,000 this winter.

Dr. Shridhar Sharma, a psychiatrist who says he treats about 20 Westerners a year for drug-related disorders, said fewer are coming because an anti-smuggling drive and tighter border controls have made hashish trafficking from Nepal and Afghanistan more difficult.

Local authorities are reluctant to crack down on the Westerners for drug possession or discourage their stays in Goa. Tourism officials have realized that even "hippies" in imitation Indian costumes spend foreign exchange on food and lodging.

In addition, most of the young travellers come from western Europe, the United States and Canada—the rich travel markets Goa's government is trying to tap for traditional tourists.

42 Wildcat Wells Drilled In Offshore Oil Search

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — In the last decade Canada's eastern continental shelf has been the focal point of an extensive search for hydrocarbons. During this time international petroleum companies have spent more than $250 million in exploration. Off Newfoundland and Labrador alone 42 wildcat wells have been drilled.

One group of companies has found oil and gas off Sable Island on the Nova Scotian Shelf; another has tapped some oil and gas at Adolphus, some 200 miles off Newfoundland on the Grand Banks.

To date none of these discoveries has been large enough to warrant further development. In recent months, however, reports of a significant gas strike off the coast of Labrador by a group of companies headed by Eastcan Exploration Ltd. has focused interest once again on the extensive continental shelf as a possible source of large hydrocarbon reserves.

Dr. Noel James, associate professor of geology at Memorial University here, outlined the geologic background to this research in an interview.

"The submerged land surface of the continental shelf is larger than all of Newfoundland and the Maritimes provinces put together and is strikingly different from the adjacent land," he said.

"If you could walk from the shore of Newfoundland or Labrador across the shelf it would be much like travelling from Northern Ontario onto the prairies of Manitoba. It is a vast, flat plain flanking the exposed land."

Dr. James said the rocks that form the mainland and underlie the shelf are different. The contorted and buckled rocks of Newfoundland and Labrador are old, the eroded remnants of the Canadian Shield and the northern end of the Appalachian mountain chain.

These old rocks continue down under the continental shelf to form the basement on which lies a gigantic prism or wedge of younger, essentially flat-lying sedimentary strata.

This wedge of sedimentary rocks begins a few miles offshore and thickens progressively eastward until, near the edge of the shelf off northeastern Newfoundland and Labrador, it may be as much as 10,000 feet thick.

"However," Dr. James said, "the relatively young strata that form this prism are exposed nowhere in the Maritime provinces or Newfoundland. This is unlike most other oil provinces where buried strata are exposed nearby by mountain building and other processes. These can be studied in detail by geologists."

In this area, he said, geologists must rely solely on samples of rock obtained while drilling for oil, in small holes often tens or hundreds of miles apart on the vast shelf, to piece together the structure and history of the continental margin.

"Today we have a fairly good idea of the history of the shelf off Nova Scotia and beneath the Grand Banks," said Dr. James. "We know substantially less about the Labrador shelf, but on the basis of geophysics it appears to be similar."

The lion's share of the drilling rights on the Labrador shelf—some 30 million acres—are held by a consortium of international companies headed by Eastcan, a Canadian subsidiary of Compagnie Francaise de Petrol. Almost 60 per cent of the group are French and Italian companies operating through their Canadian subsidiaries, while the remainder are Canadian subsidiaries of United States firms.

Back To Classroom

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — A local judge has found writing wrongs is an effective punishment for petty offenders who don't really deserve a jail sentence. The punishment, more common in classrooms than courtrooms, is "as good a deterrent as any," said Municipal Court Judge Gary W. Thomas. "When someone is writing 'I will not steal,' he knows people know he stole something." Jailers said it takes about eight hours to write "I will not steal" 2,000 times.

Oilman Senator Called Ambassador to Alberta

CALGARY (CP) — Some people call him the federal government's ambassador to Alberta.

Earl Hastings, 51-year-old oil company executive, twice defeated as a Liberal party candidate in Alberta and now a senator, is the recognized voice of the federal party in Alberta.

Critics say he either does too much or too little: if he represents Albertans to the government he's usurping the power of elected MPs; if he represents the government to Albertans, he's not doing his job.

"It's a delicate position, but no, I don't think I'm taking the job of representing Albertans away from the elected representatives," says Senator Hastings.

"I don't think I'd agree with the description of my job as an 'ambassadorship,' but more as party spokesman in Alberta, and as an Albertan who has a voice direct to the highest levels of government in Ottawa."

All 19 MPs from Alberta are Progressive Conservatives and following last summer's general election there was a considerable amount of uneasiness over Alberta's unique position in Canada—the only province without an MP in the government caucus.

Prime Minister Trudeau named Senator Hastings as the government spokesman in Alberta—and the silver-haired father of three is waiting for the day he can turn his job over to an elected Liberal.

"A large part of my job is to counteract the propaganda that comes to us from the anti-federalists, the people who want to break Alberta away from Canada, either philosophically or physically," said Senator Hastings.

"Many members of the Alberta cabinet are covert separatists. Their statements every day show they appeal, either openly or accidentally, to the separatists who hate Ottawa and who want Alberta to go it alone.

"My main job is to get the federal government's position across to Albertans so they have a balanced point of view to base their decisions on.'

While some elected MPs say Senator Hastings fulfils no useful purpose in his position, the man who led the Alberta Liberal party 14 years ago disagrees.

"When a province has members in government caucus or in government itself, it has a voice to the decision-makers that simply isn't possible when all the elected members are sitting in opposition," he said.

"Prime Minister Trudeau and the cabinet talk to me about any decision affecting Alberta. I'm not privy to cabinet meetings, nor do I have any kind of absolute control over matters, but I have more influence in my position than the 19 Conservative MPs have sitting across the aisle in opposition."

Asked if Mr. Trudeau or Finance Minister John Turner consulted him about the federal government oil policy, Senator Hastings nodded but added quickly:

"The government didn't necessarily accept my opinions and suggestions.'

From which point of view did Senator Hastings advise the government: as a federal Liberal or as an Albertan?

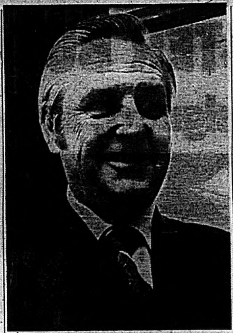
"My point of view was that of a federal Liberal living in Alberta," he replied. "It was a point of view which, I hope, represents the best interests of Alberta and the rest of Canada."

What of the future?

"I see a change everywhere I look. People aren't supporting the provincial government's selfish stand on resources because they are Canadians first and Albertans second.

'There is always a danger in Alberta of some oddball bunch of kooks catching on as a political party. My job is to make sure the federal government's stand is known so that such a thing doesn't happen.

"People see things the same way. They are afraid of what might happen if things continue as they have been in the last couple of years. They are going to send some Liberals to Ottawa four years from now.'



Ambassador

Some people call Earl Hastings the federal government's ambassador to Alberta. Mr. Hastings, 51-year-old oil company executive, twice defeated as a Liberal party candidate and now the senator for Palliser-Foothills, is the recognized voice of the nation's governing party in Alberta.

Politician Asks Year Of Silence

BOMBAY (CP) — A much-respected Indian statesman believes part of his country's problems may be due to "too much talking."

Acharya Vinoba Bhave, 79, has designated 1975 as "the year of silence." The saintly leader, senior of the surviving disciples of Mohandas K. Gandhi, father of national independence, has vowed not to speak for a whole year.

Friends close to Bhave said at his modest house in Wardha in central India that he is hoping at least some politicians will follow his example.

Thousands of Bhave's followers in the Sarvodaya (national uplift) movement are also expected to take the vow of silence.

In recent years, Bhave has emerged as one of the most influential statesmen in India. Though he belongs to no political party and holds no office, government leaders and opposition politicians frequently travel to his remote Paunar Colony to seek his views on important issues.

Currently, leaders of the ruling Congress Party and non-Communist opposition parties are eager to find out what the old man thinks of the latter's campaign against the government.

The opposition parties want Prime Minister Indira Gandhi to recast her economic policies which they hold responsible for inflation. They are also demanding a drastic reform of the electoral system to eliminate the "power of big money."

Bhave has not criticized the Gandhi regime specifically but has repeatedly warned against the growth of "bureaucratic power," particularly in the educational field, saying democracy will be in danger if government becomes too powerful.

His views have angered India's Communists. But they have not come out openly against him because of the fear of losing votes.

"Mr. Bhave is the conscience of India," says Ramachandra Diwakar, a leading member of the Sarvodaya movement.

There is noticeable relief in Congress Party circles following Bhave's year-long vow of silence.

"The old man will spare us at least for a year," said one MP.

But officials at the Paunar Colony said the vow will not prevent Bhave from issuing statements from time to time.

"He who cooks all meat the same way will be disappointed in results." This could be an appropriate ancient reminder that some cuts of meat should be prepared in moist heat. When cooked this way, you'll find the less tender, less expensive cuts can be turned into mouth-watering meals. This week, our sixth leaflet on beef, "Pot Roasting Beef" will supply you with ideas on turning a less expensive cut into a meal fit for company!

Mrs. Albany will be talking with shoppers Friday, February 14th at Trafalgar Food City, 1298 Trafalgar St., London from 1:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. Please feel free to come in and ask questions relating to food shopping.

Snow Foiled Canadians

SLICES — For those of you who missed the results of the Canadian Winter Rally on the weekend, the husband and wife team of John and Vicki Buffum won in a Porsche Carrera. The Buffums call the U.S. home, residing in Vermont.

Second place went to Jean-Paul Perusse of Montreal and John Bellefleur of Toronto, in a Fiat 128.

A Volvo, crewed by Bob Hourihan and Doug Shephard of the U.S. was third, followed by Walter Royce and Robin Edwards of Ottawa in a Toyota.

Apparently Perusse and Bellefleur led in the early going but the Vermont pair moved in front when the Canadians had the misfortune to get stuck in the snow.

Okay, Norm?

GEORGE FERGUSON

Don't look for injured Toronto Maple Leaf centre George Ferguson to retun to the lineup for about a week.

Apparently the cast is off Fergie's damaged right hand but the swelling has yet to go down.

If they ever get Errol Thompson, Lanny MacDonald and Fergie back together as an attacking unit, Leafs might find it even tougher to go into the tailspin suggested here, yesterday. MacDonald and Thompson are also on the shelf with injuries.

Switching to baseball for a moment (better weeks than moments but then it too would get to be a drag after the first four or five months) Cincinnati Reds' Johnny Bench could be the youngest player in National Baseball League history to win the runs-batted-in title four times.

But he's got to do the trick in either of the next two seasons. The 27-year-old catcher won his third RBI crown last season.

Rogers Hornsby was 29 when he won his fourth RBI title. No National Leaguer has ever won the honors five times.

A very reliable souce hints the 1976 Royal Canadian Legion Provincial Curling finals may once again be hosted by Trenton Branch 110 with the on-ice activity taking place at Trenton Curling Club.

No, Trenton did not win the 1975 provincials contested last weekend. It was Lou Dugre's Vanier (Ottawa) rink.

But the Branch 110 organizers are fast becoming accepted as the best when it comes to hosting events of this type. In fact, when bonspiel participants and Legion officials from out of town spoke during windup ceremonies, Sunday, they were loud in their praise of the host branch and curling club.

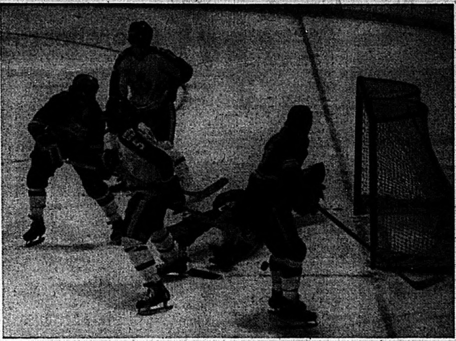
To be perfectly honest, the bouquet tossing became a little too flowery after a while.

But men like winning skip Dugre; the loser in the final, George Holborne of Sutton; provincial sports officer Vic Lowery of Cambridge and district sports officer Dude Hills of Port Hope were sincere with their compliments.

The whole thing says volumes for Branch 110 headed up by Frank Amodeo, the president. And officials of TCC should take a bow as well.

And they tell me TCC will be host club for the Bay of Quinte Men's Bonspiel coming up the weekend of Feb. 22-23. I thought our own Quinte Curling Club was official host for that event. What happened? Was I misinformed?

Bobcats Treed by Markham in Series Opener



Belleville Bobcat, Grant Goegan, came close, but not quite close enough to scoring on Markham Royal goalie, Steve Weeks, in last night's first round playoff opener in Markham. The Royals' goalie knocked the puck wide of the open corner out of the reach of Bobcat Gary Thompson (foreground). Mario Giallanardo (5) offers Weeks coverage on one side while Stelio Zupancich protects the far side of the goal. Markham leads the best-of-five series 1-0 with the second game scheduled for the Memorial Arena, Thursday night.

MARKHAM — If the Belleville Bobcats of the Metro Junior B circuit have any hopes of beating the Markham Royals out in the first round of the playoffs they're going to have to "pull their socks up" as coach Bob Boyle stated before the start of the series.

In Tuesday night's opening game of the best of five series, the Cats were caught with more than their socks down as the Royals humiliated them 11-4, to take a 1-0 lead in games.

The score was in every aspect indicative of play by the Royals and the lack of it by the locals, except by goaltenders Bob Moore and Dan Porteous.

The start of the game was delayed from 8:15 until 8:40 p.m. due to a local figure skating club who managed to leave the ice in rough shape.

Both teams were allowed approximately five minutes warm-up plus the time it took the linesmen to patch up the major defects in the ice before the game got under way.

Markham was hustling right from the beginning of the contest and before the Belleville squad could find their skating legs the Royals had compiled a 3-0 lead.

Juvenile call-up Mike Crawford got the only Belleville goal of the period on a good passing play with Scott Samis, one of the bright spots for the losers.

One thing apparent in the winners' style of play was the number of times they took control of the play from the face-offs. Royals' coach Bill Purcell admitted after the game: "We've been working on the face-offs and we have some guys that are good at it."

After Crawford's goal the Cats appeared to come to life but due to the quick reflexes of Royals' netminder Steve Weeks, the score remained 3-1 at the end of the first period.

Weeks, between the second and third period was given the Most Valuable Player award by his team for his outstanding efforts throughout the season.

Markham's fourth goal came with Belleville two men short. After the locals were back to full strength, Gary Thompson missed what manager Snipe Mathews termed "the turning point in the game."

Thompson was set up by Grant Goegan and fired the puck wide of the open net with Weeks out of position and the score 4-1.

After the sixth goal by the home team the Cats' management decided to put Dan Porteous in the twines for Markham target practice.

Porteous, despite the five goals scored on him came up with numerous good saves on Royal attackers.

Markham's seventh goal came on a penalty shot awarded to Bob Young who made no mistake in putting the shot in the top corner by Porteous.

Young was awarded the penalty shot after being harrassed by a Belleville player while he was on a partial break-away although not in the clear by any means.

The Cats in the third period were assessed a total of 22 minutes in penalties including a 10 minute misconduct to Eric Powell who also acquired a match misconduct on the same play and will be out for the next two games.

Markham outscored the Cats 4-2 in the final frame with the nicest play coming from the visitors, Wayne Calberry who walked through the Royals while Belleville was playing two men short for the first goal of the period.

Rob Foster counted the Cats' only other score of the period on a good individual effort with some handy fore-checking paying off.

"I thought they (Belleville) looked awfully tired tonight. I don't know if they were but it sure looked like it," said Purcell after the game.

"I thought my defence played very poorly" added Purcell "in fact it's the worst game they've played this season. I've got no predictions for Thursday's game in Belleville because I still have a lot of respect for that team." were Purcell's concluding words.

Whether the Cats can live up to that respect remains to be seen and any hopes the locals have to defeat Markham will have to begin at home Thursday.

Henry Plays Major Role In Success of Gryphons

BILL HENRY

The University of Guelph Gryphons are the hottest team on the Ontario University Athletic Association basketball circuit with the exception of unbeaten Waterloo. Guelph, last season's Canadian National University Basketball champion, has won four of its last five games. Their most recent one being a 109-83 decision over University of Western Ontario Mustangs.

Despite their championship last season, it has been a semi-rebuilding year for the Gryphons.

"With a definite lack of experience, we suffered through a slow start," said Gryphons coach, Garney Henley, "but bit by bit the pieces have been falling together and we feel we are ready to pose another strong challenge."

The Gryphons depend on last year's team members to lead the way for the rookies. One such player is Belleville's Bill Henry, in his second year as a guard for Guelph.

Henley considers Henry a point-in-case to the team's development.

"Despite playing a strong contributing role to our national championship, Bill needed more experience to step into a leadership role," said the coach.

The six-foot, one-inch former star with Moira Secondary has appeared in all 10 of the Gryphons' games this season and has accumulated a 3.2 points per game average.

"After a slow start Bill has been coming on the past month and has made vital contributions to our strong play in recent weeks," added Henley.

The Gryphons' past five games have found them on top, 96-77 against McMaster, 99-76 against Western, 70-67 against Laurier and 109-83 against Western and one loss to Waterloo.

"Bill came off the bench to spark rallies which turned these games around," said Henley, "for this he was voted Gryphon of the Week for the third week of January."

Their recent span of victories has brought their regular season record to seven wins and three losses and their total season record to 14 wins against 10 losses.

"Of late Bill's defensive skills and strong field leadership in setting up our offence have been excellent," said Henley, "we anticipate his performance will continue to improve as he sees more floor time."

The Gryphons have two games remaining in the regular schedule. On February 18 they begin their sectional playoffs and on February 21 and 22 the league finals take place.

As playoff time draws closer Guelph will be depending on the performance of steady players like Bill Henry to help them make it to the Nationals to defend their title, March 6-8.

BCI Team Takes Firm Grip On First Place in East

Belleville Collegiate seniors (BCI) nailed a lid on first place in the Bay of Quinte Secondary School Basketball League's East Division Tuesday night with a 51-50 victory over Nicholson Catholic College.

In the other two games played at Nicholson, the BCI juniors rolled to a 73-56 win and the midgets dumped the home squad 68-16.

Nicholson seniors needed the victory to give them a tie for first in the East Division. The Nicks have one game remaining this season and have only lost two games, both at the hands of BCI. In the earlier confrontation Nicholson lost 51-49 after an overtime period.

BCI has two games left in the regular season and as yet are undefeated. The worst they can do is a first place tie if they lose both their remaining contests.

The visitors held a commanding 16-6 lead at the end of the first quarter due to an early rash of Nicholson turnovers. The remainder of the game was nearly flawless as an over-all total of only 17 turnovers took place. 10 to the Nicks and only seven against BCI.

From there on Nicholson outscored the visitors; 16-14 in the second quarter, 13-8 in the third quarter and 15-13 in the fourth quarter.

The Nicks tied the game up early in the final quarter, but BCI went into a three point lead in the final minute on a short jumper by Larry Wilson. Dave Holland pulled the home team back to within a single point, but Gord Wright made both of his shots on a one-and-one situation from the foul line to put BCI back into a three point lead. Dale Wilson scored with about five seconds left, and time ran out on the Nicks.

Larry Wilson was tops for BCI as he scored 15 points — 12 in the first half — and hauled down 13 of their 20 rebounds. Larry Savage counted 13 points with corner jumpers and Wright added nine points. Gary Donovan scored eight and Chris Lachman, Russ Simonds and Brian Bell got two each.

BCI has lost starter Lachman for at least one game. He suffered a cut hand in Tuesday's win.

Dave Wilson was top rebounder for Nicholson and scored most of his 21 points from under the basket and on short jumpers. Danny Kraszewski picked up 11 points on layups off picks and rolls and Dave Holland also scored 11. Jeff Boyle checked in with five points and Bruce Collins got two.

The third quarter told the difference in the junior game as BCI outscored Nicholson 23-9 and went on to win by 17. Mike Kirby dropped in 18 points and Mitch Hannah got 17. John Guthrie had 13 and Bruce Milliken also hit double figures with 11.

For Nicholson, Steve Dolan got 15, Paul McAlpine 13, Martin Seemungal 12 and Ernie Rainbow 10.

BCI held the midget Nicks in check in each of the four quarters of their game. Mike Wright was tops with 18, Chris Niblett had 16 and Jeff Cass got 10. Pat Hurley replied with 10 of Nicholson's 16 points.

McInroy Close But Not Quite

Belleville McInroy Minor Bantams continue to show remarkable recuperative powers in their Ontario Minor Hockey Association playoff with Peterborough but it hasn't been enough to earn the club a tie or a win.

For the second time in a row, McInroy came from behind a sizeable deficit to wind up just one goal away from equalling Peterborough's production when the two teams hooked up in AA action, Tuesday, at Memorial Arena.

Down 4-1 halfway through the third period, Ted Soule's Belleville squad rebounded for a pair of counters to make it close but couldn't come up with the equalizer in a 4-3 setback.

The first game of the series Friday in Peterborough followed the same pattern as McInroy lost a tough 6-5 squeaker. McInroy trails in the best of five series 2-0 with the third game set for Peterborough, Friday night.

Larry Floyd looked after the bulk of the Peterborough scoring, potting three of the winners' goals. Steve Larmer rounded out the visitors' scoring.

Counting for Belleville were Shawn Mulroney, Clarence Broekema and Greg Sprout.

Quinte Rinks Advance

Ann Acton and Lorna Bennett, both from the Quinte Curling Club, are off to the Women's Tankard Divisional playoffs in Whitby March 13.

Tuesday in Brighton the two Belleville rinks eliminated two rinks from CFB Trenton and two others from Kingston Curling Club to earn the right to represent the district in Whitby.

The Acton rink consists of Betty Kelsy, vice, Marabelle Clare, second, and Mary Livingston, lead. Bennett's rink is comprised of Marianne Aikens, vice, Jean Quincey, second, and Sylvia Grills, lead.

If the two rinks combine a high enough score at the divisional playoffs they will advance to the all-Ontario Tankard competition in Sarnia, beginning March 25.

Indoor Soccer League Takes on New Look

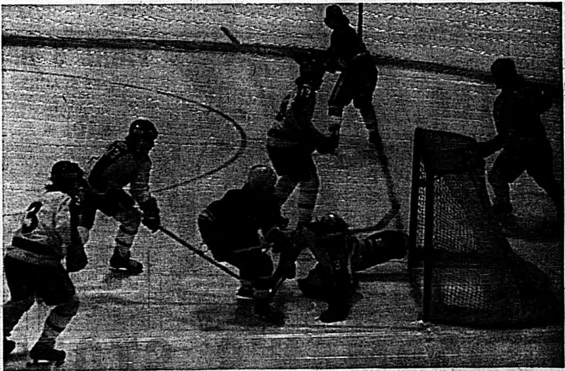
The Indoor Soccer League is only a few weeks old but already the loop is taking on a new look.

Trenton Spartacus, a no-show for two consecutive league matches, has been replaced in the league by Moira Secondary School's fine young team.

And a league spokesman reports 11 Front St. Barber has withdrawn its sponsorship of the team carrying its colors. The club will be called Olympics from here in.

In Monday action, Olympics blanked Cosy Grill 3-0 on goals by John O'Neill, Kevin Kirby and Nick Del Grosso.

John's Variety Store won by default over Spartacus in the other match.



Belleville Bobcat, Eric Powell (foreground), just misses on this deflection in front of Markham Royal goaltender Steve Weeks. Powell got between Markham's Rick Vasco (3) and Mark Murphy (23) and parked himself beside the net. Bobcat forward, Scott Samis (background), then fired a pass through the goalmouth to Powell, but he couldn't reach it to deflect it in. Markham's Gary Dillon (19) and Frank Evans (2) watch the puck roll wide of the net. The Royals upended the Cats 11-4 in the first game of their best-of-five series.

Red Sullivan Replaces Anderson

Caps Get Win for New Coach

By GLENN COLE
The Canadian Press

Tuesday was a big day for Washington Capitals.

First they fired coach Jim Anderson and replaced him with Red Sullivan. Then they went out and won their fifth game of the season by coming from behind a 4-1 deficit to defeat New York Rangers 7-4 in one of four National Hockey League games.

In other action, New York Islanders edged Pittsburgh Penguins 2-1, St. Louis Blues upset Philadelphia Flyers 3-1 and Vancouver Canucks shut out Kansas City Scouts 4-0.

Sullivan, 45, who once coached the Rangers and the Penguins, said his immediate goal for the Caps remaining games is to gain enough points to avoid breaking the NHL record for the fewest number earned in a season—30—set by New York Islanders in 1972-73.

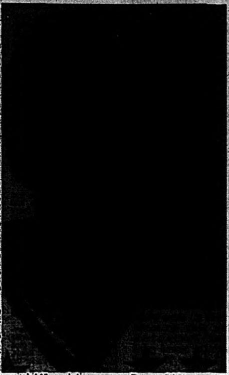
The Capitals, who joined the NHL along with the Scouts this season, now have five wins, 45 losses and five ties for 15 points and are at the bottom of the five-team Norris Division.

FEELS CAN DO IT

"We have to make up 19 or 20 points," Sullivan said. "I think we can do it.

"I'm not saying I'm going to turn the team around overnight.

"I want and I will get respect, hard work and checking. In order to win in the NHL, you need to check hard and continue to check hard."



Mike Marson—Pots Winner

Sullivan's coaching debut before 10,104 fans was delayed for two hours due to problems with the ice which had been painted for an ice show at the Capital Centre.

The delay did not seem to affect the Rangers as they moved into a 4-1 lead by the midway mark of the second period. But Steve Atkinson and Tom Williams scored before the period ended to cut New York's margin to a goal and the Capitals scored four goals on only seven shots in the final 20 minutes.

Gordie Brooks tied the score with his first goal of the year with 2½ minutes gone in the final period and rookie Mike Marson got what proved to be the winning goal at 7:18.

The win was the first for Washington since they defeated Detroit Red Wings 8-3 Jan. 29 and avenged a 7-3 loss to the Rangers Sunday night in New York.

Jude Drouin scored at 5:12 of the third period to give the Islanders their win over the Penguins.

Drouin faked around a Pittsburgh defenceman at the faceoff circle, swept in on goalie Gary Inness and scored his eighth goal of the year to end the Penguins' four-game road unbeaten string.

Clark Gillies scored the other New York goal with Lowell MacDonald replying for the Penguins.

Bill Collins and Pierre Plante scored in the second period to help the Blues send the Flyers to their third straight loss.

Oilers Lose to Toros 4-3

Threat of Fines No Impetus

By NEIL CAMPBELL
The Canadian Press

Whatever Edmonton Oilers needed to inspire them for an important World Hockey Association game Tuesday night, it wasn't threats of fines and suspensions.

General manager Bill Hunter issued warnings of dire consequences to malingering Oilers on Tuesday, but his hockey club still dropped a 4-3 decision to Toronto Toros, who occupy second place in the Canadian Division.

The Oilers are 10 points behind the Toros. A win would have left them only six points behind with seven games in hand.

In Tuesday's other games, Houston Aeros downed Baltimore Blades 5-2 and San Diego Mariners walloped Quebec Nordiques 9-2. A game between Indianapolis Racers and the Cougars at Chicago was re-scheduled for Feb. 17.

Wayne Overland reported in Tuesday's Edmonton Journal that the club's directors had agreed to sue lethargic players for failing to live up to a section calling them to perform up to the best of their ability.

Hunter denied the Overland story but said the team has made it known to the players that those not willing to perform to the best of their ability will be suspended.

"I'm not going to put up with lethargic performances by any athlete," said Hunter. "No one has a right to steal."

Hunter's action didn't get much support from Toronto coach Bob Leduc after the game.

"I don't think you can threaten hockey players today," said Leduc. "He was just trying to get his guys up for the game but that can work against you and players today will say to hell with you.

"Those days are long gone when you can discipline a player by threatening him with a suspension or fine."

The Oilers had a bad moment in the second period when goaltender Jacques Plante took five minutes to get up after a collision with Toronto forward Pat Hickey. Plante finished the game, taking two aspirin between the second and third periods to fight a headache.

A Toronto crowd of 8,954 fans saw Brian Gibbons, Frank Mahovlich and Paul Henderson score second-period goals to give Toronto a 4-2 lead. Defenceman Barry Long scored twice for the Oilers.

The Howe family—father Gordie and sons Mark and Marty—paced the Aeros, picking up seven points. Mark had a goal and three assists, Gordy registered a goal and an assist and Marty also assisted on a goal.

The Aeros now have won 18 games on the road, including their last five in a row.

Thanks to New Haven, Reds Retain Cushion

NEW HAVEN (AP) — New Haven Nighthawks scored three times in the last seven minutes of play Tuesday night to defeat Nova Scotia Voyageurs 6-3 in a rough American Hockey League game.

The loss kept Nova Scotia from gaining ground on Northern Division-leading Providence Reds, who lead the Voyageurs by three points. New Haven, struggling to get out of last place, now trails fourth-place Springfield Indians by three points.

The game was tied three times, with the final deadlock taking place in the first minute of final period, when Nova Scotia's Glen Goldup scored a power-play goal.

Scott MacPhail put New Haven in front to stay on a 30-foot slap shot. Rick Chinnick made it 5-3 before Dave Cressman scored into an empty net with 30 seconds to play.

Chinnick, who scored twice, put New Haven in front early in the game and Walt Ledingham made it 2-0 at the seven-minute mark of the first period. The Voyageurs came back to tie the score later in the period on goals by Peter Sullivan and Bill Nyrop.

New Haven went back in front in the first minute of the second period on a goal by Rick Kessell.

Tonight's AHL schedule has Rochester Americans at Providence, Hershey Bears at Richmond Robins and Springfield at Syracuse Eagles.

Paul Savage Expected To Repeat as Champ

CAMBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — Paul Savage and his Toronto Avonlea rink are favored to successfully defend their Ontario men's curling championship beginning today.

Savage has skipped three rinks to wins in the Ontario final—in 1970 while curling out of the Toronto Terrace Club and in 1973 and 1974 with the Avonlea club.

The winner of the four-day, round-robin event will advance to the Canadian men's final in Fredericton, March 3-8.

Other rinks participating in the Ontario championship are:

Harry Adams, Ottawa Lansdowne; Alex Scott, Kingston Cataraqui; Jim Currie, Pickering Annandale; Bruce Buchan, Toronto East York; Bill Martynink, Toronto High Park; Ron Manning, Toronto Lambton; Bill Dixon, Brampton; Ken Buchan, London Ivanhoe, and Doug Palmer, St. Catharines Curling Club.

Savage has a 22-3 won-loss record in the Ontario final and also holds the distinction of winning 17 consecutive games in the event.

Two draws will be played daily with three draws scheduled for Saturday, the expected final day of the event. Playoffs, if needed, are scheduled for Sunday.

The 38th annual Ontario final also marks the 100th anniversary of the Ontario Curling Association. Clubs that have existed for more than 100 years will receive scrolls marking the achievement. The oldest Ontario club is Kingston Cataraqui, in existence since 1820.

The opening draw today is as follows:

—2 p.m. EST: Lambton vs. St. Catharines; Ottawa vs. East York; High Park vs. Brampton; Pickering vs. London; Kingston vs. Avonlea.

—7:30 p.m.: London vs. Avonlea; Brampton vs. Pickering; Lambton vs. Ottawa; High Park vs. Kingston; St. Catharines vs. East York.

Opens Winter Games

Trudeau Urges All Canadians To 'Shape Up'

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau issued a serious plea to Canadians to improve their diet and level of physical fitness as he declared the 1975 Canada Winter Games officially open Tuesday night.

In a brief address during a colorful two-hour ceremony before a capacity crowd of 5,000 in the Sportsplex which will house many of the 16 Games competitions, the prime minister advised Canadians to "stop eating garbage."

"In some ways," he said, "Canada is getting sluggish."

He spoke proudly of the country's affluence, tolerance and growing unity but said true greatness will not come until citizens are more fit.

"Because we are affluent, we have cars and motorcycles and buses and trains and airplanes and elevators and escalators and we don't move around very much.

"Physical fitness is falling back in Canada. It's not as good as in many other lands."

As 2,000 athletes from Canada's 10 provinces and two territories listened quietly, the prime minister said the competitors provide a good example for Canadians.

"If this spirit can spread into the schools and colleges and universities and offices and factories and farms . . . and Canadians begin to develop a sense of pride in their physical well-being and stop eating garbage all the time and begin to respect their bodies and believe in health and believe in the values of physical fitness, then we will begin to make a great country. Then we will be doing something.

"That's what these games are all about. hat's why you have the support of all your governments."

Prime Minister Trudeau's appeal came after Corrie-Jo Petrunik, 12, of Lethbridge, a figure-skater, carried the Games torch into the Sportsplex, built especially for this competition. Other runners carried flames to 12 outlying centres in southern Alberta where competitions are scheduled.

Six military cadets participated in the flag-raising ceremony, and Guy Pomahac, 18, of Lethbridge, a member of the Alberta judo team, recited the athletes' creed.

Most of the opening ceremony concentrated on the theme of friendship. Choral singing and band music punctuated the program, which featured speeches by Premier Peter Lougheed of Alberta and Marc Lalonde, federal health and welfare minister.

"The friendship of the games will outlast by far the results of the competition," said Lalonde. His department approved the regional concept of the Games two years ago in awarding them to this southern Alberta centre of 44,000.

Marlies Romp Over London Knights 11-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

League-leading Toronto Marlboros scored six unanswered goals in the first period and four in the final period and coasted to an 11-2 win over London Knights in Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A action Tuesday.

A crowd of 1,609 spectators watched Toronto's Bruce Boudreau score three goals and assist on three others to bring his season total to 120 points. Tim Young of Ottawa '67s holds first place, six points ahead of Boudreau.

Bill Tells, John Tonelli and Mike Kaszycki each scored two goals, with Craig Crawford and Mike McEwen getting the others for Toronto.

Dennis Maruk, with his 48th, and Ron Zanussi replied for London, outshot 56-39 on home ice.

In other action Tuesday, Hamilton downed Ottawa 6-2, St. Catharines Black Hawks routed Kitchener Rangers 8-1 and Sudbury Wolves edged Oshawa Generals 5-4.

Fincups 6 '67s 2

Dale McCourt scored twice as Hamilton moved into second place, one point ahead of the idle Peterborough Petes.

Greg Clause, Joe Contini, Mike Keating and Kam Brothers also scored for Hamilton before a home crowd of 2,415.

Dan Blair and Peter Lee scored for fourth-place Ottawa, outshot 47-32. Blair's goal in the first period was the first for Ottawa in three games.

Hawks 8 Rangers 1

Line-mates Kevin Kennery, Rick Adduono and Bill Hamilton accounted for 15 points in the win for fifth-place St. Catharines.

Kennery had his second three-goal game in 48 hours and added two assists. Adduono scored twice and aided on three others. Hamilton assisted on all five goals.

Dave Salvian, with two, and Gary McAdam completed the scoring for St. Catharines before 797 spectators.

Dwight Foster scored for the last-place Rangers in the first period.

Wolves 5 Generals 4

Reese Dobrick scored the winning goal at 18:24 to cap a four-goal Sudbury rally in the third period. Other Sudbury goals went to Randy Carlyle, Rod Schutt, Ron Duguay and Mike Gazdic.

Peter Vandemark, with two, and Glenn Kirkham and Terry Angel with one each replied for Oshawa, outshot 49-35 before a home crowd of 1,223.

Request Arbitration

Holtzman, Linblad Lead the Parade

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitchers Ken Holtzman and Paul Lindblad of the world champion Oakland A's are expected to fire their high, hard salary pitches today as the first of more than 30 major league baseball players submit their contract disputes to binding arbitration.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, said Tuesday "about 34" players had requested arbitration by the Monday midnight deadline.

The first two cases were scheduled to be heard today in San Francisco. Within the next few days there also will be hearings before the American Arbitration Association in Los Angeles, Chicago and New York.

Miller would not disclose the names of any players seeking arbitration but it was known the list included batting champions Ralph Garr of Atlanta Braves and Rod Carew of Minnesota Twins plus more than a dozen A's.

Meanwhile, in Arlington, Tex., it was learned that Ferguson Jenkins of Texas Rangers, a 25-game winner, is scheduled for a hearing in Chicago on Feb. 21, a day after Texas first baseman Jim Spencer.

Under the agreement between the players' association and the baseball owners, arbitration is mandatory only if requested by the players. If the clubs request arbitration, the players can reject it. In addition, agreement can be reached before a case comes to arbitration.

Smith and Lutz Have Hands Full

TORONTO (CP) — The second day of a World Championship Tennis tournament Tuesday provided no upsets and little excitement until Bob Lutz and Stan Smith of the United States ran up against the Czech doubles team of Jiri Hrebec and Vladimir Zednik.

Zednik, 6-feet-3 and 200 pounds and possessing one of the most powerful serves in the WCT pro circuit, showed little sign of having just returned from a five-month layoff due to a back injury.

Zednik had Smith and Lutz worried as he placed most of his booming serves in the court. Smith, in particular, found the big Czech's serves troublesome and was also weak on net volleys and returning deeper shots.

The American team, seeded third, eventually won the match 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, but both admitted afterward they had not played well.

"I didn't serve well and Stan missed a few easy volleys," said Lutz.

In singles play, top seed Marty Riessen of the U.S. advanced easily with a 6-2, 6-2 win over Gerald Battrick of Britain while Cliff Drysdale of South Africa defeated Vijay Amritraj of India 7-5, 3-6, 6-4.

Dick Stockton of the U.S. easily defeated Pierre Lamarche of Montreal 6-2, 6-1. Lamarche was the last of four Canadians to drop out in thhe first round.

In other singles matches, sixth-seeded Phil Dent of Australia defeated Hrebec 6-3, 6-4; Milan Holecek of West Germany beat Graham Stillwell of Britain, 7-5, 7-6; and Mark Cox of Britain defeated Tom Edlefsen of the U.S., 6-0, 6-4.

In other doubles action, Dave Stockton and Eric Van Dillen, the U.S. pair seeded No. 1, defeated Lamarche and Dale Power of Toronto, 6-1, 6-4.

John Alexander of Australia and Dent defeated Tony Bardsley and Don McCormick, both of Vancouver, 6-2, 7-6.

SENT TO JAIL

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Outfielder Willie Davis of Texas Rangers was sentenced to five days in jail Tuesday after being found in contempt of court for non-support of his divorced wife and three children. Davis, recently traded to the Rangers of baseball's American League by Montreal Expos, had been ordered to pay $1,750 a month for support of his family. Davis and his wife were divorced in January, 1974.

OUR NEW GROUND MEAT ANALYZER

will make sure you're getting your money's worth.

The Loblaws Ground Meat Analyzer is now in all Loblaws Meat Departments. What it does is simply provide you with an accurate reading of the fat content in our ground meat. Each time a fresh amount of hamburger or ground beef is made, a check is made to determine the proper content of fat.

Loblaws ground beef comes under three classifications. Hamburger, with a fat content of 27% or less. Ground beef, with a fat content of 20% or less. And Lean Ground Beef, with a fat content of 15% or less. Loblaws labels every package of ground beef with the percentage of fat content.

Orange, Shuttlesworth May Go

There'll be Changes If Russ Has His Way

ED SHUTTLESWORTH

TORONTO (CP) — Either Ed Shuttlesworth or Doyle Orange or both could be gone from the Toronto Argonauts if new head coach Russ Jackson gets a free hand in shaping the Eastern Football Conference team's future.

"From what I was able to observe (as a television commentator), that was part of the game the Argos had the most need of last season," said the last native-born quarterback in the Canadian Football League.

He said neither Shuttlesworth or Orange provided the breakaway threat Argos are looking for, although both had otherwise respectable years with Shuttlesworth running for more than 900 yards and Orange for more than 800 yards.

"This year our game is going to be geared to get more speed," said Jackson. "Our recruiting will be on the concept that we need more speed in the Canadian game."

Although nothing firm has yet been initiated by the club in this respect, Argos did announce the signing of Rick Worley, a 25-year-old quarterback from Howard Payne College, who general manager John Barrow figures will fit handsomely into the EFC team's scheme of operations.

Neither Barrow nor Jackson downgraded the play of incumbent Mike Rae, but both implied the position was open, Jackson adding: "Our quarterback search is not over. Worley could possibly be the sleeper of the year, but we're going to be looking at two or three others at that position as well."

DOYLE ORANGE

He said the one area that could be critical is at cornerback where Tim Anderson has played out his option and veteran Dave Raimey is suspect after a knee operation.

Jackson said that with Anderson's loss to San Francisco '49ers of the National Football League and Raimey's knee still a question mark although doctors have declared the operation a success, replacing two experienced cornerbacks remains a possibility.

Rough Riders Bid for Tennessee Ace

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders of the Canadian Football League (CFL) have found the man they want as quarterback and are waiting to hear from him, a club spokesman said Tuesday.

The find is Condredge Holloway, a 21-year-old football-baseball ace from the University of Tennessee. At 17 he was offered a $90,000 bonus and an immediate spot in the majors by baseball's Montreal Expos.

"I was all for accepting and I felt badly at the time when I couldn't sign because my mother refused to go along with it," says Holloway.

And now he's debating between football and baseball and a contract as a quarterback is likely to help him decide, he said while on a recent two-day visit to talk to the Rough Riders.

He is 5'11" and 185 pounds and considered by some U.S. football teams as too short for a quarterback.

Argos Learn Tackle Could be Deported

TORONTO (CP) — Court proceedings against Garrett Hunsperger in Vancouver may result in his deportation from Canada, but until that time comes he's a member of Toronto Argonauts.

Hunsperger and a British Columbia Lions team-mate, Frank Magrum, were ordered recently to pay aggravated and exemplary damages of $19,500 after an incident at two hotels last April and May in which diners and staff were beaten.

Argo general manager John Barrow heard while on a trip to the United States that both players had been placed on waivers by the Lions and immediately put in a claim for Hunsperger.

11 FOR TUNA

HALIFAX (CP) — Eleven teams will be invited to take part in the 26th International Tuna Cup match off southwestern Nova Scotia in September.

THE PRESIDENTIAL TRANSCRIPTS — Here is a complete transcript of the Nixon tapes with commentary by the staff of the Washington Post. For the first time the inner sanctum of American executive power is open to the public. A picture emerges of Richard Nixon and controversial figures around him far different from that appearing on the TV screen.

THE MASK OF STATE — WATERGATE PORTRAITS Mary McCarthy. — During the Watergate hearings, Mary Mc'Carthy, on commission from the 'Observer' of London, wrote six reports from Washington telling the story of deceit and arrogance in the Nixon administration. These along with other articles have been expanded for this book. Her skill as a reporter, her capacity for conveying moral insight, and her great personal style make "The Mask of State" an unforgettable account.

WHY NATIONS GO TO WAR — John G. Stressinger — This book makes an attempt to take a new look at the age-old scourge of war. The author has not been satisfied with the explanation that wars have been caused by nationalism, or economic factors, or some other abstraction. He has done six case studies on major wars of this country, dealing in depth with the moment when the final decision was taken, and attempting to capture the human factors in each. He outlines his conclusions in the final chapter and ends on a note of hope that we are at last seeing our planet as one world. A very readable and interesting book.

THE MULTINATIONAL MEN — Thomas Aitken — The growth of multinational companies has posed new responsibilities on, and offered new opportunities to, the men who represent them around the world. Thomas Aitken, who has spent over twenty years in various cities in South America and Europe, dissects the responsibilities of the manager abroad vis-a-vis his home office, local government, local business and labour. He draws on a wealth of experience in discussing the various relationships.

ALLAN ROYAL MAIL LINE RAVENSCRAG:

— Thomas E. Appleton — "Ravenscrag" is the story of the Allans, and of the line of sail and steamships which dominated the Canadian Atlantic routes for nearly a century. Beginning with partriarch Sandy Allan, the story follows his fine sons through emigration to Canada and the founding of the Montreal Ocean Steamship Company, known as the Allan Line. It is an account of shipwrecks and storms, of trade first under sail and then in iron screw steamers and of a time when thousands of families emigrated to Canada. It also tells how Sir Hugh Allan made a bid to control the proposed Canadian Pacific Railway Company, resulting in a political crisis which brought down the MacDonald government.

Steady Income

COVENTRY, England (CP) — Housewife Mariam Hayward has been receiving a 10-pence (23 cents) cheque every month for the last 38 years in payment of &125 damages she was awarded in a court case. At this rate, it will be 2030 before the debt is paid.

Thief Selective

PRAGUE (AP) — A thief visited the studio of the Slovak painter Alexander Eckerdt and stole three paintings. The thief, who dismantled the door to enter. was a discriminating lover of modern art and out of the many pictures in the studio took the three the artist valued most highly.

CP News Roundup

Inquest Review Ordered

TORONTO (CP) — Solicitor General George Kerr said Tuesday he has requested a review of an inquest into the death of a 24-year-old Indian man found hanged in the Thunder Bay district jail last New Year's Eve.

Mr. Kerr told the legislature he has asked the chief coroner's office to consider whether to reopen the case following reports that Vernon Nokonogas had asked jail staff for psychiatric help and been refused.

"This information was not known by the coroner before the inquest into this unfortunate matter," Mr. Kerr said. "The question here is now whether this information which has been revealed would have made the jury come to any different decision."

Trustees Get Raise

MARKDALE, Ont. (CP) — Grey County board of education trustees voted Tuesday to raise their salaries $150 a month to $350. The increase is $50 a month less than the maximum Grey County trustees are permitted under provincial legislation.

Claims Not Checked

HAMILTON (CP) — An estimated $542,520 may be paid unnecessarily in welfare claims this year because of lack of staff to investigate claims, Rev. Mac Carson, social services commissioner for Hamilton-Wentworth, said Tuesday. He told the social services committee that welfare cases have increased so rapidly in the last decade that the 107-member staff cannot cope with the backlog.

Priority Denied

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — The Niagara region police board turned down Tuesday a city council request to classify the city as a priority area for extra police protection. Police statistics show the 1974 crime rate increased by 18.2 per cent over 1973. Police Chief Albert Shennan said the force is paid for by all region taxpayers and it would be unfair to give one area more service.

Blamed for Alarm

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — Donald Edward Ellis and Calvin Carmen Vautour, both 16 and of Barrie, appeared Tuesday in provincial court on charges in connection with damage to Ontario Hydro towers and communication cables which caused the emergency warning system to sound in southern Ontario last Dec. 30. The two were remanded to Feb. 25 when a trial date is to be set.

City Not Chosen

HAMILTON (CP) — Ottawa or Winnipeg appear to be the choices for the federal Progressive Conservative leadership convention, Michael Meighen, president of the national party, indicated Tuesday

But he also said the timing of the forthcoming Ontario provincial election would have a bearing on the convention schedule.

Cause Not Fixed

OTTAWA (CP*) — A preliminary report from RCMP laboratories does not indicate the cause of a fire which engulfed a snowmobile suit and severely burned a four-year-old boy last Thursday, city police said Tuesday.

Inspector Armand Soucie said the report did not determine whether gasoline had been poured on the garment before it was ignited.

Police suspect the child was deliberately set ablaze.

Toronto Error

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC said Tuesday the substitution of a week-old newscast for the 11 p.m. news in British Columbia Monday was done in its Toronto offices.

No New Regions

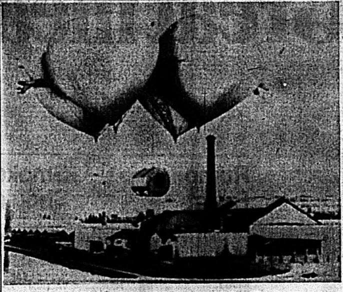
TORONTO (CP) — Ontario will not create any new regional governments in the near future, Premier William Davis told the Ontario Society of Regional Municipalities Tuesday.

Mayors Organize

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — A committee of eight mayors of centres was established Tuesday to prepare a brief on unemployment problems caused by dropping car sales in Canada and the United States.

Barred by Union

IROQUOIS FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Five woman employees at the Abitibi Paper Co. plant say they have lost their jobs because they were refused entry into Local 109 of the Canadian Paperworkers' Union.



Skyhook at Work

This giant aerial crane, which can hover in the air or cruise at 50 miles-per-hour with a load of 500 tons, was unveiled recently in France. Its four, tear-shaped balloons, are filled with helium and motors propel the craft horizontally. The load is suspended by cables. (AP Photo)

Lewis States People Own Mineral Wealth

TORONTO (CP) — NDP Leader Stephen Lewis said Tuesday Ontario's mineral resources belong to the people of the province and not to the companies which mine them.

During debate in the legislature on changes to the Mining Tax Act, Mr. Lewis said his party rejects the government bill which instead "explicitly endorses the proposition that mineral companies own the resources of Ontario."

He said the public knows "that resources, which are so central to the life of the province, have to be publicly controlled and often publicly owned . . . ."

Hamilton Fire Takes 2 Lives

HAMILTON (CP) — Two women and a man were killed early today in an early-morning fire which trapped about 20 people in two adjacent downtown rooming houses.

Six of eight persons injured in the blaze were released from hospital following treatment for minor injuries and smoke inhalation.

Names of the dead and injured are being witheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

Policeman Is Upheld For Use of Revolver

GODERICH, Ont. (CP) — A 33-year-old police constable in this community about 60 miles northwest of London, Ont., was acquitted Tuesday of charges of unlawful and dangerous use of his service revolver and careless driving.

Before acquitting John Hills of the charges arising from an incident here last Oct. 27, provincial court Judge W. A. Ehgoetz said "this community will have to ask itself what amount of abuse it expects its officers to tolerate in the execution of their duty."

Crown witnesses testified during the trial that Constable Hills fired his revolver at Wayne Jones, 17, of Goderich, as he fled from the policeman after pouring a can of soft drink on a traffic ticket the officer was writing for another youth.

Constable Hills said he fired a warning shot at a 45-degree angle above and to the side of the running youth.

'We Are Laughing', Labor Reaction to Thatcher

Gentlemen May Prefer Blondes But How About Lower Classes?

LONDON (CP) — A blonde, middle-class, middle-aged mother and tax lawyer, Margaret Thatcher, has replaced Edward Heath as leader of Britain's Conservative party.

Her victory over four other leadership contenders in a secret ballot of Tory MPs Tuesday ends months of turmoil within the party following two defeats last year at the hands of the Labor party.

She is the first woman ever to lead a major British political party and thus to become a potential future prime minister.

Mrs. Thatcher, 49, quickly confirmed her pre-vote pledge to invite Heath to serve in her shadow cabinet, although he has yet to reply.

And she said her first job is to forge the party and its policies into a winning combination that can defeat Harold Wilson's Labor forces in the next election.

Asked how she will shape her new shadow cabinet, she said she will blend continuity and change, implying that she will keep on some of the middle-road Tories who served Heath.

But she retained her Conservative ideas—low taxes, hands off business—which her supporters accuse Heath of renouncing when he became prime minister.

Her candidacy was backed by a reported two-to-one majority of Conservative party members in the ridings going into the second ballot.

But there were doubts in some quarters that as a woman and right-of-centre leader she can win an election.

Said one Labor minister before her victory: "If she wins, we are laughing all the way to the next election."

MPPs Ask that Payments To Doctors Be Scrutinized

TORONTO (CP) — The government should increase scrutiny of Ontario Hospital Insurance Plan payments to doctors, the Ontario legislature's standing committee on public accounts said in its final report Tuesday.

The report also said the government should review the financial structure of Ontario Place Corp. which the committee said may never make a profit.

Other recommendations included opening advertising contracts to tender, stricter reporting of ministry travelling expenses, restructuring the Ontario Northland Transportation Commission and provision of emergency assistance to persons affected by pollution or other disasters.

Pat Reid, committee chairman and Liberal member for Rainy River, said the existing method of checking abuses of the health insurance program—surveys of patients—is "slipshod and inaccurate."

Accounts of patients with excessive billings should be checked. The committee found that claims received after mid-May, 1972, for services before April 1, 1972, were processed without verification.

Runway Problem

OTTAWA (CP) — John Rhodes, Ontario transportation minister said Tuesday that an additional runway at the existing Toronto International Airport "would create a problem."

Across-border Chases Said Common Procedure

FORT ERIE, Ont.(CP) — A high-ranking officer of the Niagara regional police said Tuesday it is not uncommon for his men to chase suspects over the border into Niagara Falls, N.Y., and bring them back for questioning.

He was commenting on an incident Saturday when shots were fired from a Buffalo police cruiser that chased a truck driven by James Powless of Fort Erie across the border.

"Someone is trying to make a political football out of this," the Niagara police officer said.

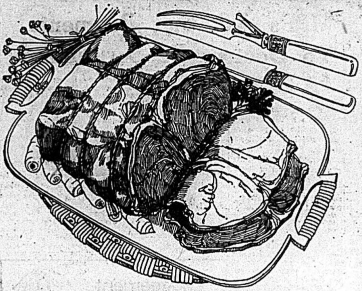
Great meals. Great meats.



Joan Fielden tells how:

Joan Fielden,
Dominion Home Economist Consultant
Carmelo Pluchino, Meat Manager

It's always a good idea to wrap and mark steaks, roasts and other cuts of beef before freezer storage. Because a good wrap, in moisture-vapourproof wrapping or container, will prevent "freezer burn", keep meat juicy, flavourful. Packaged self-service meats may be frozen in original store package if there are no breaks in the package. Then freeze meat at 0°F. or less. The faster meat freezes, the better its quality will be retained.

For this week's recipe, I've chosen a boneless round steak roast to make a delicious and colourful dinner. I think you'll find this recipe will be a family favourite.

Fruit Flavoured Roast

(Serves 6-8)

3 pound boneless round steak roast
3 tbls. lemon juice
flour
1 tsp. sugar
¾ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. rosemary
¼ tsp. thyme
⅓ cup chopped onion
2 cups pineapple juice

1. Cut slits in roast; fill with lemon juice.
2. Let stand for 6-8 hours in refrigerator (overnight). Keep well covered.
3. Dredge roast with flour.
4. Mix remaining ingredients and sprinkle over roast.
5. Place roast fat side up in roasting pan. Add onion and pineapple juice.
6. Roast in oven 300-325°F. for 2½ hours or until desired doneness.
7. Baste several times during cooking.

The following chart will serve as a handy guide to roasting all kinds of delicious cuts of beef. And if you'd like to know more about food and nutrition, write me, "Joan", P.O. Box 35, Station W., Toronto. I'll send you free, helpful information.

BIRTHS

RUPERT — Julie wishes to announce the safe arrival of her baby sister Cynthia Dawn, on February 3rd, 1975. Proud parents are Linda and Larry Rupert. Special thanks to Doctors O'Boyle Kelly and Dolan and nurses on 5th floor.

IN MEMORIAM

LEITCH, John — In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather who passed away February 12th, 1964.

Nothing can ever take away,
The love a heart holds dear,
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.

—Ever remembered by the family.

BRUSHIE — In loving memory of a dear mother, Elizabeth Brushie, who passed away Feb. 12th, 1969.

Your presence we miss,
Your memory we treasure,
Loving you always, forgetting you never.

—Dearly remembered by daughters Marion, Edna and son-in-law Jim Butler.

CARDS OF THANKS

The family of the late Burrell Hamilton would like to express their sincere appreciation for the many acts of kindness received from friends, neighbors and relatives in the recent loss of a dear husband, father and grandfather. Many thanks for the floral tributes, donations to the Ontario Heart Fund and Gideon Bibles, many calls, cards and visits. Special thanks to Franck Lodge No. 127 for the Masonic Service, Rev. Lorne Ball, Rev. Charles Savage and the Ladies of Centennial Free Methodist Church. The kindness and thoughtfulness of Allan Vanclief and his staff at Grant Funeral Home was deeply appreciated.

Sincerely, Kay, Ron and Janet, Allan and Pauline, Bob and Jennifer and families.

A sincere thank you to my friends, relatives and neighbors for their many acts of kindness on my behalf during my recent brief stay in the Belleville General Hospital. To Dr. Mustard, to the nursing staff of the Intensive Care Unit, as well as Level 4 of the B.G.H. and to Fathers J. Grainger and K. Stitt of St. Michael's Parish, Belleville, a special thank you for their kind and extremely competent care.

Terry Flynn.

Macdonald Wants Ottawa, Provinces to Co-ordinate Energy Plans

OTTAWA (CP) — Energy Minister Donald Macdonald says the federal and provincial governments should co-ordinate investment in energy projects during the coming decade to avoid conflicts.

The various governments should agree on a timetable for allocating an estimated $100 billion of energy development money during the 10 years, Mr. Macdonald told The Canadian Press in a question-and answer session.

The hour-long discussion in his Parliament Hill office ranged over such questions as policy planning, including the early-April meeting of first ministers, when the federal and provincial leaders will revise pricing systems for oil and perhaps for natural gas.

He also discussed such matters as the Feb. 3 deal whereby the federal, Alberta and Ontario governments joined with three multinational oil companies to put more money into the Syncrude oil sands project in Alberta.

The minister talked about the role he foresees for Petro-Canada, the proposed government oil company awaiting approval by Parliament, and Panarctic, the existing oil exploration consortium in which the federal government holds 45 per cent and private companies the rest.

Following is an edited version of the interview.

Q: You have just marked your third anniversary as energy minister and from the outside it looks like you've had to do a lot of running just to keep up with a changing situation. In 1973 you were planning to produce an over-all policy paper. Is that coming soon?

A: What we would like to do in the framework of the oncoming first ministers' meeting is to publish an overview document of how we see the energy perspective at this point.

An important aspect of that overview would be some analysis of the capital requirements of the energy sector, on the basis of which we get pushed into some hard priority choices . . . because we can no longer be in the position where a varied group of decision-makers at the federal, provincial and private-sector levels can expect to go ahead planning energy projects and executing them, putting unbearable strains on the Canadian capital market. . . .

Q: Do you see any vehicle by which this federal-provincial co-ordination might be arranged?

A: Obviously what we have to do at some stage is get some agreement that planners don't bunch all their projects together, but will agree to a consecutive timetable in doing it. A microcosm of that approach I think is indicated by our electrical interconnection policy, which features federal financing for interconnections as a form of persuading individual provincial utilities to co-ordinate development.

Q: When you're talking about $100 billion government and private investment in energy between now and 1985, is that for a self-sufficiency program, free of imports?

Delta Key to Future

A: There is a quality of uncertainty involved because, for example, we don't know how big the oil pools will be we drill in the Mackenzie Delta. If they are substantial pools, then that investment may not only turn up, self-sufficiency, it may turn up a substantial surplus.

Q: oes this include the Quebec proposal for uranium enrichment? Does the $100 billion cover coal gasification, hydro developments?

A: Well, not uranium enrichment so much. Coal gasification, coal development itself, construction of nuclear power, exploration for uranium, for coal, putting in place production facilities for those commodities.

A: James Bay would be counted. . . . You're looking to invest in the principal, next readily-accessible energy assets of the country. James Bay, especially in view of the general desirability of shifting to hydro use from say oil and gas, is obviously the next one and you would do that in almost any event.

Q: To get into the question of pricing, we are pursuing self-sufficiency. . . .

A: I think I'd like to change that to self-reliance, if only that in 10 years time, if there is considerable excess oil in the Mackenzie and the Arctic Islands and no success in the East Cost offshore, economics may dictate that Atlantic Canada is served in ordinary times by imports. It's just the mechanics and the economics of moving it, but with the possibility of building in an emergency supply system.

Q: Does that imply there might still be exports to the United States?

A: It might put us back in that situation. If we found ourselves in a surplus position in 1985 then we would find ourselves up against the decision whether we should export or keep it in the ground.

Q: The export tax on oil sales to the U.S. have provided the money to subsidize and bring down the price of oil imports in Eastern Canada. With exports being rolled back, that implies we are going to be moving to the higher world price for oil. Now, as well, we have Syncrude guaranteed a world price for its oil. That implies that very quickly we are going to be moving to the world price.

A: Well, perhaps it does. The first ministers will meet in April and decide on the appropriate price of oil for the coming year. The state of the compensation fund to subsidize oil imports is not so heavy that we can't go another year without looking to other sources than the export tax to fund that. It is true that if there is a dramatic drop in exports, then at this stage we are going to have to look to general revenue for continuation of the compensation or to a price increase to close the gap.

Price Rise in Stages

But, at a time when one of the principal concerns of the economy is inflation, is it really conceivable that we would go out of our way to add two percentage points to the Consumer Price Increase by putting through the price increase for oil all at once? I think I'd answer the question, "obviously not." Therefore, you are going to try and enable the consumers to adjust to a higher price level by staging price increases.

Q: So what do we look for in April? The issue is almost exclusively pricing?

A: The issue is pricing. Its a somewhat more complicated issue in pricing because we think the natural gas pricing question should be in there. We'll be seeking from a consumer provinces at the April meeting to get recognition or acceptance of a formula there should be escalation of natural gas prices to the price for an equivalent amount of oil in terms of energy value.

On the oil question, we have a full range of options all the way. I think Premier Regan has said there should not be a nickel's increase and the Albertans obviously are thinking about $10 or $11 a barrel, so there's certain room for settlement in between. It's not going to be easy. Pricing will be important.

On the question of allocating supplies to exports and the regions of Canada, I don't think there's a wide area of disagreement. I think it would be agreed that as we move on into the 1970s and we do find that there are going to be problems of short supply, then somebody's going to have to step in and say: "OK, it would be equitable to cut it this way." And that obviously is going to be the National Energy Board, I would say. But I'm not sure that will be a contentious issue. Pricing is going to be the nub.

Hydro Better Than Oil

Q: Where's the federal priority in energy development now—the oil sands, the north?

A: Rather than making it regional, the priority has to be to shift as much of the energy use away from hydrocarbons—oil and natural gas, which have a limited availability—to, preferably, hydro, which is a renewable resource, or to nuclear power, materials for which we have in very substantial quantities.

Q: In allocating limited capital resources, what's your personal feeling about the priorities between, say, the oil sands on one side, the Arctic on the other, the Mackenzie Delta, or off the East Coast?

A: What would I like to see happen first? I'd like to see us drive a drill into a couple of really big ones on the Scotia Shelf so that the petroleum needs of Eastern Canada could be assured. The trouble is I can't be sure it is going to happen. In fact, after 104 holes, it's been relatively disappointing on the East Coast and what I am trying to do is keep the options open and avoid having to make a choice of one or the other at this point.

I think not to have picked up the Syncrude participation would have been to make a choice—it would have counted us out of oil sands for the next 10 to 15 years.

Q: How do you help encourage offshore discoveries, if there is still some hope there is something out there? Does Petro-Canada do it?

A: Petro-Canada can do it to a degree. Petro-Canada will be in a better position to be a catalyst to put together a consortium of the smaller fellows who might conceivably have $1 million for a hole, but they couldn't come up with $10 million on their own.

Q: Is it true you have little choice but to put money into Syncrude, that you didn't have much room for negotiation with the oil companies?

A: I think that we couldn't turn and walk away from it because nationally there is a need for additional petroleum supplies coming on, and we could not afford to be indifferent to the fact that there are 22 billion barrels of oil in that mineable deposit.

Q: Were the main negotiations to keep Syncrude alive between you and Alberta rather than with the oil companies involved?

A: The critical negotiations were really at two levels. The first was the process by which the industry had to come up with an additional $400 million above their original $1 billion and, secondly, we had to negotiate the respective shares among the three governments—Alberta, Ontario and us.

Q: Was there any effort made to have the federal and provincial governments develop the sands without the oil companies? You said Ottawa couldn't afford it but did you ask the provinces?

A: No, I didn't ask them. Our view was that the risk, should be spread around. It would certainly not be in our interest to come up with $2 billion to pick it off. This would forclose all kinds of federal options, not only in the energy sector but elswhere in the federal public sector

We were quite happy to see the distribution and we were quite happy to get away with 15 per cent—to have the lion's share of the risk borne by the companies, who in due course will only get somewhere around 22 per cent of the profit, with the prospect that the public sector, principally Alberta, can buy in for majority control.

Governments Ahead

In the private companies versus government, it seems to me that governments came out well ahead both in terms of revenue—whether by participation in the project, income tax and by royalties—and also by acquiring a capital position and acquiring the right to get more.

Q: The Syncrude shares the government holds will be turned over to Petro-Canada when it's set up. Does this change the government's concept of what Petro-Canada was set up to do? Won't it move Petro-Canada into production?

A: No, we always assumed we would engage in exploration and when we did strike something we would produce it. So it perhaps accelerated the timetable for this. I'd have to say it may involve a distortion in the launching of Petro-Canada because, instead of being launched with a treasury with some money in it, they will be starting off with a rather substantial project on their hands and this is going to involve a fair amount of their time and money in the early years.

Q: So, what kind of an investment budget do you see for Petro-Canada?

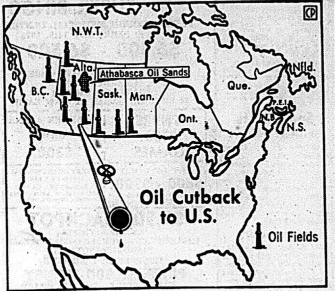
A: Well, we had in mind for the first give years something in the neighborhood of a $150 million a year.

Q: That's not very much?

A: Well, it's not very much in comparison with some of the international oil compames, but it is a not-inconsiderable fund of money. I think we are going to have to take a fresh look at the cash flow now that we've got the Syncrude obligation.

Q: So that the Petro-Canada financing could be lowered from the $150 million?

A: Well, part of the Petro-Canada cash flow could be diverted, of course, to meeting our Syncrude obligations. Unless I can be remarkably persuasive with the minister of finance and the president of the treasury board, they are not going to have $150 million above and beyond their obligations in Syncrude.



Energy Minister Donald Macdonald has announced that, as part of a long range policy to protect energy supplies, Canada will cut back on the amount of petroleum it exports to the United States. What's more, Canada may stop exporting the black gold altogether by 1982. Canada's known conventional oil reserves total nine billion barrels and the largely untapped Athabasca oil sands contain an estimated 65 billion barrels more. This combined total gives Canada as much oil as Saudi Arabia, if it were all realized. Less than four years ago, when oil was plentiful and a lot less expensive on the world markets, Canada urged the U.S. to buy more petroleum and Washington responded by limiting imports. The picture changed when the Arab producers began their cutbacks.

Your Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

Thursday, Feb. 13

Aries (March 21-April 19) Some confidential knowledge that you have will work for your benefit, provided you don't tip your hand prematurely.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) You'll be fortunate in situations where you deal with several people at one time, especially if you're chairing a committee.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Your chances of achieving in areas of importance are much better today than they'll be tomorrow. Take advantage of the NOW.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Large issues won't rattle you today. Your attitude will be positive and far-seeing. Concentrate on major problems.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Favors you seek will be treated in a generous fashion but don't request something that you have no immediate need for.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There's a close associate with whom you always luck-out with in things you do together. The combination holds true-to-form today.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll find others are quite willing to perform services to make your work easier. All you have to do is ask nicely.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Something good is coming your way through an influential social contact. This person will open doors.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your luck will come through for you just when you need it the most. Hang in there.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Good news you'll be receiving will put you in a happy frame of mind and make you an easy guy to get along with.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This is a good time to take stock of your financial position. If you've accumulated a little surplus, think of ways to save, not spend.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll be fortunate in situations where you're the one in charge. Don't be pushy. Pull the strings yourself.

RECORDS RAVEL

The Minnesota Orchestra will be the first U.S. orchestra to record the complete orchestral works of Ravel. It has signed a contract with Vox Productions to make nine records within the next two years.

Infant Diarrhea Can Be Dangerous

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you please explain the cause of diarrhea in infants? Is it contagious? If so, is it transferred by means other than poor handwashing? If so, how should isolation be managed?—I.M.

There are at least a dozen causes of infant diarrhea. These include congenital defects of the colon (rather rare), infection, allergy, or disorders such as celiac disease and cystic fibrosis.

If the attack is mild, it could be something as simple as too much carbohydrate (sugar or starch) in the formula.

But severe and persistent diarrhea in infants is serious and should be investigated promptly. The chief hazards are dehydration and malnutrition.

Sometimes a newly introduced food can bring it on, and if this is noted, that particular food should be removed from the diet since it may be an allergy exhibiting itself.

If the infant appears well, simple measures encouraging him to drink water or slightly sweetened liquids usually suffices. You can withdraw solid foods for a while and substitute a dextrose solution. Your doctor can give you the formula for this. I would not suggest use of paregoric (or any other antidiarrhea preparation) without a doctor's knowledge.

If the infant seems listless, with dull eyes, or if the looseness continues, medical attention is urgently required.

Isolation of an infant is necessary only in a nursery as a sanitary precaution because an infectious diarrhea (one caused by some organism) can affect other infants.

Simple diarrhea is rather easily managed by the pediatrics-wise mother with the measures I've mentioned. For the new or inexperienced mother, any prolonged diarrhea should be brought to the doctor's attention.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: About three weeks ago during an argument I suffered a severe blow in the stomach. Now I have discovered that I am about one month pregnant.

This means I was also pregnant at that time. This would be very embarrassing to discuss with my doctor. Please advise.—C.B.L.

The uterus is deep within the pelvis to protect to the maximum the early developing fetus.

At that very early stage, I doubt if there was any effect from the blow, unless it was a prodigious wallop. If that were the case, it would more likely have done damage to your internal organs than to the developing fetus.

For this reason, especially if you are suffering any ill-effects from the blow, it would be best for you to mention it to your doctor. You need not go into detail.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a young married woman. I have heard that if a woman has hairs around the nipples of her breasts that this is a sign of a deficiency of the ovaries. I have no children as yet, but I am planning to have a baby in the near future. Will this affect my baby if I become pregnant, or will this prevent me from becoming pregnant?—A.M.

Breast hair is not uncommon and it does not mean ovarian deficiency. Other factors, such as your menstrual pattern, are associated with excessive body hair, but it would require an endocrine study to determine their presence.

Otherwise, the hair has no effect on your ability to become pregnant or on the baby you carry.

Radio Ham Has Chat With King

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — It isn't every day you get to ham it up with a king.

Ester Roberts has found that is one of the rewards of being an amateur radio operator.

She and her husband Carl are the only civilians living on the Canadian Forces Base in the Sydney area.

Recently Mrs. Roberts, whose call letters are VEIASF, found herself conversing with JY-1. These belong to King Hussein of Jordan.

Mr. Roberts has been supervisor of the electric diesel power plant at the base since it opened in April, 1953.

He received his amateur's licence in 1954 and his wife got hers a year later. Both are enthusiastic about their hobby but Mrs. Roberts is the most avid.

"I'm inquisitive," Mrs. Roberts said. "I just couldn't stand to hear him transmit in Morse code and not know what he was talking about. I figured if I couldn't beat him, I'd join him and that's how it all started."

She suggests she has more luck than many ham operators getting through with distant calls because women's voices seem to carry more clearly than men's. Her licence qualifies her to transmit both in code and voice.

After almost every conversation, a card verifying it is sent by participating operators to each other.

Mrs. Roberts has cards from all over the world, including Vietnam, Siberia, Okinawa, Armenia, Lebanon, Guam and Thailand. She even has a card from the Antarctic.

She gets particular enjoyment helping to arrange contacts between Canadian servicemen overseas and their families.

Mrs. Roberts and two other civilian ham operators, one in Montreal and one in Kingston, Ont., take turns helping arrange the contact. The kep is a Canadian Forces ham station near Cairo.

If a serviceman wishes to call home he can do so through the amateur operator's equipment and a phone. Mrs. Roberts said she spends an average of two hours daily standing by to take "phone patches."

Opening lead — 6♥

By Oswald and James Jacoby

South played brilliantly (at least he thought he had), quickly (everyone agreed to that), and with conspicuous lack of success.

He rose with dummy's jack of hearts, plunked his ace on East's queen, took the club finesse and ran off six club tricks. Then he led a heart and hoped for the best. The best did not eventuate. West had discarded one spade, one heart and two diamonds. He cashed the last three hearts and led a diamond to give his partner tricks with the ace and king.

South wanted to know why North had bid three notrump, instead of dropping the bidding at two notrump or signing off at three clubs.

North replied, "If I had known I was playing with a butcher, I would have bid three clubs."

We wouldn't go so far as to say that South had butchered the hand, but we do know that a really enterprising player would have brought home nine tricks. At trick two he would have led the queen of spades. If West covered he would take dummy's ace, come back to his hand with the second spade and then finesse the club. If West ducked, South's queen of spades would hold the trick. Now the club finesse would be taken.

This would have led to a substantial set if either finesse had lost, but South wasn't doubled and should have taken the chance.

A — Bid six spades. North is showing second round club control and by inference denying first round diamond control so you settle for six.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding five clubs your partner has bid five diamonds over your four spades. What do you do now?

Firm Says Asbestos Peril Cut

TORONTO (CP) — Officials of Johns-Manville Co. Ltd. conceded Tuesday that asbestos can be a killer, but that new filtration methods at its plant in Scarborough borough "have eliminated the hazards to a large extent."

Dr. Paul Kotin, vice-president of the company's health safety and environment department, said "it is impossible to assume that some of them (workers) will not develop the symptoms, but they worked in uncontrolled environments back in the 1950s and 1960s."

He said asbestosis was "first recognized and diagnosed only 15 to 20 years ago," and since then the company has spent as much as $500,000 annually to improve working conditions.

He said about 95 per cent of the Scarborough plant's over-all area now conforms to health guides for the allowable number of asbestos fibres in a cubic centimetre of air.

But under questioning by NDP Leader Stephen Lewis, who also attended the news conference, Dr. Kotin said fibre levels in recent months had risen over previous findings. He said a leak had been found in one of the area's filtration systems, but has been corrected.

Cabinet Stall On Environment Law Is Denied

TORONTO (CP) — Environment Minister William Newman denied Tuesday suggestions that the province's environmental assessment legislation is being deliberately stalled in cabinet.

The minister said in a news release the suggestions by the Canadian Environmental Law Association were "totally wrong."

"The bill is a pioneering piece of legislation and is at present under discussion and review in my ministry and will be introduced to the legislature as soon as possible."

Accused Insane

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — An Ontario Supreme Court jury found Dale Buckingham, 16, of Sarnia not guilty of murder Tuesday by reason of insanity in the drowning death last June 6 of a 10-year-old Sarnia Township girl.

Health and Safety Labor Branch Sought

TORONTO (CP) — A private member's bill calling for establishment of an occupational health and safety department within the ministry of labor was introduced in the Ontario legislature Tuesday.

The bill, drafted by Elie Martel (NDP—Sudbury East), provides for an occupational health council within the new department.

"A very important section of this act calls for the establishment of occupational health committees in every place of employment at which 10 or more employees are employed," Mr. Martel said.

"The immediate implementation of this act by the government is necessary in view of several serious occupational health hazards which have recently been brought to light."

High incidence of silicosis and lung cancer in uranium miners at Elliot Lake, Ont., and incidence of asbestosis, lung cancer and mesothelioma in workers at a Johns-Manville plant in Toronto are prime examples of serious hazards, he said.

"The implementation of this act by the government would prevent such critical situations from developing.

"Furthermore, the vigilance of the various occupational health committees which would be established, and the studies they would initiate would lead to the elimination of health and safety hazards and would ensure that other hazards, which we may not be aware of at the present time, are averted."

Auto Layoffs Blamed

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Treasurer Darcy McKeough blames layoffs in the auto industry for an estimated one per cent of a 1.4-per-cent increase in the unemployment rate in Ontario last month.

The Carlsberg

CARRIAGE COLLECTION

Comes to Quinte Mall

February 24th to March 1st

This Carriage Collection has been assembled to preserve and exhibit some carefully chosen examples of the Horse and Buggy Age.

It also seemed fitting that Carling O'Keefe include a representative collection of horse-drawn vehicles from the Horse and Buggy Age typical of Eastern and Western Canada.

There are several other large cariage collections in Canada; however, very few are available to public viewing, thus this collection provides a rare opportunity to view some of the finest examples of the Carriage Makers' Art.

We were indeed fortunate in obtaining this collection, which in terms of craftsmanship and beauty, is one of the finest in Canada.

SIMPSONS-SEARS COMPARATIVE PRICING POLICY

Our pricing policy is designed to protect our customers. All price comparisons are as accurate as possible at the time of printing and refer to prices within the preceding 12 months. We publish different pricing for 4 geographic zones in Canada to equalize the costs of merchandise distribution and thereby provide our customers with the fairest prices.

Regular, Was or Were—means that in a retail store or catalogue in your geographic zone, Simpsons-Sears has offered for sale, within the preceding twelve months, this item at the comparative price shown.

Value—means Simpsons-Sears has offered for sale in a retail store or catalogue in your geographic zone an item of identical quality within the preceding twelve months, differing only in color, pattern, style or aesthetic design at the higher price quoted.

Comparable Quality—does not refer to any former catalogue or retail price of Simpsons-Sears but means that we believe the item to be equal in quality to similar items generally available within the preceding twelve months. However, we cannot take into account pricing of similar items in every community.

The balance shown on your first statement determines your minimum monthly payment which only changes if the balance is increased by added purchases (see charts). Pay full balance within 30 days of billing date with no credit charge, or pay in monthly instalments with a credit charge. A credit charge is added to your account monthly, based on the previous month's balance, calculated at an annual credit rate as follows: 21% per annum (1.75% per month) on a monthly balance up to $750.00, and 17.4% per annum (1.45% per month) on any part of the monthly balance over $750.00. If you pay an amount equal to 50% or more of your balance at your previous billing date, within 30 days of that billing date, the payment will be deducted before credit charge is calculated. If you pay your account in full each month there is no credit charge.

Strike Date Is Set

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

City hall staff workers Wednesday night decided on a strike date . . . if necessary.

Timing of the possible walkout was set by members of Local 140, Canadian Union of Public Employees, who met after work hours in city hall council chambers, Peter Ouderkirk, president of the local, said.

The date is being kept a secret, said Mr. Ouderkirk, although the local — representing city hall clerical and technical staff — can legally strike after Feb. 21.

That's the permitted deadline following receipt of a conciliation official's report after discussions with city hall labor and management representatives. The official made no recommendation for setting up a conciliation board to attempt to resolve the issue, said Mr. Ouderkirk.

Meantime, following last night's meeting, members of Local 140 began organizing for a strike. Committees were formed to supervise a picket line and strike benefits. Strike signs to be used by a picket also were being drafted.

"We don't want to strike unless we have to — but we're prepared," said Mr. Ouderkirk.

Meantime, he reiterated that the union still was willing to "negotiate further" on the situation and hoped city council would invite representatives of the local's negotiating committee to its next caucus meeting Monday.

"I should expect they will ask us to appear at the meeting," said Mr. Ouderkirk. "Our idea is that city council members are the ones who hold the purse strings. They have final approval and they should hear proposals directly from us."

The staff is asking for a one-year contract with a 25-per-cent boost for clerical staff and 21-per-cent for technical workers. Their last contract, for two years, ran out Dec. 31.

Present salary spread is estimated at $5,688 to $11,500 said Mr. Ouderkirk.

He said management's last offer was an $1,150 across-the-board increase — about an average of 14 per cent he estimated.

There are 43 workers affected by the issue said Mr. Ouderkirk.

At City Hall, city manager Wilbur Purcell said this morning management had "no comment at the moment" on the situation.

Just in Case . . .

Inside workers at city hall began preparing picket signs Wednesday night . . . just in case they should strike. Members of Local 140, Canadian Union of Public Employees, earlier decided on a strike date if necessary says Peter Ouderkirk (left), president of the local. But the date has not yet been revealed. Helping in preparedness operation were Brian Pollard (centre) local vice-president, and Zane Plumbe.

OMB Okays Townhouses

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

The Ontario Municipal Board Wednesday granted approval for construction of an 81-unit condominium development by Elizabeth Crescent.

Elizabeth Crescent lies just east of Bradgate Rd., which runs north off Dundas St. East between Farley Ave. and Haig Rd.

The development was first brought before the public some three years ago. Since that time opposition has been intense in the Elizabeth Cres. neighborhood.

During the two-day hearing, a group of 200 families were represented by Vera Heimbach, who told the board he new development would damage the quiet nature of the neighborhood.

In an attempt to segregate the townshouse condominium development from the existing neighborhood, Maurice H. Rollins Const. Ltd. agreed to build a "buffer zone" of 33, single-family units.

The Ontario Municipal Board (OMB) approved the development with a number of qualifications.

To ensure erection of the buffer zone, OMB chairman William Thompson said "no townshouse building permit will be issued until single family units backing onto Elizabeth Cres are complete to the roof and have lanscaped backyards."

He also ruled that smoke and heat detectors would be mandatory in each townhouse unit.

Other requirements placed on the developer include construction of an additional fire hydrant, and provision of sidewalks.

Bob Marcotte, speaking for Rollins Construction, said it is possible construction will begin as early as this spring. Completion of the project is expected within two years.

Single family units are anticipated to sell for $42,000 and townhouse units for $30,000.

Turner Explains

New Tax Cuts Not Indicated

OTTAWA (CP) — Further tax cuts or more spending to combat growing unemployment would be premature at this time, Finance Minister John Turner said Wednesday.

"Until we see how the Nov. 18 (budget) stimulus takes effect and how U.S. policy evolves, I think it would be premature to add stimulus at this stage," he told Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield in the Commons.

Under the second day of questioning on the economy, Mr. Turner refused again to predict how high unemployment is expected to rise this year. The conventional solution to rising unemployment is to reduce taxes and encourage spending to stimulate productive activity.

Mr. Stanfield asked whether the reference to external influences on the economy means the minister "is just accepting the worsening employment situation?"

"That's not the conclusion I'd draw," replied Mr. Turner. Even though the U.S. economy was weaker than anticipated, that did not mean the Nov. 18 budget measures would not be effective.

Included in the budget were personal income tax cuts of between $150 and $500 for 1974, rising to a range of $200 to $750 in 1975.

Mr. Turner was urged again Wednesday by Ed Broadbent, NDP parliamentary leader, to help the auto industry, hit by sagging sales. Mr. Broadbent represents the car-producing riding of Oshawa-Whitby.

Mr. Turner replied that removal of the 12-per-cent federal sales tax on automobiles "would have severe revenue implications."

Bell Plans Century Place Move

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Bell Canada will move its business operations to a new downtown location in Belleville next year.

The company will relocate employees out of its presnt Pinnacle St. offices at the new $5 million Century Place commercial project which is to front on East Bridge and Front streets.

More than 70 employees in Bell's commercial, engineering, plant, merketing and other operations in the office at Pinnacle and Victoria Ave., will be involved in the move.

The relocation is planned for March 1976, when the big downtown commercial centre is scheduled for completion. Operators will not be affected.

Operators and technical equipment processing for the Belleville exchange are housed in a Bell Canada building on East Bridge and Church streets.

Mr. Thompson indicated that reasons for the move include cramped working conditions at the Pinnacle-Victoria quarters. The company has occupied the building for about 10 yeors.

Bell will occupy a complete floor of the five-storey shopping and office project — about 18,000 square feet.

Century Place will have a total floor area of about 100,000 square feet, said William Wills, president of developer Belle Bridge.

Demolition and clearing of buildings on the site already is underway.

Bell is the second major tenant secured for the development since it was announced last November. The project already is scheduled to house the offices of Guaranty Trust.

Kissinger Confident

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger says he is "confident further progress can be made" toward another Israeli-Egyptian disengagement agreement.

But Israel's premier said he would not meet Egypt's territorial demands unless the Egyptians end their state of war against the Jewish state.

"We have made some progress in clarifying the issues and indicating the directions in which a solution should be found," Kissinger told reporters in Cairo after talking for six hours Wednesday with President Anwar Sadat of Egypt.

Try to Keep Truce

BELFAST (AP) — The British government opened seven "incident centres" today, to try to maintain the IRA ceasefire. The centres are in specially sensitive areas. The idea is that co-operation between the representatives of Roman Catholic guerrillas and the government might prevent small incidents from increasing.

Food Policy Is Aim

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Douglas Small, deputy-director of information for the federal food prices review board, said Wednesday that the board plans to work towards formulating a new national food policy in addition to its role as watchdog over food-price increases in Canada. No details of the proposed policy were available.

Children Not Wanted

TORONTO (CP) — Discrimination by apartment owners is causing an "acute problem" for families seeking rental housing in Ontario urban centres, Michael Cassidy, NDP — Ottawa Centre, said Wednesday. He told the legislature that society is developing "a real prejudice" against children that is reflected in a growing tendency to adult-only apartment buildings.

Bad Error

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Police said some would-be bank robbers apparently forgot United States banks were closed Wednesday in honor of Abraham Lincoln's birthday.

A passerby told police he watched as a car pulled up in front of the Bank of Commerce. One man got out, pulled a gun, stalked up to the door—but found it locked and the bank closed.

Police say the man got back into the car with two others and drove off.

Policemen Surrender

TANANARIVE (Reuter) — The majority of rebel police blamed for the assassination of the Malagasy head of state have surrendered to security forces who stormed their camp outside the capital, according to informed sources.

Turkish Cypriots Form Own State

NICOSIA (AP) — Leaders of the Turkish-Cypriot community proclaimed a separate Turkish-Cypriot state in northern Cyprus today but said they wanted to federate it with a Greek-Cypriot state.

The proclamation was made jointly by the council of ministers and the legislative assembly of the "Autonomous Turkish - Cypriot Administration," meeting in join session in the Turkish-Cypriot quarter of Nicosia.

The proclamation came seven months after the Turkish invasion of Cyprus. It ended in Turkish occupation of the northern 40 per cent of the island and the de facto partition of Cyprus.

Hundreds of Turkish-Cypriots in the main square of their sector of the divided capital cheered as the proclamation was read over loudspeakers.

Rauf Denktash, the leader of the Turkish-Cypriot community and the vice-president in the island government, was unanimously chosen head of the new state by the joint session, the loudspeakers said.

Skeleton 3 Million Years Old

CLEVELAND (Reuter) — The remains of a fossil human skeleton believed to be about three million years old was unveiled here Wednesday by an anthropologist who found it in Ethiopia last November.

Dr. Donald Johnson, curator of physical anthropology at the Cleveland Museum of Natural History, said a preliminary study indicated the skeleton was that of girl slightly taller than three feet who was between 18 and 21 years old when she died.

Tax Cut Approval Is Slow

OTTAWA (CP) — As the Commons moves into its second day of clause-by-clause scrutiny of the massive omnibus tax bill, it appears that those 1974 income tax refunds will not be out soon.

Debate Wednesday barely scratched the surface of the 287-page bill, an amalgam of measures proposed in the Nov. 18 budget.

In addition to considering the 142 clauses in the bill, the Commons will have to deal with 41 amendments proposed by Finance Minister John Turner.

Meanwhile, no income tax refunds can be mailed by the revenue department until the bill becomes law.

The opposition concentrated most of its attacks Wednesday on the contentious clause which would require resource companies to pay income tax on provincial royalties.

Alvin Hamilton (PC—Qu'Appelle-Moose Mountain), said delaying the federal resource tax changes might facilitate a wider agreement at the April federal-provincial energy conference.

A dlay in imposing the resource tax would show that Ottawa has left room to negotiate at the April 9-10 meeting he said.

"Does the prime minister want to go into this conference with his hands bloody?

"I simply ask that before Parliament passes the edict that no provincial taxes or royalties are deductible, let there be one more opportunity for consultation to see whether thre can be agreement," Mr. Hamilton said.

Mr. Turner rejected the suggestion that the government delay proclamation of the clause until after the April conference.

Making the taxes effective only on special cabinet order would inject too much uncertainty into an already uncertain situation.

To those critical of the resource tax proposal, "the power to proclaim would constitute just as much of a threat, except that it would be an uncertain threat," Mr. Turner said. "Neither industry nor the provinces would know when or whether it was to be used."

He expressed hope that the federal-provincial energy conference would take place "under the umbrella of a good tone."

Ulster Valentines Explode

BELFAST (AP) — Terrorists mailed letter bombs disguised as valentine cards to Roman Catholics in Belfast today. First reports said a 39-year-old woman and her seven-year-old daughter had been injured.

Three valentine bombs, each with a green heart on the envelope and the letters SWALK—Sealed With a Loving Kiss—on the morning. One exploded and the flap were discovered during the morning. One exploded and two were defused by army bomb experts.

Appeal Dismissed

Man Who Wants to Be Hanged Unlikely to Have Wish Granted

OTTAWA (CP) — In a unanimous judgment the Supreme Court of Canada today upheld a murder conviction against Rene Vaillancourt of Montreal.

Vaillancourt was convicted of killing Toronto policeman Leslie Maitland in February 1973 and is under sentence ot be hanged March 12. His last chance to escape the gallows will be an automatic review of his case by the federal cabinet.

Solicitor-General Warren Allmand said recently Vaillancourt has written letters asking that he be hanged.

Although Parliament suspended the death penalty for all but killers of police officers and prison officials on duty, all cases coming before cabinet have been commuted to life imprisonment. The last hanging in Canada was in 1962.

Mr. Allmand, who presents the cases before cabinet, has recently affirmed his Commons statements that he is against the death penalty. Prime Minister Trudeau and all members of the cabinet have voted against the death penalty.

The recent killing of two Moncton, N.B., police officers has sparked a public outcry by those who believe that cabinet should carry out the law enacted by Parliament.

Associations of police chiefs and police officers have demanded that killers of policemen and prison officials be hanged.

Eldon Woolliams, Progressive Conservative MP from Calgary, also has asked that the parliamentary law be carried out.

Variety Night Popular

Quinte Secondary School's annual variety presentation opened Wednesday in the school auditorium before over 200 people.

A total school production entitled Stage Fright, it features band music, dancing, an accordion duet, vocals, pantomine, a tamborine trio, a skit, gymnastics and a play.

Quinte Variety Night '75 will continue tonight and Friday at 8 p.m. Tickets are $1 each and available at the door. Children under 12 years of age will be admitted free if accompanied by an adult.

Doug Aselstine, music director, said proceeds from the show will go back into the school and distributed among the music department, theatre arts and the gym. Most of the money will be used for next year's show.

The music department will utilize part of its share to offset expenses for band trips this year, added Mr. Aselstine.

Stan Else A Colonel

Stanley Else, Northwood Cres., retired Moira Secondary School teacher, has been named Honorary Lt.-Col. Adjutant in the Alabama State Militia.

The document proclaiming Mr. Else's title signed by Governor George Wallace, arrived in the mail recently, much to Mr. Else's surprise.

The explanation, Mr. Else believes, must lie with his long, long-distance friendship with a man who is "a great friend of Governor Wallace" and who Mr. Else has never met.

Mr. Else first "met" this man on the amateur radio airwaves and they have been corresponding regularly since 1939 — sending each other odd items of interest.

Colonel Else feels his promotion was arranged by his long distance friend.

Olson Key Speaker

E. R. Olson, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, will be the guest speaker for a membership luncheon of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce Feb. 21 at the Four Seasons. Reception will start at 12 noon with the luncheon at 12.30 p.m.

Strike Up the Band

Members of the Quinte Stage Band, under the direction of Doug Aselstine, break into There's No Business Like Show Business, opening selection for Stage Fright, this year's title of Variety Night '75 at Quinte Secondary School Wednesday. Over 200 poeple attended the first presentation of the three-night event which closes Friday.

Integrated Classes Benefit Students with Hearing Problem

By JIM SMELLE
Staff Reporter

The question of integrating children who have a hearing impairment with normal children was the main topic discussed at a meeting Wednesday night of the Quinte Association for Hearing Handicapped Children.

Among those taking part in the panel were two teachers, who teach hearing impaired-students at two city public schools along with regular children in a special hearing impaired unit. A principal of one of the schools as well as two teachers from the Sir James Whitney School also were on the panel.

Mrs. Lynn Savage, who teaches eight children from the Grade 1 to the Grade 4 level in a special hearing impairment unit at Queen Mary Public School, spoke of the success of such a program, now in its sixth year.

She said all children who attend the special unit are there solely on a trial basis after being recommended by an instructor from the Sir James Whitney School.

"But we have never had to pull a child out because he couldn't keep up with the other 'normal' children," said Mrs. Savage. She added teachers of such children are asked to give no more time or attention to hearing impaired students than to those in the rest of the class with normal difficulties.

Mrs. Savage pointed out the social benefits hearing deprived children can derive by being in an environment with children who hear and communicate normally.

"It's a two-way street," said Mrs. Savage. "Both the hearing and those with hearing difficulties benefit. And there's been no flak towards these children from others in the class.

Ron Caswell, principal of Queen Mary School and himself the father of a daughter with a hearing impairment pointed out the benefits, his girl, now in Grade 9, derived by being in an integrated classroom situation with hearing children.

Also speaking at the meeting was a teacher of a similar set-up at Harry J. Clarke School but for older children, Mrs. Nora Brennan teaches a hearing impairment unit for six students aged 11 to 17 taking in Grades 5 to 8.

Mrs. Brennan pointed out the differences in teaching hearing impaired children who are older.

"Children at that age are just beginning to become independent, hey are starting on their own. It's very interesting and exciting to be involved with them then."

Since receiving its charter late in 1974, the Quinte Rescue Squad operating out of Thurlow Township has added on to its fire-fighting and rescue equipment. The latest addition is a stem light which is electrically powered and can be raised as high as eight feet providing 2,000 watts of light. Vice-president of Necco Industries Ltd. Robin Ruggles, right, came from Burlington to install the light while Quinte Rescue Squad Captain Bob Pearce looks on.

Board Approves Instructor

BLOOMFIELD — The Prince Edward County board of education will hire a swimming instructor for the swimming program under way in several Ameliasburg township schools.

Students from Mildred Corek, Massassauga and Rednersville elementary schools will swim this spring at a Belleville pool but there is no provision for an instructor. The Belleville Kiwanis Club has offered the services of one lifeguard for youngsters using the pool.

In 1974, volunteer students from Belleville Collegiate Institute staffed the pool. There was no instructor for the pupils, however.

Trustees voted six to five in favor of hiring a swimming instructor for the Prince Edward pupils bused from Ameliasburg to the Belleville pool.

15 Stores in First Phase of Plaza

TRENTON — Activity at the site of Trenton's long-awaited east-end shopping centre will increase next week when the first shipments of steel are expected to arrive, Toronto developer Dr. Murray Frum said Wednesday.

In a telephone interview, Dr. Frum said he has been assured by the general contractor E. S. Martin Co. Ltd. of Brampton that the steel should be on site by Monday or Tuesday.

Its arrival will mean activity at the site will be stepped up. Pouring of foundations was completed in November when Dr. Frum, president of development company Group R, announced a change in ownership of the shopping centre.

The $2.75-million project will encompass 15 small stores in the first phase of its development. K-Mart and Loblaws will be the anchor tenants. The supermarket will expand to double its present 12-13,000-square foot floor area.

Dr. Frum said the building program is still on schedule and he expects a completion date for phase one in early or mid-October this year.

Phase two — the addition of another 15 to 20 stores — will be completed when economic conditions are right, the developer has said. He projected a five-year completion date for the second phase from fall, 1975.

His company is also currently seeking tenants for the small shops in the plaza. A company representative was in Trenton and Belleville Wednesday to talk to several people who had expressed interest in locating in the shopping centre.

The centre — first proposed as a covered mall — has been changed to an open-air plaza. The project was forced into the change in order to make it financially viable.

Originally, Western Realties Ltd., which later merged with Toronto developers Abbey Glen, proposed a 120,000-square foot mall. Present plans call for a 20 per cent reduction in the first phase. However, once phase two is complete, it should be about 10,000-square feet larger than the original plan.

Housing Starts Decline

TRENTON — Housing construction in Trenton in January reflects the activity in the housing industry in urban in starts from last year when have suffered a 49-per-cent slump in starts over the same month in 1974.

The picture in Trenton however, is worse than the national average with only one 15-unit apartment building valued over $100,000 planned.

The figure represents a drop in startn from last year when building permits were issued for one 16-unit building (120,000) and five single family homes valued in total at $98,000.

By comparision, in 1973, only four homes were started and in 1972, only one six-plex valued at $40,000 was begun.

Across Canada, in 1974, there were $13,506 dwelling starts in urban areas in January.

Alternate Sites Sought for Pool

PICTON — The Prince Edward Community Swimming Pool committee Wednesday announced several alternate pool sites have been investigated.

Sheldon Whitteker, publicity chairman for the project, said two new locations, both at the Prince Edward County fairgrounds in Picton, will be discussed. One possibility is location of the pool behind the grandstand and the other construction of the pool behind the County Centre. Originally, it was suggested the pool could be built just inside the main gates of the fairgrounds.

Mr. Whitteker observed the fairground sites offer proximity to sewers and water facilities and the pool could be installed without disturbing the park area used for county fair exhibits.

At the annual meeting of the Prince Edward Agricultural Society in January, members of the fairboard voted the fairgrounds as an unsuitable site for a community pool. Further discussion is anticipated by the pool committee, however.

Mr. Whitteker said a meeting between the pool steering committee, the fair board, Prince Edward County council's property and supply committee and the Picton recreation and parks committee will be organized, if possible.

He noted several alternate locations have been investigated by the pool committee.

Mr. Whitteker says the federal government has issued an official number for income tax deductions in connection with pool donations. All individual donations to the project can be claimed for tax purposes.

Several new donations have been reported from groups such as the Picton Kinette Club, the Cressy UCW, the Mount Pleasant Willing Workers and individual donors Lesley Fourester and Donald Thompson.

Triad Truckways has pledged to haul the cement for the pool to a mixing plant.

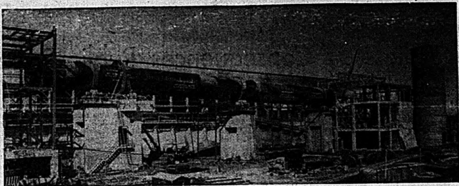
Thieves Loot Vacant House

PICTON — Four Prince Edward County men have been charged with break and enter, theft and possession after removal of a quantity of antique furniture, Wednesday, from a house in Cressy.

Charged are Kevin James Marchington, 17, of RR4, Picton, William Douglas Handley, 20, of RR1, Picton, Sammy Struthers and Steven Struthers, both of RR1, Cherry Valley. Valley.

Community service officer for the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police Constable Donald Watt, said police were alerted to the break-in by a passing motorist.

The vacant house is owned by Arthur Conway, of Detroit, Mich.



Kiln Construction

Kiln under construction at Lake Ontario Cement plant near Picton will free older kiln for pilot project burning garbage as fuel. First work on garbage-burning project will begin when new kilns are in operation, projected for 1976. New kilns are part of multi-million-dollar expansion now under way at Prince Edward County cement plant.

Cement Plant Delays Plans To Fuel Kilns with Garbage

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Lake Ontario Cement has postponed plans to fuel its kilns here with garbage, probably until 1976, says Bruce Price, vice-president of operations at the Picton plant.

In an interview recently Mr. Price said the plant does not presently have the capacity to dedicate a kiln to pilot plant type work.

"There is a strong element of research involved here," he observed.

"We have not dropped the idea and we have had confirmation of government interest in it," he said.

At the company's annual meeting held last week president William Bateman referred to the delay.

"At this podium one year ago, I mentioned our aspirations to work with either or both of the federal and provincial governments in an attempt to use garbage as a fuel in our kilns. This has been deferred until our new kiln is on stream. Our studies indicated we would pay too great a penalty in the loss of production equipment that now works 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, when dedicated to an experimental, or at the least, a pilot project.

"Nevertheless, we are convinced that to use garbage as a fuel in the cement manufacturing process where the ash becomes part of the cement product, is a true recycling program, is a viable and indeed a valuable undertaking in a world where we have too much garbage and too little fuel," said Mr. Bateman.

Mr. Price noted Lake Ontario Cement developed the concept of fuelling kilns with garbage several years ago and has pursued the idea for about five years.

"It is the only total recylcing program we are aware of," he added, referring to the concept.

He said there would be no need to sort municipal wastes. All garbage could be consumed for production of energy and raw material.

He said there would be a definite savings in fuel costs for the LOCL under this proposed program but noted it would be impossible to estimate the amount.

"We have a tremendous capacity to burn this material. We could take all the garbage from Toronto to Ottawa," said Mr. Price, mentioning the plant's capacity for burning trash.

"We are frustrated to some degree by not being able to put the thing together but the ecologist, the environmentalist and the concerned citizen must be satisfied before we embark on it," stressed Mr. Price.

He said an addition now being made to the LOCL plant in Picton should be completed this year. This would permit use of the old plant area for processing.

"Our timing is going to be 1976," said Mr. Price, referring to possible implementation of the garbage-burning concept

Chamber Wants Mineral Sites for Collectors

BANCROFT — The Bancroft and District Chamber of Commerce has stated its support for the Bancroft municipal council's appeal for development of selected mineral sites in the North Hastings area.

The chamber executive was recently told by president, Ivor Macleod that a letter has been sent to provincial secretary Allan Grossman supporting the council's position that the provincial government should develop and freshen mineral sites for the use of professional collectors and rock hounds who come to Bancroft on collecting trips.

The chamber appointed Helen Peterson, of Parkwood Beach and Hing Lum of Bancroft as local liaison members to work with Dr. Donald Gorman of the University of Toronto, minerological department.

That Doggone Flu

Its the sneezin' season, apparently for humans and canines alike. Freckles, a Picton-owned beagle huddles under a blanket as she waits for a house call from her veterinarian. After all, what good is a hound who sense of smell is blocked by sinus?

Official Says Stress On Job Quality Wrong

PICTON — Youth should not be misled to believe all persons find employment in fulfilling careers says William Duggan, Prince Edward's director of economic development

At Picton Rotary Club meeting, where guest speaker Larry Richardson of Prince Edward Collegiate Institute's guidance department discussed youth and careers, Mr. Duggan emphasized many jobs are routine.

He said "in this imperfect world" 70 to 80 percent of all jobs are work in exchange for a pay cheque.

"Not everyone goes ahead to a full and satisfying life," he added.

"Are students told they must sometimes settle for second-best?" he asked.

Mr. Richardson said many pupils do find their own level of achievement in less exciting or fulfilling jobs, earn a full wage and achieve a start.

"Our hope is to encourage kids to live up to their potential," he said.

"We are in danger of a lot of unhappy youngsters if they are all told there are fulfilling jobs for them," replied Mr. Duggan.

Mr. Richardson observed young Grade 10 students sometimes must look ahead eight years in assessing whether there will be job openings in the fields of their preference.

Prince Edward County engineer Donald Clark suggested it is unfortunate these students must live eight years ahead of their time.

"Why don't we let children grow up and enjoy life instead of saying 'You must fulfill your lives'?" he asked.

The engineer observed persons with possibly dull jobs often work at them quite happily unless others repeatedly observe "How boring".

"We are disturbing things too much all the time" he said.

Another Rotarian, Harry Brewer, suggested, "Is it possible we are hiding things so much that people are still looking for themselves at 25 or 30?"

"If you let them drift through life and enjoy themselves that is how they end up," predicted Mr. Richardson.

He said today's students are not all "going around with neurotic disorders".

The majority want to find some kind of employment but this is a difficult task as there are so many fields to choose from.

Skaters All

Where are the homes of the majority of young professional skaters currently stumping the near-zero hinterlands of Ontario?

California — that's where? And a sprinkling of others from exotic haunts such as Las Vegas. There's a superb young Swedish solo skater called Ann-Margret Frei and she is married to a South African from Durban who does comedy routines.

They are some of the lineup of the Ice Capades who have just concluded a series of performances at Peterborough's fine arena.

Oh yes there are some Canadians, including the show's star, former World figure-skating champion Karen Magnussen, Dave MacDonald — the other half of the sailor comedy act — and four in the corps de ballet — two from Saskatchewan and one each from Ontario and Quebec.

Not many Canadians out of a support group of more than 30. But then the Capades are based in Hollywood, hence greater opportunities for young Americans, especially Californians.

It is probably a gruelling enough life, with so much travelling, differing ice conditions and so on. Miss Magnussen fell twice during her two afternoon performances on Sunday, but was given a big hand by a sympathetic audience as she skated on; the second tumble was caused by something on the ice which she, picked up and tossed across the boards. There were a couple of other spills too by other skaters and some close calls, but the wonder is that in an art form calling for such exactitude and precision there are not more mishaps.

Local Stars

No mention of skating in the Quinte area would be complete without reference to the McCutcheon sisters, Jane and Peggy.

The daughters of Dr. and Mrs. William McCutcheon of Albert Street, the girls spent five years with the Ice Follies and Holiday on Ice companies which currently have five shows on the road.

Peggy (now Mrs. David Loder of Kingston) injured a leg and while Jane continued skating for a time she missed her sister. For some time now she has been a promoter with the company, travelling the continent and acting in a supervisory capacity.

She was in Rochester recently and called home from Oklahoma City in recent days. An example of the kind of foresight and decision-making required in her job: she had been "up in the rafters," to quote Mrs. McCutcheon, and had come to the conclusion the arena needed extra pillars to hold the rigging.

So much for a day in the life of a young woman ice revue promoter in a far-off city.

Peggy meanwhile teaches skating in Kingston and she has a two-year-old son who, not surprisingly, is being taught the art.

Oswego — Again

The city of Oswego across the lake in New York has followed true to form with one of those monumental snowstorms that have come to be associated with the snowbelt city.

Twenty inches reportedly fell overnight to add to the already substantial snow cover. A few years ago Oswego made a couple of pages of the now-defunct Life magazine, depicting the city's special brand of winter wonderland. And, not forgetting the occasion getting on for a decade ago when then Belleville Mayor Jack Ellis sent equipment across the border to help Oswego surface from a similar storm.

It was a gesture that was appreciated and, more than the snow-clearing that was involved, it forged a link between the two cities.

Doubtless Oswego is taking this latest winter blast in its stride, while he rest of us look on with a mixture of awe and envy. After all, if you live in a winter climate, anything less than the full seasonal treatment — such as the Quinte area has been experiencing — comes as a bit of a disappointment.

Canada's Experience Repeats in U.S.

Regardless of Consequences Public Prefers Inflation

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

They say that history repeats itself—and it's probably just as true of economic history as of any other kind

The administration of U.S. President Gerald Ford is today going through the same kind of experience that the Canadian government went through six years ago.

In both cases—here in 1968, there in 1974—the government announced firmly and clearly that inflation must not be allowed to go on, and that it was determined to do something about restoring price stability.

Six months later—which brings us up to the present in the case of the U.S.—prices are still advancing but unemployment has arisen to eight per cent of the labor force vs. 6.7 per cent in Canada.

And so Canadian history is being repeated in the U.S. with public opinion demanding an end to the anti-inflation policy and a switch to stimulative policies regardless of the fact that the first thing they stimulate is inflation.

This particular lesson of history seems to be that both countries are doomed to ever-growing inflation because of the public unwillingness to pay the short-run cost (unemployment) in return for the long-run benefits (price stability, higher production and productivity, the preservation of savings and other assets).

There's no denying that unemployment is indeed a bitter experience, and it is only natural for politicians to shy away from policies that contribute to it.

But unemployment under today's system of social security is considerably more bearable than it used to be—and also more bearable than the experience of having one's savings virtually wiped out by inflation, just as retirement age arrives.

But the effects of uncontrolled inflation don't stop there. As inflation grows worse, people spend less of their time in productive pursuits and waste more of it in the unproductive effort of economic self-defence.

In the latest monthly letter of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis (a member of the U.S. government's Federal Reserve system), H. H. Helbling and J. E. Turley described the kind of tail-chasing activity that grows with inflation:

"List prices would be difficult to establish for any length of time. Firms issuing catalogues containing the price of their products would find it difficult to continue this practice.

"Sales representatives would be forced to contact head offices for the most up-to-date price.

"In general, business planning would be frustrated because it would be necessary to constantly reassess price information."

At the same time the usefulness of money is diminished:

"Its function as a store of purchasing power declines, its credibility as a unit of account suffers, and its reliability as a medium of exchange is subject to greater uncertainty."

Those trends clearly are well under way now. A curtailment in the growth of the money supply could reverse the damage that inflation has already done—but we are all short-term hedonists, unwilling to accept temporary discomfort while waiting for the anti-inflation medicine to work.

"Belt Tightening?"

Law And Order is Hamstrung by The Thorny Issue of Gun Control

..Peterborough Examiner

Why gun control?

Solicitor-General Warren Allmand has raised this sharply divisive issue, calling it a possible government measure to reduce the bloodletting which has captured headlines across the country in the new year.

The nation has been shocked by the massacre of 13 people in Montreal recently, the murder of policemen in Calgary and Moncton, the abduction, at gunpoint, of four children in Southern Ontario, and snipers in Oshawa and Calgary.

Gun control has been the centre of controversy for years in North America. The arguments for control take the line that many murders (60 per cent in Canada) are committed by friends, acquaintances, or members of the victim's family, not hardened criminals. Registering both guns and owners would keep the weapons away from felons, drug addicts, alcoholics, mental incompetents, and juveniles, and so prevent killings due to altered states of consciousness when guns were readily available.

But gun control would also prevent some murderers from acquiring the weapons, and statistics from the U.S. seem to bear this out. Fifty seven per cent of all murders in the United States between 1962 and 1965 were committed by gun. In four states which gave effective gun laws, however, gun murders made up only : 43 per cent of total murders in Pennsylvania, 39 per cent in New Jersey, 35 per cent in Massachusetts, and 32 per cent in New York.

The contrast to states with minimal or no gun laws is striking: in Montana guns were used in 72 per cent of killings; in Mississippi, 71 per cent; in Texas 69 per cent, and 70 per cent in Nebraska.

Opponents of gun control argue that criminals will get guns despite legal restrictions, and that controls would just cause problems for the thousands of law-abiding citizens.

John Diefenbaker takes this viewpoint, and Tuesday in the House of Commons called "all this registration business a farce."

Backing him up are the 285,000 hunters and sportsmen in the Canadian Wildlife Federation, whose president has said he will oppose any move to put more muscle into gun control laws. A mandatory, minimum five-year sentence for anyone convicted of a crime while toting a 'heater' has been suggested by Diefenbaker as well as by Judge C.O. Bick.

Judge Bick is chairman of the Metro Toronto police commission. He not only wants the increased sentence for criminals possessing guns, but wants control legislation, and has called federal politicians "gutless" for their inaction.

And from the long-term point of view he is right. Gun control is needed, together with stiffer punishment for criminals who use the weapons and licensing of gun owners.

Tough penalties for gun crimes are not enough. The death penalty did not prevent the 5,634 gun murders in the U.S. in 1965, 6,552 in 1966 or the 7,700 in 1967.

During gun-control debate in the Canadian Senate, studies were presented which correlated increases in the murder rate in any major American city with parallel increases in the number of fire-arms owned as well as the increase in drug addiction

Already there are about four million firearms in Ontario, and the rate of handgun registration is rising four times faster than the population increase.

Gun control is needed, now, but it will have to go hand-in-hand with patience. Patience before gun ownership is regulated; but mainly patience until the U.S. adopts stricter laws over a wider area so that the influx into Canada of "Saturday night specials" and other easily concealed weapons will diminish.

No matter how stringent the gun control laws, there will always be gun killings. But a large number of preventable murders remain, which could be reduced to some degree through gun-control legislation.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

February 13, 1945.

Provincial authorities are alarmed over the possibility that abnormally deep snow may make it difficult for wild life to obtain sufficient food. Game Warden Fred MacDonald of Point Anne urges Hastings farmers to communicate with him whenever pheasants are found in flocks so that arrangements may be made to feed them.

Commercial fishermen of the Bay of Quinte district from Kingston to Brighton met in Belleville over the weekend to re-organize their Great Lakes Fisherman's Association branch, which had been dormant for the past 11 years. James Sherman of Deseronto was elected president. The interests of approximately 485 commercial fishermen and their helpers will be served by the union.

With an expected surplus of timbers and other materials left, following the completion of the third crib now under construction as part of the new dock extension in the local harbour, serious consideration of the construction of a fourth or fifth crib is being given by members of the Belleville Board of Harbour Commissioners.

Between three and four hundred families on the relief lists in this city will be affected by the decision of the Ontario Minister of Welfare the Honorable David A. Croll to establish by March 1 compulsory health insurance in the place of the present system of medical relief for indigents. Premiums for the insurance will be .25 cents per month.

50 YEARS AGO

February 13, 1925.

Motorbus franchise problems will be taken up by City Council when a report from the special committee dealing with the application of Mr. Frederick Rawson of St. Catharines to place a bus route in operation in Belleville will be brought in.

Relief of cities from the heavy burden of suburban roads and legislation to lessen the responsibility of all municipalities in the matter of liability for accidents on public highways of the municipalities are recommended by the executive committee of the Belleville City Council.

Liberals are Happy with Events Though Policy is yet to Emerge

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — The Ontario Liberals are a happy happy crowd these days.

The annual meeting they held in Windsor last week-end was the most enthusiastic meeting they have held in 30 years outside of leadership conventions.

And it probably was better than most conventions.

The 1,800 delegates who were at the meeting, an impressive number, were tasting blood.

And for the first time since 1943 they came across like a hockey team that really felt it would be winning rather than fighting it out for last.

It was a grinning, happy crowd rather than one which was trying to fight glumness with false optimism.

Underneath the enthusiasm there was one development which was disturbing some, and perhaps a good many, of the delegates.

This was that they weren't getting their fingers into policy.

Ostensibly policy was being discussed at various seminars.

But any discussion was essentially superficial and half-hearted.

For the people at the meeting knew they would only be talking about policy and not settling it.

They had been well-warned in advance by leader Bob Nixon that he personally would be setting the party program.

He would listen to policy advice, but he would be settling it.

To the observer this was a most welcome development.

Traditionally in our British system it has been the party leader who has set policy—and lived or died on it.

Latterly, largely through the influence of the CCF-NDP, we have been moving away from this approach.

The old CCF started the practice of "policy" conventions and would draw up its election platforms from these.

The approach never really worked. It would end up in platforms which were a mish-mash of compromise and which had no effective thrust.

Then, however, the Liberals tried using the same approach; with even worse results.

The fact is that a mass of people can't produce a practical political platform and it is good to see Mr. Nixon recognizing this.

The Career of Charlotte Whitton

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

An article taken from the Kingston Whig-Standard appeared on the editorial page of The Intelligencer on February 3, 1975 entitled "The Career of Charlotte Whitton".

It was rather shocking that such a critique should have originated in Kingston, the home of Miss Whitton's Alma Mater, Queens University, to which she has contributed so much. It declared that her death spelled, "the passing of an era. Yet it was NOT an era of radical change, of brilliant municipal management or even profound thought." Are these indeed our criteria? Is there not room in our "just society" for commendation of a woman who stood unashamedly for honesty and integrity and spent her life unselfishly in service for the city and for the great country which she loved? Even her most bitter opponents acknowledged in her these outstanding and unusual virtues.

"Making her mark in government as a pugnacious and aggressive woman" may be merited, but she dedicated herself to a cause without using her position or aggressiveness for personal gain. Her care and concern for protecting the rights and privileges of the small businessman and the less fortunate have been appreciated by the many whom she helped.

The magnificently situated city hall in Ottawa, of which our nation can be proud, stands as at least one memorial to her ingenuity and accomplishments. She also fought tenaciously to preserve the silhouette of Parliament Hill, which in her era presented one of the most beautiful skylines of any national capital in the world. Have you looked at it recently?

In a personal visit with Charlotte just two weeks before her death, this now frail little lady, still showed the old Whitton spark and spirit, but also a tenderness springing from a deep love of man, country and God.

It is indeed the passing of an era, and the passing of a strong-minded woman who stood and fought for the virtues and principles upon which this great nation of ours was founded and built.

Metaphysics is not Black Magic

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

There was an article in Saturday's Toronto Star entitled "Beware of the Occult", (for fear of demon possession) I would like to state that Metaphysics has nothing whatsoever to do with Black Magic.

In 1 Corinthians Ch.12 it is stated "To each is given the Manifestation of the Spirit for the Common Good", and goes on to outline the various gifts of the Spirit — prophesying, healing, tongues, etc. Down through the ages there have been prophets, from Isaiah and Jeremiah to Nostradamus, and in our own time the late Edgar Cayce and Jeanne Dixon. Since before the turn of the century people like Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, Sir William Crookes, Dr. J.B. Rhine and countless others have researched and explored the whole field of para-psychology and metaphysics. For years psychics or "sensitives" have claimed to be able to see the human aura, to the derision of other people. Now by a process of electrophotography it is possible to record the aura or electro-magnetic field surrounding living bodies.

I think the time is ripe for the "psychic explosion" which has been predicted as coming soon, and I would like to caution anyone interested in this field to remember that development of their latent talents — or their psyche if you prefer to call it that, should be for their own spiritual growth and for the benefit of others. If people enter Metaphysics with a view to material gains, or motivated by feelings of revenge or resentment, they may well fall prey to evils, and may have to contend with a "boomerang" effect. It is better to join a reputable Metaphysics group and learn the proper approach to development and the techniques for avoiding the possible pitfalls. The Institute of Applied Metaphysics is conducting development classes in Belleville on a weekly basis and at the PSI Centre Madoc, at Tweed, for weekend seminars.

Terrorism's Appalling Legacy

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

I would like to express my views concerning the overwhelmingly increasing degree of terrorism that is disturbing nations today.

Terrorist acts are not new to any of us. These acts have been committed in all eras of history leaving countless numbers of innocent people homeless, injured, or killed, and many more in grief and fear.

We are constantly reminded of terrorism, whether we hear it from television, newspapers, by word of mouth, or as personal witnesses.

Nothing worthwhile has ever been achieved by it that couldn't have been gained by other measures. Violence and extremism are definitely not the only way to express a point of view.

Many fail to understand the situation underlying these wrongdoings. They are the workings of an insane mind.

Every year, enormous sums of money are being donated by governments and various agencies to aid in the field of mental research. And what results are we getting? We see an alarming increase in the number of mentally unstable persons. Our money is being wasted. Obviously the field of mental health has not yet found an effective workable solution.

If psychiatrists really could cure insanity, the amount of terrorism would surely decrease. Since it is apparent that they actually have no way to detect or cure insanities, we are defeating our purpose. They are pocketing the money but they are not delivering a product.

When will this all end? We are now in the 20th century and violence is still threatening our lives.

Ambulance Service in City

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

On reading your "Front Page" story on Ambulance Services last night, I think the Ontario Ambulance Services would do well to buy out both of the local Ambulance Services.

I cannot see why the city could not or would not provide this service through their fire department as they do in many other centres in Canada and the U.S.

I do think that it could be provided by the city's fire department at a much cheaper cost to the Ontario Government and a cost relief to the city taxpayer.

This service could be provided cheaper I think, because the city has already on its fire department and at its disposal, a group of men trained to provide this service 24 hours a day.

MP's Christmas Suggestion

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Quinte District Labour Council is alarmed at the prospect of Hastings MP Jack Ellis moving a private members bill to bring about a change in the date of Christmas.

Being hamstrung with the appellation, "Progressive," no doubt there are times when our Conservative member is hard put to live up to it.

We should really get worried when the ubiquitous Mr. Ellis serves notice of his intention to have himself declared Santa Claus.

Confessed Killers Stoned on Mescaline

CALGARY (CP) — Two of the three men charged with the murder of a 16-year-old service station attendant admitted to police that they killed him but added it wasn't planned, the Alberta Supreme Court was told Wednesday.

Police det. Leslie Goetjen read out in court statements made by Lorne John Rivett, 19, Myles Garfield Sartor, 18, and Warren Lee Augustus, 22, all of Calgary, following their arrest.

Rivett and Sartor were quoted as saying they would not have killed John Joseph Berze at a Calgary service station in the early morning hours last Aug. 23 had Berze not turned around to look at his attackers.

And a 15-year-old girl, Rivett's girl-friend, told the court Rivett and Sartor took MDA and mescaline a few hours before the robbery and both were "stoned."

Tuesday, a 17-year-old girl who had once been engaged to Augustus, testified under the protection of the Canada Evidence Act that she took part in the robbery, masterminded by Augustus.

Under the plan, the 17-year-old girl, who was Berze's school-mate, would lure Berze, who was alone at the station, into a washroom where Sartor would pose as a drunk and lie on the floor, and Sartor and Rivett would try to tie up Berze for as long as possible while Augustus took the money from the cash register.

Rivett told police that he was about to knock Berze unconscious from behind when Berze looked back. Then they took turns stabbing him.

"Sartor started stabbing him all over the place," Rivett was quoted as saying. "He finally fell down. Then Sartor stabbed him a good one and he lay still."

Later, as Sartor wiped blood from his hand, Rivett said, "we just killed a guy for $21.50."

Sartor told police: "I remember him (Berze) yelling and I was hitting him in the face and I cut his throat . . . he fell down and was dead."

MacEachen Says CIA Not After Travel Secrets

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen said Wednesday he has received assurance that the Central Intelligence Aegncy (CIA) is not seeking secret transportation information in Canada.

He noted there is a 1970 agreement providing for exchange of transportation information between the two countries.

Bacteria In Cheese Not Worry

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. John Sterns, a spokesman for the community health protection branch of the ministry of health, said Wednesday he is not alarmed by tests that found potentially-harmful bacteria in more than a quarter of variety cheeses sampled.

Dr. Sterns said in an interview that a 1973 report from the University of Guelph indicates that some processing equipment is not washed properly or the bacteria may have come from workers' hands during processing.

Variety cheeses include colby, brick, mozzarella, Danish and Swiss.

The variety-cheese samples were selected at random from all plants producing butter, ice cream and variety and cottage cheeses and taken to the university for testing.

The tests revealed that out of 181 variety-cheese samples, 49 contained potentially disease-producing strains of coliforms.

Almost 60 per cent of the 41 samples of cottage cheese exceeded the maximum coliform count of 10 per gram and 25 per cent of the 154 ice cream samples had coliform counts above the limit.

Dr. Sterns said that "coliform organisms are present everywhere—your hands are loaded with them."

Ontario Backs PE On Land

OTTAWA (CP) — Ontario came to the defence of Prince Edward Island's land ownership laws Wednesday, claiming they invited rather than discouraged other Canadians and aliens to settle in the island province.

Norris Manning, appearing for the Ontario government, told the Supreme Court of Canada that the 1972 laws restricting ownership of more than 10 acres to non-residents, were in reality an invitation for Canadians and aliens to take up residence in P.E.I.

Chief Justice Bora Laskin drew laughter when he said he had not viewed the legislation as a plan to develop the island province.

The court continues today to hear an appeal by two New York state residents who seek to acquire 36 acres on Prince Edward Island. They allege the restriction on land ownership for non-residents is aimed at foreign ownership and thus an invasion of Ottawa's sole responsibility to enact laws dealing with aliens.

All other nine provinces are supporting the P.E.I. argument. The federal justice department has joined with lawyers for the two Americans against the land law.

Case Closed

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says the federal government has decided to close the books on the Halifax Explosion of 1917 which killed 1,600 persons, injured thousands and flattened half the city.

In an Ottawa story, the newspaper says the Halifax Relief Commission, incorporated in 1918, has been tending to the aftermath of the First World War explosion.

IODE: A History of Public Service

Today marks the 75th birthday of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire.

During the anxious days of the South African War Mrs. Clark Murray of Montreal conceived the idea of forming an organization of women. She sent telegrams to the mayors of capital cities of Canada urging them to call together prominent women of their communities to organize Daughter of the Empire "Societies". The first chapter was formed in Fredericton, New Brunswick.

Today the IODE, as it has come to be known, has chapters in every province and territory of Canada.

It was only natural that the first efforts of the new "society" went into providing field comforts for Canadian servicemen fighting in South Africa. At the end of the war, money was raised to erect a memorial to the Canadians who died in battle and to this day the IODE helps to care for the graves in Bloemfontein, South Africa. This early experience enabled members to render prompt efficient and united action during the times of the two World Wars, in Korea and for other national emergencies.

In 1919, realizing that a memorial other than one of stone and mortar should be their tribute to those who had sacrificed their lives for Canada, the First War Memorial Fund was established. Money was raised to provide bursaries in Canadian universities for the sons and daughters of men killed or disabled in the war and to establish as a permanent memorial a scholarship for postgraduate study in Commonwealth universities. At the end of the Second World War money was raised for a similar fund. Since 1921 under the First and Second War Memorials 825 scholarships and bursaries have been awarded representing an expenditure of $1,682,710.00.

Links with other Commonwealth countries were forged in those early years. The Commonwealth Relations Fund awards scholarships to university students in India, Africa and The West Indies each year.

Many young writers and artists have received their first lift along the road to success by IODE sponsored literary and artistic competitions. In 1973 a literary award went to Belleville's Mrs. Ablett.

The influx of immigrants from Europe after the First World War presented another challenge to IODE and this work has continued over the year under a co-ordinated immigration and Canadianization program. IODE members greeted the newcomers at the ports of entry and later helped them to become established and assimilated into life of the community by teaching them the English language and Canadian customs.

Education, Services and Citizenship are still the chief concerns of the order. Many pioneer projects undertaken in the past are now government responsibilities.

To celebrate the anniversary of the founding of IODE, a Canadian bred, deep red floribunda rose, was especially developed. Proceeds from the sale of this new, hardy rose bush, will support "Concern for Children" projects in each province and territory. The "IODE Rose" is a symbol of the Order's 75 years of service and devotion to others.

Argyll Chapter Hears Reports, Holds Election

At a combined general and annual meeting February 5, the Argyll chapter of the IODE heard reports from committee and activity chairmen.

During the past year, members assisted at two citizenship courts, donated 240 hours to blood donor clinics, made dressings for the Cancer Society, gave a bed to the Cheshire Home and clothes to needy areas.

With money raised by various projects, the chapter gave assistance to education of the deaf in northern Canada, and to the building of a greenhouse by Indians in northern Ontario.

The new slate of officers includes: Regent, Joan Birkenshaw; Vice-Regent, Stella Smith; Honorary Regent, Henrietta Miller; Honorary Vice-Regent, Ethel Liddle; Secretary, Joyce Till; Treasurer, Stella Smith; Educational Secretary, Marjorie Scott; Services, Olga Allan and Standard Bearer, Marilyn Bristol.

Pat Hartman was elected to represent the chapter at meetings of the Bay Front Study for the Moira River Conservation Authority. Stella Smith and Joyce Till will be delegates at the annual Hamilton in April.

To celebrate the chapter's 65th birthday, a Fantasy Ball was held February 8 at the Officer's Mess in Belleville.

The theme for the occasion was the IODE anniversary rose. Convener Olga Allan used this motif on the walls, tables, and on a rose-decorated tree.

Argyll Chapter Plays Community Service Role

The Argyll Chapter IODE owes its inception to that Lt.-Col. Thomas Stewart, who on November 1, 1910, called a meeting of all those interested in military affairs.

This meeting was held in the old drill shed on Church Street where Lt. Col. Stewart made the ruling that only wives, mothers, sisters and daughters of active Officers of the Argyll Light Infantry would be eligible for membership. Another ruling passed at this meeting was that the wife of the Officer commanding should be Regent of the Chapter and, as Lt.-Col. Stewart was not married, he asked the wife of Colonel W.N. Ponton to undertake this office during his regime.

Since the revision of our constitution, the wives, mothers, sisters and daughters of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, and the wives of Officers and ex-officers, of the Armed Forces of the British Commonwealth are eligible for membership. Then to the cut down of the Militia, the membership is now open to any British subject.

The motto adopted by the chapter was "Nulli Secundus" (Second to None) and the Princess Louise, wife of the Duke of Argyll, became the Honorary Regent, as her husband was Honorary Colonel of the Regiment.

The Chapter presented colors to the first Cadet Corps of the City, organized at Queen Mary School, and on July 29th, 1916, Battalion Colors were presented to the 155th. Overseas Battalion which had many of the Argyll Officers and men in its ranks. These Colors now repose in St. Thomas' Church, Belleville.

The chapter has played a community service role in the fields of education and welfare. Seasonal and full time activities include the awarding of Rotary Music Festival prizes, and over the past years hundred dollar scholarships have been awarded annually to sons or daughters of a Canadian or Commonwealth Veteran, attaining the highest aggregate in thirteen papers, of those attending Belleville High Schools. IODE Calendars are supplied to the Belleville public schools.

St. Julien Chapter Marks 60 Years

The St. Julien Chapter, IODE was formed by Mrs. A.E. MacColl, who, on Sept. 2, 1915, obtained ten names of interested ladies and applied for an IODE charter. The name was chosen in honor of Canadian men who fought at the famous Battle of St. Julien, near Ypres, in April 1915. It was at this battle that poison gas was used for the first time, and the well-known poem "In Flanders Fields" by the late Lt. Col. John McCrae was written in memory of his comrades who fell in that battle.

The motto chosen for the chapter is "Able and Willing".

Following the First World War, the St. Julien Chapter continued helping the veterans and their families, and raising money for the work of the order. Through the depression years, the need to help people increased and the members found many novel ways to raise money for its widened scope of social assistance. For five years it had a booth at the Belleville Fair.

The Second World War brought increased demands and the chapter meetings were held weekly. Emily J. Neate, regent for ten years, organized and inspired extra work. Food parcels were packed and sent overseas, ditty bags filled and shipped by the hundreds. Tag days were organized for Chinese, Russian, Polish Greek Relief and the Navy League. Altogether the St. Julien Chapter raised $23,000 for World War II. It adopted three ships, the H.M.C.S. Belleville Corvette, H.M.C.S. Dunvegan and H.M.C.S. Gleneagle. The Commanding Officer of the Dunvegan presented the Chapter with the Crest when the ship was decommissioned take two st. julien

Post war years saw a decrease in assistance to servicemen, but a corresponding increase in the area of educational, citizenship and immigration departments, and a wider variety of service work in the community.

Bursaries and financial assistance are given to students of secondary schools in Belleville and, for some years our adopted school of Eggleton, near Stirling, was given special help. New Canadians taking their Citizenship became a prime interest. Both the Argyll and St. Julien Chapters present IODE certificates and a Maple Leaf pin to each New Canadian at the Citizenship Courts, following which a tea at the Officers' Mess at the Armories gives them a warm welcome.

Our service department is an active one assisting at blood donors' clinics, cancer society work room, giving time and money to senior citizens projects, mentally ill and retarded, Christmas sharing program and New Canadian families who need assistance. Sewing and knitting is done for Save the Children Fund, and in addition, we send regular parcels of magazines, craft supplies and toys, including skates, to the Foxe Nursing Station in the Far North. St. Julien Chapter also presented the coach lamps which grace the doorways of the museum, Glanmore House.

In 1964 St. Julien Chapter began the sponsorship of the Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra under the directio of Stephen Chema in its annual concert in Belleville, and continued this for nine years.

This last year, in order to promote the sale of the 75th Anniversary IODE Rose bushes, both chapters cooperated in a booth at the Rose Show and at the Quinte Mall Charity Bazaar. In a wine and cheese party at the Armories in October, in the sale of tickets on an afghan made and presented for this project by Joan Birkenshaw, Regent of Argyll Chapter. As a result of these, the money raised will be spent in donations of 100 IODE rose bushes for a bed in Corby Park, and rose bushes for flower beds in other areas of the city such as the Armories and the Cheshire Home.

Fast, Easy, No-fuss Food

Demonstrators Shirley Ann Holmes and Lois Eggert prepare Chinese food on stage of Centennial Secondary School, using products manufactured by the companies sponsoring their "cooking school".

Cooking Show Draws Crowd

More than 500 people filled Centenial Secondary School auditorium Wednesday evening to observe a "cooking school".

Sponsored by the Belleville chapter of Sweet Adelines, the demonstration of oriental meal preparations was presented by a Mississauga firm, Luncheon is Served.

As each dish was created onstage, the audience followed the procedure in accompanying recipe booklets they had purchased on entry.

Most of the ingredients used by the demonstrators were products identified by brand name, displayed on the cooking table and in stage decoration. Organized to present food products in an "entertaining" way, Luncheon is Served is employed by large companies in order to make their brands familiar to large groups of people.

"We do cooking demonstrations throughout the province," said John Morrison, president of the firm.

The Sweet Adelines, a group of women devoted to barbershop harmony, will use the evening's profit to pay their way to a chorus contest in Buffalo this April. Now numbering 45 members, the Sweet Adelines sang at intermission. Also during intermission, names were drawn for those of the audience who won various dishes prepared during the evening.

Why Do We Need Valentine's Day?

If we were the people we'd like to be, there'd be no need for Valentine's Day.

If we were only half as perfect as we intend, this gaudy little commercial festival would diffuse itself throughout the year. And instead of giving and getting an annual red heart, we'd live in a rosy glow of love from week to week.

But it's so much easier this way.

A heart-shaped box of chocolates, a bouquet of red roses, a lacy card, a pair of cuff links or leather gloves are so quickly purchased, quickly given ... and quickly forgotten?

What do valentine gifts mean, after all? "I love you to the tune of 50 cents", or "I'll spend $50 to see you smile", or "You are worth an hour spent with red paper, lace doilies and glue".

Perhaps this is far too cynical a view.

Is it too much to ask of ordinary mortals to show their love every day?

Maybe.

Maybe we need a prod or two now and again to remind us that life is short and love is long. Maybe we need special occasions to jolt us into recognition of just how much we love the people we take for granted.

Of course, there's another, completely different advantage to the valentine tradition. It serves a useful purpose for hopeful lovers, for the shy and faint-hearted who need an acceptable way to "get things started".

Didn't we all look forward to Valentine's Day back in public school when we had the chance to sign smudgy hugs and kisses on cards signed "Guess Who?"

And remember how your young pulse raced when you got two or three from the same person? (I once got FIVE from a beautiful boy called Dougie, who spelled my name differently on every one so he'd be sure to get one right. It completely won my heart.)

What's objectionable to me about the valentine custom is the falseness of the sentiment created by the occasion.

There's always the chance that February 14 may find you particularly unloved or unloving. (It does happen) And then you must do battle with your unfulfilled expectations; or the hypocrisy you feel observing it.

For what does a valentine mean from a grand-daughter who never bothers to visit you? How much value does a valentine have if your boy friend drops you in March? Who cares a spouse valentine given by a spouse who nags and belittles you most of the time?

Oh dear. We seem to be sliding over into cynicism again.

But don't you feel annoyed when you see the candy displays, the perfume arrangements, the decorative window dressings aimed at your gullibility?

In other words, how guilty or uptight do you feel about not ordinarily showing your feelings?

Why not make every day a day to say "I love you"? Why not do something spontaneous instead of programmed and impersonal?

We may never make the grade uphill to the kind of loving people we'd like to be, but it's worth striving for, isn't it?

Careful now, you'll choke on that cinnamon candy heart!

Doris Clark

Are You a Good Guest? Here's How!

Out of the Christmas-New Year visiting came a discussion and some top-rate ideas about being a good guest. Here they are:

1. Don't drop in; unless you want your hostess to drop a dish! Or a broad hint about phoning first.

2. Make it clear how long you intend to stay, ahead of time.

3. Don't expect your hostess to leave her work to drive you some place.

4. Get up in the morning when others do; otherwise serving your breakfast not only inconveniences others, but may just do you out of something your hostess would like to get going at for dinner.

5. Make your bed; pick up your towel; help around.

6. If you are there for days, make one night your treat — to take the family out or bring in a man-sized steak for dinner.

7. Show appreciation both in words and gifts; thoughtful ones.

8. Take an interest in the kids. Talk to them; nice comfortable palsy talk, about their doings. "Love me, love my dog" applies even more to humans.

9. Make your bread-and-butter letter the first thing you do when you get home. And make it specific in its appreciation of special thoughtfulness.

Dear Doris: I don't like the way things look. My wife works as part-time office helper to a woman who writes, in this woman' own home. She never wants me to go near where she works, although I am out of work and could easily call for her.

Most of the time my wife goes out to visit her sister (who is living with a man she is not married to) and she leaves me at home to do my own cooking and take care of our nine-year-old girl.

Not only that, but we have a car of our own, but she never lets me take our girl any place or act like a family.

Unhappy Man.

Dear Man: Look — you sound like the original Mr. Milquetoast!

Has your wife shown happiness when she is with you? Are you suggesting she may be unnecessarily friendly with her employer's husband?

Yours is a case for a trained counsellor. You are holding the home together and would be willing to do more of it — yet she seems to be taking advantage of you. A talk with a social worker can help you see whether there is something fishy here.

Dear Doris: I have a very good friend who likes this guy but he doesn't seem to like her very well. He said he likes her just as a friend. They are both in high school.

She has tried everything she can think of to get him to go steady with her. I even phoned him up for her to ask him if he would, but he said he didn't want to get serious, because of school; and he doesn't want her or him to get hurt in the end.

She has liked other guys but has always ended up trying for him again.

Her Best Friend.

Dear Friend: Wise boy! Far better for him to keep straight with both of you than to kid her into thinking she is in love with him.

Why can't teen-age boys and girls be good friends without getting tied down? They can! If there is a real attraction the couple will get together when the time is right.

Your best advice to your friend is to relax and enjoy dating other boys. It might surprise her if she finds somebody else who is just as interesting — even more so — than this one.

P.S. Would you want to be a matchmaker and discover you had pulled a boner? Stay out of it.

(Is it a point of etiquette that is troubling you? Doris can tell you how it's done in Canada. Write to her in care of this newspaper.)

Ann Landers

Airport Safety Inspection 'Well Worth Inconvenience'

Dear Ann Landers: I am a frequent traveler who is becoming increasingly irritated by the hand luggage inspection in airports. I missed two planes because I had to stand in line while strangers poked around in my purse, examined my shopping bag and even unwrapped gift packages. Not only is this annoying, but I'm sure if a smart lawyer looked into it he (or she) would discover it violates some constitutional law that has to do with invasion of privacy.

Please respond in print, Ann. Thousands of others must feel as I do.—Irked Lady At La Guardia

Dear Irk: Sorry about the inconvenience, but here are the facts: Since the airport security checks began in 1973, 66,000 guns and knives have been taken from passengers and more than 3,000 people were arrested for carrying drugs and weapons. Not one successful hijacking has been pulled off in the United States since November, 1972.

I'd say the security checks have proven to be well worth the inconvenience. So cool it, Toots, and give yourself an additional 30 minutes to get to the airport so you don't miss another plane.

Dear Ann Landers: Do all working couples have this problem or is it just us? My husband does manual labor. I do office work. Vic goes to work at 5:30 a.m. I always get up to prepare him a big breakfast and I fix his lunch-box. Since I don't have to be at work until 8:30 a.m. I hop back into bed for an hour or so after he leaves. Vic resents this terribly and says, "All you do is sleep." Actually, I do the marketing, cooking, cleaning and laundry, as well as put in 40 hours a week at my office job. But he still thinks I have a cinch and keeps telling me that he works much harder than I.

Every evening after supper Vic reads the newspaper and falls asleep in front of the TV. After I finish the dishes I sometimes join him. If I should doze off he wakes me up immediately and demands an explanation as to why I fell asleep. "What have YOU got to be tired about?" is the way he puts it. What's the matter with him anyway? Or am I wrong?—Boise Boob

Dear Boise: The guy probably feels guilty because you are working harder than he is, and he knows it. Just add up those hours spent on marketing, cooking, cleaning and laundry and tack them on to your 40 hours a week in the office and you'll get the picture, baby.

AROUND TOWN with LANA ROBINSON

(... an advertising feature designed to keep you better informed of what's new around town.)

Opens Today

Superior T.V.'s Madoc store opens today at 15 Durham St. South in Madoc, (473-2311). Superior T.V. will be servicing all makes of T.V.s and taking care of warranties on most major T.V. makes. You can also buy Fleetwood or Hatachi T.V.s and Nordmende radios and stereos at this new location too. Superior T.V. in Madoc is getting right into the spirit of Madoc's winter carnival this weekend by offering free coffee and donuts today, Friday and Saturday. Congratulations to Superior T.V. and to Madoc. I hope you'll both be very happy together.

New Slogan

Trenton Optical, 54 Bridge St. E. has adopted a new slogan — "WORTH LOOKING INTO" — which you'll be seeing soon in their newspaper advertising and hearing in radio commercials. Trenton Optical really is worth looking into on all counts: quality of both service and glasses frames; prompt 7 to 10 day delivery; great selection available due to the number of manufacturers carried; total optical service including setting up an appointment with an eye specialist; convenient Wednesday afternoon and Saturday hours, and competitive prices which will make that word "worth" resound in your pocket book. If you haven't tried Trenton Optical, you're 'overlooking' something. And no appointment is necessary.

Monday's The Day

Vader's Car Sales are opening the doors of their new showroom and service centre on Monday at 21 College St. W. This location is just around the corner from their North Front St. location. There's a new Vader's telephone number to go with all this too — 966-5302. It's going to be a busy weekend for Vader's staff, completing the moving arrangements. But completed they'll be on Monday. The Vader's staff may be tired when it's over, but they'll be happy and also happy to show you around their new premises. Watch this column for more details of their official opening. And congratulations Vader's.

Pewter Enhances

Studio 231 at 231 Front St. is the exclusive Belleville outlet for Jense and Jensen Danish pewter jewellery. Pewter jewellery can make a most dramatic contribution to any ensemble, making the simplest outfit go from ordinary to sophisticated. At Studio 231 you can see the distincive Jensen and Jensen style in bracelets, rings, earrings, and pendants. Go and see. This jewellery is really something different. And there is still a 50% reduction on the remaining winter wear at Studio 231 you can look at while you're there.

Apres Snowmobiling

Sidney Inn, 265 Moira St. W. is not only convenient in its "open 'til 11 p.m." hours for snowmobilers, but it's right on the route of many snowmobile trails. And Fridays you can get home-made bread and hot chocolate mixes, cold cuts and cheeses to go with it. At Sidney Inn you can also pick up some apple wood to add to the cozy congeniality of an around-the-fire get together. For winter snacks or snacks anytime of the year, Sidney Inn has the 'fixins' — and the convenient hours to match, seven days a week.

Tropical Garden Music

The birds arrived at the Tropical Garden Pet Shop, 301½ Front St. last weekend, as I said they would — a cockatiel, zebra doves, quail and budgies. Some canaries came too . . . and went as quickly. But Mr Sherwood, owner of the Tropical Garden Pet Shop tells me there are more canaries coming this weekend. The Tropical Garden also has the cages, accessories and bird diets too to keep you and your new member of the family happy. Maybe your house needs a little cheer; maybe the home of a friend needs a little cheer (and don't forget a Valentine's remembrance). You can get that cheer with a visit and a purchase at the Tropical Garden Pet Shop.

For Your Valentine

Wray's Home Furnishers, 360 Front St. is giving St. Valentine and Cupid's bow a little help by extending its carpet Bonanza sale. That hall that's needed carpeting, that den floor that's looking frayed and neglected . . . what a nice surprise and a nice gift — to have it all taken care of by Wray's quality selection of well-known manufacturers, plus Wray's own expert installers. Or maybe a lamp from Wrays would do the trick . . or maybe an end table . . . or maybe an occasional chair or rocker . . . or maybe . . . Visit Wrays tonight and give Cupid some help.

Conditions Improving

Gord Roblin of Gord Roblin Real Estate, 117 North Front St. tells me that mortgage conditions are improving and that there are a lot of house buyers around? He also said that people who wouldn't want to vacate their houses until after school closes needn't be timid about listing their homes now. It's nearly March (Thank Heaven!) and people who are looking for homes want the best choice available. The best choice might well include your property. Call one of the Gord Roblin sales staff at 968-6475 and get in business!

A Saturday Lunch

If Saturday's weather is anything like Tuesday afternoon's weather with its glorious February sunshine, then I've got a great suggestion for Saturday. Drive over to God's country across the bridge to "The County", take Highway No. 14 to Picton right through the town on the way to Glenora and stop at Inn on The Bay for lunch. Lunch in this very interesting and friendly old mansion is served from noon to 2:00 p.m. And an Inn On The Bay luncheon specialty is their meat pies — which you'll find pretty special too. Drop in or call 476-3114 in Picton for reservations. Happy Saturday!

Attention Procrastinators

Now if you're all honest God-fearing folk, I should have all your attention after that beginning. But I'll let all the rest of you stop reading, unless you need new aluminum windows and storm doors at your house. If you need them, you've been putting it off, thinking you'd wait 'til Spring. You don't have to at all. Belleview Glass and Mirror, 354 Pinnacle St. can measure and order those windows and doors right now. And in a month, when everyone else who didn't see this colmn, is just getting ready to do something about aluminum windows and doors, you'll have yours ordered and on! Visit or call Belleview Glass and Mirror at 968-5731.

Canadians Aid Florida Fight Slump in Tourism

MIAMI (CP) — The energy scare cost the Florida tourist industry $1 billion last year and has left the sunshine state shivering. A warm note is the number of Canadians going south.

Airlines and charter flights brought 380,000 to Florida last year, according to an Air Canada spokesman. In the first 10 days of 1975, Canadians arriving by air numbered 12 per cent more than in the same period of 1974.

The most common estimate is that one million Canadians will visit Florida this year, most of them between November and May. A number will retire in the state.

Canadians are welcome visitors because, although they form only a fraction of Florida's 24.5 million tourists, they are relatively big spenders.

The Miami Beach Tourist Development Authority came to this conclusion after a poll of member hotels.

"Canadians either stay longer, or more are registered per room, or they pay higher room rents," Phil Halpern, the authority's executive director, said in an interview.

While Canadians numbered 45 per cent of registrations, they accounted for 60 per cent of spending while at Miami Beach.

"We have had more inquiries this year from Canadian travel agents," Halpern said. "We've been doing quite a bit of advertising up there."

Meanwhile, Canadian and Quebec flags are flown from the Georgia border to Key West and welcome signs are out in French and English. About 45 per cent of Florida's Canadian visitors come from Montreal, 40 per cent from Toronto, and most of the rest from other parts of Ontario and Quebec, airline figures—the only reliable ones—show.

In December two jetliners a week were leaving Windsor, Ont., for Miami. Traditional Canadian resorts like Surfside, north of Miami Beach, were filled.

Southern Florida counties report eight-per-cent unemployment during the peak tourist season this year. Much of it is in the construction industry—huge condominium apartment buildings are left uncompleted while developers scramble for scarce money.

Florida is lobbying desperately for higher gas prices as a lesser evil than gasoline rationing. As the most southerly state, a long stretch from the big cities of the north, it feels that rationing would really keep away tourists.

The state is constantly at war with airlines to get air fares down. And energy costs are a constant worry. Florida spends on air-conditioning what Canadians spend on heating and, says one tourist official, his personal power costs jumped $15 to $50 a month this year.

"You can imagine what happens in a hotel."

Worst Famine in Century Hits South Indian State

BOMBAY (CP) — The worst famine in more than 100 years has engulfed the south Indian state of Tamil Nadu.

According to state Chief Minister Muthuvel Karunanidhi, "the situation is causing us much anxiety. But we hope to deal with the crisis effectively."

The famine has hit even Tanjore County, traditionally known as south India's rice bowl. Normally a lush area with waving paddies and dotted with coconut groves, Tanjore has also produced some of India's top lawyers, administrators, musicians and film stars.

According to the United News of India news agency, nearly 10 million of the state's population of 42 million people are affected by the famine.

Following the failure of the recent monsoon, more than four million acres dependent on wells and ponds have become barren. This will mean a loss of more than two million tons of grain.

Reports from Tamil Nadu say thousands of poor peasants in the counties of Ramnath Puram and Pudukottai are migrating to other areas in search of food and jobs.

Several thousand cattle have been shifted by their owners to the neighboring states of Kerala and Karnataka.

Though Chief Minister Karunanidhi has expressed the government's determination to maintain law and order, hungry villagers in several areas have raided grain warehouses and looted trucks carrying food supplies.

Bombay Times reported that groups of housewives in Madras, the state capital, laid siege to government ration shops clamoring for rice at cheaper rates, while police and demonstrators clashed at some places.

Karunanidhi has asked Prime Minister Gandhi for special food aid from federal stocks.

One result of the famine will certainly be to blunt the edge of Tamil Nadu's shrill campaign for "autonomy." Its ruling party, the Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam, has been repeatedly accused by Mrs. Gandhi and other federal leaders of carrying on a secessionist agitation under the guise of asking for more powers for the state.

Three years ago, Karunanidhi had even talked of "our people in Tamil Nadu deriving inspiration from the Bangladesh liberation struggle."

But the current serious famine has shown Tamil Nadu's dependence on the federal government even to feed its people.

Books Writer's Safeguard Against Any Losses by Fire

EDMONTON (CP) — The spectre of fire in his isolated cabin compels Adolph Hungry Wolf to write.

"One reason I write my books is that I don't have to worry about having my published photographs or notes burned up," said the Indian author and publisher of Good Medicine Books.

He has gathered and identified about 750 photographs for his latest project, a comprehensive study of the Blood Indians.

"But I couldn't get the identification for half of them again. The old people have passed away and their history is passing away as quickly."

The preservation of knowledge about the "old people"—their history, legends, rituals and handicrafts—has occupied him for 12 years.

"If these books weren't being put together, a kid couldn't know 20 years from now about his great-great-grandfather who broke his leg in a war party and barely returned," said Hungry Wolf, a native of the Flathead Indian Reserve in Montana who now lives with his wife and three children on the Kootenay River in the foothills of south-eastern British Columbia.

He has written and published 12 small paperback books. Eight are on legends, tepees, moccasins and native life-styles, while the others are tribal handbooks on such groups as the Cree and Hopi.

He has just completed a 128-page book, entitled Indian Summer, relating "what's happening today with the Indian people."

Through all the books runs Hungry Wolf's "good medicine" philosophy of life in harmony with nature.

"To understand the real meaning of the term good medicine, one must first realize the importance of spiritualism that can be found in everything natural," he says in one of the books.

"It is thus that people living in nature can make a religion of their daily lives."

"You're not so lonely in nature if you know everything has a spirit," elaborated Hungry Wolf during an interview, wearing long black braids, shell earrings and a beaded leather jacket.

"I know Mother Earth is even beneath this building. As long as you know that, you have a mother forever."

Hungry Wolf, who gained much of his knowledge from Indian elders, finds himself in the paradoxical position of passing that knowledge to other old people who come to his camp.

"But there is disappointingly little effort by young people to learn what is left of the old ways," he said.

"Many of the young learn superficially; they learn the white man's myths about the old ways or the red man's beliefs about the white man's myths.

"For example, lots of young people take the myth about native people never killing more animals than they could eat, and they believe it.

"There's nothing universal about native people except being born and dying."

Hungry Wolf said some young people had written asking to join his camp "but most thought they could support themselves with too little money, and really didn't know what to do with their lives."

Life requires you to face the reality of the world today and adapt the old ways to present circumstances, he said.

For example, it would be difficult for most people to hunt successfully with a bow and arrow. But they can hunt in harmony with nature by maintaining a spiritual posture, praying before and after the hunt and respecting the animal.

Hungry Wolf's family and his brother's family, who both live in the camp 45 miles from Invermere, B.C., are attempting to become self-sufficient in their food supply, but buy basic supplies such as flour and rice.

They trade hides for flour and potatoes with a nearby Hutterite colony, and trade books to an Indian woman for beaded leather work.

Ed Burnstick Is Director Of AIM Group in Canada

CALGARY (CP) — The name Ed Burnstick seems to crop up at virtually every militant Indian demonstration in North America from Wounded Knee, S.D., to Cache Creek, B.C.

Mr. Burnstick is national director for Canada of the American Indian Movement (AIM), the best-known militant Indian organization on the continent.

But, despite the hostile reputation of AIM, Mr. Burnstick says the movement's main emphasis is on working within "the system."

"People think about confrontation when they talk about AIM," said Mr. Burnstick. "They don't know we operate the biggest program in North America to rehabilitate native people in prisons.

"They don't know about all the work we do with native alcoholics, with native spiritualism, with milk programs for kds on reserves and reservations."

If AIM has a bad reputation with non-native society for its militancy, Mr. Burnstick offers no apologies.

"People have to understand why native people are taking direct militant action," he said. "It isn't something we started. . . . It is an outgrowth of social conditions in both the T.S. and Canada."

AIM was founded by five young natives as what Mr. Burnstick calls "an alternative to the government-controlled American Indian Congress."

"The founders — Dennis Banks, Clyde Warrior, Clyde Belcourt, George Mitchell and Russell Means—have become well-known through various militant demonstrations.

Mr. Banks and Mr. Means recently were acquitted of U.S. federal charges in connection with the Wounded Knee occupation in 1973 by a federal judge because of what he called "perjured evidence" from the government witnesses.

"People see AIM only as the pow-pow-pow of a gun," said Mr. Burnstick. "We also have survival schools for urban Indians, prison programs, drug and alcoholism programs."

Mr. Burnstick defended militant actions like Wounded Knee and the occupation of a park in Kenora, Ont., this year.

"Conditions on Indian reserves are terrible. In South Dakota people were living in abandoned cars because they couldn't get houses.

"AIM is a unique thing for native people," said Mr. Burnstick. "They made it themselves. They had support from other people but they did it themselves.

"The results are now being seen in government policy and public concern about native problems."

There are nine AIM chapters in Canada, and about 400,000 members in Canada and the United States.

One of the objectives of AIM is to trim some of the fat off the department of Indian affairs budget, he said.

"The department gets about 500 million a year. Of that, 74 per cent goes to administration and only 26 per cent goes to the Indian people.

"There are too many people there telling us what to do, rather than letting the native people do it for themselves."

If conditions do not improve for Indian people, "more direct action is coming."

"The government approach to native problems is to drown it in money."

Mr. Burnstick had a message for the new minister of Indian Affairs, Judd Buchanan:

"Buchanan says he's going to take a crash-course in Indian so that he knows what we are talking about.

"But we're afraid that by the time he has the knowledge he'll be sent to another department and we'll have to deal with another dude."

Mr. Burnstick plays down nationalist complaints that AIM is another form of American domination in Canada.

"To us, American Indian means the native people of North America. Before your people came here this was one land, and just because it's now two doesn't make us any different.

"We're after the total progress of Indian people. This is a movement of people, native people. We have to forget tribal bickerings and think as unified Indian people—Indian, Metis, non-status, Inuit.

"A status card (certifying treaty status) doesn't make us Indian. It's what's inside us that makes us Indian."

American Girl Makes Journey Through Israel with Canadians

EDITOR's NOTE: In this story Elizabeth Bassett, a world-travelling American girl, tells of a trip with Canadian soldiers across Israeli-held territory from Egypt to the Syrian front. Written for CP

By ELIZABETH BASSETT

CAIRO (CP) — It's not the kind of tour most visitors get when they come to Egypt. There are no pyramids, no mummys' tombs, no belly-dancers — jus miles of unending sand cluttered with the remains of war.

It is a tour that no Egyptian—or Israeli, or Syrian—has made in years. For five days I accompanied members of the Canadian contingent of the United Nations Emergency Force (UNEF) from Egypt through the no-man's land of Sinai into Israel, then to the Golan Heights buffer zone and into the Syrian city that once was Kuneitra.

Of all the UNEF nations, only Canada is allowed to move freely between the Arab countries and Israel. The 1,031-man Canadian contingent, along with the Poles, is responsible for communications and for supplying the 5,000-man UNEF force. Because Poland does not recognize Israel, Israel will not permit Polish UN forces within its boundaries. This leaves the bulk of the work to the Canadians.

I travelled with a couple of UNEF Canadians, armed with our blue United Nations cards in a big UN van and it was an exciting—and sobering—experience.

We bumped across the canal's plank-covered pontoons and into no-man's land, 15 miles of Egyptian checkpoints, burned-out tanks, anti-aircraft guns nestled in hollowed dunes and, as we approached the buffer zone, mine fields enclosed in barbed wire.

We drove over the bumpy, shell-shattered road to Israeli territory.

There were more minefields, designed to slow down the other side while hidden armaments blast away.

Maj. Tom Browne, our guide and spokesman for the Canadian UN forces, has driven this road many times. "In the summer it can be 130 degrees in the shade," he said. "When you take a deep breath, you feel the heat right down into your lungs."

Here and there, tall military radio towers rose in the distance. The Israelis escorted us to make sure we did not go off the road.

Then, at Kilometre 112 (112 kilometres from where? No one seems to know.) We were left on our own and soon reached Rabah, a mid-desert UN outpost. After hours of desolation, its military neatness was welcome. Even more welcome was the Sinai Saloon with beer and soft drinks. Inside, a caricature of Pierre Trudeau stared down. Underneath it, some soldier had written: "Pretty Peter, send us home."

There were more nomads, more sheep and goat herds and many more date palm trees as we approached the sea.

We entered the Gaza strip, Israel's one-time boundary with Egypt. A huge sign warned travellers to obey the military authorities, not to leave the main road because of mines and not to travel at night.

There were miles of citrus groves and, suddenly, a traffic light, the first since Cairo.

Into Jaffa, now a suburb of Tel Aviv, and below us the sea and the beach on which the whale supposedly disgorged Jonah.

Then Tel Aviv itself, elegant shops, first-class hotels and restaurants selling American pizza and hamburgers. After Cairo, one wanted to buy everything—until you learned the price.

After a day's drive through the desert, we had no qualms about paying for first-class hot baths but we winced at $3 for a hamburger.

A company pension plan is no reason to overpay your taxes.

If you think Registered Retirement Savings Plans are only for people who don't have company pension plans, you're wrong.

Even if you have a company pension plan, you can use an RSP to reduce your taxable income by up to $2500 and wind up paying as much as 30% less income tax.

If you have any money put away at all, probably the best thing you can do with it is put it into an RSP.

Not only do you get money back from the government, the interest or dividends you earn on the money are also tax free.

Depending on your tax bracket, that means you can make about four times as much on exactly the same investment in an RSP as you can outside an RSP.

More important, when you finally stop working or need money for something really important, you'll have it put away.

Even if you have no ready cash to put into an RSP, you can use whatever qualified stocks and bonds or trust and deposit certificates you own to get a substantial tax refund.

You can probably even borrow the money to get into an RSP from Guaranty Trust. And wind up earning a good deal more than the after-tax cost of your loan.

It's all fully explained in a comprehensive, yet delightfully simple new book that's free from Guaranty Trust.

There's one catch though. After March 1, the government won't let you into an RSP that will do you any good on your 1974 income tax return.

So drop into your local Guaranty Trust branch or send in the coupon and we'll get an RSP book off to you right away.

It could be the difference between thinking about what you're going to give the government, or looking forward to what the government is going to give you.

I want to pay less tax this year.
Please send me the free book.

Sydney Rail Mill

The first railway rails produced at the Sydney, N.S. steel mill were sold to a railway in India in 1908 and since that time Sydney rails have been spiked down around the world. Although the Sydney plant suffers from age and other problems, the rail mill is booming. Company officials say the mill can sell all the rails it can produce. (CP Photo)

Rails Specialty Of Sydney Mills

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — Sir Bradford Leslie could not make the trip himself so he sent his son.

The British railway and bridge builder had been told by long-established British railmakers that he was taking considerable risk in dealing with an upstart Canadian steel mill.

Sir Bradford, who built the famous bridge over the Punjab River in India, had agreed to buy 9,000 tons of rails from the Sydney steel plant for a railway line in India.

The deal, signed after Dominion Iron and Steel Co. sent its secretary to London to drum up business, had created a stir among British railbuilders, some of whom suggested Sir Bradford should take a closer look.

His son was dispatched and 10 days later sent a cable to his father reporting that first-hand observations at the then-new steel mill here were reassuring. The first rails of the Indian contract had been rolled and they were perfect.

That was in 1908.

Since then, Sydney rails have been spiked down along thousands of miles of railway lines around the world and if the current prognosis for the rail mill holds up thousands more will roll out of here.

Sydney Steel Corp. (Sysco) has troubles in some areas but its rail mill, which can turn out a longer rail than any other mill in North America, is enjoying boom times.

"There is really strong demand for rails all over the world," Sysco president Ernest F. Alderton said in an interview.

Spurred by the energy crisis which brought home the economic advantages of the railway, Sysco has been getting inquiries from many countries and now has orders from Mexico, Poland and several others.

"The demand in Canada is so great that the CN would like us to give them preferance over all the rails made here . . . but at the same time Brazil is knocking on the door and telling us they'll take all the rails we can make," Mr. Alderton said.

Sysco, a Nova Scotia Crown company organized to take over the 75-year old steel mill here after Dominion Steel and Coal Corp. condemned it as hopelessly uneconomic nearly eight years ago, lost money in 1974 and expects to lose—but not as seriously—in 1975.

Its brightest spot is the rail mill, which produces double-length rails which wiggle out of the roll-stands in 78-foot pieces. All other railmakers on this continent produce the traditional 39-foot length.

Mr. Alderton said Sysco expects the federal government to adopt a national transportation policy that will put more emphasis than ever on the railways. The publicly-owned Canadian National likely will double-track many of its present single lines and this will mean major business for the railmakers.

Since the first ton of steel was tapped at the Sydney plant in 1900, the mill has produced a wide variety of steel products but its main semi-finished line now is rails.

One of the biggest undertakings of a rehabilitation and modernization program at the plant since it was taken over by Sysco has been a new system for removing hydrogen from the freshly-rolled rails to reduce greatly the chance of them cracking under the weight of trains.

The new system has worked well, Mr. Alderton said, but has put a "restraint" in the mill's capacity, meaning yearly production at the moment cannot get above 800,000 tons—compared to the record one million tons produced in 1969.

"We're trying to work our way out of it," he said, and one interim step is to reactivate traditional cooling tanks which were largely replaced by the new system.

New Rail Trunk Warms Lives Of Sectionmen

EDMONTON (CP) — Canadian National Railways work equipment personnel have designed and developed a new truck that operates over railway tracks and brings a warmer working environment for CN section forces employed on the Great Slave Lake Railway in northern Alberta and the Northwest Territories.

The new track conveyance was built around a standard panel truck, has specially-cast steel wheels, and its underside contains an electrically-operated hydraulic hoist that allows it to be raised from the tracks and removed from the rail line in less than a minute.

The vehicle's interior features a propane-fired furnace to provide the sectionmen with maximum warmth while they are on the line. The rail truck has seating space for seven people, plus storage room for track maintenance equipment and tools.

Language Skills Learned Early

HALIFAX (CP) — The first two years of life are the critical period in which the basic skills of communication are developed, says a doctor who specializes in auditory problems.

Dr. George Mencher, director of the hearing and speech clinic in Halifax, said the major opportunity for developing normal language skills is "lost forever" if a child's hearing problems are not discovered by the time it reaches the age of two.

Dr. Mencher is concerned with the need for testing and evaluating communication skills of all children before they enter school. He said testing of the new-born for hearing impairment should be carried out in hospitals before a baby is discharged.

"One of our weaknesses is that there is no law in Nova Scotia making it mandatory to screen children for hearing impairment as early as possible.

"Children may be checked for such impairment only when it becomes evident to the mother, the doctor or someone else that something is wrong."

Late in 1974, Dr. Mencher was chairman of an international conference on hearing and speech, held in Halifax, and he later began approaches to the medical community and the government to request implementation of recommendations made at the conference.

The recommendations focused on the need for standardization of testing procedures, further research and treatment and education programs.

Dr. Mencher noted that researchers found that the ratio of deaf people to population was one per 1,000. Given a population of 800,000, Nova Scotia had 800 residents with severe hearing impairment.

Dr. Mencher says he wants answers to such questions as: Where are these people? To what degrees are they afflicted? What type of services do they need? What services are available for them?

The Nova Scotia government has set up a panel of medical specialists, including Dr. Mencher, to determine the number of Nova Scotians with impaired hearing.

The group has also been asked to determine the availability of trained personnel who could serve in the hearing health care field, the needs regarding licensing standards and the cost of services needed.

PROBE HEARING AIDS

The conclusions are expected to help the government decide on the feasibility of setting up a health care insurance program for the deaf.

One of the investigations to be carried out by the group is into the high cost and low performance of some hearing aids. Preliminary studies have indicated the average cost of a hearing aid is $250 and the device has to be renewed every three years.

Skin Graft Technique May Ease Discomfort

MONTREAL (CP) — The post-operative period can be extremely uncomfortable for the skin-graft patient.

He may spend weeks in a hospital bed with his body contorted, for example, with a knee attached to his cheek while the graft takes hold and a new blood supply system establishes itself.

A new technique called free transfer of skin flaps, being developed by Montreal General Hospital researchers Dr. Rollin Daniel and Dr. Bruce Williams, may end lengthy bouts of imposed acrobatics for skin-graft patients.

Peering through a powerful microscope the surgeons join veins, arteries and nerves. The operation may take as long as seven hours.

"It's a field of plastic surgery which offers real benefits to the patient," said Dr. Williams.

The team has performed six such operations on laboratory animals since July and it's just a matter of time before a suitable human patient is found, said the researchers.

Dr. Williams described it as "a developing field," with applications to many parts of the body.

An adaptation of the technique to muscle transplants is a probable next step. This type of transplant would be ideal for a patient with facial paralysis, said Dr. Williams. It would restore full control of his face.

The research originally focused on outlining and defining blood supply to the skin. Research continues into a method of mapping regional nerve systems to improve circulation and sensation.

Foe of Pornography Flunked by College

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Beset by opposition at the college level, Chuck Mullin is continuing his battle against pornography.

The 24-year-old student from Murdochville, Que., was forced to discontinue a course at Niagara College after he refused to take part in a book sale which handled what he considered pornographic and occult material.

The sale was designed to give library technician students experience meeting the public. It was also a prerequisite for field placement, a course in which students are sent to area libraries.

Mr. Mullin, studying to be a library technician, said he refused to take part because he considers occult books "satanic" and that anything which "corrupts sexuality as God intended it" is pornographic.

He subsequently failed a first-term course called circulation procedures for not participating in the sale and was barred from field placement, he said.

College authorities said the job of the college is to train library technicians, not censors.

Mr. Mullin dropped out of college in the second week of January but said his convictions are stronger than ever.

A few years ago, he said, after a period of heavy drug use, he was involved in a spiritualist group which held seances and experimented with extra-sensory perception.

"At that time I didn't realize two spiritual worlds existed—one good and one evil."

Now a member of the Pentecostal Church here, he said he plans to enrol next fall in a three-year course in the ministry at Eastern Pentecostal College in Peterborough, Ont.

CP News Roundup

Lead Firms Pull Out Of Inquiry

TORONTO (CP) — A provincial inquiry into lead pollution suffered a set-back Wednesday when two Toronto lead smelting firms being investigated pulled out of the hearings.

In a letter to David Caverly, inquiry chairman, Ivan Outerbridge, counsel for Canada Metals Co. and Toronto Refiners and Smelters Ltd., said no evidence has been given to show that lead presents a health hazard.

"We do not see any point in continuing in matters which have no relevance to our companies," he said.

Mr. Caverly asked other organizations intending to present briefs to give dates when they will be ready. None were prepared to go ahead immediately.

Reject CMA Policy

OTTAWA (CP) — The Catholic Hospital Association of Canada (CHAC) says it has rejected the "position and policy" of the Canadian Medical Association (CMA) on abortion.

Proposals Opposed

OTTAWA (CP) — Voting to date by federal blue-collar workers indicate an overwhelming majority will reject conciliation proposals, but the union has left an opening for the resumption of contract talks by the weekend.

The 18,600-member group includes laborers, tradesmen and employees who clean airport runways and maintain postal post office equipment.

Jobs Scarce

TORONTO (CP) — The Law Society of Upper Canada is concerned that as many as 40 per cent of 830 persons called to the bar in Ontario in March will not have jobs if they wish to work for Metropolitan Toronto law firm.

Support Declines

SEOUL (AP) — President Chung Hee Park today termed the referendum endorsement of his policies "a valuable decision on the part of the people." But the voting returns showed a drop of more than 20 per cent in public support for Park's authoritarian rule of South Korea.

Dean Apologizes

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — John Dean, convicted Watergate conspirator, apologized to students at the University of Guelph Wednesday for accepting a $3,200 fee for the lecture but added that his help in unravelling the Watergate affair left him in serious debt.

Ceilings Cramp

TORONTO (CP) — The chairmen of the Metropolitan Toronto school board said Wednesday that trustees are urgently seeking a meeting with Ontario Education Minister Thomas Wells to ask permission "to pierce" 1975 provincial spending ceilings to increase teacher salaries.

Ego in Way

OTTAWA (CP) — Senators were told Wednesday that they will not be able to speak sincerely if their committee debate on marijuana is televised.

"The human ego gets in the way," Senator David Walker (PC—Ontario) said during debate of a motion to allow television cameras into the hearings.

Switch Unlikely

OTTAWA (CP) — Energy Minister Donald Macdonald held out little hope Wednesday that Canadian-designed nuclear reactors will switch to using enriched uranium as a fuel.

Talks Halted

OTTAWA (CP) — Negotiations between the Royal Canadian Mint and its 550 striking workers broke off again Wednesday after two days of contract talks.

Regulations Met

HAMILTON (CP) — Fire department investigators said Wednesday that a rooming house where three persons died in a blaze earlier that day met all fire-safety regulations although it had no outside fire escape.

The early-morning fire burned through the 2½-storey duplex, trapping tenants on the upper floor.

Arrest Resisted

TORONTO (CP) — A building superintendent who watched an alleged police beating through binoculars last July told a royal commission hearing Wednesday that the supposed victim resisted arrest.

Terrence Andrew Finn, 26, told the royal commission on Metropolitan Toronto police practices that he saw police arrest Delroy Tomlinson, 29, a former Jamaican resident, who was charged with criminal negligence after a chase which ended when his vehicle struck a stop sign.

Mr. Finn testified that when the driver was taken out of the vehicle, he appeared to be struggling and trying to get away.

Search Ends

TORONTO (CP) — Police said Wednesday that a search for nine-year-old Simon Wilson of the borough of Etobicoke has ended until further clues or information turn up.

Flora MacDonald Silent on Plans

OTTAWA (CP) — Since Margaret Thatcher knocked off other contenders to become leader of Britain's Conservative Party, attention in Canada seems to have settled on Flora MacDonald as a potential successor to Robert Stanfield.

But the 47-year-old redheaded MP from Kingston-The Islands, like other potential candidates in the 95-member caucus, is not about to admit she is ready for the jump.

"I really can't say that I'll be a candidate," she said in an interview Wednesday.

But, unlike many of the others, she doesn't pretend to be embarrassed by the suggestion. "There is no point in being coy about it. I am a politician and, of course, it is fun to be involved in something like this."

Miss MacDonald, a native of North Sydney, N.S., admits to being "excited" about the election of Mrs. Thatcher, even though Mrs. Thatcher is regarded as being on the right wing of her party and Miss MacDonald on the left of hers.

But she is not being carried away by suggestions she could win the leadership of her party.

She says she has no large regional power base because she left her native Maritimes some 20 years ago and couldn't expect to cut a wide swath through delegates from that region. And having gone through only two elections in Kingston, she doesn't have eastern Ontario sewn up.

Moreover, there have been no discussions with other members of caucus. "I really don't talk about it there, because I have no idea how many of them are planning to run."

Miss MacDonald would face the disadvantage of still being identified with the party's anti-Diefenbaker forces in any convention.

She had been closely identified with Dalton Camp in the overthrow of Mr. Diefenbaker in 1966, and although Mr. Camp has said he wouldn't vote for the former party secretary, some western MPs have long memories.

In the meantime, "so long as Mr. Stanfield is our leader I'll be right behind him. I think he is doing a better job than ever before and it would be marvellous if he could be persuaded to stay on."

While the stage is being set for the leadership race and all potential candidates keep their ears to the ground, Miss MacDonald intends to devote all her energies to being an MP. "I don't want people in politics to remember me simply because I am a woman."

Protein Rules

OTTAWA (CP) — Regulations governing the protein content and labelling of meat extenders have been passed by order-in-council, a senior government official said Wednesday.

The rules require all products intended to be added to meats to have a protein content of at least 16 per cent.

Tariff Cut Asked

TORONTO (CP) — The Auto Importers Association of Canada is urging the federal government to reduce the current 15-per-cent import duty on foreign cars sold in Canada.

Rubber to Rise

TORONTO (CP) — The price of rubber products may rise as much as 10 per cent in 1975, a survey of Canadian rubber manufacturers indicates.

'Land of Damned' Welcomes Cabinet

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — Ontario Treasurer Darcy McKeough was welcomed to the "land of the damned" when he and other members of the Ontario cabinet met opponents of the proposed Pickering international airport here Wednesday.

The greeting, from Margaret Godfrey of Claremont, Ont., a spokesman for People or Planes, was typical of reaction drawn by the ministers during the meeting in the Civic Auditorium.

The airport site, announced by the federal government two years ago after consultation with the Ontario cabinet, was termed poor by some anti-airport spokesman.

Other spokesmen were skeptical about predictions that 1,000 additional acres of producing farmland would result from government leasing of farms expropriated for use as a buffer zone.

"I felt Mr. McKeough missed the whole point," said Mrs. Godfrey.

"You can't stop urban growth in our area—we know that. We just don't think an airport need be a part of that growth."

After the federal government announced the airport proposal in March, 1972, Ontario said it was prepared to build a city of up to 200,000 people, with the two projects covering 44,000 acres in Pickering, Markham and Scarborough townships north of here.

Mrs. Godfrey suggested that the best farm lands in the 44,000 acres be used as a training ground for young Canadians.

Each farm unit would be leased to a young farmer while he served a five-year apprenticeship.

"There's no rationale for building this airport anymore," said Marsha Boulton of Whitevale, Ont., representing the North Pickering Council of Community Associations.

Her brief accused the government's North Pickering project team of indulging in "distortions and lies" and the public participation program sponsored by the team.

Mr. McKeough, Agriculture Minister William Stewart, Transportation Minister John Rhodes, Housing Minister Donald Irvine, Resources Secretary Allan Grossman and Attorney-General John Clement listened, but said little.

Mr. McKeough finally stood to provide a defence.

He said that somebody, somewhere has to be disrupted if expanded jet transportation facilities and additional housing are to be provided in the Toronto region.

The four or five million new Ontario residents who will arrive during the next 25 years will require the airport, he told the audience.

The province established the site, he said, because there was already substantial growth to the west of Toronto and because "alternative solutions were no easier."

"We just can't, in finding room for four or five million people, leave everyone alone."

Mr. Stewart rose to say he believed one brief was exagerating when it said 624 acres of Ontario farmland were going out of production every day.

That statistic, he said, was based on production figures compiled several years ago when farmers were being paid not to grow crops.

He said that there would be 1,160 more acres of farm land in production at the North Pickering site this year than in 1974.

B.C. Woman To Seek NDP Leadership

VANCOUVER (CP) — Rosemary Brown, member of the British Columbia legislature for BC Vancouver—Burrard, said Wednesday she will seek the federal leadership of the New Democratic Party.

"It is my intention to run a strong campaign based on a commitment to socialism, feminism, the preservation of our natural resources, the protection of our environment and for the rights of workers and all people," she said in a news release.

Accused Quoted

SARNA, Ont. (CP) — A Sarnia police constable told an Ontario Supreme Court jury Wednesday that David Haight sat in a downtown alley minutes after his wife had been shot and said: "How would you feel if you'd just killed somebody you loved?"

Haight, 37, is charged with murder punishable by life imprisonment in connection with the shooting death of his 33-year-old wife, Joanne, at a downtown hotel last Oct. 29.

Builders Fearful Of More Controls

OTTAWA (CP) — Construction leaders are treating gingerly recent proposals for a stable industry, worrying about more government intervention.

Henri de Puyjalon, president of the Canadian Construction Association, told reporters at the CCA annual convention Wednesday that he dislikes the idea of more government control of the industry.

Government should do no more than set construction objectives and establish the economic climate to allow builders to meet these goals, he said.

Devid Penner of Winnipeg, newly-elected CCA chairman, said that a perfectly stable industry is unlikely. "That's a planned economy and I don't believe in that."

They were being questioned on their views about the Economic Council of Canada report recommending steps to counter the usual "boom and bust" swings in the construction industry.

Mr. de Puyjalon said the association does not yet have an official stand on the council report.

But he said he has told an association study group looking at the report that the government attaches importance to the council findings. The association had to come up with opinions or the government would think silence meant acceptance.

The group will be reporting by mid-summer, he said.

The council proposed, among other things, that the government impose an investment levy in boom periods and an incentive when the economy declines.

"It would take a great deal of convincing to demonstrate to our members much merit of an incentive or disincentive scheme," Mr. de Puyjalon said.

Mr. Penner said that some instability is healthy in that it makes construction companies more competitive. But the industry was too unstable at the moment.

Earlier, Ottawa economist M. X. McCracken, president of Informetrica Ltd., told delegates that the housing sector will probably grow more slowly than the rest of the construction industry in the next 10 years.

Population will grow more slowly with new households amounting to between 200,000 and 215,000 a year, he said.

Summer Visit to Twin City - Lahr - Planned

By HARRY MULHALL

The custom of civic twinning takes wings this year for Belleville residents.

The venture is an original attempt at stepping up citizenship contact on an international level.

For the last three years, Belleville has been twinned — as a municipality — with Lahr, the German city which also is the base for Canada's NATO contingents.

The twinning has brought a series of exchanges — notably for students and civic officials.

Now, individual residents are being offered an opportunity to become involved — while simultaneously taking a European vacation.

A special charter flight is being planned for June 1 from the Belleville area, with Lahr as its destination.

The project, announced Tuesday by Mayor Robin Jeffrey, is a co-operative effort of city council representatives, a leading community businessman and Belleville's travel agents.

This is the outline of the plan:

Air Canada has been retained to fly a two-week 200-seat charter, leaving CFB Trenton for Lahr June 6.

Greeted by Lahr officials they will first have an opportunity to become acquainted with their twin European city.

After that they can begin travelling elsewhere for the remainder of the 14 days, returning to Lahr for the rendezvous with their homeward flight to Trenton.

The basic seat price is $319. But, this weekend, one of the city's travel agents is heading for Lahr to organize details of what other travel amenities will be made available — including bus and cruise tours, hiring of automobiles.

Lahr, for instance, is confortably located close to both the Swiss and Austrian borders.

After all the alternatives have been compiled — by travel agent Tony Warren — the full list of options will be drawn up by city travel agents.

Roluf's and Rawson travel agencies also are working co-operatively on the venture.

While the trip was formally announced at city hall Wednesday, the scheme already has become widely known "by word-of-mouth" said travel agent John Rawson.

But he admitted being surprised" at the number of inquiries received so far about the charter — which sees him and his competitors co-operating on such a venture for the first time.

The flight was the inspiration of Frank Murray, general manager of Radio Station CJBQ, who has been prominent in promoting relationships with Lahr since it was selected as a Canadian base.

Mayor Jewffrey said she contacted Lahr's city manager Adolf Kohler, who, she said, thought it "a wonderful idea".

In fact, the Lahr official suggested it might be possible to make such flights annual events with citizenship exchanges on alternate years from each city, said the mayor.

Curiosity about Lahr has been growing among Bellevillians, fostered by the exchange of students in the past two years, she added.

Because of the presence of so many Canadian service personnel in the Lahr area, the trip seemed a "natural follow-through" said Mr. Murray.

The trip will be advertised nationally with tickets sold on a regular first-come-first-serve basis, said Mr. Rawson.

But Belleville area has some advantages. The booking agents are in the city. The departure point is close by, said Mayor Jeffrey.

The mayor, who will be taking the trip with her husband and daughter, said there already were indications of interest from teachers and school guidance councellors.

Ald. Stu Meeks, member of the committee which organizes the student exchanges, said industrialists might also be interested in the trip as an opportunity to study different manufacturing

Baetz Suggests Province Finance UCS Agencies

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Belleville's United Appeal organizers Wednesday night were urged to solicit provincial government "essential services" now funded through appeal donations.

Reuben Baetz, executive director of the Canadian Council on Social Development, and member of the Ontario Economic Council, told the annual meeting of the United Community Services Wednesday "any agency providing an essential service should be entirely funded by the provincial government".

Specifically, he mentioned the Red Cross blood banking program and Victorian Order of Nursing (VON).

Apart from provincial funding, "which body (government or private) should administrate the program should be a financial consideration. I don't necessarily mean the program should be handed over to the bureaucracy," he said.

He said United Appeal fund organizers must re-think their reasons for existence.

"Fund organizers are clinging to these necessary services and possibly providing a watered-down service because of the area they must cover with available funds," he said.

Appeal organizers should be looking for government support of certain programs and filling those spaces with new programs of a "charitable" nature.

Mr. Baetz said Belleville fund raisers should take a similar approach to the Toronto appeal organizers who this week drastically cut their VON budget.

"Belleville — with prior consultation with the affected agencies — should take similar action to bring about 100 percent provincial funding," he said.

"It might not be necessary for the province to take over the complete agency . . . but just the agency's programs which are considered essential," he said.

Outgoing UCS board president Virginia O'Rourke said in an interview following the meeting she agrees "in principal" with Mr. Baetz's suggestion for provincial funding. She qualified this saying, "control of the agency should not be given to the province but should remain in local hands".

"Though this sort of financing will require much investigation before it is proposed, it is my hope that the new board will begin working towards increased provincial aid this year," she said.

Mr. Baetz and the social development council, recently completed a survey of United Appeals across Canada and resolved three problems existed.

He said these are "a steady decline in donations, a strained relationship between the fund raisers and fund spenders (agencies), philosophical floundering — a lack of clarity in description of agency roles."

"The deeper problem is this lack of understanding of why we (voluntary agencies) exist and what we are doing."

While he said provincial takeover of some programs would be beneficial, "we must explode the colossal myth that government programs have excluded charity".

Director Steps Down

In keeping with United Community Services bylaws, Marg Maddocks stepped down from her board of directors position after serving five consecutive years. Presenting the certificate of service is UCS past president Virginia O'Rourke. The presentation was made at the UCS annual meeting Wednesday.

Bureau Meets

The Volunteer Bureau will hold its annual meeting Wednesday, February 19 at the Four Seasons Hotel in the Park Room beginning at 8 p.m. The program will include a discussion of the bureau's special projects.

Farmers Gather

The Hastings Federation of Agriculture will hold its annual banquet at the Canadian Legion Hall in Belleville Feb. 24. Keynote speaker for the event will be Roy Bonisteel host of CBC-TV's Man Alive series. The Hastings federation, increasingly active in public issues in recent times, now has 400 members.

Trail Ready

A new 20.5-mile snowmobile trail will be opened Sunday morning by the Moira River Conservation Authority east of Vanderwater Park. H.R. Frink, chairman of the authority's information and education advisory board, advises snowmobilers to continue east past the park gates for four miles. The new trail, marked by red arrows on a white background, begins at that point and continues east, looping around Derushie Lake before returning to the starting point.

Loyalist Represented

Loyalist College will be well represented at the annual conference of the board of governors of the province's 22 community colleges with the Ontario Council of Regents. Attending from Loyalist will be Wilf Wilkinson, board chairman, Reg Loader, board member and Herb Young, college president. The meeting will bde held in Toronto Feb. 20-21.

Thurlow, Corby's Agree On Removal of Curve

Thurlow Township council is considering the possibility of eliminating a dangerous curve in its township, on River Rd, in Corbyville near Corby Distilleries.

Freidel Bellstedt, director of distillery operations and Elmer Middleton, Chief engineer at Corby's appeared before township council at its monthly meeting Wednesday to say they agreed with the proposal which would exchange a part of land owned by Corby's with land owned by the township so the curve could removed.

The only stumbling block is who is to pay for the cost of relocating five hydro poles that stand on the land in question. Estimates of the cost of removing and then replacing them varied from $800 to $1,000.

Council decided that the best solution would be to obtain two price estimates of the cost of remedying the pole situation.

In other council business, it was decided to send a letter to the Ontario Muncipalities Association advocating that the date of municipal election be kept in December once every two years and on a Monday.

The move came in response to a survey being taken by the association to find out if there is enough support from other municipalities to merit changing the date of the elections which have been beset by poor weather and turnout the last three times.

In the Plans

Bell Telephone Wednesday became one of the major tenants in the plans for the big new Century Place commercial development in downtown Belleville. Bell is taking over an entire floor of the project for departments now housed in its Pinnacle St. - Victoria Ave. building. Looking at plans on Century site now being cleared are (from left), Ed Thornley, vice-president of developer Belle-Bridge, George Thompson, Bell manager, William Wills, Belle-Bridge president and Brian Holmes, president of Cornerstone Builders, project's general contractor.

UCS Names Directors

Frank Seemungal, Wednesday night, was elected president of Belleville's United Community Services board of directors.

Others elected to office are first vice-president Rev. David Murphy, second vice-president Elizabeth McFarlane and treasurer Harold Mason.

New board members are Cintra Cassidy, G. W. Green, Betty Jones, Gloria Jones, Carson McLaughlin, David Morrow, Mario Scott and W. U. Tausendfreund.

Members returning are Ted Kelly, Mrs. Sidney Murray and Jim Wiseman.

Board members may serve a maximum of five years and board bylaws prohibit more than two thirds of the old board being re-elected in any single election.

Conference Expanded To Handle 80 Briefs

Response to next week's meeting of Ontario cabinet ministers in Belleville has been so great extra time has been scheduled for the discussions.

Originally, morning and afternoon sessions were planned for Monday and Tuesday at the Four Seasons Hotel with nine ministers responsible for resources development.

Now, a night session has been added to the Monday schedule due to "overwhelming public response," the office of Resources Development Secretary Allan Grossman has announced.

Mr. Grossman reported that more than 80 briefs on a wide range of topics had been submitted from throughout Eastern Ontario. Most public interest seems to centre on industrial development, tourism and agriculture.

Little Response to Cancer Seminar

The Canadian Cancer Society Belleville branch's health awareness presentation attracted only a handful of interested citizens Wednesday but there was one bright light for the affair.

Four of them were students from area elementary and secondary schools who viewed two films, asked questions and watched a demonstration of Smoking Sue, the society apparatus which measures the amount of lung contamination from one cigarette.

Bill Woodley, adult education chairman, noted the society might attract more people, particularly students, if invitations are sent to school guidance departments.

Mr. Woodley pointed out the society has ample supplies of films, pamphlets and guest speakers for presentations to any interested group.

"We'll go into the schools any time we're invited," he commented.

Campaign Preparations Begin

The Belleville branch of the Canadian Cancer Society is almost set for activity during April, cancer month this year.

Theme for the 1975 campaign is "If you love life, make sure the love affair lasts."

And the slogan for the campaign workers is "When we have come so far, how can you say no?"

Canvassing will take place during the entire month. Industrial chairman is Brian Knudsen and residential chairman is David Thompson.

Pedestrian Injured

TRENTON — A six-year-old Trenton boy is in the intensive care unit in Belleville General Hospital today with hip and head injuries after he was struck by a car on his way to Marmora Street School here Wednesday.

A hospital spokesman said today Daren M. Hunter, of 9 Charlotte St., is in fair condition with an injured left hip and head injuries.

Town police said the boy was struck by a vehicle driven by Percy Turner, 70, of 29 Barbara St. The Turner car was in the process of making a turn from Marmora St. west onto Dixon Dr., when a corner of the vehicle clipped the boy.

Bridge Studio Loses $312

A thief escaped with about $300 from the Quinte Bridge Studio, 156 Victoria Ave., on Wednesday.

The theft was discovered by Mrs. Pearl Bally about 6 p.m. Mrs. Bally told police that some time between 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. she heard noises downstairs and went to investigate.

Upon investigation she found a man downstairs and when she inquired as to what he was doing was told that he was looking for a certain person. He then left after being told no one of that name was there.

About five hours later she discovered that $312 had been taken from a cash box kept in a desk drawer.

Employers Visiting Loyalist

On-campus employment interviews will continue this month at Loyalist College with three visiting firms.

Next Thursday the Sunnybrook Medical Centre will be present from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. in room 1h.16 for graduating murses and nursing assistants.

And next Friday Bell Canada will interview graduating electronic and civil engineering technologists from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in room 1h.16.

On Feb. 27 graduates from electronic and chemical engineering technology courses will be interviewed by the Public Service Commission of Canada from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in room 1h.16.

Worthy Winner

Gwen Schamerhorn, 15, one of a family of four Girl Guides, was selected as one of the Guides from the Quinte area to travel to another part of Canada for the month of July on a Guide exchange program last night in a draw at Harry J. Clarke School. Gwen, daughter of Bob and Edith Schamerhorn, 67 Safe Blvd., will apply to spend the summer in the Yukon, where she can pursue her interest in Indians and northern living. After hearing the news of her selection, Gwen and her Guide captain, Mrs. Lela Twigg, express their mutual enthusiasm over her selection.

Mystery Trip Awaits Three Area Girl Guides

A draw Wednesday night selected Girl Guides from eastern Ontario who will travel to other parts of Canada and an exchange program marking the 65th anniversary of Girl Guides in Canada.

To be eligible for the July experience, girls had to be at least 14 and have been a member of Girl Guides of Canada since last September. The draw covered an area between Brighton and the Quebec border.

From Belleville, Gwen Schamerhorn was the first selected by Mayor Robin Jeffrey.

Other Quinte-area July travellers will be Vera Allison and Marilyn Smith, from Prince Edward County.

Hostesses to Guides from other parts of Canada will be Charleen Poirier, Cathy and Carole Tracey and Tracey McKinley.

Co-ordinating Guide travel and arrangements in this area will be Lela Twigg, Captain of Company 12, headquartered at Harry J. Clarke School.

Organizer of the draw, which covered eight Guide districts in eastern Ontario, was Mrs. Merle Brennan.

Cats Beef Up For Game 2

Playoff time always seems to bring about some interesting developments for the Belleville Bobcats. Tonight they meet Markham Royals in the second game of their best-of-five Metro Junior B series.

Tuesday in Markham, the Cats got thumped 11-4. However, General Manager Jim Matthews says, "I'm confident we can take them here tonight."

The Cats are putting together a stronger lineup tonight than they've had in the last couple of weeks.

Despite the fact that Bruce Clark is gone from the remainder of the season, the Cats have two fine goalies in Bob Moore and Dan Porteous. Both turned in strong performances in Markham Tuesday.

Added to the list of Bobcats for tonight are Rick Langstaff and Wally Dainard. Langstaff was to be on the injury list for another week or so, but he considers his damaged shoulder to be well enough healed right now. Dainard had signed with the Cats earlier in the season, but quit a short time later. Now, with the Belleville Juniors in trouble, Bobcat officials have coaxed him back.

Eric Powell, who received a match misconduct, Tuesday night, and would normally have missed two games, had his fine paid by the Cat's management so he too will be in tonight's lineup.

Mike Crawford, a call-up from the Shell Juveniles will also be in the starting lineup.

The only player beside Clark who is still out is right winger Jim Richardson. He'll be missing until some time next week.

Game time for tonight's contest at the Memorial Arena is 8.45.

Huskies Score 8-7 Win

FRANKFORD (Special) — A win on home ice here Friday night will enable Frankford Huskies to square their best of seven Ontario Hockey Association Junior C playoff series with Fort Perry at two games each.

Huskies bounced back into contention in Port Perry Wednesday night with an 8-7 win after dropping the first two games in the series.

Jeff Brown led Huskies' Wednesday attack with three goals. Curt McLean and Pete Crawford each checked in with a pair and Jean Doucette had one.

Game time Friday for the fourth match in the set is 8.30 p.m.

Henry Hoops 15

Gryphons Roll

National Basketball star Bob Sharpe scored 25 points and Belleville's Bill Henry dropped in 15 to lead Guelph Gryphons to a 93-86 win over the McMaster Marauders in Ontario Universities Athletic Association basketball action Wednesday night.

In other games, Wilfred Laurier Golden Hawks edged University of Western Ontario Mustangs 86-82 and Waterloo Warriors dumped Brock Badgers 105-68.

The win was the third in a row for Guelph and their fifth in their last six starts. After getting off to a slow beginning the Gryphons have now lifted their record to eight wins and three losses for the season. With one game left in the regular season the win secures second place in the OUAA East Division.

Dave Roser was top point getter for McMaster with 25 points.

At London, the Golden Hawks shot 52 per cent from the floor and got 23-point efforts from guards Paul Lettanzio and Joe Marity.

The win was the first of the season for the Hawks. The Mustangs shot 41 per cent from the floor and outrebounded the Hawks 57-43. Dave Brown was tops for the 'Stangs with 19 points.

Art White led Waterloo with 32 points. Bill Robinson hit for 25 and Trevor Briggs got 20.

Ken Murray scored 14 for Brock and Jim Nelligan added 12.

Cats Whip Lancers

OTTAWA (Special) — Algonquin Cats roared to a 114-67 win over Loyalist College Wednesday night in Eastern Ontario College Athletics Association action, here.

Dave Martin was the big gun for the Cats with 35 points and Larry Trenholm had 28. Brent Sabourin added 15 and Rick McGuire scored 10.

Algonquin cleared the boards and worked the fast break against the Loyalist squad.

"They ran us to death," said Lancers' coach, Rob Stinson.

Dave Culmer headed up the Loyalist scoring attack with 22 points and Bill Kyle got 13. Larry Green was next with 10.

The Lancers finish their regular season February 20 with a game against Sir Sandford Fleming, Lindsay.

Everybody's in on the play, but nobody can get the ball. Red's Marabeth Smith had control of it before she slipped and ended up on her knees. She tried to pass it to teammate, Julie Brazier (right), but it got away from her as well. Ann Lietar (left), another member of the Red Team, and Green's Kim Irwin (background) don't know what to make of the whole situation. Green won the Quinte Women's Basketball League game, played at BCI Wednesday night, 66-33.

Red Hot Battle for Third

Rollins Lumber and Chuckwagon Foods continued their duel for third place in the Gas House Hockey League standings Wednesday night. Each team posted a win to leave Rollins with a narrow 28-27 edge in points in the struggle for the third slot.

While Rollins got by Belleville Yardmen 5-2, Chuckwagon overpowered last place Canadian Durabla 12-0 behind the shutout goaltending of Joe Scanlan and John Smith's six-goal production.

In the other match, Belleville Generals, perched in second place in the standings, retained their three-point edge over Rollins by stopping Constellation Carpets 9-5.

Two goals by Wayne Harrison and singles from Bruce Pascoe, Larry Pascoe and Dale Tummon got the job done for Rollins in the defeat of Yardmen. Replying for the losers were Dick Fobert and Jack Short

Smith had two assists to go with his six goals for Chuckwagon but the big playmaker was Gary Sero who earned six helpers. Cliff Janitsch shot a pair of goals with one each for Steve Moore, Dave Middleton, Terry Casselman and Sero.

Dave Skelton and Bill Van Soelen each checked in with three goals to spearhead Generals' attack. Hyalie Bryant scored twice and picked up two assists. Bill Minaker rounded out the winners' output. Ron Mitchell had two Constellation goals while Dale Kiley, Bill Yull and Gord Vesterfelt notched singles.

Kim and Ginny Irwin Click for 48 Points

Kim and Ginny Irwin combined to score 48 points Wednesday night to lead Green to a 66-33 win over Red in Quinte Women's Basketball League play. In the other game, White defeated Blue 49-31.

Kim topped the Green onslaught with 26 points and Ginny added 22. Patti Clapp was next with 14 and Sheila Alexander rounded things out with four.

Ann Lieter had 17 for Red and Lynn Burkitt got eight.

Donna Patterson was tops for White with 16 and Carol Northey had 14. Dawn Smith was next with nine.

For Blue, Gabi Cornellier was tops with 10.

Nicholson Top Choice In Charger Tourney

Nicholson Catholic College heads up a list of senior basketball entrants in the first Centennial Charger Senior Tournament to be held this Saturday.

The Nicks go into the tournament as the top seeded team and are hoping to add the Centennial championship to an already long list of titles. In the past three weeks Nicholson has won three tournaments.

January 25 the Cobourg East-West senior championship went to the Nicks. February 1 Nicholson earned interprovincial recognition by winning the North Island Invitational Tournament at Rosemere, Quebec.

Last weekend the Nicks won the first All-Catholic Senior Tournament in Oshawa.

The number two rated club is Oshawa Eastdale. They took a one-point decision from the Nicks in the Durham Invitational Tournament in mid-December Nicholson went on to win the Consolation championship and Oshawa won the Grand Championship. The Eastdale club is led by six-foot-seven Fred Koepke. He scored 39 points against the Nicks in his team's win.

The following weekend, the Nicks and Eastdale faced off in the Queen's University Tournament and Nicholson came out with an easy victory. Nicholson lost the championship of this tournament by one point in the final game.

Oshawa Central could have a crack at the title even though they've never beaten Nicholson in tournament action this season. They have beaten Oshawa Eastdale however, and have added a fine outside shooter and ball-handler since the last time they met the Nicks.

Brockville Collegiate is another team with a good chance at taking top honors. John Logi, the Brockville coach, is highly touted and in past years has coached many regional champions.

Regiopolis College, Kingston opens the tournament at 9 a.m. against the host school, Centennial. This game should be an interesting one since the Centennial coach, Pat Carty, received his secondary education at Regiopolis. The Kingston squad is well known for their solid defence.

Cobourg West is a team that could put in a strong challenge for the title. The Cobourg crew has been in two finals, their own East-West tournament and the Trenton Early Nicholson and has come up empty handed in both.

Trenton Secondary has the potential to come on and win the tournament. The Trenton team is basically comprised of the junior Central Ontario champion team from last year, but has had trouble adjusting to the senior level.

Games will run continuously from 9 a.m. with the Grand Championship scheduled for 8 p.m. Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents with a student card.

Heavy Snow Cancels Skiing at Games

Saskatchewan Skaters in Strong Performance

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — Two 15-year-old Manitoba girls and a 16-year-old Ontario boy won speedskating gold medals at the Canada Winter Games Wednesday but Saskatchewan slipped into the over-all lead in the sport.

Kathy Vogt of Winnipeg won the 400 metres, edging clubmates Barbara Johnston and Pat Durnin by one-tenth of a second. Miss Johnston captured the 800 metres with Miss Vogt second and Diane Caswell of Saskatoon third.

Patrick Guay of Ottawa won the men's 500 metres with Jim Johnson of Winnipeg second and Craig Webster of Regina third.

What gave Saskatchewan the edge in the provincial team standings was the generally strong performance of its skaters. Although their best finish in any race was third, they had four skaters in the top 10 in the 400 metres, two in the 500 and three in the 800. Manitoba was second and Ontario third in team rankings.

The final standings in speedskating, in which men and women compete as a single team, will be determined after the final races Friday.

Nine provinces are entered in this sport—Newfoundland, the Yukon and Northwest Territories are not represented— and points counting toward the Games championship will be awarded on the basis of 12 for first place, 11 for second, 10 for third and so on.

The fourth gold medal of the Games, which run to Feb. 22, was captured by Lyne Carrier, 13, of Quebec City, in the synchronized swimming solo competition.

Lyne, the Canadian junior champion who also swims in the duet competition with her twin sister Lyna, won in a tight finsh over three other swimmers. She received 82.80 points.

Second was Mary-Jane Ling, 22, of Hamilton, with 82.40 points, third Carol Stuart, 19, of Calgary 81.00, and fourth Jill Poole of West Vancouver, B.C., 80.40

Miss Stuart is making a comeback following a year of inactivity after being a member of the Calgary team that won a silver medal in the 1973 world championships in Belgrade, Yugoslavia.

With the duet competition scheduled tonight and the team seems in a strong position to retain the Winter Games synchronized swimming title won at Saskatoon in 1971. Other strong teams are B.C., second in 1971, Alberta, third, and Ontario, fourth.

The Carriers are the younger sisters of Jojo Carrier, an outstanding swimmer who was second on the solos in Belgrade.

Two silver medals but no bronze were awarded in the women's 400-metre speedskating as Miss Johnston and Miss Durnin tied for second. That left fourth-place Shawna Hicks, 13, of Winnipeg, out in the cold.

And it was cold. The temperature remained below zero throughout the day and the 400-metre oval was brittle and fast except when lightly covered with powdery snow.

Miss Hicks, who had hoped for a bronze medal, was not the only disappointed skater. Cathy Turnbull of Regina thought she had won until a flaw was discovered in the electronic timer. Official results placed her fourth.

Cathy wasn't surprised, however, commenting that she had been beaten before by three talented Winnipeg skaters.

Two days of heavy snowfall that blanketed the slopes at Westcastle in southwestern Alberta forced cancellation of the men's and women's giant slaloms Wednesday. They were rescheduled for Saturday and Sunday.

Forty-four men managed to begin their descents on the first of two runs but the two feet of snow that had fallen in the previous 48 hours made conditions impossible.

Some skiers fell, others failed to finish and others sacrificed time in order to complete their runs. When officials took a look at the slow times they decided to wipe out the run and start over Saturday morning.

"Skiing down the middle of the hill the snow was up to my knee," said John Holland, technical director for the competition. "When I went by a tree or got off the beaten track it was over my waist. And as you skied the snow blew up into your face so you couldn't see."

Although more snow was forecast today, officials were confident they could get it packed down and go ahead with the men's and women's slaloms.

Prime Minister and Mrs. Trudeau were to have flown to Westcastle by helicopter after Mr. Trudeau officially opened the speedskating oval and took a leisurely turn around it. But weather conditions forced them to stay in Lethbridge and Margaret Trudeau could not preside at the official opening of the skiing.

In the round-robin badminton competition five provincial men's and women's teams—Alberta, British Columbia, Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec—came through the first two of 11 rounds undefeated.

The B.C team of Blake Kennedy and Ray Stevenson of Vancouver, Maureen and Ron Chen of Richmond, Brenda Lewis and Greg Paul of Nelson and Lyn Polson and Diane Sluggett of Victoria had the easiest time.

They met the Yukon and Northwest Territories teams and won by 9-0 scores as they opened defence of the badminton crown they won in Saskatoon in 1971.

Ontario, which won the men's fencing title at the 1971 Games, and runner-up Quebec were undefeated with 6-0 records after Wednesday's foils competition.

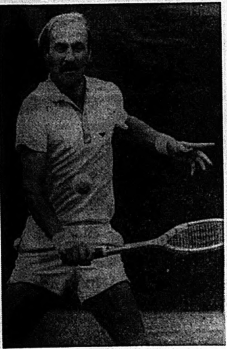
The Ontario team of Richard Routhier of Gatineau, Ont., and Gerald Wall and Michael Elliott, both of Ottawa, won 44 matches and lost 10 while Quebec, with Donald Charest of Quebec City, Andre Leduc of Valleyfield and Gerald Hubert of Montreal, was 48-6.

Wall, with 18 wins and two defeats, was the individual leader.

The men's foil competition ends tonight with the gold medal certain to go to the Quebec-Ontario winner.

Volunteers

Ski Patrollers are not policemen, says the Canadian Ski Patrol. Instead, it would be more accurate to call them "safety patrolmen". Almost all are volunteers concerned with the safety of all skiers, preferably before than after accidents.



Stan Smith

Linesman Helps

TORONTO (CP) — A linesman's call gave Stan Smith of the United States a lift Wednesday night and the big veteran went on to defeat Dick Stockton of the U.S. 6-7, 6-4, 6-2 and advance to the third round of the World Championship Tennis tournament.

With the score tied at four games each in the second set, the linesman ruled Stockton's ball out of play, giving Smith the advantage at deuce. Stockton double-faulted and Smith took the game.

Smith seemed temporarily shaken and double-faulted twice, but he recovered and won the set. In the final set, he broke Stockton's service twice.

The win was seen as a help to the sagging confidence of Smith, who has been in a slump since May.

"It was the first real glimmer of light as far as reaching the level I hope to achieve," Smith said Wednesday night.

Erik Van Dillen of the U.S., who upset No. 2 seed John Alexander of Australia on Monday night, defeated countryman Raz Reid 6-3, 7-5 in a lacklustre match Wednesday.

In Wednesday's other singles matches, Harold Solomon of the U.S. downed Barrie Phillips-Moore of Australia 6-4, 7-5 and Bob Lutz of the U.S. stopped Jun Kamiwazumi of Japan 6-2, 3-6, 6-2

Leafs' Wilson on Waivers

Hawks Handcuff Orr, Esposito and Company

By NEIL CAMPBELL
The Canadian Press

Phil Esposito and Bobby Orr might be thankful they don't have to play Chicago Black Hawks every night.

The Black Hawks seem to have found a way to bottle up the Boston Bruin stars, who have been prolific enough against the 16 other National Hockey League teams to lead the league in scoring.

Chicago frustrated the Bruin stars so thoroughly Wednesday night that Boston coach Don Cherry finally benched them for the third period of an 8-3 Chicago win.

An assist on Ken Hodge's goal near the end of the first period is the only point Orr has picked up in two games against Chicago this year. Esposito has been shut out completely.

Jim Pappin sparked the Hawks with the sixth three goal performance of his career.

In Wednesday's other National Hockey League games, Toronto Maple Leafs tied Montreal Canadiens 2-2, Buffalo Sabres tied Pittsburgh Penguins 3-3, New York Islanders downed Minnesota North Stars 4-2, Atlanta Flames tied Los Angeles Kings 2-2 and California Golden Seals beat Detroit Red Wings 4-2.

A pair of goals by Inge Hammarstrom, the second with 3:34 to play, gave the Leafs their tie after Montreal took an early lead by putting two of its first three shots past Toronto goalie Doug Favell.

Guy Lafleur tied a club record when he assisted on Steve Shutt's first period goal, then broke the index finger on his left hand in a collision with Toronto's Darryl Sittler. He isn't expected to miss any games.

Lafleur's assist, his 52nd, together with 44 goals, gives him 96 points, matching the club record set by Dickie Moore in 1958-59 and tied by Frank Mahovlich in 1971-72.

After the game, Toronto general manager Jim Gregory announced that goalie Dunc Wilson has been placed on waivers. Gregory said he was unable to find anybody to take Wilson in a trade.

Wilson has not been dressed for a game since a disastrous West Coast road trip late last month on which he missed a bus and broke training.

A pair of goals by rookie Danny Gare, including the equalizer in the final minute, gave the Sabres their tie.

Jude Drouin and J. P. Farise, both traded to New York by Minnesota earlier this season helped the Islanders beat the North Stars. Drouin drew two assists and Parise scored New York's fourth goal.

"It helps to be with a winner," said Parise. "When you keep losing like we were with the North Stars, things have a way of getting worse rather than better."

Rookie defenceman Ed Keay scored his first NHL goal midway in the third period to give the Flames their tie at Los Angeles.

The Seals overcame a 2-1 Detroit lead in the last 14 minutes to beat the Wings on goals by Butch Williams, Dave Hrechkosy and John Stewart.

Tonight's schedule has the Black Hawks at Philadelphia Flyers, Washington Capitals at Kansas City Scouts and Boston at Buffalo.

Crusaders Strike Early To Outscore Cougars 5-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Talks coach Jack Vivian had with Cleveland Crusaders earlier this week about playing 60 minutes of hockey paid quick dividends Tednesday night.

The two goals the Crusaders scored in the first three minutes of their World Hockey Association made the difference in a 5-3 win over Chicago Cougars.

"It seems like we've been getting caught for the first goal all the time and we're always playing catch-up hockey," Vivian said. "The other night in Winnipeg they scored against us in the first 22 seconds of the game."

Wednesday night it was the Crusaders who scored quickly, with Russ Walker and Ron Ward producing the early goals.

In Wednesday's other WHA games, Houston Aeros topped Minnesota Fighting Saints 3-1, Toronto Toros downed Winnipeg Jets 7-4, Vancouver Blazers edged Phoenix Roadrunners 5-4 and Edmonton Oilers tied New England Whalers 2-2.

The win put the second-place Crusaders 11 points in front of the Cougars in the Eastern Division.

Chicago coach Pat Stapleton said the Crusaders took advantage of the Cougars' mistakes in front of their own net to hand them their 11th consecutive road defeat.

Houston's Andre Hinse scored his 30th goal of the season early in the third period to break a 1-1 tie with the Saints. Goaltender Ron Grahame made 32 saves in a brilliant performance for the Aeros.

The Winnipeg line of player-coach Bobby Hull, Anders Hedberg and Ulf Nilsson was on the ice for five of Toronto's goals, the worst performance by the line Hull could remember.

Hull failed to score in his bid to match the pace of 50 goals in 50 games set by Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal Canadiens in the 1944-45 National Hockey League season. Hull has 47 goals in 49 games.

Tom Simpson scored his 34th and 35th goals for the Toros, who blew a 4-1 lead in the second period, then scored three unanswered goals in the final period.

Danny Lawson had two goals and an assist for the Blazers, but it took a goal by Hugh Harris with just over a minute to play to beat the Roadrunners.

Harris finished off a three-on-two break with line-mates Ron Chipperfield and Jimmy Jones, beating Phoenix goaltender Gary Kurt from 10 feet out.

Robins Get Share Of First

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Penalties were a big factor Wednesday night when Richmond Robins defeated Hershey Bears 7-4 to climb into a first-place tie with Virginia Red Wings in the Southern Division of the American Hockey League.

The Robins scored four times on power plays, while the Bears got three goals while the Robins were shorthanded.

Larry Pullen and Randy Wyrozub led the winners with two goals each.

In other games, Rochester Americans tied Providence Reds 4-4 and Springfield Indians defeated Syracuse Eagles 4-2.

Check Racks

Automobile ski racks should always be checked for rigidity, recommends the Canadian Ski Patrol. Whole racks or single skis coming off fast-moving cars are dangerous to other cars, as well as harmful to the skis.

Rocky Start for Savage Rink

CAMBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — Paul Savage's chance at a fourth Ontario men's curling championship may have gone up in smoke Wednesday as his Toronto Avonlea rink lost its first two draws.

The 27-year-old skip was defeated by Alex Scott's Kingston Cataragui rink 8-4 in the opening round and then dropped crucial 8-5 decision to Ken Buchan's London Ivanhoe foursome in the second draw.

The winner of the four-day, round-robin tournament will advance to the Canadian men's final in Fredericton, March 3-8.

The second loss caught the confident Savage by surprise.

The defending champion won the Ontario title in 1970, 1973 and 1974.

Ken Buchan and Ron Manning, who represent Toronto Lambton, now have surfaced as early favorites. Both have 2-0, won-lost records.

In other second-round play, Bill Martyniuk's Toronto High Park rink upset Kngston 10-8, Jim Currie's Pickering Annandale crew defeated Bill Dixon's Brampton rink 8-3, Doug Palmer skipped his St. Catharines team to a 14-3 victory over Bruce Buchan's Toronto East York foursome and Toronto Lambton edged Harry Adams's Ottawa Lansdowne rink 8-5.

Ottawa defeated East York 6-5 in the opening round of the nine-draw, 12-end event, while Lambton edged St. Catharines 4-3, London dumped Pickering 7-3 and Brampton defeated High Park 8-7.

Behind the two leaders in the standings are St. Catharines, Brampton, Pickering, Ottawa, High Park and Kingston, all with 1-1 records. Avonlea and East York are winless.

Today's third round: Ottawa vs. Pickering; Lambton vs. Avonlea; St. Catharines vs. Kingston; East York vs. Brampton and High Park vs. London.

The afternoon round: Lambton vs. East York; Ottawa vs. High Park; Brampton vs. Avonlea; St Catharines vs. London, and Pickering vs. Kingston.

L'Enjoleur Fourth

Ascetic Winner

MIAMI (AP) — Ascetic stamped himself as a top contender for the $100,000 Flamingo in two weeks by holding off a strong field of 12 3-year-olds Wednesday to capture the $33,600 Everglades by 2½ lengths at Hialeah.

The Woody Stephens-trained colt, son of Damascus-Music Please, broke quickly from the 12th position along the rail and led after catching favored L'Enjoleur around the first turn.

L'Enjoleur, the Canadian horse of the year in 1974 and owned by J. L. Levesque of Montreal, led the chase until tiring coming down the stretch and finished fourth, 2½ lengths behind Directory.

American History unleashed a strong stretch drive to finish second, ahead in front of Directory.

Ascetic covered the 1⅛ miles in 1:49 3-5 on a fast track and earned $21,840 for owner Mill House.

Safety First

Safe bindings make for safer skiing. Start your day right by checking that your bindings release properly. The Canadian Ski Patrol recommends that you check them after lunch as well, since they may have become clogged with snow or ice, or the settings loosened by vibration during your morning runs.

WILLIE DAVIS

Five Days In Jail For Davis

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Baseball star Willie Davis was in jail Wednesday, serving a five-day sentence for failing to pay $1,750 monthly child support and alimony since September.

The sentence was handed down Tuesday by Superior Court Commissioner Philip Erbson, who held the Texas Ranger outfielder in contempt for failure to make the payments.

Lawyers for his former wife, Jeanna Davis, said the 34-year-old baseball player had made no effort since September to support her or their three children: Kimberly, 10; Jennifer, 8, and Gregory, 15. The two were divorced in January, 1974.

Davis, a former long-time Los Angeles Dodger, was traded to Texas by Montreal Expos this winter. He told the court he earned $110,000 yearly from the Rangers.

Get Support

If your boots have become as soft and pliable as your favorite slippers, it's time you bought a new pair, says the Canadian Ski Patrol. Whether leather or plastic, your boots should provide firm support and be properly padded and fitted to the contours of your feet and ankles. This will help to avoid uncomfortable chafing, and leaning at an awkward angle that could put you off balance and lead to an accident.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Owner Charles Finley of Oakland A's says he'll be a gracious loser in any salary arbitration setbacks—unless catcher Ray Fosse is one of the winning players.

"If I lose that case, I'll get out of baseball," the owner of the American League club declared Wednesday.

He brought up the Fosse case—though not identifying the catcher by name—in an impromptu luncheon news conference which followed the first arbitration hearing of 1975 in which pitcher Ken Holtzman asked for a $19,000 raise to $112,000.

"We pay our players well," the owner of the world championship club said, adding that the A's payroll "has increased 155 per cent in the last five years."

Finley is out to hold the salary line in the cases of Holtzman, offered the same $93,000 contract won through arbitration last year, and several other front-line players including Fosse, whose case is scheduled to be heard next Wednesday.

Joe Rudi and Vida Blue were scheduled for hearings today, but outfielder Rudi and Catcher Gene Tenace settled with Finley Wednesday night.

Presumably they were given raises over the salaries they got in 1974 after losing in arbitration—a reported $55,000 for Rudi and $45,000 for Tenace.

Reliever Paul Lindblad agreed to a Finley offer Tuesday, so only 10 of the 13 A's cases originally filed for arbitration were left. Holtzman should hear today whether he won or lost.

Finley said: "One player who didn't even hit .200 last year asked me for a $25,000 raise and he was really sincere. To make it even funnier, he took me into arbitration."

Finley added that "the player didn't even play a full season."

BROKE UP FIGHT

It could only be Fosse, who batted .196 in 69 games. Finley didn't mention the reason for Fosse's inactivity—a back injury suffered when he tried to break up a June clubhouse fight between teammates Reggie Jackson and Bill North.

Fosse has lowered his aim to an $18,500 raise, Finley said, and the owner is offering the same money as last year after at first offering the catcher a $5,000 raise.

"I wish now I'd offered him a 20 per cent cut," Finley concluded.

Bullets Produce 15th Home Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Home cooking suits Washington Bullets, but it didn't do much for the National Basketball Association title hopes of Detroit Pistons in National Basketball Association games Wednesday night.

The Bullets hung on for their 15th consecutive home victory, defeating Milwaukee Bucks 112-108 in overtime at Landover, Md.

The Pistons, chasing Chicago in the Midwest Division, figured they had an edge, facing the Bulls in Detroit, where Chicago hadn't won since Nov. 18, 1973. But Wednesday night the Bulls won 103-93.

In Wednesday's other NBA games, Cleveland Cavaliers whipped Philadelphia '76ers 115-102, Kansas City-Omaha Kings surprised Boston Celtics 103-102, Phoenix Suns took Buffalo Braves 108-96 and Seattle Super-Sonics edged Houston Rockets 104-103.

In Wednesday's ABA games, Kentucky Colonels topped San Antonio Spurs 112-100, the Spirits of St. Louis beat Virginia Squires 123-111, Utah Stars beat Memphis Sounds 101-96 and Denver Nuggets trimmed San Diego Conquistadors 115-109.

A snowstorm forced postponement of the Indiana Pacers-New York Nets game at Uniondale, N.Y.

BOB STINSON

Contracts For Expos

MONTREAL (CP) — Two players—pitcher Don Carrithers and catcher Bob Stinson—who earlier indicated they would take their salary dispute with Montreal Expos to binding arbitration, Wednesday signed for the 1975 baseball season with the National League club.

With Carrithers and Stinson agreeing to terms, the Expos now have 33 of the players on their 40-man major league roster signed for the coming season.

Reduce Risk

To reduce the risk of injury from skis snapping back when you fall, the Canadian Ski Patrol recommends that you avoid elastic safety straps. Good leather straps attached to both boot and ski are preferred.

BIRTHS

REID — Carl and Beatrice thank the Lord for the safe arrival of their twin boys, Adam and Andrew, born Saturday, February 8th, 1975, weight 5 lbs., 2 ozs. and 8 lbs., ½ oz. Special thanks to Dr. Empson and Dr. Birchard and nurses on maternity.

HIGGINS — Claude and Pat Higgins wish to announce the arrival of their daughter Tracy Marlene, weight 7 lbs., 13½ ozs. A sister for Lisa and Sherry. Born Saturday, Feb. 8, 1975 at Belleville General Hospital.

BELCH — Sterling and Donna (nee Bourgoin) are happy to announce the arrival of their son Kevin Sterling on Friday, February 7, 1975, weighing 8 lbs., 6 ozs. at Belleville General Hospital. A brother for Pamela. Special thanks to Dr. Birchard and Dr. Gibson and nurses of the 5th floor.

GOLDEN — Jim and Barb (nee Latham) are pleased to announce the arrival of their first born, a son, Craig Anthony, born on February 10, 1975 at 3.37 p.m., weight 8 lbs., 11 ozs. Proud grandparents are Doll and Harry Latham of Belleville and Joe and Marion Golden of Cannifton.

IN MEMORIAM

CORNELL — In loving memory of a dear son Phillip Cornell who passed away Feb. 13, 1973.

Time speeds on, two years have passed,
Since death its gloom, its shadows cast,
Within our home, where all seemed bright,
And took from us a shining light,
We miss that light, and ever will,
His vacant place there is none to fill.
Down here we mourn, but not in vain,
For up in Heaven we will meet again.

—Lovingly remembered by mother and father (Roy and Ferne Cornell).

CORNELL — In loving memory of a dear husband Phillip Cornell, who passed away Feb. 13, 1973.

Time rolls on and I am reminded,
Of a day my heart was crushed,
When God took you, oh, so quickly,
And we all in gloom were thrust,
In the bloom of life, death claimed you,
In the prime of manhood days.
But I hope some day to meet you,
And to be with you always.

—Ever remembered by wife Lois and children Michael, Perry, Janice and Karen.

McCAUGHEN — In memory of Everett J. McCaughen who passed away Feb. 13, 1972.

The years are quickly passing,
Though still we can't forget,
For in the hearts that love him,
His memory lingers yet.

—Ever remembered by wife Margaret and Eliza, Pearl, Kenneth and Bernice.

CARDS OF THANKS

We would like to thank our family, relatives, and friends, who attended the party in honor of our 45th wedding anniversary, and all those who participated in the money tree. Also for the many cards received. Thank you.
Fred and Blanche Garrison.

TAKE THE RISK OUT OF BUYING A COLOR TV
RENT FROM CIRCLE TV

With option to buy and full rental rebate. Are you worried about getting a "lemon" in a TV? Well relax! Circle TV will rent you a brand new 1975 Electrohome TV for a reasonable period. If at the end of that time you are happy with the set, as we know you will be, then the rental charge will be applied against the purchase price. Or, if you wish, you can continue to rent the set. If you are not satisfied though, we will take the TV back with no further obligation on your part. Do you know a better way to take the risk out of buying a TV?

Too Much Time in Cars

WELLAND, Ont. (CP) — Welland County Roman Catholic separate school board personnel are spending too much time in cars and not enough time in classrooms, says board trustee Eric Lefebre. He brought up the point at a board meeting and asked why the mileage for December, which had 15 school days, was so high. "I'm just wondering if people are doubling their travelling, or if we have to squeeze in more supervision," he said.

To Spend $2 Million

EGINA (CP). — Sask Tel will spend more than $2 million during the next two years to expand electronic telephone switching equipment at Saskatoon. The program will include the installation of equipment to provide central and special telephone equipment for federal government offices in the city.

Odd Leftovers

TORONTO (CP) — The Four Seasons-Sheraton Hotel here reports that a Viking helmet and sword were left in a room by a departing guest. The hotel also found such things as a friar's robe, packets of vegetable seeds and even a live chicken. Management said it does not mail left items to the guests because it has caused embarrassment in the past.

Fire in Locker

WELLAND, Ont. (CP) — A washroom and locker room at Canada Forgings Ltd. (Canforge) were extensively damaged by fire. The fire was caused by hot forgings, said a fire spokesman.

Wm. Belch Team Remains Unbeaten

Results went from one extreme to the other in Belleville Minor Hockey Association Atom Minor play on the weekture World blanked Belleville Yardmen 8-0, Maher Shoes shaded Quinte Rentals 2-1. In the third game, first place Wm. Belch and Sons topped A and D Esso 4-1 for its 13th win to go with two ties in 15 starts.

John Blackwell played shutout goal for Cherney's. They got a pair of goals each from Jim Thompson and David Slaughter. Mike Allen had both Maher goals in the squeaker over the Rentals squad. The Belch team was paced by the two-goal effort of Brock Barager.

Highlights of the Major Division were a 1-1 tie played by Dairy Queen and Belleville Firefighters and Ellis Printing's 5-4 shading of Clayton's TV.

Mike Hanna scored the Dairy Queen goal. Replying for the Firefighters was Peter Wood. Danny Shorey potted four goals to lead the Printers.

In the other games, league leading Eastern Business Equipment got by Red Barn 5-1; Bowes and Cocks defeated Quinte Home Builders 7-1 and Hawkins Chips edged past the Firefighters into third place with a 5-2 win over Fry Ford.

The Equipment team got a pair of goals by Bob Kanary. Robert Freeman notched three and Eric Cowen led Bowes and Cocks with three and two-goal efforts respectively while Hawkins Chips got a three-goal performance by Paul Belliveau.

ONTARIO

ONTARIO ENERGY BOARD

Notice of Application And Hearing

TAKE NOTICE that an application dated February 5, 1975, has been filed by Newco Limited, an Alberta corporation, under section 26(2) of The Ontario Energy Board Act to obtain the leave of the Lieutenant Governor in Council to acquire all the outstanding voting shares of Northern and Central Gas Corporation Limited ("Northern") and that the Board has appointed Monday, March 17, 1975, at 9 a.m. at the Board's Hearing Room at 14 Carlton Street, Toronto, Ontario M5B 1K5, for the hearing of the application.

The proposed acquisition of the Northern voting shares by the Applicant is part of a proposed reorganization involving Northern and its Albert subsidiaries, Canadian Industrial Gas and Oil Limited ("Cigol") and Coleman Collieries Limited. The proposed reorganization will also involve a statutory amalgamation of the Applicant with Cigol to form a new Alberta corporation, Norcen Energy Resources Limited ("Norcen"). In the result Northern will continue to exist, but as a wholly-owned subsidiary of Norcen.

The Applicant submits in its application that its proposed acquisition of the shares of Northern is part of an internal corporate reorganization and does not involve any real change in the ownership or control of Northern and is not detrimental to the public interest.

Any person who intends to oppose the application or otherwise intervene shall, within 14 days after publication of this notice in daily newspapers, file in duplicate with the Board at 14 Carlton Street, Toronto, Ontario M5B 1K5, and serve upon the Applicant's solicitor, Peter F. Scully, at 4600 Toronto-Dominion Centre, Toronto, Ontario M5K 1E5, his Answer containing a clear and concise statement of his interest and his grounds for opposing or otherwise intervening, and being endorsed with his name and address and, if documents are to be served on his solicitor, his solicitor' name and address. Filing or service shall be personal or by registered mail.

The Board has directed that service of this notice on all persons who may be affected by this application shall be by publication in daily newspapers. If any person notified does not attend at the hearing, the Board may proceed in his absence and he will not be entitled to any further notice in the proceedings.

Copies of the application are available from the Board and the Applicant's solicitor. Further particulars are available from the Applicant's solicitor.

DATED at Toronto this 7th day of February, 1975.

Your Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

Friday, Feb. 14

Aries (March 21-April 19) You're likely to run into some snags you'll find very disturbing. Don't vent your rage on innocent, bystanders.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Others will be palming-off their responsibilities on you if they think they can get away with it. Watch out.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Avoid gatherings where you feel uncomfortable with the persons involved. Stick to the crowd you're familiar with.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) You have a slight tendency to try to run the affairs of others. This will not please certain people.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't try to impose philosophical or political views on those who think in different patterns. It will stir up a hornet's nest.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You will find yourself pressed a bit the next few days by obligations you've overlooked or failed to attend to.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Partnership situations will require all the tactful handling you're capable of if you want to keep peace today and tomorrow.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be sensible about matters relating to health the next few days. Don't burden yourself with more chores than necessary.

Sagittarius (Nov 23-Dec. 21) Steer clear of risky or speculative ventures the next few days. Something for nothing ain't gonna come your way.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There are some pressures building up on the home front. Don't let them throw the family into turmoil. Keep your cool.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You have some very strong opinions about certain issues that are best kept to yourself till a calmer view prevails.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Take extra pains to be a bit more security-conscious about finances and possessions. Don't deal with those of questionable reputation.

UNAFFECTED BY SLUMP

HALIFAX (CP) — J. B. Wilber, president of the Maritime Lumber Bureau, said the Nova Scotia lumber industry has not yet been affected by the housing slump and loss of export markets in Britain and the United States. He said almost all the 10,000 persons usually employed in the province's mills andwoods are working.

Fever Increasing

CHICAGO (AP) — Cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever in the United States for 1974 ran about 19 per cent ahead of 1973, says the American Medical Association. The federal Centre for Disease Control in Atlanta reports that the tick-borne disease has been increasing since 1968. Rocky Mountain spotted fever is caused by a bacterium that infects the wood tick and other ticks.

Too Many People Try to See Baby

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In a few months we expect the arrival of our third child in three years. When our last baby was born, our house was packed with well-meaning neighbors and their curious children, anxious to see the baby.

This resulted in my being exhausted, and the baby catching a bad cold before he was three weeks old. I am very anxious not to repeat this bedlam, especially since the baby will be born in the middle of the flu season.

How can I explain to our visitors that I appreciate their good intentions, but that I would rather they keep their children at home?

This whole dilemma is causing our household great concern, and I certainly would appreciate advice.—Mrs. R.W.

All new babies are "cute" to adults and an attraction for youngsters. You will just have to set up some guidelines for your visitors.

In that regard, everyone visiting the baby, adult or child, should be asked to wear a mask, particularly if they are sneezing or coughing. They should be asked to keep their distance and not handle the baby. In fact, you can tell them a doctor (me) suggested no one but the mother, father and doctor handle an infant.

That hint should be broad enough and yet productive of some results. To satisfy the children's curiosity, the baby can be held at a specified time "on display." Newborn infants do have natural resistance to certain infections, but the ability to cope with flu or strep organisms is not unlimited.

Don't let anyone but yourself into the nursery room to hover over the crib. Tell visitors the baby is napping or is about to be fed.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like information on the causes or cures of the enlargement of my husband's testes. This condition started 15 years ago.

The doctor at the time did not push for treatment or predict any worsening of the condition. However, the past few years, they are really enlarged to the point of making him chafe.

If you feel this is a serious condition, please say so.—Mrs. O.W.

You should understand the difference between the testes and the scrotum. They are not the same.

The swelling is most likely due to fluid accumulation in the scotal sac (called hydrocele). This does not involve the testes proper, which are within the same sac.

Treatment involves either drainage of the fluid or corrective surgery to prevent recurrence. The purpose of the surgery is a rearrangement of membranes within the sac so that fluid does not reappear. The condition is not considered serious, and this is why your doctor did not, as you say, "push" for treatment early.

With simple drainage, recurrence is common, but with the surgical procedure the problem is corrected.

Your husband should probably see a urologist. Your local medical society should be able to refer you to one.

Taxi!

TAMWORTH, England (CP) — The Reliant Motor Co., makers of three-wheeled cars, has won a &500,000 ($1.15 million) contract to help replace the pedal rickshaws of Jakarta, Indonesia. The company will provide the chassis and suspensions for small three-wheeler taxis.

Rhodesia's Mines' Output Up

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (CP) — The minister of mines has predicted that Rhodesia's mining production will reach value of $200 million by 1976.

The minister, Ian Dillon, first forecast this figure in 1967, but at that time he set no date for the target to be reached.

"Provided there are no major upsets in commodity prices and markets, I am confident this target will be achieved in 1976," he said.

"In fact I hope soon to fix a new target to which I am sure, the industry will respond."

Dillon has predicted that large-scale operations might be the mining pattern of the future ad urged the industry to re-examine conventional methods of mining.

He called for practices more suitable to changing economic conditions, to enable maximum extraction of payable ore. Technological developments would permit large-scale open-cast operations and the mining of what were until now sub-economic underground deposits.

In the last two years 160 new gold producers had come on stream. In 1974, 543 new precious metal blocks had been registered.

Rhodesia is particularly rich in its underground deposits. Gold has been mined since far back in the unwritten history of Africa. The unknown people who built the mysterious Zimbabwe ruins are said to have taken tons of gold out of the country.

In fact only a handful of the gold mines now operating have been discovered since the arrival of the present generation of Europeans. The rest are based on mining operations of the "ancients."

Chrome, gold and copper are the three most important minerals.

The country also has an almost limitless—and largely untapped—supply of coal. Early settlers were told of the "stones that burn" by local Africans and coal deposits often break the surface.

At the beginning of the century there were high hopes that Rhodesia would join the list of diamond-producing nations. A miner operating near Gwelo found diamonds, chrysoberyl and sapphires.

A company was formed to exploit the discovery but success never came. The area was worked intermittently until 1948. In all, more than 15,000 carats worth of diamonds came out.

But the Kimberlite pipe which is the usual source of diamonds was never found.

Now the area is left to the rockhounds who make a bucket-and-shovel stab at prospecting over a weekend or a school holiday.

By Oswald and James Jacoby

As the poet might have said, "The man who's worth while is the man who can smile, when all his finesses go wrong."

In a recent team match one South smiled when he looked over dummy. Then he called for the queen of diamonds. East took his king and led the jack back.

This wiped the smile right off South's face. Eventually he had to lose the spade finesse and his contract.

Any more smiling at that table was done by the opponents.

The other declarer saved his smile for later. He studied the opening lead carefully and then called for a low diamond. East won the trick and could do nothing better than lead back a spade.

South went right up with his ace; cashed one high trump; played king, ace and a small club; ruffed high; entered dummy with the king of trumps; ruffed another club; drew West's last trump, and claimed his slam since the ace of diamonds was an entry to allow a discard of the spade queen on the last club.

Pot Possession Ban Aid In Control of Use of Drugs

OTTAWA (CP) — Although they said use and traffic in cannabis drugs has "increased astronomically" during the last 10 years, RCMP witnesses found little fault Wednesday with proposed legislation that would eliminate jail sentences for possession of the drugs.

Inspector Gordon Tomalty told a Senate committee, however, that possession must remain an offence in Canada if RCMP and other police forces are to exercise the control over drug use that is demanded in the country's drug legislation.

"Although some factions of the Canadian public have expressed the opinion that mere possession of cannabis should not be considered a criminal offence, the RCMP strongly advocate the retention of an offence for illegal possession," Inspector Tomalty said in reading the RCMP's brief.

The committee is studying a bill which would eliminate jail terms for simple possession of marijuana and hashish and reduce maximum penalties to a $500 fine for a first offence and $1,000 for subsequent offences. Jail terms would ensue only if the fine was not paid.

Jail Doors May Open

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Parole Board is scouring its files to discern what penitentiary inmates might be given parole once new, more lenient legislation regarding possession of cannabis takes effect.

The object is to discover who and how many prisoners are affected by the new legislation and to see if they cannot be considered to have served the time required under the new legislation.

They're Heavyweights

Mrs. Beatrice Reid has good reason to look proud — two good reasons in fact — as she talks with nurse Pam Flindall at Belleville General Hospital. Mrs. Reid is the mother of identical twin boys, both weighing more than eight pounds at birth. Officials say they're the biggest twins born at the hospital in memory. They're also one of two sets of twins — the others were girls — delivered at BGH in four days. For details, see front page, second section.

Gunmen Make Raid

Four Men Slain In Montreal Bar

MONTREAL (CP) — Four persons were shot dead and five others, one a woman, were injured when three masked gunmen opened fire in a hotel bar in suburban Brossard Thursday night, police said.

Two of the inured were reported in critical condition early today at the nearby Charles Lemoyne Hospital on the south shore of Montreal island.

The four men shot dead were: Pierre Prevost, 38, of Montreal; Roger Letourneau, 31, of nearby Verdun; Richard Banning, 33, of nearby Greenfield Park; and Andre Lefebvre, 32, of Montreal.

A police spokesman said: "We know of all four." Police believe the killings were an underworld settling of accounts.

About sixty persons in the bar and adjoining discotheque of the Hotel Lapiniere at the time of the killings were questioned at provincial police headquarters and later released.

Police said the killings occurred less than an hour before St. Valentine's Day. Three masked gunmen burst into the crowded bar and opened fire, apparently aiming at a group around a table in the centre of the bar.

A spokesman for provincial police said the first man killed was the doorman, Mr. Prevost. Mr. Banning, a waiter at the establishment, was cut down when the gunmen opened fire on the fifth table from the door.

Both Mr. Letourneau and Mr. Lefebvre were shot dead while sitting at the table. The five persons wounded also were at that table, the spokesman said.

At the scene of the shootings early today Bob Lamle, reporter for radio station CJAD, said: "There must have been panic with everyone running to get out of the way. Tables and chairs were overturned, with broken glass everywhere and pools of blood."

A police spokesman said roadblocks were set up all over the Montreal area and heavily-armed police raided several suburban houses, but no arrests have been made.

The shootings were the latest in a crime wave which has pushed the Quebec murder rate to about one a day since New Year's Eve and brought public demands for more effective police action.

Some officers have speculated the Thursday night incident may be linked with a series of gangland murders sparked by the slaying of Raymond "Chapeau" Gagne last September.

Thirteen persons were slain Jan. 21 in Montreal's north-end Gargantua Bar-Salon in what was described as one of the worst premeditated murders in Canadian history. The victims, one already shot, were herded into a six-by-eight-foot beer storage closet and a fire deliberately set.

At an inquest last week, following 12 hours of testimony from 23 witnesses, Coroner Cyrille Delage held a 28-year-old man criminally responsible for the Gargantua slayings. The man was later arraigned.

Coroner Delage refused to pronounce upon the responsibility of Richard Blass, the prison escapee killed in a police raid three days after the Gargantua incident and implicated in the deaths at the inquest.

Greek Cypriots Protesting Turks' Formation of State

NICOSIA (AP) — Thousands of students demonstrated in the Greek-Cypriot towns of Cyprus today, protesting the proclamation of a Turkish-Cypriot state in the northern part of the island, and their government called for an urgent meeting of the United Nations Security Council.

The Greek government announced that Foreign Minister Dimitrios Bitsios had cancelled a meeting in Bonn Sunday with U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger because of the Turkish-Cypriot action Thursday. They were to have discussed the Cyprus situation.

More than 5,000 students jammed the main square in the Greek Cypriot quarter of Nicosia, chanting, "Give us weapons to fight! No to partition! One unified Cyprus! Refugees to their homes!"

Armed troops and police with clubs guarded the United States embassy and British diplomatic offices, which were attacked when the students last took to the streets, in January.

UN sources in New York said the Security Council was expected to meet in the next few days to debate the new developments on the east Mediterranean island where UN troops have been stationed since 1964.

Ailment Kept Secret

TORONTO (CP) — William Barton, a 59-year-old carpenter employed by the local Canadian Johns-Manville Co. Ltd., said Thursday he was not told until last year year that he had asbestosis, a condition he says was detected 12 years earlier by company tests.

McCain Imports Potatoes

OTTAWA (CP) — McCain Foods Ltd., of New Brunswick, situated in the heart of Canada's potato-growing country, has been given a permit to import 10 million pounds of Maine potatoes. An agriculture department spokesman said that last year the firm was given a permit because of a shortage of Canadian potatoes in the region. "But basically the problem this year is price."

New Trial Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge John Sirica today denied requests for new trials from the four men convicted in the Watergate cover-up trial, former attorney-general John Mitchell, White House aides John Ehrichman and H. R. Haldeman, and former Nixon re-election official Robert Mardian. They will be sentenced Feb. 21.

Women Seek Action

TORONTO (CP) — Laura Sabia, the chairman of the Ontario status of women council, said Thursday that supporters of proposed changes in family property laws should press the provincial government for action and flood Premier William Davis' office with mail.

U.S. Wholesale Index Falls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Led by a big decline in prices of farm products, wholesale prices in the United States fell three-tenths of one per cent in January, the labor department reported today. The report indicated further relief for the U.S. from the high inflationary trends of the last two years, since declines in wholesale prices generally result in falling consumer prices later on.

Brezhnev Assails Kissinger

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev, back in stride after ending a 51-day absence from public view, lashed out today at U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger's attempts to achieve a step-by-step Middle East settlement and called for the "speediest" resumption of the Geneva peace talks.

Although not mentioning Kissinger by name, Brezhnev undoubtedly was referring to the secretary's efforts when he said: "Sometimes deliberations are made that full peaceful settlement in the Middle East is hard to achieve, and that instead of this, partial agreements are what one should be contended with in the years to come.

"Partial bilateral measures, as is known, have already been implemented in the Middle East. Have they eased the tension in th area? Unfortunately, not. Have they offered tranquility to peoples of the Middle East? No, they have not."

Bridge Stirs Controversy

Most Agree on Need But Not About Details

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — When Ontario minister of transportation and communications John Rhodes announced a new bridge to replace the existing Bay Bridge at Belleville his ministry was deluged by diverse responses.

Rossmore residents have stated they do not wish to live in the shadow of a highlevel bridge whose approached would have to pass over them.

Ameliasburg residents have informed the ministry they would like the new bridge to provide direct access to Highway 401 by connecting the Wallbridge-Loyalist Road at its junction with Highway 2.

Persons employed in Belleville who commute to the present bridge say the Ameliasburg proposal would add miles of driving to their weekly schedule.

The city of Belleville has stated that it wants the present site retained "since anything else would have a serious and adverse environmental impact".

"A Belleville resident, on the other hand, has written to tell us that traffic should not be funnelled through the downtown area," said Mr. Rhodes.

He added the ministry has been told the present causeway should be removed to prevent pollution in the bay caused by the restricted water flow.

"Yet the Bay of Quinte Power Squadron tells us that if we remove the causeway, they fear severe erosion and property damage to the East Zwick's Island landfill recreaton complex, Victoria Park, Belleville Harbor and privately-owned commercial and residential properties on the southern extremity of the harbor."

"Then there are people whose homes and property may have to be expropriated if we choose another site and they are not going to take this without a fight — nor should they," observed Mr. Rhodes.

Official's 8-year Forecast Disavowed

Rhodes Promises Bay Bridge To Be Built Soon as Possible

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Ontario Minister of transportation and communications John Rhodes Thursday criticized a ministry official for stating it would be at least eight years before construction begins on a new bridge linking Hastings and Prince Edward but declined to name a starting date for the project. An attempt to set a definite date for the start of the construction would be foolhardy, he said.

Mr. Rhodes, addressing the annual meeting of the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce, emphasized the new bridge will be built "as soon as possible".

He added his statement that the new structure will bde built as soon as possible is not "an idle promise, nor an attempt to stall until after the next election."

Mr. Rhodes predicted there will be "some pretty upset people" when a final decision is made concerning where and how the government will replace the existing crossing.

"There may even be people who will be so angered that they will work against us in subsequent elections as a way of getting even," he remarked.

"When the final decision is made you can rest assured all the alternatives will have been carefully weighed, all the arguments for and against will have been diligently listened to and the resulting decision will reflect what is best for everyone concerned."

Mr. Rhodes said "hundreds of factors must be considered," among these cost. He noted this factor is especially important at a time when governments are being blamed "not entirely unjustly" for the staggering inflation rate. He emphasized the government must avoid the temptation of installing an inadequate service just to keep costs down.

He observed the existing road network in this area must be studied to avoid disruption of a very workable transportation system.

"On the other hand, perhaps a new location would mean a re-vamping of present road patterns that would be of greater benefit to the area."

All alternatives must be studied from standpoints of health and safety, not just for motorists and area residents but for agriculture and wildlife in Prince Edward and Hastings.

Mr. Rhodes said the study area is bounded on the east by the narrow part of the bay at Point Anne, on the west by Trenton, on the north by Highway 401 and on the south by a line drawn through Ameliasburg.

The planning study will require at least 18 months and must be followed by a preliminary design stage, a detailed design stage, property acquisition, road closings and hearings and a final review before tenders can be called for the start of construction. Also, federal government approval must be obtained as the project concerns navigable waters falling in its jurisdiction.

"The study area is a large one because we want to make sure that all feasible alternatives are considdered before making a decision," he stressed.

Ontario Not Planning Cut in Speed Limit

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON—Ontario has no plans to reduce highway speed limits to 55 miles per hour, says minister of transportation and communications John Rhodes.

At a meeting of the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce in Picton Thursday he said his ministry is not convinced that reduction in motor vehicle accidents and resulting fatalities can be related solely to reduction of speed limits.

He observed the speed limit was dropped in the United States partly because of the energy crisis.

Bridge Discussed

Prince Edward County residents seem eager to cross the promised new high level bridge to link the county with Hastings but transport minister John Rhodes declines to suggest when they'll come to it. At a Chamber of Commerce meeting in Picton last night his only statement was "as soon as possible."

85,000 Tax Rebate Cheques Await Bill's OK

OTTAWA (CP) — An estimated 85,000 personal income tax rebate cheques are piled up in revenue department offices today waiting for Parliament to approve mailing.

Their number is expected to double by next week, revenue department officials said Thursday night.

None will be mailed until Finance Minister John Turner's 287-page omnibus tax bill, covering measures announced in the Nov. 18 budget, is passed by Parliament.

Revenue officials said 100,000 income tax returns have been filed and an estimated 85 per cent, or 85,000, qualify for rebates.

"This is just the start," Bud Cullen, parliamentary secretary for finance, said in an interview. "The number of people filing will rise rapidly from here on. It's just the beginning."

The deadline for employers to provide T-4 slips is Feb. 28.

While the backlog continued to grow, Commons debate on the tax bill dragged through its 12th full day Thursday with no sign that it will be passed before next week.

The government blames the opposition for the delay, and the resulting hold-up in mailing rebate cheques. But the opposition says the cheques can be mailed legally without passage of the bill.

"They could do it if they wanted to," Conservative finance critic Sinclair Stevens said outside the Commons. "But they're using the bill to put pressure on us to end the debate."

He said the opposition has no interest in staging a filibuster, but all MPs have a right to speak against sections they don't like.

Bibles Traditional Gift to Nurses

About 70 first - year student nurses in the Loyalist College school of health science and community studies will receive copies of the New Testament Tuesday.

The presentations, carried out for 15-20 years here, will be made by the Belleville auxiliary of Gideon International, the organization which distributes Bibles to institutions such as hospitals and motels.

It will take place in room 1h.9 from 11 a.m. to 12 noon.

Doris Redner, auxiliary president, said the traditional gifts to nurses are a regular occurrence in both Canada and the United States.

"It used to be when they had the capping ceremony," she related. "They don't do that now," so the Gideons perform the function in the nursing students' first year.

"Ithink it's a nice gesture," commented Art McFarlane, director of Loyalist student services.

In addition, the Gideons will present New Testaments to the new H. J. MacFarland Memorial County Home for the Aged in Picton Sunday at 3 p.m., siad Mrs. Redner.

Board Liaison Seminar Delayed

A working seminar to promote better liaison between public boards and their administrations, sponsored by the Ontario Institute in Studies for Education (OISE), has been rescheduled to April 11 and 12.

Herb Young, Loyalist College president, told the college board of governors this week the postponement was necessary due to a conflict with a labor seminar on the original date of Feb. 28 and March 1.

The first day will see a dinner meeting at the Four Seasons in the evening with the following day set aside for workshops at the college.

Invited are area school, hospital, health, college and municipal boards and similar operations. Mr. Young said he hopes other college president and board members in Eastern Ontario will attend.

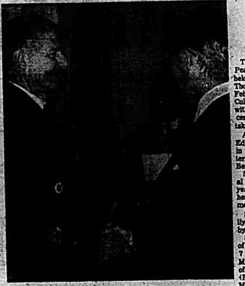
For the opening night seminar, organizers will attempt to group people of common interest at the same table with microphone equipment so each group can speak as one, he outlined. The sound system will be provided free by Bell Canada.

In other board business:

—Mr. Young reported the college budgets should be ready for presentation to the board's building and finance, and management committees by their next meetings.

—Mrs. Gordon Fraser said two college convocation dates are being considered this year for May 24 and either Oct. 11 or 18. In addition, a portion of the student body has requested the second one be held at the end of June.

—Mr. Young informed the board the provincial arbitration award in the new contract for the province's community college teachers is still to be received "and the sooner the better for everyone." It had ben expected Jan. 31.



Honored for Service

Chief Warrant Officer T.R. Yaeger, 54, of RR Ameliasburg here receives the Order of Military Merit from Governor General Jules Leger. The award was presented for "exceptional service and performance of duty," during his 25 years as a Canadian Armed Forces chief warrant officer. He recently retired from the armed forces after serving a total of 36 years. The cermony took place in Government House, Ottawa.

Meditation Introduced In Some U.S. Prisons

Seven newcomers to the practice of transcendental meditation (TM) in the Belleville district have joined almost 50 Quinte area meditators following the latest course introduced last weekend.

Jyette Hansen, 21-year-old area TM instructor, says the seven people, ranging in age from four-and-a-half to 31 years, have been meditating on their own since Feb. 1.

Several others had indicated an interest in taking the course at a later date, she adds.

Although their direct instruction has been completed, the fledgling meditators can get in touch with her at any time "to make sure it is going smoothly," noted Miss Hansen.

This week is National World Plan Week and for the uninitiated, TM founder Maharishi Mahesh Yogi's world plan is to have one per cent of the world's propulation meditating.

TM "is a simple, natural technique which expands awareness, develops clear thinking and perception and provides a deep rest," exsults "in more dynamic actiplains Miss Hansen. This revity and full expression of creative intelligence in daily life."

Over 50 major cities in Canada are holding the symposiums this week.

Miss Hansen says some penal institutions in the United States have introduced TM among prisoners and the result has seen more effective rehabilitations, a greater ability to adapt to prison life and a lesser tendency to excape from prison among those who practice TM.

Open Fiddling Contest Stirling Carnival Event

STIRLING — The Fidlar Mills Jamboree is presenting two homecoming weekend events to raise money for a new Stirling district arena. There will be an Ontario open fiddlers contest on Saturday, March 1, at 1 p.m. in the theatre.

On Sunday, March 2, the Family Brown, which appears on television Wednesday evenings, will be entertaining in Stirling. There will also be members of 'Countyway' from CJOH-TV with them. The grand finale to the four-day Stirling homecoming weekend takes place commencing at 8 p.m. in the theatre.

The Ontario open contest is the idea of Jack and Dorothy McCaughen of Stirling. "We have thought of it for years but this is the first time we ever had the nerve to try it," Mr. McCaughen said in an interview.

They have put on about 300 jamborees, going back to 1966. Besides the amateur talent competing, the McCaughens have invited Graham Townsend "Mr. Country Fiddle".

The McCaughens go back a long way in show business. In 1940 they had a nine-piece dance band, the Trent Valley Ramblers. "We even had twin fiddlers that played all the time with us," Mr. McCaughen recalled.

Applicants for the fiddlers contest can write to Fiddle Contest, Box 97, Stirling, for applications, or call the Fidlar Mills Jamboree number in the phone book.

"Everyone can enter. There is a class for everybody," Mrs. McCaughen said. There is a total of $500 in prizes, plus 12 trophies.

Lots to Do At Madoc Carnival

MADOC — Cathy McInroy, 17, a Grade 12 student at Central Hastings Secondary School was chosen by a panel of three judges Thursday night as the Madoc Winter Carnival Queen.

Several hundred persons filled the gymnasium at Madoc Public School to see Anne Pigden and Jennifer Sprague chosen as princesses. They are in Grade 12 and 10 respecitively.

Today, there is a torchlight parade at 8 p.m. A Winter carnival ball will take place this evening at the Kiwanis Centre.

Saturday, there is a flea market scheduled for the Kiwanis Centre from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. A dart and cribbage tournament, is to take place at the Royal Canadian Legion hall at 2 p.m.

The Madoc firemen and the OPP will tangle in a tug-o-war at 1 p.m. Minor Hockey takes place, you can have lunch with the Order of the Eastern Star and for supper you can feast on turkey sponsored by the Anglican church in the Catholic parish hall.

Sunday breakfast can be obtained at the Kiwanis Centre. To wear those pancakes off there is a snowshoe-a-thon at the Hunters and Anglers.

The highlight of the winter carnival takes place Sunday snowmobile races with $2,500 in cash and prizes.

'Who Cares?' About Metric

PICTON — Motorists will experience "the usual adjustment problems" when Canada goes metric, says John Rhodes minister of transportation and communications.

With all of the information available, conversion probably will be simpler than many anticipate, however.

He told the annual meeting of the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce Thursday car manufacturers now are making metric cards to fit over speedometers.

Mr. Rhodes observed some drivers apparently remain unimpressed by the new system.

He reported a large sign reading "50 kilometres to Hamilton" was erected recently on Highway 401.

Beneath this message someone painted the observation "Who cares?"

Police Chief Remembered

Picton's recently retired chief of police. George Pitt, received a standing ovation at Thursday's annual meeting of the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce when he received a certificate of merit. New chamber president Sheldon Whitteker (R) made the presentation.

Retired Police Chief Honored by Chamber

PICTON — Retired Picton police chief George Pitt was a guest of honor Thursday night at the annual meeting of the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce.

Sheldon Witteker, a member of the chamber's directorate, presented him with a certificate marking his 32 years in police work.

"Its awfully nice to know some people think of what you have done in the past," remarked the retired chief.

He observed when he joined the town police force in 1943 it was a three man operation with no cruiser.

"In those days a police officer could manhandle a man a little more than he can today," he recalled.

"Today they talk about their civil rights," added the former chief.

"Today, police officers on the street don't have too many civil rights," he observed.

Picton's retired police chief, who stepped down January, 1,1975, received a standing ovation from those attending the chamber of commerce dinner.

One Dead, Four Injured in Crash

MARMORA — A two-vehicle head-on collision early Thursday on a concession road near Highway 14 seven miles south of here has claimed the life of 63-year-old Ruby Katheleen Lloyd of RR 4, Marmora.

Mrs. Lloyd was the driver of one of the vehicles and was travelling north on the concession road. Two passengers in her car are in hospital. One, Joseph Lloyd, 29 of Marmora is in critical condition in Kingston General Hospital with head injuries and leg fractures.

A second passenger, Debbie Lloyd, 18 of RR 4, Marmora, is in fair condition in Belleville General Hospital with multiple contusions and abrasions.

The driver of the other vehicle, a van, Arlie Bateman, 50 of Madoc is in serious condition in Belleville hospital with facial and knee lacerations and fractures to the elbow, neck and shoulder. A passenger in her van, Donald Kimberly Lee, 20 of RR 4, Madoc is in Belleville hospital in serious condition with a fractured nose.

Police said the accident occured about 7.20 a.m. Thursday. Total damage to the two vehicles, both described as write-offs was about $4,000.

Pay Raise Rejected

BLOOMFIELD — Prince Edward Board of Education has voted against taking an increase in its honorarium for 1975 although a new education act permits a raise.

Trustees now receive $150 a month and were eligible for an increase to $200.

Board members have received honoraria of $150 for the past four years and for two years prior to that, payments of $100 a month.

The chairman of the board $200 receives a month.

Hopes Dim for Bureau Funding from Ottawa

TRENTON — The possibility of the Citizens Bureau receiving funds from the federal ministry of consumer and corporate affairs is a "longshot" said Murray McBride, executive assistant to minister Andre Ouellet.

In an interview from Ottawa, Mr. McBride said independent agencies not affiliated with a national organization have not in the past been funded.

Trenton's consumer help group has applied to the federal department for an approximate $30,000.

Since it formed about two years ago, the bureau has been funded by two Local Initiative Program (LIP) grants, a $3,000 grant for the secretary of state department, a $500 United Community Services grant and through public donations.

Unless a number of expected donations are large, its purse will be empty shortly after March 31 when the $500 UCS grant runs out.

There is only a "reasonably remote" chance the bureau will get money from Ottawa, said Mr. McBride.

A final answer to the bureau's request should come soon, he said.

A grant policy recently hammered out by the ministry will not apply to the Trenton group. Rather, it outlines guidelines for the granting of funds to national groups such as the Consumer Association of Canada or the National Anti-poverty Organization.

He said no policy exists for giving money to "freelance" or "independent" groups.

However, he added the bureau's request might be considered if it fit the criteria set by the ministry for various consumer help groups. Two now exist — in Toronto and in Thunder Bay.

The ministry in issuing grants to independent groups "tends to favor fairly depressed areas". And Trenton, he said, doesn't qualify as such an area.

Whitteker Heads Chamber

PICTON — A Prince Edward County insurance agent, Sheldon Whitteker, has been elected president of the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce for 1975.

Mr. Whitteker succeeds outgoing president Frank Wright of Picton.

Newly-elected first vice-president is Joseph Cembal of Picton and second vice-president is Milton Fennell of Cherry Valley.

Directors are Gary Gardner, Gary Campbell, Roland Moore, Douglas Reynolds, John Cole, William Silver, Gordon Lloyd, Victor Allen, Milton Fennell, Joe Cembal, Sheldon Whitteker and James Dunlop.

Mayor to Raise Several Issues with Ministers

TRENTON — In its brief to Allan Grossman, Ontario resources development secretary, in Belleville next week, Trenton will ask for quidance in its pursuit of land it needs for housing and industry.

Mayor Robert Patrick said Thursday the town will be looking for "some sort of guidance."

Trenton, along with other Quinte municipalities and groups, will submit briefs and speak briefly before what Mr. Grossman has called a provincial "field policy meeting."

Nine provincial ministers will attend the meetings at the Four Seasons Hotel in Belleville Monday and Tuesday.

Mayor Patrick said he has been alloted 15 minutes Monday night to present the "highlights and main points" of Trenton's brief. He did not make a copy of the document available Thursday.

In the brief, the town asks the province if it should wait to see the results of the Northumberland study on the restructuring of government in the country.

Or, on the other hand said the mayor does the province have "some other alternative that we can get busy and start work on n the mean time."

He said he is also concerned with getting money for a marina in Trenton. Money is available to private developers, but "we feel that it's time for the town to have grants and monies to go ahead with the marina."

Money again will be a topic in another point raised by the town brief. Will funds be available for the purchase of land and the installation of services in industrial parks?

Mayor Patrick said there is not a main theme in the town's brief.

He said he also will ask the assembled ministers if it would be wiser to repair the Dundas St. bridge over the Trent River rather the tearing it down and rebuilding it.

"Very preliminary reports" indicate that it would require considerable money to repair the aging structure, he said.

In an interview, he indicate repair costs would be far in excess of $100,000.

Watch this space for important news on how you can save for your own home... and save on your income tax too.

Very shortly, Royal Trust will announce a new plan that can make life a lot better for you.

It will be called a Registered Home Ownership Savings Plan.

And we want you to know about it first.

If you don't already own a home (within the meaning of the legislation applicable to such plans), this new plan will allow you to put away so much each year towards buying one. Your contribution will be deductible from your taxable income. And when you take it out to buy that dream home, you still will not pay taxes on it.

Sound wonderful? It is. It's a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity from Canada's largest trust company and national Real Estate Company.

When the legislation is passed, we'll be announcing our new plan, but if you're interested or would like more information, write us or give us a call. Find out all about the new Royal Trust Registered Home Ownership Savings Plan.

Decide what you want. We can help you.

Please send me further information on your Registered Home Ownership Savings Plan without any obligation on my part.

Brotherhood Image

Tragedy haunts Canada's highways and an occasional, inexplicable, bizarre happening also reminds us of human perversity. Yet, in the midst of such occurrences we see also courage and the brotherhood which this week receives official recognition in Canada.

Yes it's Brotherhood Week which by its very title implies a condition so often lacking as a constant in our society.

It is not entirely missing though. Last Saturday, a 9-year-old girl was rescued from a blazing auto on 401 by a passing motorist, Gordon Gillespie, and his 21-year-old son, Terry. Unhappily, her 11-year-old sister died.

The girls were in a car driven by their father when it stopped on the highway, then was struck from behind by another car. The gas tank exploded and other people were trying unsuccessfully to open the jammed rear doors. The younger Gillespie kicked in a window and his father reached the one girl through the front door before flames forced them back.

Then in Ottawa there was that other dreadful incident of a six-year-old boy being found ablaze in a field near his home. The youngster was rescued by 18-year-old Wayne Lambert who was crossing the field on his way home from school. Lambert rolled the boy in the snow, wrapped him in his jacket and carried him to his home.

Here are acts of presence of mind and of courage that should not go unrecognized. It is not just that seconds count and that failure or reluctance to act could have been too late; the act of rescue itself, in such circumstances, is a mark of maturity as much as of heroism.

Gordon and Terry Gillespie of the Toronto area and Wayne Lambert of Ottawa are men of that calibre.

Mrs. Thatcher's Victory

The Conservative party in Britain now has a leader in the spirit of the times where women are concerned — and perhaps more significantly in the context of a changing era which sees Britain in a state of some peril.

Britain has always come through, of course "muddled through" is the expression commonly used, yet the country perhaps is more adrift than it has even been, and more at the mercy of economic, sociological, and political forces.

Mrs. Thatcher is a no-nonsense personality who may be expected to restore some vigor to the ailing Conservative party and give it fresh direction.

If she should ever lead the party to victory in another election, this could also augur well for the country. Britain's problems are not those of India or of Sri Lanka (formerly Ceylon), two lands with women prime ministers of considerable authority and political experience, but nevertheless they are formidable.

A resurgence of the British economy is a priority of any British leader. So too is the need to halt any further fragmentation of the country as manifested by class divisions, guerrilla violence — and by an even stranger development, the rise of right-wing ex-officer cadres fearful of Britain going Communist.

Mrs. Thatcher may not fulfill the complete image of the right person in the right place at the right time in British politics. Certainly the Labor government is said to be in no fear of her, and it is said she will have to shed her "tweedy, patrician" style if she is to win the confidence of the average Briton. She is a woman though and in the context of the politics and humanities of the seventies that can count for a lot. At the very least, she represents a fresh start for the Conservatives.

The period ahead in British politics promises to be an interesting one. A woman's touch there could have an important bearing on European politics as a whole.

Path to Middle East Peace Lies in Arms Ban

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is in the Middle East again on what might be the last of his whirlwind trips to the area to find a lasting solution to Arab-Israeli differences.

It is difficult to assess at the time the value of summitry, given the fact we are only now finding out the truth about the first of the modern summits which took place between Allied leaders during the Second World War.

Dr. Kissinger's forays have been much more open than were wartime summit meetings because we are not at war. Techniques of public interrogation by the media to have personalities tell all, and Dr. Kissinger's open style, reveal a good deal of what is transpiring.

On balance, one could say that Dr. Kissinger has performed wonders of a kind. The obvious close personal rapport between him and Egypt's Anwar Sadat is a positive development, though perhaps less so the respect of Syria's tough and violently anti-Israeli leadership for his bargaining style.

Undoubtedly the earlier Kissinger forays, as well as Israeli reluctance to return to talks in Geneva which would include the Soviet Union, brought about last week's Israeli offer of withdrawal from key Sinai mountain passes in exchange for a written Egyptian promise of no military aggression against Israel.

Dr. Kissinger too, does not want to return to the Geneva conference table, because like the Israelis, he would sooner see answers arrived at during his present junket.

The paradox which distresses all Middle East observers and commentators is that while Dr. Kissinger is trying to keep the peace, his country continues to sell weapons to Middle East nations, now including the Arab countries as well as Israel.

The Israelis have been the traditionally major recipients of arms from the U.S., for which they must pay of course, one of the rationales for the on-going Israeli bond drives in North America.

But now Jordan's Arab King Hussein will replace a squadron of aging U.S.-built Starfighters with more modern jet interceptors. And Saudi Arabia's officer corps in land and in the air are being trained by American specialists in warfare using Vietnam veterans and charging the rich Saudis $77 million for the training program.

Even Sadat has said the Americans will not sell him arms, though he did not deny outright Egypt had looked into the possibility. His new jet fighters are coming from Dessault, French builders of the Mirage jet fighters with which the Israeli air force is also well supplied.

Dr. Kissinger's role versus the arms race, (not to forget the inherently volatile nature of politics in the Middle East), make for a mixture of conciliation and weapons build-up which leave one very cynical about international diplomacy.

If both the U.S. and U.S.S.R. wish to preserve some kind of hegemony in the Middle East and do it through arms exports to their chosen partners in the region, whatever Dr. Kissinger accomplishes for the next week can only be a stand-off.

Surely the real answer has to be that Washington and Moscow must stop shipping weapons to Arabs and Israelis.

They manufacture almost none of their own (except Israel) and would have little recourse to war, only diplomacy, which is what Dr. Kissinger's mission is all about.

MP's Suggestion

Retiring Mandarins Should Defer Job Offers

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — When is a federal public servant so hot as to require icing for a year to cool off?

Conservative MP John Reynolds of the British Columbia riding of Burnaby—Richmond-Delta has an answer:

When the federal public servant is a senior deputy minister like Simon Reisman who is leaving the Department of Finance this March, with offers, he says, from "several corporations."

Reisman is only one of seven or eight of the federal mandarins who are being given the "golden handshake" by Prime Minister Trudeau.

Which is a kinder way of saying they are being eased out, the Prime Minister having explaned that early retirement is being made "more attractive" so that the older deputies, "brought up in another age under other theories," can be replaced by "younger, more flexible men."

Which in turn is the political way of saying they are getting the old squeeze play to make room for some hand-picking by the PM of men perhaps more amenable to saying yes than no.

Of them all, Reisman, being the out-going Deputy Minister of Finance, is the hottest.

He not only has to be in on the thinking, planning, making — and projected spending — of the current $26 billion budget, but will have an insight into federal financing yet to come.

Without violating any trust or breaking his oath of secrecy, he must be in a uniquely knowledgeable position as he contemplates the corporative executive job market where "several" openings, he reveals, already have been drawn to his attention.

Such corporations, he has disclosed in an interview with THE FINANCIAL POST, "would want to make use of his knowledge of government" — and it would be hard to find anyone who knows more.

That is why says John Reynolds, there should be in the public interest, a mandatory "cooling out" period in such situations.

It would be his idea that early-retiring senior federal public servants be required, as a condition of their release, to declare a corporative moratorium for a year on their services.

In 12 months, the way government taxing and spending so swiftly moves, John Reynolds believes the knowledge with which the deputies left their jobs would be out of date, and if not actually worthless, of no hard practical profit or loss use to private employers.

The departing mandarins all have been generously paid — up to an annual $60,000 with all going federal fringe benefits — and retire on the country's most-generous-by-far pension plan.

"It would be small sacrifice," says John Reynolds, "involving a financial loss they might scarcely notice. if they were to forego the corporate scene for that one 'cooling out' year."

So how could they spend that year?

Any university, says John Reynolds, would be overjoyed to have them for a year, and the mandarins themselves might find excitement and the reward of great interest in sharing their inside knowledge of public administration with young people.

Then there are any number of foundations and special study groups where good and useful work could be done.

The Prime Minister, who is the architect of this particular administrative complication that could invite a conflict-of-interest situation, has conceded there is a "real difficulty."

But having created it, says John Reynolds, the Prime Minister has abdicated any responsibility, admitting he has "no final solution to the problem."

But the Burnaby-Richmond-Delta Conservative contends the solution is "simple," involving merely the drafting of guidelines interdicting an early-retiring deputy with inside knowledge from taking corporative employment in the particular field of interest in which he has been specializing while on the federal payroll.

This limiting of the employment restriction to the one special field, contends John Reynolds, would get around the Prime Minister's objection that to intervene, even briefly, in future employment plans of discarded mandarins would be inhibiting their freedom.

The Effects of Heavy Smoking

Health for All

Pack-a-day smokers usually have more red blood cells than do nonsmokers. But extra cells can cause blood clotting.

The job of the red blood cells is to deliver oxygen to all the tissues of the body. But smokers upset this oxygen-delivery system. For one thing, the carbon monoxide in cigarette smoke literally drives the oxygen out of the red blood cells. And carbon monoxide stays in the system hours after the smoker stops inhaling.

To compensate for this disruption, the body may produce more red blood cells in order to get the necessary oxygen Compensation, however, may cause complications, as the extra cells produced can cause thicker blood and clotting. This is one reason why smokers suffer from a higher rate of strokes and heart attacks than do nonsmokers.

Normally, there are about thirty billion red blood cells surging through the body at any one time. A red cell spends only a fraction of a second in the lung, where it absorbs oxygen and speeds off to other parts of the body. Red blood cells have to be incredibly fast and efficient. Each red cell lasts about four months, and is then replaced by a fresh, new one. Every second, three million of these oxygen-bearers die. But every second an equal number are born in — of all places — the bone marrow.

Our bodies are delicate, highly complicated organisms. They deserve all the respect and help they can get.

Interested property owners along Front Street whose premises extend to the bank of the Moira river got their first really comprehensive view of the proposed Riverside Drive Tuesday evening when at a public meting held in the city hall, plans for the project were displayed and discussed with a few difficulties and objectionable features being ironed out. The project calls for a macadamized roadway 30 feet in width along the east bank of the river with an entrance on Bridge Street 46 feet wide and another on Front Street at the laneway north of the Belvedere Hotel 35 feet wide. The east bank of the river north of the lower bridge would be straightened by construction of a retaining wall, while inside the wall would be a five foot sidewalk, a boulevard and parking space and then the paved drive.

Corporate Earnings—Word 'Growth' May Be Misnomer

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The truth about corporate earnings is becoming so obscure that even Corporate Affairs Minister Andre Ouelett says companies should change their way of reporting profits.

On the surface it appears that Canadian corporate earnings grew by more than 30 per cent in 1974.

But how real was that growth? According to some corporate executives, year-to-year increases are highly misleading.

One reason is that in time of inflation a big chunk of the profit increase is gobbled up by the higher cost of replenishing the inventory of raw materials.

The result, for the majority of companies—those that use the conservative First-In-First-Out (FIFO) method of inventory valuation—is that profits may be overstated because the current value of raw materials is understated.

The alternative method—Last-In-First-Out (LIFO)—may be more realistic about current earnings, but understates the value of inventories over a longer period. Canadian tax law doesn't accept LIFO, because it permits indefinite deferral of tax payments.

(The car-makers have their own method. It's called FISH—First-In-Still-Here).

The distinctions are not simply academic, of interest only to accountants.

The true level of profits has a direct bearing on capital spending (and therefore on jobs) as well as on the portfolio of every investor.

One example: Alcan Aluminium Ltd. has reported a big jump in net income from operations, to a record $141.8-million in 1974 from $82.6-million in 1973. (Alcan also registered a non-recurring gain of $27.4-million last year).

But in publishing these figures, Alcan reports that it will have to cut back its capital spending to below last year's $268-million level because of a recession in aluminum.

Another metals giant, Noranda Mines Ltd., has also decided to reduce its 1975 spending on new plant and equipment—by a whopping $100-million.

Investors have grown increasingly wary of reports of big increases in earnings. Despite the year-long flow of figures showing sharp quarter-to-quarter gains in profits, stock prices late in 1974 had fallen to their lowest average multiple of earnings since the Second World War.

In 1975, so far, stocks have shown encouraging signs of recovery. Continuation of that recovery depends largely upon investors' faith in the true earning power of the enterprises in which they invest their savings.

Economists at one large investment house, Wood Gundy Ltd., expect 1975 pre-tax profits to be as high as last year's, or slightly higher.

But the question as to whether high earnings are realistic remains without a satisfactory answer.

Corporate Affairs Minister Ouelett, at the recent annual meeting of the Canadian Construction Association in Ottawa, said he suspects that many companies are just fooling themselves.

As a result, he indicated, the government has changed its mind. Proposed legislation to ban high profits will be directed instead against unfair price increases.

Publishing Canadian-style

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

In a recent issue of the Canadian edition of Time the following content was noted:

Movies reviewed: American; Canadian section: Last week's headlines; Economy and business: American except one Swiss; The world: USSR, Mid. East, France, Greece, Britain; Art: American; Letters: American; Milestones: American except one French; People: American except one Monaco and Uganda; Sport: American; Time essay: American; Medicine: American; Science: American; Modern Living: American; The theatre: American; The sexes: American; Books: American; The law: American.

While you can see from the foregoing that Time is not a Canadian magazine (Edition or otherwise) I am surprised to hear that they are stealing advertising from Canadian magazines. In that issue there were 18 advertisements (three from the Canadian government). Surely the entire Canadian publishing industry is not depending on 15 private advertisers to keep them going?

I agree that Time is not a Canadian magazine and should not be granted privileges by the government but I cannot see the publisher's argument that it is stealing advertising. It would appear that the only thing it is stealing is Canadian identity.

Industrial Pollution

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Your editorial "Fact from Fiction" of February 6 was most re-assuring and your faith in Ontario Hydro's director of Health and Safety is to be admired. We can now sleep at night (so long as we don't breathe) contented in the fact that industrial pollution of our water supplies is merely an additional service, performed without charge, by these public spirited industrialists.

Now that I have been assured that I may drink asbestos in safety I shall eagerly await your recommendation for the best method of ingesting other noxious substances, such as lead, carbon monoxide, mercury, etc.

Stray Dogs Pose Problem

The following is the text of a letter addressed to the Quinte branch of the Ontario Humane Society.

I received your letter regarding the dog licence today. Until such time as something is done about dogs running loose in this neighborhood, which you have been called about many times, and also about the other dogs that are being kept in this district, that do not have, and have never had a licence.

I do not feel that I should be required, and do not intend to purchase a licence.

Another matter that requires attention is the fact that the city is overrun with cats, that on the whole are more destructive than any of the dogs. People keep cats, that have never been allowed inside their home but are left to prowl the city for both their food and their shelter.

If the Humane Society is sincere about caring for animals, and if they require more money to carry out this work I would suggest that they start by searching out some of these unlicensed dogs, and picking up some of these strays, and showing that they have an honest desire to help themselves. I know that in this district alone are enough unlicensed animals to help cut down on any loss the Society has incurred.

Praise for School Play

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

I am a student of Nicholson Catholic College and after reading the criticism of our school's play, I think it is necessary to speak out.

The students involved in the play, Charley's Aunt, deserve much more credit than they received from the report in The Intelligencer The students were carefully chosen for their parts and their hard work resulted in four excellent performances.

The newspaper's timing was off when they placed the article in Monday night's paper. The critic kindly mentioned that the play was continuing Friday and Saturday nights. The only problem was that when the article appeared, the play was over. Any 'plug' that the critic wished to give the play to encourage a larger audience was useless.

The critic was very quick to notice the misspelling of the name Eton but he failed to notice his own or the paper's misspelling of Peter Whalen's name which was spelled correctly the first time but was incorrectly spelled the second time.

U.S. Output Declines 3 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Factories, mines and utilities in the United States reduced their output by 3.6 per cent last month, the worst showing since the Depression era.

The Federal Reserve Board said Thursday the downturn extended across the economy, with declines posted in autos, consumer goods, business equipment and industrial materials.

It was the sharpest one-month drop since December, 1937, when the output index plummeted by 8.9 per cent, and followed a 3.1-per-cent decline in December 1974.

The index now has declined by 9.5 per cent since last September and stands at 113.7 per cent of the 1967 base level.

The report gave weight to a governemnt estimate that the over-all economy will decline by 3.3 per cent this year, compared with a 2.2 per cent drop in 1974.

In other economic and energy developments Thursday:

—Interior Secretary Rogers Morton said President Ford's energy program will increase the price of gasoline by as much as 20 cents a gallon. The administration's previous estimate was 10 cents a gallon. He predicted the price will start rising in April and reach 70 to 75 cents a gallon by July, going higher still if Ford's planned tariff on imported oil reaches $3 a barrel.

—Ford said the $52-billion budget deficit he has projected for the next fiscal year can be financed. But he said he couldn't make the same promise if Congress adds to the deficit.

Miller to Make Clear OHIP Payment Policy

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Frank Miller says he is considering new legislation that will state whether the Ontario Health Insurance Plan (OHIP) will pay out-of-province doctors fees that are higher than those listed in the Ontario Medical Association (OMA) fee schedule.

Mr. Miller made the comment this week after Liberal Leader Robert Nixon asked him in the legislature why OHIP is continuing to take court action against an elderly Fort Erie, Ont., man in an effort to avoid paying him medical costs.

Mr. Nixon was referring to Arthur Taylor whose wife, May, now 86, fell in a bathtub and broke her hip in Dade City, Fla., in January, 1973.

Florida doctors charged the Taylors $750 for the operation and OHIP later would pay them only $180, arguing the OMA fee schedule lists such an operation at $200 and OHIP pays only 90 per cent of the OMA rate.

The Taylors won a health services appeal board hearing and a Divisional Court hearing. The government's lawyers now are scheduled to appear in the Ontario Court of Appeal Monday to see whether they will be allowed to appeal further.

Crashed 14 Cars

DAGENHAM, England (CP) — Ford of Britain crashed 17 of its 27 prototypes during the development of its new Escort saloon. But it was all in the cause of safety: They were sacrificed as part of an engineering program designed to give car occupants maximum protection.

What a Difference Decade Has Made!

OTTAWA (CP) — Exactly 10 years will have elapsed Saturday since that awesome and angry argument subsided on Parliament Hill and Canada's new maple leaf flag was eased up a pole for the first time.

There now are high school students who cannot remember any other flag. And few probably remember the anger, the anguish and even the tears that accompanied its birth.

"It is an outrage," shouted an angry Jack McIntosh, then Conservative MP from Swift Current-Maple Creek, who wanted nothing to do with this proposed "Pearson pennant."

"The Liberals are determined to strip us of all our traditions," declared an enraged John Diefenbaker, "This flag conveys nothing of our history."

John Matheson, then Liberal MP for Leeds and now a county court judge, was a chief architect of the flag that prime minister Lester Pearson so desperately wanted. And he stood in the House, with tears on his cheeks, pleading for its acceptance. "I plead, I beg with you to understand what this means for the country we love."

Understanding was hard to come by in those incredible six months of heated hollering, and even hatred, that dominated Parliament. It spilled out of the chamber into corridors; long friendships were strained; the flag that Mr. Pearson saw as a unifying influence was bringing out racial slurs before it ever flew.

Today a vast majority of MPs, like the high school students, don't know much about the Great Flag Debate. Of the 265 Members in the House for that period, only 50 remain—24 Liberals, 18 Conservatives, five New Democrats and three Social Credit MPs.

WINTER'S GRACIOUS MONTH

"Remember me when you see this." — from an 18th Century Valentine Sampler.

As guest of 1975, which wintry month refrains from overstaying its welcome, by saying farewell earlier than any other monthly guest?

What month plays the genial host to a small little animal, the Groundhog, as well as the Heart in all its expressions of love?

Already you have guessed.

February!

February sponsors and is the host of the groundhog, which legend has, emerges from his burrow on February 2. If he sees his shadow, back he scurries to his burrow for another nap, and six more weeks of winter there will be. But if its a cloudy day — Spring is around the corner and the groundhog stays above ground.

However the truth is — the groundhog could care less about February 2. He sometimes appears as late as March, if the weather's not good. His shadow is the least of his worries. His greatest worry: food and finding a mate.

But legend is endearing. Several Pennsylvania communities honor the groundhog with annual ceremonies. One community organized a "Slumbering Groundhog Lodge," back in 1907. Each February 2, the members search for the little "oracle".

As host of the heart's expression of love, February enters into the spirit. Note how he creates valentines out of the blue of the sky and frothy white clouds arched over a snowy-white countryside, trimmed with lacey bare-branched trees. Here and there he pastes on a lover-knot of a collorful group of farm buildings.

Or again, while on his winry rounds pays tribute with a floral one, as in fantasy, he gathers:

V — Violets, symbol of modesty.

A — Asters, symbol of elegance.

L — Lilac, Persian in origin.

E— Easter Lily — one of three flowers mentioned in the Old Testament.

N — Narcissus, Spanish in origin.

T— Tulip, in flower language, "I love you"

I — Iris, Greek goddess of the rainbow.

N — Nasturtium, in flower language, "patriotism."

E — Elderberry Shrub's small white flowers.

For each and all our readers,

Happy Valentine's Day, Everyone!

Mr. and Mrs. Brooke McNabb

McNabb — Rodberg

Ruth Ann Rodberg and Brooke McNabb exchanged wedding vows recently at Fifth Avenue Free Methodist Church, Ottawa.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Rodberg, Corbyville, Ont., the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McNabb, Ottawa.

Rev. C. Ross Brown, the bride's uncle, officiated at the ceremony.

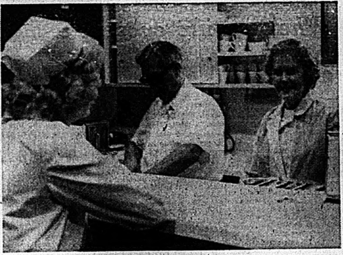
Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of champagne satin crepe which she designed herself. Lace accents were at neck and cuffs and a floor length mantilla was her veil. She carried red sweetheart roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Gini Larson, Moose Jaw, Sask., the bride's sister, attended the bride in a floor length burgundy ensemble. She carried white roses.

Don Warren, Ottawa, attended the groom. Ushers were Denys Watson, Meaford, Harold Larson, Moose Jaw, Sask., brothers-in-law of the bride.

After a dinner reception at the Chateau Laurier, the couple left on a wedding trip to the Barbados.

They reside in Ottawa.



Cooking Couple

Earl and Edna Fox of Stirling are both volunteer workers for the Belleville General Hospital Auxiliary, who operate the coffee shop in the hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Fox work together every Friday evening.

Medical Secretaries Hear About Electrolysis Method

The February meeting of the Quinte Medical Secretaries Association took place Wednesday evening in Belleville General Hospital's Education Hall in the Edith Cavell Building.

President Barb Lewis conducted the business meeting, after which the group heard guest speaker Ann White.

A member of the Electrolysis Association of Ontario, and of both American and British associations as well, Mrs. White has been a practising electrologist since 1952.

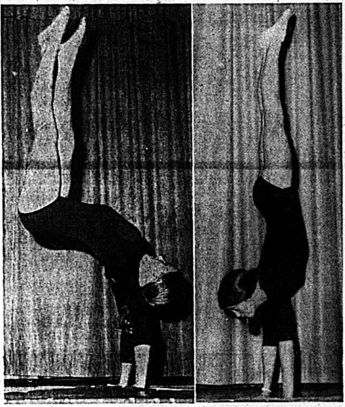
In her speech, Mrs. White explained that electrolysis is a medically approved treatment for excess growth of body hair. The growth of such hair may be caused by normal glandular disturbances during puberty, pregnancy or menopause, and is also often the result of shock or medication that stimulates hair growth. In some cases, superfluous hair growth is due to heredity.

The removal of the hair is done by short wave diotherapy. A small needle-like probe is inserted into the hair follicle and the root of the hair is destroyed. Although treatment may need to be repeated for a time, eventually the removal is permanent.

This process can be used on the face, limbs or body. It is also used, surprisingly, on show animals such as dogs.

After the lecture, lunch was served by Shirley Elliott and Doreen Ware.

Plans were made for a penny auction at the next meeting.



Keeping in Shape!

Practicing after school for Stage Fright, Quinte Secondary School's variety night, the gymnastic club goes through its paces for the camera as they get ready for their final performance this evening. Under the instruction of Hugh and Mary Minielly, teachers on the Quinte staff, the 18-member club has learned a number of group and individual routines. Here Joan Meagher does a "valdez" stand, and Brenda Fisk does a handstand.

BGH Auxiliary 'Integrates', Volunteer Husband Works Too

By SHARON AIRHART

Earl and Edna Fox are in the kitchen together every Friday night, making coffee and grilled cheese sandwiches.

The difference between the Fox's and any other couple is that they're not just making a snack at their Stirling home; they're serving coffee and tea and sandwiches and toast to an endless stream of visitors and nurses-on-break at Belleville General Hospital.

Edna Fox, who's been a member of the BGH Auxiliary for about a year, has been recently joined by retired husband Earl who has the distinction of being the first really active male member of the auxiliary.

Last year the group dropped the word "women's" from its title and is seeking men to join the ranks of volunteers.

Since just before Christmas Earl and Edna have volunteered each Friday evening in the auxiliary's coffee shop, serving about 60 people each week.

Neither Mr. or Mrs. Fox is a stranger to volunteer work; she's a member of the Order of the Eastern Star and the Rebekahs, he's a Mason and a member of the Oddfellows.

Earl, who retired in October as boys' supervisor at Sir James Whitney, the Ontario School for the Deaf, says he added the auxiliary to his volunteers efforts because it was short of help and he wanted more useful things to do.

"I just love it," he says. Edna Fox adds he even helps out in the kitchen at home now.

Books By And About Women

SEVEN WOMEN: GREAT PAINTERS

By Winthrop and Francis Neilson

Have there been any great women artists? According to art historians and scholars, women have excelled in other fields but few have achieved greatness in art.

Mr. and Mrs. Neilson have discovered, in their search for answers to the posed question, seven women painters who "earned a permanency of reputation in art history." Three are American, three French, and one Swiss-born; their lives span three centuries. Each personality is sensively portrayed in this book, with family and educational backgrounds — often colorful ones — explored with an analysis of their work and an assessment of their place in history.

In painting style there are extremes among these seven — from portraitist Cecilia Beaux of Philadelphia who did not attmept to break with tradition, to radical Georgia O'Keeffe, still working in her beloved New Mexico. The other women artists described here either accepted new trends or aided in their growth. Especially respected for her painting technique was Angelica Kauffmann. Berthe Morisot was involved with the new Impressionist movement along with Monet, Cezanne, and Renoir.

These biographies will be of interest to readers interested in art and in the contributions made by women to culture.

This book is available at the Corby Library.

Equal Pay

LA SPEZIA, Italy (AP) — A court ruled that a housewife's labors are worth the same as those of an unskilled factory worker—$8 a day. The decision was given in a damage suit brought by Rosa Facchieri who was struck by a car. She received $312 in compensation for 39 days lost from her job as housewife.

Quinte Women Needed

The series of profiles called "Quinte Women" is dependent upon reader response in order to accurately reflect the lives of women in this area.

Each profile deals with a woman whose life is particularly interesting because of her career, hobby, outlook, or family life.

If you know a woman — friend, mother, wife, sister or co-worker — who is happy doing what she does, and who does it well, send her name by mail or phone to the Women's Department, The Intelligencer.

Any age, any job, any kind of community involvement is suitable for the "Quinte Women" series. The profiles are not particularly concerned with women who are "breaking new ground in male territory". Although there have been articles about taxi-drivers, police officers and baseball players, there have also been volunteer workers, secretaries, cosmeticians and store clerks whose lives have been described.

Help out by looking around you for a suitable "Quinte Woman". It may even be you!

Mother's Rages Injure Daughter

My mother keeps telling me to get out. Says I don't do any work — which I do. She calls me all kinds of names that I would not repeat and sometimes beats me up.

What I want to know is, would the welfare support me if I left home? I am 16. I want to finish my grade 11 and then go in for a nurse.

Mixed Up.

Dear Mixed Up: A good deal depends on your individual situation. What you should do is vist your regional welfare office (of which I am sending you the address) and ask for counselling.

If life is unbearable it would surely be best to leave. Would there be a relative or close friend with whom you could stay for a while?

You may be able to concentrate on your studies better if you are in a happier atmosphere. But if this is too difficult to manage, and you could stick it out for a few months, it is important for you to get your education.

Your mother is not behaving normally. It may be that she is upset or worried, or suffering from some illness about which you know nothing. When you visit the counselling agency, tell your counsellor the whole story and get the help that is there for you.

Dear Doris: Please send me a list of the Memorial Societies across Canada.

Also tell me how to get a husband to talk about the inevitable. He is like an ostrich with his head in the sand.

Hopeless

Dear Hopeless: I'm sending you the address of the Memorial Society nearest you.

Your beloved is not the only ostrich. Seems to me most people act as if they are going to live forever. You hear about so many estates left in a mess!

The popular motto ought to be: "Make your will and live!" You don't die any sooner just because you discuss your affairs with your nearest and dearest. You might even live longer, if you settled your mind by such a discussion — and a subsequent visit to a lawyer or trust company.

You cannot make your husband talk. But you can talk. Tell him the plans you are making, in case you die first; plans that will be life-savers for him, when he wonders what to do about your things.

Both of you should make wills; both state any special desire re funeral plans. The Memorial Society can guide you about much of this.

Confidential to Sister-in-Law: No sense in trying to force an unwilling patient on a psychiatrist. The best way is to talk with her family doctor; then if he feels that counselling with such a specialist might help, he can make a referral, as to any specialist.

How can be sure it is a psychiatrist she needs? A social worker might be more in line with the practial problems and trials she has been overwhelmed with for a long time.

Given her your love, support; praise for what she has managed. And if you think you could, visit your family service to talk things over on behalf of your sister-in-law, for a start.

(Every day Doris hears from readers who report success after taking her advice on a human dilemma. Let her help you with yours. Write to her in care of this newspaper.)

Ann Landers

Be Sure—Make a Will

Dear Ann Landers: My mother died recently. I was her only child. She married a second time—a man who was several years her senior. His two children were grown by that time and although they are my stepsister and stepbrother, I rarely see them and when we do meet, no one is very comfortable. They never liked my mother or me and the feeling was mutual.

Neither my stepfather nor my mother left a will. Since everything was in joint names, my mother inherited all his money five years ago, and now, at her death, it is mine. My stepbrother and stepsister are demanding that I share the inheritance with them.

I realize that part of the inheritance was their father's money, but I have no idea how much or little it might be. My natural father left some money to my mother, and my grandparents also left her a modest estate.

Frankly, I don't want to give away money to relatives I rarely see and don't care for. It is legally mine and I am not to blame if their father did not write a will.

Am I morally obligated to give them something? If so, how much?—Suddenly Solvent

Dear Sud: Since your conscience is obviously bothering you, make a donation in their names to a charitable organization in which they are interested. It won't make them like you any better but it will make you like yourself better—which is more important.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently my wife gave birth to a second child and received many small gifts from friends who live in this apartment building. She insisted that etiquette called for putting stamps on the notes and sending them through the mail. I said it was ridiculous, since three of the women live on our floor.

Although my wife won (they were mailed), I'd like your opinion.—Daddy

Dear Dad: If you had asked me this question three years ago I'd have agreed with your wife. Today, however, I'd hand-deliver everything if I could. Would you believe six days for a letter to get from one Loop office to another in Chicago? Well, that's not the half of it. I could write a book about what has happened to some of my mail. (P.S. Last week a postman was arrested here when police found several TONS of undelivered mail in his home.)

Dear Ann Landers: Our son and daughter-in-law have a huge dog that scares the life out of me. I have never cared for that particular breed. When our daughter-in-law married Mel, two years ago, "Prince Albert" became part of the family.

We live on four acres and have a good caretaker and a fine housekeeper. When our son asked if we would take Prince Albert while they went on a two-week holiday, I agreed. Actually I plan to put him in a kennel the minute they are on the plane.

My husband says I should tell him I don't want the hound but I can't bring myself to do it. Would it be wrong to board Albert out and say nothing, just to keep peace in the family?—Needing An Answer

Dear Need: What kind of peace would there be if something happened to Albert and he died in the kennel? Such things do occur, you know.

Tell your son you want to foot the kennel bill for Albert, because you cannot keep him in your home.

Cosmetics Recalled

OTTAWA (CP) — Seven brands of skin cream have been recalled because of contamination by potentially harmful bacteria, the health department announced Friday.

The cosmetics, distributed by Fare Fax Foods of Toronto and Nu-Life Nutrition of Vancouver, could cause everything from a local skin infection to a general blood infection, a department spokesman said. But no such cases have been reported to date.

The effects would depend on such factors as the person's physical condition and presence of an open cut, he said.

Six of the cosmetics were imported from Natural Organics Inc., of Plainfield, N.Y., and have labels with a dark green leaf on an oval yellow background, the department said in a news release.

The six brand names are: Avocado Moisturizing Lotion, Fresh Cucumber Cleansing Lotion, Miracle Rejuvenator, Derm-ADE Nutritional Skin Cream, Glycerine-Rose Water Rejuvenating Lotion and Protein Enzyme Night Cream.

The name of the U.S. company appears on the back of the label. The creams were manufactured by another American company which was not identified.

The seventh recalled product, with the brand name, Wheat Germ Beauty Balm, was imported from Charles Perry Cosmetics of London.

All persons using the products have been advised to return them to the place of purchase, the department said.

The bacterial contamination was detected by the health protection branch's Toronto laboratory during its regular surveillance of cosmetics. One of the bacterial organisms found in the cosmetics was pseudomanus, the spokesman said.

The quantity of the cosmetics in distribution is not known.

Because the products originate in the United States and Great Britain, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration and British health authorities have been informed of the findings, the department said.

Men's Fashion Industry 'Pulling Up Its Socks'

MONTREAL (CP) — While the men's clothing industry is vainly trying to pull up its socks, women's fashions are high-stepping their way into an economically optimistic spring.

In the male clothing sector, sales have been hurt by foreign competition resulting in layoffs and production cuts both in Quebec and Ontario.

But not so for women's fashions, industry spokesmen said. Wholesale buying for spring is equalling or exceeding last year's and some stores are even short of some types of merchandise.

This picture contrasts sharply with that of the United States, where general economic conditions are worse than in Canada and women's clothes introduced in the fall are collecting dust on store racks.

In most sectors of women's fashions in Canada, retail stocks are low. Buyers and merchandise managers already report instances of trying to advance deliveries to fill empty shelves.

The low-inventory position is a direct result of the slowdown in the U.S., which prompted Canadian buyers to reduce advance orders.

Canadian retailers and apparel and textile manufacturers get much of their trade news from American business publications and thus develop a distorted view of their own markets. Retail business here is good and retailers almost refuse to believe their own figures.

Gerald Miller, president of Michael London Originals Ltd. blouses, says hs firm is sold out through April and is not accepting new accounts.

"From where we're sitting you'd never know there's supposed to be a recession," he said. "The feeing now is better than last spring."

Herbert Bernard, a vice-president of Paris Star Knitting Mills Inc., said sales are 54 per cent ahead.

"We're already talking fall to some buyers, and it looks super," said Mr. Bernard.

Veteran salesman Robert Crilly said placings on his four lines are ahead 20 per cent. He reported that the junior outerwear line he represents, Jay-Mee, has been sold out. The firm's president, Moe Ross, said it's the first time this has happened in the company's six-year existence.

The only segment of the women's fashion industry showing some weakness is dresses, and that vew is not shared by all those surveyed.

"Dresses have been dealt the coup de grace by separate sportswear and skirts," said Mr. Miller.

"The dress business couldn't be worse, which is why we're doing so well. Dresses have become extremely expensive and impractical. If the top fits, the skirt doesn't or vice-versa, so they have to be altered.

"Also, women's lib has meant more man-type expression, especially in pantsuits, which are far more practical and comfortable."

Despite complaints of poor dress sales, industry statistics reveal hours worked in Quebec dress plants were higher than normal through October, the last month available.

Meanwhile, hours worked in the men's clothing industry have decreased.

Placings for fine clothing are estimated to be down 12 to 15 per cent.

One clothing official said some plants had to give employees extended Christmas holidays as there was no work for them.

Low-priced imports and a reduction of exports to the U.S. were cited as the major cause for the depression.

Find Cheaper Sugar

NEW YORK (AP) — In response to the rising price of cane sugar, several food manufacturers are turning to sugar produced from the starch content of corn and other vegetables by a three-step enzyme process. The new sugar, which occurs naturally in honey and many fruits, is identical in taste and quality with cane sugar.

What a Year!

Murray's Food Market on Front St. will be celebrating its first anniversary next month. But I'm telling you now. And the reason I'm telling you is because this anniversary is going to be a buying spree for one and all of Murray's customers. And you know that Murray Atkinson always does what he says he will. Murray and his staff are spending a lot of time and effort in organizing this buying bonanza, as the prices and items offered will indicate when you see them. So you heard about it first in this column. And we'll have lots more to tell you soon too.

The Smart-Thinkers

Hud Marcotte of Holiday Car and Truck Rentals tells me he's had a number of inquiries from customers about Holiday's rates for their own holidays. Hud is impressed with this "plan-early" attitude and he'd like to recommend this same attitude to others planning on renting a car for their vacations. Hud can advise you on which model of Chrysler product will do the job for you, depending on the distance you're travelling, the number of people going, what you plan to do when you get there, gas mileage and all kinds of handy information the wise holiday planner considers. Let Holiday help you with your holiday. Drop in or call 962-9114.

Still Tickets

I checked with the Four Seasons this week to find out if there are still tickets available for next week's entertainment treat of the year — the first night-club appearance of that great Canadian group Lighthouse. There are, for most night although if you want the Saturday night performance, you'd better act quickly. Tickets for Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday afternoon are $4.00 each plus tax. Friday and Saturday night tickets are $6.00 each plus tax. So drop into the Four Seasons and get your tickets this weekend. If you miss this, I can tell you, you'll be really sorry.

More New Styles

Holiday Construction's Home Improvement Centre at 257 North Front St. has just received some new cupboard styling samples. The cupboard selection and quality at the Home Improvement Centre were impressive before. But now they're even better with more designs and colors from which to choose. And they're all there for you to touch and examine, not staring out at you from some catalogue. To visit the centre, enter via the Laundromat and walk down the stairs at the back. It's well worth the walk to see, right before your eyes, how you can improve your home.

Oh, What A Difference

That's probably a pretty fair description of your exclamation after you have an Aquafine Water Refiner installed at your house. The people at Moira Schuster, who install and service Aquafine Refiners, hear that phrase quite often. People who exclaim in such a manner aren't referring just to the difference Aquained water makes to their skin, hair, dishes and clothes; but also to the difference to their household budgets with the elimination of water softening agents, rinses and bath preparations. You simply don't need those things. All you need is an Aquafine Water Refiner. To get one at your house, simply call, 962-4504.

Worth Repeating

The Jenn-Air System of cooking has received such a hearty response at Ruddy Electric's Consumer Division, we're repeating lat week's column item. Here it is:

For all of you who have never heard of the Jenn-Air System of cooking, available from Ruddy Electric's Consumer Division, 291 Coleman St., read on! This marvelously modern cooking unit has: surface venting in all ranges and grills; eliminates overhead hoods and annoying ear-level noises; provides a more efficient removal of smoke, odors and greasy cooking vapors; the air in your kitchen is less humid and fresher; island and peninsula installations are easy with these units so you aren't restricted in your kitchen design; with accessories, you can transform your grill to a griddle, rotisseries, shish-ka-bob or French-fryer. And there is a five year warranty on Jenn-Air's built-in Power-pak. Now! Don't you just have to go down to Ruddy Electric and see this?

A Chance Worth Taking

Donnah Cameron, one of the Cameron trio who comprise the talent exhibited at the Cameron Gallery, 1½ miles west of Rednersville, is having one of her paintings, valued at $150, as a prize, in a draw for a most worthy charity: Arthritis. The Trenton Knights of Columbus are undertaking the drive for funds to help the arthritic society. Tickets will soon be on sale for the draw and next week I'll tell you when and where. The youngest Cameron, who is a potter as well as a painter, has recently delivered a new shipment of her work to the gallery: casseroles, jugs, pitchers, and beautiful bowls for flowerpots — all marvelous gifts for any home, including yours. See them thi Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, why not?

Transition in Style

This is a bad time of the year for clothes-wearers isn't it? Our hearts yearn for the lighter weights and colors of spring apparel, but the weather says we can't have those things yet. Well Jean Smith has a solution at her West Wind Boutique, at Actinolite on Hwy. No. 7 . . . Beautifully tailored suede skirts with perky blouses and soft-feeling sweaters to match. She also has some lovely new bathing suits and beach and cruise wear in as well, if your calendar has a trip south in shortly. But whether you're travelling south or not, you should travel north to Jean Smith's West Wind Boutique. It's a trip well worth taking.

Cleaning the Blinds

I think if we were to have a contest for the most horrid jobs in the world, cleaning the Venetian blinds would be included on the list . . . certainly on my list, at any rate. Well, here's some relief. ServiceMaster, those great cleaning experts who can clean anything that's cleanable, are now offering this cleaning service locally too. All you have to do now, instead of groaning as you look at those dirty blinds day after day and wish they'd disappear into a cloud of their own dust, is to call ServiceMaster at 967-1672. And they'll take care of the rest, just as they always do.

A Second Machine

No, I'm not going to discuss the merit of a second car. I do that when I talk about used cars from Vaders. I'm passing along, instead, a sensible suggestion from Gibbs and Son, the vacuum cleaner specialists located at 37 Albion St. That vacuum cleaner that you think of no use any more can be re-cycled by Gibbs and Son into a great second vacuum for use in the garage or basement or outside. And if your vacuum is just fine for normal use, but you'd like a reconditioned one for just such applications, Gibbs and Son have a good selection of reconditioned vacuums themselves. So, if it's a second machine you need, Gibb and Son can either fix up one you already have to do the job, or they can sell you one that w. Visit them or call them at 968-5384.

8,000 Area Motorists Still Without New Plates

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Chances are the lines for licence plates will be longer than ever this Feb. 28.

The reason is that the turnout for motor vehicle plates so far has been the slowest in years.

George Olson has been the franchised licence plate salesman in Belleville for 18 years and says only slightly more than half of the plates have been registered so far.

"The remaining 8,000 or so predicted registrations will have to be completed within the next two weeks," he said.

According to Toronto sources, more than a million drivers across the province have so far not bought the new plates.

Mr. Olson's prediction is that the legendary lineup this year will be longer than ever.

In terms of numbers, 8,000 motorists will have to crowd into the shoe box office on Front St. near Dundas during the next 11 business days.

If too many of these motorists wait for the last day, they may be in for a surprise.

Mr. Olson says 1,500 customers is the maximum his staff can handle in one day.

"Business is picking up a little bit," said Mr. Olson.

For the customers who have come in so far, "they are taking the attitude 'well at least the price hasn't gone up'," he said.

Prices for licence stickers are $23 for four-cylinder engines, $32 for six cylinder engines and $40 for eight cylinder engines. This price has remained firm for the past three years.

Mr. Olson said if a driver requires new licence plates, there is an extra $2 charge. Only cash or a certified cheque will be accepted.

He said apart from slow turnout, the major problem has been with drivers not filling out data cards before coming into the office, listing insurance licence and registration information. "These cards should be filled out before they get to the wicket . . . to keep the line moving," said Mr. Olson.

You can pay the province now, or you can pay later. But, the way the line will be moving Feb. 28, it'll take you longer to pay it later.

Milk Up Three Cents

Milk prices have increased by three cents a quart across the board, in most cases, following removal of a two-cent-a-quart federal subsidy.

The subsidy was introduced late in 1973 at five cents a quart to cushion the effect on consumers of price increases granted to farmers. It has been removed in three stages and now is all gone.

In most cases the price increase goes right across the board. Quarts are up three cents, two-quart jugs six cents and three-quart jugs nine cents. A Becker Milk Co. spokesman said, however, that his company had increased the three-quart price by only seven cents.

Fill 'em In

You can make the licence line move faster if you fill out the form before you get to the counter, says George Olson, Belleville's licencing officer. The cards ask for driver's licence, registration and insurance information. "Getting people to fill in the card before they get here is one of my biggest problems," he said.

CSAO Offers Course In Industrial Safety

The Construction Safety Association of Ontario (CSAO) will hold four courses at Loyalist College in a coming one-month period for foremen, superintendents and company owners in Hastings and Prince Edwards counties.

The first three courses will deal with supervisory training in "building a safe, effective work team," said Reg Kumm, management counsellor for the CSAO in Seeleys Bay, Thursday.

The will be held Feb. 19-20, 26-27 and March 5-6. On March 11 an accident investigation course will be offered.

Instructor will be Doug Robinson from the CSAO head office in Toronto.

Mr. Kumm, who administors seven counties from Renfrew to Hastings, said about 25 people are expected to attend.

"We put a lot of them on," he remarked, listing from 10-12 yearly courses in Kingston, five in Belleville and a couple in Trenton.

Mr. Kumm pointed out CSAO "is strictly educational" and should not be identified with the construction safety branch of the provincial ministry of labor. CSAO funding is provided by the workmen's compensation board.

Motorist Charged

MARMORA — A young Marmora man, Thursday was charged with failing to report an accident that occurred near here last weekend.

Charged was Mark Shannon, 18.

Police say the mishap occurred about midnight last Saturday when a 1963 automobile hit a tree on the Cordova Rd., five miles north of here.

They say the accident was observed by a provincial police trainee in the area at the time.

Senior Citizens Get Grants

Two area senior citizen groups have received a total of $5,312 in federal grants under the New Horizons Program.

The Workshop Committee, Marmora, will get $4,370 to organize a leadership training workshop in Bellville for executives of area senior citizen clubs.

The 474 Second Milers United Senior Citizens Organization of Foxboro will receive $1,942 to expand and diversify its recreational facilities.

Two Sets of Twins Born at Hospital

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

They're seeing hefty doubles — twice — at Belleville General maternity centre.

Two sets of twins — one identical boys believed among the weightiest ever born at BGH — were delivered within four days during the past week.

For Mrs. Beatrice Reid, 31, RR 6, Belleville the twin boys early Saturday morning were her first children. One weighed 8 lbs. 2 oz., its brother 8 lbs. ½ oz.

Dr. James Birchard, city gynocologist, said they were the biggest twins he has ever delivered since he has been in practice in Belleville since 1961. Average weights for twins usually are five-to-six. lbs. he said.

June White, head nurse at BGH's nursery, said she could not recollect hearing twins of such weights being born in the hospital. She has been 18 year on BGH's staff.

"We've never had any (twins) that big," she said. "It's a lot of baby."

Mrs. Shirley Duvall, 34, RR 1 Foxboro mother of three, was admitted. Several hours later her family had suddenly increased to five. Dr. A.E. Miles delivered two girls — also weighing in at hefty sizes: 7 lbs. 12½oz., and 6 lbs. ¼ oz.

Mrs. Reid and her husband, Carl, a field supervisor for Stephens-Adamson Division of Borg-Warner (Canada), live on Thurlow Township's 3rd concession near Cannifton and have been married 13 years.

She said both her mother and grandmother also had twins although the offspirng didn't survive.

She said she knew two weeks ago she would have twins — when her family physician Dr. J.D. Empson sent her to the gynecologist — although she never believed they would weigh so much.

"We didn't expect them that big. I don't believe anybody did."

However, she admitted she and her husband were "pretty pleased."

Mrs. Duvall and her husband, Bob, a Canadian National Railways electrician, have been married 13 years and have three other children, age 12, nine and seven years.

"Now I have a nice big family," she said proudly.

The last set of twins born at BGH was Jan. 15.

Yacht Club Entered

PICTON — A break-in, the second in less than a week, today was reported at Prince Edward Yacht Club.

Constable George Wright of the Picton Police Department, said the clubhouse was entered through a broken window some time after 1:30 a.m. today.

Nothing was reported missing.

Last weekend the clubhouse was entered through a broken window and about $400 in cash taken.

Only hours before at the yacht club several members of the Picton Police Force had been guests at the annual meeting of the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce where retired police chief George Pitt received a certificate of merit.

Two Cars Collide

TWEED — Drivers and passengers escaped injury Thursday afternoon when two cars collided on Highway 37 five miles south of here.

Police say the mishap occurred when a car driven by Gilbert Steele, 67, of Ottawa, pulled out to pass a vehicle driven by Daniel Albert Fobert, 19, of Cloyne.

Simultaneously, police said, Mr. Fobert tried to make a turn.

Total damage to both vehciles was estimated at $850. Mr. Fobert has been charged with making an unsafe turn.

There were two passengers in the Fobert vehicle, and one in the Gilbert car.

Roses Rare Today

A rose is a rose is a rose.

But, this Valentine's Day, it more than likely will be a potted mum.

Belleville florists did a bristling trade today but not a rose was sold. According to Joan Davidson, manageress of Templer Flower Shop, "roses have been sold out since last Tuesday".

"Shops in Belleville all use the same supplier and we're all in the same boat," she said.

A spokesman for Dustin's flower shop also said there are no roses to be had.

"Potted mums are going well," said Mrs. Davidson.

"Most men coming in for roses have been very nice about it," she said.

Bayside Selected for Semester Study

Bayside Secondary School has been chosen as one of eight high schools in Ontario to be involved in an evaluation project on semestering.

Dr. Alan King of MacArthur College in Kingston has been commissioned by the provincial ministry of education as co-ordinator of the evaluation team which is expected to make two visits to Bayside in the near future.

Ross Allan of Bayside's guidance counselling department said this week the team will initially arrive for a day or two "to allay any personal concerns people have."

Sometime later, the team will return for about a two-week period for a detailed study, he said.

Mr. Allan explained the team will investigate the workload involved in a semestered system, students' attitudes towards such a system, benefits or detriments of various system aspects and the value of the system in achiving a diploma, among other unannounced studies.

He said one reason Bayside was chosen is "because we wanted to be evaluated."

He elaborated Bayside has its own evaluating committee but the school wanted an outside view "to evaluate our own evaluation."

In addition, Bayside is one of the best open plan schools in the province, noted Mr. Allan. But outside of those two reasons, he said he could not determine why Bayside was selected as one out of eight examples of over 130 schools with a semestered system in the provinces.

Interviews will be conducted with both staff members and students and others can be arranged with parents and other individuals within the community.

Following conclusion of the project, Bayside will receive feedback from the committee regarding the data collected. The information on Bayside will probably not be available to the general public.

The final government report will merely list the schools without names as school A or school B. Mr. Allan said he did not know when the report will be issued.

A Nose for School Spirit

Stick your nose in my face and I'll bite it off. St. Peter's School grade six student Rich Little, 12, didn't say it, but he did it to fellow student David Lavier, 12, this week. It didn't hurt . . . the nose was rubber and part of the attire during the school's Spirit Week. The week is geared to involve the school's 550 students more fully into various activities.

Six Area High Schools Involved In Province-wide Financial Game

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

Six area high schools are currently participating in the seventh annual Business Game competition sponsored by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario (ICAO) in co-operation with International Computers of Canada Ltd.

David Scott, ICAO director of information, said in a press release the Quinte schools are among more than 150 secondary schools in over 100 centres across the province which have entered teams.

The district schools are Moira and Quinte Secondary schools in Belleville, Trenton High School, Prince Edward Collegiate and Vocational Institute in Picton, Napanee District Secondary School and Ernestown Secondary School in Odessa.

Mr. Scott said the 5,000 Ontario students entered are receiving their business world "baptism by fire". They work with their own teachers and specially designated Business Game Counsellors (local chartered accountants who have volunteered their help).

"The student management teams will over the next several months guide operations of their 'companies' in the computer-simulated Canadian marketplace," he outlined. Each team member "fills a key role as president, comptroller, marketing director, production manager, etc.

"Their executive decisions are fed into the central Business Game computer which technicians have programmed to provide readouts on what would occur had the decisions been made in the real business world," continued Mr. Scott.

Sample decisions include potential product demand in the current market, volume required for production and the best price to realize a profit, he listed.

They may also decide on research and development expenditures to get a larger market share with a better product or go for "a concentrated advertising campaign to attract additional business," he added.

Teams may borrow for expansion of operations or selling of assets. They "must also contend with the stiff competition of other manufacurers in the same business," commented Mr. Scott.

Final competition will see the top five teams gather in Toronto at the end of the spring semester where the winner will be judged.

Business Game began in 1969, viewed by ICAO members "as a potentially excellent method of providing practical business training at the secondary school level," said Mr. Scott.

Out-of-shape Canadians Need More Exercise

"Run away with your wife again."

A slogan for a weekend marriage-renewal session?

No, the operative word here is "Run". It's one of the many catchy phrases used by Participaction, the government-sponsored group presently advocating physical fitness across the land.

Speaking at the Belleville family YMCA annual meeting, Russ Kisby of Sport Participaction Canada described the need for greater public education about the importance of physical condition.

National co-ordinator for the three-year-old organization, Mr. Kisby has a wide background in both high school and Y sport programs. His concern for improved standards s based squarely on the most recent statistics gathered by Participaction which prove, without a doubt, that Canadians are rapidly declining in vigor.

Our present Statistics show a far lower degree of fitness in adults in the 30 to 40 year-old range than was discernible 10 years ago," pointed out Mr. Kisby.

is based squarely on the most unfit of all groups is that composed of young women between 20 and 29 years of age. And the second most unfit are 15 to 19-year-old girls.

"According to research, the average human being should reach his physical peak around the age of 26. What our present tests show is that Canadians reach their peak by 12, and decline from that point on.
